About the subtitle, MARI is the Aramaic word for “my master”, a title consistently given to Y’shua by his followers. When Thomas saw the risen Savior in John’s Gospel, for example, he dropped to his knees and declared “Mari w’Alahi”, or “My Master and my Elohim.”

Shimon Keefa answered and said,
“My Master, to whom should we go?
You have the words of life that is eternal.”

INTRODUCTION

It is common knowledge that Y'shua and his original followers spoke Hebrew and Aramaic, but up until now the vast majority of Bible students have only had access to translations and versions of Greek texts. Within the following pages you will find the most ancient Aramaic texts (in Hebrew letters) which were derived from the Khabouris Codex, one of 360 manuscripts that make up the Eastern Peshitta family. A previous critical edition consisting of a vast group of Eastern and later Western texts were compiled into a unified whole and published in 1920 (referred to as the 1905 Critical Edition); however, in many cases it gave much weight to later readings, and therefore earlier and more original readings have been restored. Our English translation is as literal as possible to the Aramaic and includes many footnotes that address significant differences between the earliest Aramaic and Greek versions.

Each Aramaic term and Greek loanword has been scrutinized and given the most accurate English equivalent. The results are astounding. In cases where Greek texts are in sharp disagreement with one another, the Aramaic provides many more levels of information through multiple or specific word choices, idiomatic expressions, poetry, etc. Many of the arguments against the validity of the New Testament as an ancient unified text are hereby utterly refuted.

This translation is an interlinear of the full Peshitta, including the “Western Five” additions of 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Jude and Revelation. We do not revisit the central theses of Aramaic primacy of the New Covenant Writings as these are amply addressed on the internet and in published works by Andrew Gabriel Roth and many others. Many detailed and technical questions that arose from readers of the first edition have also been addressed online at: www.aent.org/intro.htm.

As the community of Aramaic scholars increases so does the desire among many Bible students to understand what the Khabouris Codex and other Ancient Aramaic writings teach about the Malchut (Kingdom of) Elohim, without being “rendered” by Catholic or Church oriented translators. However, until the discovery of the Khabouris Codex, many thought it impossible that the average person would have access to a manuscript that wasn't influenced by Constantinian or Marcionite Christianity, or by the Catholic Church.

This translation was completed on the strength of overwhelming requests for a literal translation of Aramaic-Peshitta to English. As the demand increased, so has ongoing critical analysis and discussion of the text by scholars too numerous to mention. This community has collectively produced many excellent resources from which to draw; the task was to unify the language style and approach, cross-checking every component with ancient Hebrew and Aramaic. Among the Aramaic scholars involved there is a common expression that, “the page should be as blank as possible and devoid of all other influences in order to translate.”

The Translation

This work welcomes inquiry and criticism, as should every other translation. A variety of Aramaic manuscripts were consulted for this work, including the published versions: The New Covenant Aramaic Peshitta Text with Hebrew Translation (2nd Edition-Aramaic Scriptures Research Society in Israel, 2005) and the 1982 Church of the East transcription (swadaya script), known as Ktaba d'dtiqqa khadata d'Maran Eshoa Meshikha or Writings of the New Covenant of our Master Y'shua the Messiah.<sup>1</sup> These have further been scrutinized against the entire Khabouris Codex to ensure a most accurate chain of transmission. The Khabouris manuscript is the oldest known original Aramaic text available; it is not a translation, but the very words themselves that Y'shua spoke.

<sup>1</sup> A compound edition between the Church of the East and the Syrian Orthodox Church. For the former, only the original Eastern readings for the 22 books, along with the COE swadaya vowel pointed script, is used. For the latter, what many of us have come to call “the blue book” also contains the Western Five books of 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Jude and Revelation, but sporting a disclaimer that these were not part of the original Eastern Peshitta collection.

Although James Murdock has been criticized for the KJV style in which he translated, he did an admirable job for his day and must be credited for the immense benefit he brought to Peshitta studies. Unfortunately, James Murdock retained many archaic terms and in some cases, obscure ideas that have startled many. For example, the words for “pagans”, “Arameans”, “Gentiles” and “Greeks” were used interchangeably; clearly an error which brought about misleading conclusions. At other times some very awkward old English terms were employed that have little meaning today. Whatever the cause, these impediments simply had to be removed for the sake of the modern audience seeking its way back to ancient truths.

To retain as much consistency as possible, Paul Younan’s translation has been compared from Matthew 1 to Acts 15 and James Murdock’s translation for the remainder, each word has been cross-checked with Aramaic. In some cases, both sources are woven together into this translation, under a unifying editorial vision and approach.<sup>2</sup> That approach includes the following:

- ❖ In places where James Murdock used the later Western Peshitto readings, the Eastern originals have been restored. In places where a more accurate or detailed translation was required, than chosen by my mentors, the preferred readings were substituted for this edition.
- ❖ A concerted effort has been made to accurately reflect the ways that the True and Kadosh (Set-Apart) Names are used in Aramaic. The Peshitta dialect does not use “Yahweh” and “Elohim” but favors the simplified/singular – and identical – names of Yah and Eloah. It is important to note that all these choices are also reflected in the Hebrew Tanakh where Yah, El and Eloah appear often in the most ancient parts of the text alongside and interchangeable with the more familiar plural/expanded forms (e.g. Exodus 15:1-2). But, in the Peshitta Tanakh and NT, “Yah” is prefixed with the word “Mar” forming “MarYah”, and put in this diglot as “Master YHWH”.<sup>3</sup>
- ❖ Due to dialectical issues, “Eloah” gets a slightly different spelling and pronunciation in Aramaic, via “Alaha”. This word is merely the Aramaic cognate of “Eloah”, the Hebrew singular form for Elohim.<sup>4</sup> Essentially, everywhere the English says “Elohim”, the reader should be aware that Aramaic reads “Eloah”; I have put the term into the plural “Elohim” for the convenience of the reader.
- ❖ In the main text “clarity notes” are always within parenthesis ( ). These annotations most often take the form of explaining which “Master” or “MASTER” is speaking or being referred to. The Greek word kurios, is an ambiguous word that can refer either to YHWH or Y’shua; in addition, it is a term of pagan origin and therefore a defiled title (Isaiah 42:8-9). Aramaic, however, by using MarYah to apply to YHWH and Mari/Maran to apply to Y’shua, clears up a vast amount of ambiguity. Many readings were previously obscured through using “Master”, even in the Murdock and Lamsa Aramaic translations. This one aspect alone unravels many difficult to understand passages in the New Testament. Other times these parenthesis ( ) are used to indicate words implied in Aramaic but not shown overtly; these have been kept at a minimum. Most of the time

2 Up to the date of this publication countless requests were received to translate one or two lines of Scripture at a time; these were saved for such a time as they would be used within a complete publication. In addition, the three books authored by Andrew Gabriel Roth all required sections of the Peshitta to be translated into English; therefore, it was a matter of pulling various works together to make up the whole.

3 That MarYah is not a conjugation from the root “Mar” has been demonstrated amply in my book “Path to Life” www.pathtolife.com. It is the Aramaic cognate and actual word for YHWH, and replaces YHWH 7,000 times in the Aramaic Tanakh. See MarYah in Appendix.

4 Eloah has little to do with the Islamic word “Allah”, which simply follows Arabic conventions of dropping final “ahs” from Aramaic words. That is why, for example, the word nobra (light, flame) in Aramaic turns into nahr in Arabic. Since the Arabic language evolved centuries later, it cannot be used as anything probative in the origins of this usage. Rather, the best solution is to link Alaha exclusively to its Hebrew cognate Eloah, which can be established as being at least 2,000 years old and can be traced to Babylonian Jews who would later compile the Talmud. How this word shifted slightly in appearance and sound is therefore more understandable from the Hebrew-Aramaic chain of transmission than from Aramaic to Arabic.

leaving out connective English words does not interfere with the overall meaning of the verse. Where Younan or Murdock have put in necessary parenthetical phrases, they have been retained.

- ❖ Additionally old style King James English common names have been excised in favor of literal and accurate translation/transliteration from Aramaic.
- ❖ Footnotes not unique to this work are noted with the initials of the source, i.e., PY for Paul Younan or JM for James Murdock, or by recognizing the full name of the author.

Footnotes are provided to explain nuances of Jewish and Netzarim culture, Aramaic grammar, wordplays, and so forth. Footnotes generally focus on textual considerations and linguistics that effect our spirituality, as opposed to expansive prophetic or theological insights. If there were an attempt to apply the full extent of every single passage's possible meanings, in a language as multi-layered as Aramaic, no version of the Peshitta would soon be forthcoming. Comparisons between modern "New Testaments" and the original Ancient Aramaic texts clearly indicate that there are many "new ideas" out there which were never part of First Century Netzari values, although nearly all translations claim to uphold primary authority.

Finally, the search for Estrangela transcriptions for the Western 5 ended when electronic files were located for the 1905 Edition of the Syriac New Testament by the British and Foreign Bible Society. I am most grateful that the necessary permissions to use both Aramaic fonts and text as shown on the www.aifoundations.org website were extended.

I also made use of the Syriac Electronic Data Retrieval Archive (SEDRA), developed by George A. Kiraz, and distributed by the Syriac Computing Center. For additional information on the structure of the Database, see G. Kiraz, "Automatic Concordance Generation of Syriac Texts" in VI Symposium Syriacum 1992, ed. R. Lavenant, Orientalia Christiana Analecta 247, Rome, 1994.

The Human Element

As any writer knows, a word, a comma or a period can dramatically change the intended meaning of a verse. As any reader knows, it is human propensity to "project" personal values and ideals onto the text; no two individuals will agree on everything when it comes to a translation: This translation has therefore been scrutinized by a host of scholars and critics, from both Jewish and Christian backgrounds. None of the individuals who worked on this project have been on the payroll of any religious institutions; each has had a lifetime of scholarship in primary source materials and fully independent study and faith.

We encourage every reader to make a thorough investigation of any questions that may arise and to avail themselves of the online resources noted throughout this publication. We have provided an Aramaic Primer in the Appendix for those who want to learn Aramaic; in this way the reader can easily search the usage of words within this publication and also through online resources.

The Faith Element

"My beloved, while I take all pains to write to you of our common life, it is needful for me to write to you, encouraging you to maintain a conflict for the faith which was once delivered to the Set Apart believers" (Yehudah 3).

Contrary to the opinions of many, it is very possible to return to the "faith which was once delivered to the Set Apart believers." This is the calling of every soul who puts their complete trust in Y'shua Mashiyach for salvation. The Spirit of Mashiyach is calling out a people from the world to "arise, shine and let the Glory of Elohim be seen upon you!"

However, anyone who has ever attended regular Bible studies will likely be familiar with phrases like: "Brother, what do you think this verse of Scripture means?" "How do you understand this?" What do you think is the context?" And of course, nearly every Christian church on Earth boasts that they are “Bible based” even though they are well aware that their Bibles are published according to copyright laws that demand “substantive changes” to the text! In other words, translators (theologians) must change the text to make it different enough from other translations in order to obtain copyright protection.

Most Christians realize that, while they read and study from Greek and English translations laden with Aramaic and Hebrew terms, very few give a second thought that what they are reading is a version of a translation originating from an earlier Aramaic or Hebrew text. And precious few are aware of the fact that while Paul went West, the Good News was also spreading rapidly throughout the East.

You will notice that the English in this translation doesn’t always flow perfectly. This is simply because in many cases a literal word-for-word translation was employed, without the modern English continuity. The Aramaic in this publication is coming from “as close to original” auto-graphs as there is current public access to at the time of printing. Ancient idioms and poetry are left intact and, because of the nature of the text being used to build theological models, every word matters.

The objective is a truthful, honest rendering that can be trusted and will aid the Household of Faith to return to the “faith which was once delivered” – but also notice in the quote from Yehudah that he urged followers of Y’shua to “maintain a conflict for the faith.” This, of course, means to separate our lives unto Mashiyach Y’shua and reject all forms of Babylon’s (worldly and confused) religions that have interpreted Mashiyach according to religious traditions. The conflict, as you will see, is much greater than the religious status quo would want you to know.

In many places Aramaic reads very differently from Greek translations. This is because you are experiencing a culture rather different from the West. You will gain insights into the thought processes of the original Shlichim (Sent Ones) in their native tongue, and witness a clear distinction in lifestyle that has not been commonly understood within modern Greek-based Christian culture.

The original Faith is all about the Government of Mashiyach and the lifestyle of those who accepted his Kingship and Government. Although religion adapts into cultures and local governments, the original Netzarim Faith neither adapted into the culture of Rome nor went under the authority of the Pharisees. The Government of Mashiyach can never be brought under the authority of man’s governments or religions which are outside the Kingdom of Elohim, and it was on this very premise that those of the original Faith “shook the earth.” The followers of Mashiyach had exposed the fraudulent nature of all false religion and government:

“Beware, therefore, or else you refuse (to hear) him who speaks with you. For if they did not escape who refused (to hear) him who spoke with them on the earth, how much more will we not if we refuse (to hear) him who speaks with us from heaven? Whose voice (then) shook the earth; but now he has promised and said yet again once more, I will shake not the earth only but also heaven” (Hebrews 12:25-26).

Truth has never been for the faint-hearted, yet it is the foundation of all righteousness. Living the truth provides assurance of redemption. The Way, the Truth and the Life is found in YHWH according to His Mashiyach (Messiah), which is why the “New Testament” writings are extremely vital to be lived and understood as originally intended by Mashiyach himself. Our prayer is that all who read and study these Scriptures will be strengthened in Mashiyach Y’shua and go on to strengthen many others. For some it will seem as this knowledge has been sealed for such a time as this, but for others it will be a continuum of what they already know deep within their spirits, that there is much more to the Kingdom of Elohim. It is in this sentiment that this publication is provided to you in the Name of YHWH and in service to his Majesty Mashiyach Y’shua and his people.

From Scripture to Publication

“Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, immersing them in the Name of the Father and of the Son and of the Ruach haKodesh, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age.” Matthew 28:19-20

It should come as no surprise that the New Testament has much to say about its origins by those who were directly responsible for producing it. The talmidim (disciples) most certainly did travel throughout the world testifying of Y’shua and what he had taught them about the Kingdom of Elohim. Elsewhere in the New Testament we see other clues about where the Shlichim (Sent Ones or Apostles) went:

“Then after three years, I went up to Jerusalem to get acquainted with Keefa (Peter) and stayed with him fifteen days. I saw none of the other apostles--only Ya’akov (James), the Master (Y’shua’s) brother” (Galatians 1:18-19).

This reference from Rav Shaul continues from events in Acts 2, where all the talmidim had gathered in Jerusalem for Shavuot (Feast of Pentecost) and the giving of the Ruach haKodesh. Also, per events in Matthew 16 we know that Keefa was Y’shua’s chosen successor, and yet it was Mashiyach’s own earthly brother Ya’akov who was put in charge of the Jerusalem assembly.

The first hint of Ya’akov’s ascendancy appears in Acts 12:17. Keefa, after being released from prison, immediately says: “Tell Ya’akov and the brothers about this.” In other words, Ya’akov is clearly honored beyond the “brotherhood” which includes the rest of the talmidim! Furthermore, because Ya’akov’s name appears before the rest of the brothers – or even elders as in Acts 21:18 – this is very strong indication that Keefa has decided to leave him in charge of Jerusalem while he, again according to Rav Shaul, opts for some needed field work:

“On the contrary, they saw that I had been entrusted with the task of preaching the gospel to the Gentiles, just as Keefa had been to the Jews. For Elohim, who was at work in the ministry of Keefa as a Shlicha to the Jews, was also at work in my ministry as a Shlicha to the Gentiles. Ya’akov, Keefa and Yochanan, those reputed to be pillars, gave me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship when they recognized the grace given to me. They agreed that we should go to the Gentiles, and they to the Jews. All they asked was that we should continue to remember the poor, the very thing I was eager to do” (Galatians 2:7-10).

So Peter, also known as Keefa, was given the task of seeking out converts from among Jews who had settled outside of Israel, but still in areas where Aramaic was the primary language. Scripture in fact tells us one prominent assembly that Keefa founded:

“With the help of Silas, whom I regard as a faithful brother, I have written to you briefly, encouraging you and testifying that this is the true grace of Elohim. Stand fast in it. She who is in Babylon, chosen together with you, sends you her greetings, and so does my son Mark. Greet one another with a kiss of love. Peace to all of you who are in Mashiyach” (1 Peter 5:12-14).

This verse and the Church of the East, who preserved the Peshitta text for nearly 2,000 years, agree. Their documents are unanimous in proclaiming that Keefa had his First Epistle delivered to their door in Abdiabne, from Keefa’s assembly in Babylon. Furthermore, Babylon was an obvious choice for Keefa, since it boasted the largest Jewish population in the world outside of Israel. It would be hard to see how the account of Rav Shaul in Galatians 1 and 2 could otherwise be better fulfilled!

Of the three talmidim mentioned in Galatians 2:7-10, only one remained in Jerusalem. Ya’akov was in active charge of the Jerusalem assembly for a lengthy period of time (Acts 15:13-21, 21:15-26; Galatians 2:12; Ya'akov 3:1, 5:14; Yehuda 1:1<sup>5</sup>). Keefa went east to Babylon and later to such areas as Syrian Antioch, where he established many assemblies in existence today and who still speak his native Aramaic language.

Yochanan bar Zawdee<sup>6</sup> is the last of the three talmidim mentioned, for which we must go to the book of Revelation. What is interesting is that while the Church of the East rejected this work, it nevertheless appears to codify a tradition at least implied in its pages. The reason is, the oldest, most reliable Eastern and Western<sup>7</sup> traditions we have state that Yochanan, after providing for Y'shua's mother by direct command from the stake, made his way to Ephesus where he stayed for many years.<sup>8</sup> After that, assuming the majority view that he is also "Yochanan the Elder" who wrote the Epistles and Revelation, it is easy to see how Roman persecution would have caused him to relocate to the Island of Patmos where he lived out his remaining years. However, the place where Revelation appears to give voice to this tradition is in the listing and addressing of the seven assemblies in Asia. Y'shua decided to address Ephesus first, perhaps because he knew it is the assembly nearest and dearest to his loyal servant's heart.

The Tradition Begins

From this point, reliable tradition confirms the biblical record and tells us that three Shlichim each went in one of the four directions. Joining Keefa eastward were Nathaniel Bar Tulmay<sup>9</sup> and Thomas, who eventually reached India in the year 52. When we then take into account the vast territory that Rav Shaul covered, it becomes easy to see how the testimony of Y'shua spread so quickly in the initial decades of the resurrection. Of course, this is also the exact same time period when the first manuscripts of what are called the New Testament began to be written and gathered together. In due course the Aramaic original collection adopted the name "Peshitta" derived from the Hebrew/Aramaic word pshat, meaning "simple, straight and true."

And so, while there is no known firm date when the Eastern Canon closed, we can bind it. Put simply, the Church of the East only accepted copies of these books from Shlichim or their immediate associates.<sup>10</sup> So, when all the first generation witnesses were dead, that was in effect the close of the Eastern Canon as far as this ancient assembly was concerned, and this would bring us to the close of the First Century or at most the very early part of the second.

Other clues about how early the New Testament circulated are in the texts themselves. It seems that Rav Shaul had a particular preference for quoting verbatim from Matthew (judging by verses like 1 Corinthians 11:24), which obviously dates it prior to his death in 67 CE.<sup>11</sup> Traditions such as Nathaniel Bar Tulmay witnessing a Hebrew version of Matthew would put the book of Matthew almost two decades further back than this. There are also references to Jerusalem before its destruction by Romans in present tense, such as Yochanan 5:2 and others, which indicates that the book of Yochanan, was prior to 70 CE.

5 Yehudah clearly appeals to Ya'akov as an authority and by doing so legitimizes himself to speak as a Shlicha in his own right. Similarly, in Ya'akov 3:1 he counts himself as both teacher and judge, and in 5:14 gives instructions that are binding on the elders of other Nazarene-Messianic assemblies.

6 As opposed to the more familiar Greek-style zebedaios (Zebedee). In Y'shua's particular Aramaic dialect, the letter beyt, while primarily a B sound, can also occasionally take on the sounds of a V or a W. So, the original pronunciation of this name is zaw-dee. The Greek redactor wrongly assumed all beyt occurrences were a B sound and so misread it as zeb and added a Greek ending to make it zeb-daios, from which we get Zebedee.

7 For example, see Dialogue with (Rabbi) Tarfon, chapter 81, by Justin Martyr. This famous debate took place in Ephesus in about the year 130, and Yochanan was referenced as a famous resident of that city.

8 See John 19:27. Tradition also tells us that Y'shua's mother lived into the late 40's of the Common Era, but whether Yochanan brought her to Ephesus with him or made sure she was provided for back in Jerusalem is unclear.

9 Yochanan's Gospel calls this disciple by his first name whereas the other three remember his surname, the son of Tulmay, which later got morphed into the Greek as Bartholomew. According also to Foxe's Book of Martyrs, p. 8, Nathaniel died being crucified by a mob in India after translating the Gospel of Matthew into Sanskrit.

10 This group included members of the second-tier of talmidim known as the Seventy, who often went in their masters' stead to deliver their letters. Others who did this are mentioned directly in Scripture such as Timothy, Titus and Onesimus.

11 As also detailed in Ruach Qadim, Talmudic research has revealed a parody of Matthew's Gospel written by Rav Shaul's teacher, Gamaliel who died in CE 73. If the parody was written before CE 73, the original had to be in circulation some years beforehand.

However, while the Western story is well known (in the West), most are unaware of the fact that ten times more people converted to the faith east of Jerusalem in the early decades after the resurrection. In Edessa, of what is now modern Turkey, an early “safe house” for the believers was established after one of their kings received a healing from Shlichia Thomas. In due time, the type of Aramaic script used in Edessa, what we now call Estrangela, would become the exact style preserved in the Peshitta, although it is also extremely likely that Hebrew-script styles of these same Aramaic NT books circulated in Israel decades earlier.

It is this early history that caused one of the Patriarchs of the Church of the East to comment in modern times:

“With reference to....the originality of the Peshitta text, as the Patriarch and Head of the Holy Apostolic Church of the East, we wish to state, that the Church of the East received the scriptures from the hands of the blessed Apostles themselves in the Aramaic original, the language spoken by our Master Y’shua Mashiach Himself, and that the Peshitta is the text of the Church of the East which has come down from the Biblical times without any change or revision.” (Patriarch Mar Eshai Shimun, April 5, 1957)

And so this is the core of the matter. These ancient traditions have come down from the First Century, lovingly maintained by this body of believers in an unbroken chain of authority that started with Keefa himself. The end result: 360 manuscripts from the Fourth to the Ninth Centuries that are, for all intents and purposes, virtually identical to one another.<sup>12</sup> They are far more consistent than the “families” which comprised the Greek New Testament.

On the Western side of the divide there is also plenty of early tradition regarding the Nazarenes and their Hebrew-script style Aramaic New Testament books:

Papias (ca. 130 CE):

“Matthew composed his work in the Hebrew dialect, and each translated as best they could.”<sup>13</sup>

Irenaeus (170 CE):

“Matthew also issued a written Gospel among the Hebrews in their own dialect.”<sup>14</sup>

Clement of Alexandria (ca. 185 CE):

“In the work called Hypotyposes, to sum up the matter briefly, he [Clement of Alexandria] has given us abridged accounts of all the canonical Scriptures...The Epistle to the Hebrews he asserts was written by Paul, to the Hebrews, in the Hebrew tongue, but that it was carefully translated by Luke, and published among the Greeks.”<sup>15</sup>

Origen (ca. 200 CE):

“The first [Gospel] is written according to Matthew, the same that was once a tax collector, but afterwards an emissary of Y’shua the Messiah, who having published it for his believers, wrote it in Hebrew.”<sup>16</sup>

Eusebius (ca. 315 CE):

“Matthew also, having first proclaimed the Gospel in Hebrew, when on the point of going also to the other nations, committed it to writing in his native tongue, and thus supplied the want of his presence to them by his writings.”<sup>17</sup>

Pantaneus...penetrated as far as India, where it is reported that he found the Gospel

Epiphanius (370 CE):

They (the Nazarenes) have the Gospel according to Matthew quite complete in Hebrew, for this Gospel is certainly still preserved among them as it was first written, in Hebrew letters.”<sup>20</sup>

Jerome (382 CE):

“Matthew, who is also Levi, and from a tax collector came to be an emissary first of all evangelists composed a Gospel of Messiah in Judea in the Hebrew language and letters, for the benefit of those of the circumcision who had believed, who translated it into Greek is not sufficiently ascertained. Furthermore, the Hebrew itself is preserved to this day in the library at Caesarea, which the martyr Pamphilus so diligently collected. I also was allowed by the Nazarenes who use this volume in the Syrian city of Borea to copy it. In which it is to be remarked that, wherever the evangelist...makes use of the testimonies of the Old Scripture, he does not follow the authority of the seventy translators [a.k.a. the Septuagint] but that of the Hebrew.”<sup>21</sup>

Modern Scholarship and New Resources

Returning to the manuscript side of the equation, another interesting development occurred as the centuries passed. Stephen Silver explains:

“The transcribing of the Khabouris Codex began in September 2004, as a comparison with the 1905 Peshitta. In a careful reading of the entire manuscript during the time of transcription, I noted several grammatical differences, and some few synonyms, but there are only a handful of errors in the entire manuscript. All but one have been corrected by another, later scribal hand. I have pointed out one scribal error which the scribes didn’t correct.... Parts of the manuscript have been rubbed off, smudged or otherwise illegible.” (quoted from Dukhrana.com)

So, over time, manuscripts were corrected by later scribes. Also, during this process, older pages became worn and had to be replaced, and when the manuscripts became aged, depending on whether they had dated the oldest pages or the youngest ones, it resulted in a dilemma which could easily have thrown off the original date by centuries!

While the age of the Khabouris Codex remains the subject of much debate, there can be no doubt that it ably represents a text group that has much older members. So, while some manuscripts may vary with minor spelling, synonym and syntax variants, this is inevitable over such a long span of time. However, the overall reliability of this text group is thoroughly amazing as it is superior to either the Hebrew Tanakh or the Greek New Testament.

The other collection is known as the “1905 Peshitta” or the Critical Edition that was completed in 1905 by the British and Foreign Bible Society, later merged into the United Bible Society. This text was carefully put together by examining a majority of the most important manuscripts in the Peshitta family and producing a unified text faithful to all of them. The 1905 is in fact so accurate, that it is even used liturgically by many Aramaic assemblies to represent their official manuscripts.<sup>22</sup>

<sup>22</sup> In fact, the United Bible Society edition of the Aramaic New Testament based on the 1905, has the seal of the Patriarch of the Syrian Orthodox Church on it.

Another collection, the 1890 Mosul Text (also known as the Western Five), includes books not accepted in the East. Between these two, we have an extremely useful and reliable transmission for the 27 book NT canon in the Aramaic language.

In any case, Stephen Silver has done a masterful job of documenting every variance between the Khabouris Manuscript to the 1905-20 Critical Edition Peshitta, so that any Aramaicist can instantly tell at a glance what comes from where. This work was also consulted when comparing Khabouris and official Church of the East and Syrian Orthodox Church published versions that take after the 1905/Mosul editions.

Problems with the 1905 Critical Edition

While acknowledging the essential role of the 1905-20 Critical Edition Peshitta, the reader must also be aware of some of its pitfalls and why it has not been followed letter for letter in this diglot. Put simply, while the 1905 did a great job, generally speaking, in assembling the readings from the best Eastern manuscripts, it also allowed Western Christian bias to creep in by selecting later readings as well. These later readings, all of which are fully documented here, clearly represent subsequent Christian development in areas such as Trinity and anti-nomianism that are divorced from the Semitic originals still preserved by the Church of the East.

For example, in Acts 20:28 the Eastern reading talks about the assembly of Mashiyach being purchased with his blood. This idea, given the context of the crucifixion of Y'shua, of course makes perfect sense in being applied to him. However, over the next two centuries a heresy took root in the West known as Monophysitism; a fancy word that basically denies Y'shua's humanity and affirms him only as a divine being. As a result, the Western Aramaic texts changed this reading to "assembly of Elohim," as if to say that Master YHWH Himself died and bled on the stake without the Universe coming to an end! This is not to deny the 100 percent divine nature of Mashiyach (as this is addressed in both footnotes and Appendixes), but the point remains that this was an "innovation" in the text that would not have been possible in an earlier age.

Therefore, the original Eastern readings are restored here in the Aramaic texts, allowing the reader for the first time to see the closest thing to the original sources of the New Testament that we were able to recover. In doing so, given the high accuracy of the 1905 Peshitta, only "major variants" need be addressed or divergences between Eastern and 1905 that also resulted in unsavory doctrines. Nevertheless, the reader also has the opportunity to see these variants and make their own judgments.

Subsequently, as this restoration effort progressed, we performed a detailed letter-for-letter comparison on both manuscripts from within the Eastern Peshitta family and the Western Aramaic traditions. We found in many cases that identical meanings were expressed slightly differently, or saw slight variations of a given prepositional phrase that would have no impact on the meaning of a sentence, appear in one source but not the other. Going line by line and thought by thought, the concepts were always identical, but patterns of speech and spelling variations would make up 95 percent of the "divergences" catalogued.

However, as the detailed critical comparison lists for each of the 22 eastern books shows, and in most cases where these incidental variations on identical concepts appear, the 1905 reading is retained. In rare cases, the Khabouris was retained and footnoted for the reader.

Summary

Returning to the statement of Mar Eshai Shimun, the Patriarch of the Church of the East, it is in fact very evident that this ancient assembly's traditions most certainly bridge the gap from the Fourth Century back into the hands of the Shlichim who originally penned Y'shua's teachings. However, it must be noted that this extrapolation does not rest on tradition alone. Three publications by Andrew Gabriel Roth and plenty of demonstrations throughout this diglot clearly indicate how mis-readings in the most ancient Greek manuscripts (Second and Third Centuries of the Common Era) could only have happened by misunderstanding a Peshitta-exclusive reading.

These readings are well documented here; however, for illustration purposes let's briefly examine Matthew 26:6-7, where the Greek NT states that Y'shua was dining in the house of a man called "Simon the Leper." In the narrative a servant girl brings Y'shua an alabaster jar of expensive perfume to anoint him. The impossibility of this reading is evident when one understands that in Y'shua's day, lepers could not own property, or jars of perfume, or have servant girls, let alone entertain Jewish guests in the near vicinity of Jerusalem (Leviticus 13:45-50).

In response to the facts, some Greek NT advocates suggest that Simon "used to be a leper" and maybe he was celebrating his healing from Y'shua in much the same way that Eliezar<sup>23</sup> did in Yochanan's Gospel. However, there are at least three huge problems with this kind of posturing. First and foremost, Matthew doesn't record this and Yochanan does, so is it fair to overthrow one Gospel writer by another, as if one was somehow less careful in his information? In fact, when theologians venture outside the plain reading of the text (using a completely separate scenario disconnected from internal evidence), it can't be considered as an honest, scholarly contribution.

The second problem (and a very acute one) is that Torah clearly instructs that lepers must not be referred to as lepers after they are healed (Leviticus 13:1-44). Third and finally, if Simon let people refer to him as "the Leper" (against Torah) it would also greatly inhibit his ability to do business in Israel and he would be well within his legal rights to sue for damages.

Thankfully, Aramaic provides the obvious solution within the text itself. Since Hebrew and Aramaic have no vowels, two words spelled the same but pronounced differently can have two totally different meanings. In this case, the word in question is spelled gimel-reshe-beyt-aleph (GRBA). Pronounced as "gar-bah" the word is "leper" whereas with "gar-ah-bah" (same letters) means "jar maker"! Furthermore, since these two words are also pronounced differently, the mistake would most likely happen when copying from an ancient written document that does not offer modern vowel pointing.

There are hundreds of examples that attest to Peshitta pre-dating the Greek texts, putting it within solid striking distance of the very original writings of the Shlichim. It is this level of accuracy, as expressed both in ancient codices and the most up-to-date modern scholarship being represented in this translation.

When Were the Renewed Covenant Books Written?

While we do have plenty of evidence that points to the time frames of the original autographs, we must also remember these are best estimates. Regardless of the various opinions out there, every Bible student and scholar must make certain assumptions, so let's first lay down some ground rules:

- 1) That the most ancient and unanimous Eastern and Western traditions regarding the order, content and origin of these books is accurate and reliable.
- 2) That these same traditions properly link these books to their authors, who themselves have accurate biographical data preserved, most notably the years of their deaths.
- 3) That in cases where these traditions and internal textual evidence from the Renewed Covenant writings themselves contradict modern western scholarship, that the former trumps the latter. In particular that the ancient testimony on these matters is to be regarded as genuine, rather than arrogantly cast aside as is currently being done by much modern “higher” criticism.

While this study has been fully documented by Andrew Gabriel Roth in previous books it will not be footnoted as vigorously here. However, we will preview the main sources most helpful in piecing this information together.

As always, the most important resource is the Renewed Covenant writings themselves, both in their internal texts and in the manner that their most ancient manuscripts were assembled. The second most important source for the timeline is the First Century historian Josephus. Thirdly, later sources such as the Jewish (Talmud); Catholic (Church Founders) and Eastern Aramaic assemblies (Marganitha, the Doctrine of Addai) as well as Foxe's Book of Martyrs and the Catholic Encyclopedia will also be utilized. However, as stated earlier a much more detailed survey of this evidence is available in Ruach Qadim: Aramaic Origins of the New Testament and Ruach Qadim: the Path to Life by Andrew Gabriel Roth.

Step 1: Link the books to their authors and determine when the authors died

While in some cases the details of how the apostles died do conflict a bit—such as Josephus and the Catholic traditions regarding the death of James—the basic time frame about when they died is not in dispute and it is this timeline that gives birth to our most important lines of evidence.

For example, Foxe's Book of Martyrs, drawing on very ancient and reliable sources, tells us that Matthew, Mark, James, Peter and Paul were all murdered in the 60s of the Common Era, or about 30-35 years after the Resurrection but just prior to the destruction of the Second Temple in the year 70. Of the remaining writers, Jude's death is recorded in the year 72 and Luke's is between the years 72 and 74. John, however, is the only Renewed Covenant writer to live out the remainder of the first century, dying at around the age of 100. These facts alone divide our book list into two halves:

- Pre-70 books: Matthew, Mark, Acts, James, all Pauline Epistles including Hebrews, 1 and 2 Peter.
- Possible post-70 books: The Gospels of Luke and John, Jude, 1-3 John and Revelation.

Step 2: Use internal evidence from the Renewed Covenant writings to narrow the time frame

This step can get a bit complex, as there are many historical lines of evidence to address, but here are a few examples:

1) Rav Shaul writes extensively in Galatians about circumcision controversies yet fails to mention the major Netzarim gathering that happened in Jerusalem on this very subject in the year 49 (Acts 15). Since Rav Shaul was a major part of that gathering and decision, it is inconceivable that he would have failed to mention it. Nor are there references to the later imprisonments after his missionary journeys toward the end of his life. Therefore, Galatians must have been written very early, perhaps between the year 45 and 48, which best fits into other biographical information Rav Shaul provides in his other letters.

2) The Book of Acts, like Luke's Gospel, is written to a man named Theophilus, or Tawpeela in Aramaic. However, the first line of Acts tells us the Gospel was Luke's “former volume”. That being the case, and factoring in when we know Luke died, we can look at the historical data in Acts and get a range. In this case, Luke's events stop at Rav Shaul's arrival in Rome in the early 60's, and he is mentioned by Rav Shaul as being with him toward his end in 2 Timothy 4:11. That same passage also mentions Mark, who we also know died in the year 62. However, Luke fails to mention the destruction of the Second Temple in the year 70 and this is odd for two reasons. First, Y'shua predicted this would happen in Luke's Gospel, so why not show it's fulfillment in Acts?

Secondly, the Temple is shown in all its glory right at the end of his Gospel and in the beginning of Acts 1-2, so again why not mention the tragedy he probably was in a position to witness like his contemporary Josephus did? Taken together then, it seems clear Luke must have written his Gospel after the year 61 but before the year 70, living out the few remaining years allotted to him in relative obscurity.

3) The Epistle to James in 5:12 quotes verbatim from a line exclusively in Matthew's Gospel (5:37). Since James died in the year 62 and since it is far more likely he would use Matthew's material than the other way around, Matthew's Gospel must be earlier than this. Exactly how much earlier we will explore a little later. However, with Matthew's own death well established in the year 60, his Gospel had to be written at least in the previous decade.

4) John 5:2 mentions the Sheep Gate in the present tense, but the structure was destroyed in the year 70 by the Romans. The fact that John would have even the slightest expectations that his readers would be able to check on a major piece of architecture like this argues strongly for not just a pre-70 date for his Gospel to have been written, but possibly significantly pre-70 for it to circulate throughout the Middle East.<sup>24</sup>

5) Another huge chronological clue is at the end of John's Gospel with the words of 21:24: "This is the disciple who testified about all these things and wrote them and we know that his testimony is true." Reason being, just about all other references in the Renewed Covenant refer to the Twelve Apostles as a whole or individual disciples by name. But by using the word "we", John implies that his work is being certified and confirmed by other eyewitnesses that he need not specify, pointing to a time when perhaps all Twelve were still alive, which would be prior to the year 44 CE. More likely, though, he is referring to a late enough time where the vast majority of original apostles and followers were still alive, perhaps roughly contemporaneous with the line in 1 Corinthians 15:6. Interestingly enough Rav Shaul's biographical information put his Corinth preaching squarely in his second missionary journey in about the year 50 CE, right after the famous Jerusalem Council meeting in Acts 15.<sup>25</sup> These facts are notable because 1 Corinthians 16:8 tells us the letter was written specifically from Ephesus, the same city where the Apostle John lived, and Rav Shaul's pattern was to visit with the elder Apostles whenever he could, making a late 50's date for John's Gospel possible. After this time, Rav Shaul himself would be imprisoned and enough of the other original followers would have been killed as to make John's statement problematic at best.

6) In terms of predicting the destruction of the Temple, most liberal scholars look at Y'shua's reference to it happening with skepticism, alleging that the Gospel accounts came after the fact. However, even if modern scholars suppose that Y'shua had no such special powers, the fact remains that a reasonably intelligent person could have likely foreseen this disaster. Such a feat might be mirrored in modern times, for example, by predicting that Al-Qaeda would strike the United States with another mass-casualty event within a decade. If it happened, it would not be regarded as great prophetic acumen since many believe that to be a high probability. In the same way, predicting Jerusalem's destruction at Roman hands certainly need not exclude the written accounts of that prediction from a pre-70 date.

7) Rav Shaul's epistles can roughly be divided between those he wrote before being imprisoned and those he wrote afterwards, in the last 5-6 years of his life.<sup>26</sup> We know

24 The Beth Khisda pool is recorded as past tense in Peshitta but present tense in most Greek manuscripts. The earliest Greek fragment of the NT, dated to 125 CE is of John's Gospel, though not this line. In this case, the possibility of an ancient variant on this reading must be considered within the wider historical process.

25 Acts 18:1-17 refers to the Corinth ministry trip as coinciding with the Emperor Claudius' decision to expel all the Jews from Rome (18:2); an event firmly dated by Josephus and other contemporary sources to the year 50 CE.

26 Rav Shaul was imprisoned several times throughout his missionary activities, but this refers to the last two times. The this because of frequent references to his confinement in his letters to the Ephesians (3:1), Philippians (1:7), Colossians (4:10) and twice in Philemon (1:9, 21).<sup>27</sup> Therefore, these four Epistles must range roughly somewhere between the years 61 and 67. The same can be said of 1 and 2 Timothy where Rav Shaul is anticipating his death with the famous, “I have fought the good fight” sentiments and the like (1 Timothy 1:18; 2 Timothy 1:8, 16; 4:6-8). The rest of his Epistles with the exception of Hebrews (Romans, 1 Corinthians, 2 Corinthians, 1 Thessalonians, 2 Thessalonians) clearly belong in the 50’s during the time of his missionary journeys but prior to his Roman imprisonments.

Step 3: Combine the textual evidence with data from other historical sources

From this point some of the other primary evidence mentioned earlier comes into play.

Starting with Matthew’s Gospel, it is demonstrated in this diglot according to two independent resources for a date far earlier than the 80-90’s timeframe generally accepted in the West. In his landmark historical work, the famous Eastern scholar Assemani documents a manuscript of Matthew dated to the common year 78. However, the second resource actually comes from recent research into obscure Talmudic texts, with one citation talking of a rabbinic parody of Matthew written by Rav Shaul’s former teacher, Rabbi Gamliel. Since Rabbi Gamliel died in the year 73, it seems reasonable that it would take several additional years for the original Matthew to circulate and come into enough prominence to be challenged by one of the greatest scholars conventional Judaism has ever produced. Once again also, the latest James could have quoted from Matthew 5:37 was the year 62, which reasonably fits into this general line of evidence.

In addition there is one other ancient resource that has a direct bearing on Matthew’s early date. Early Aramaic and Greek records tell us that the Apostle Thomas reached India in the year 52 with a copy of the Gospel written in Hebrew letters. The use of ktav ashurri (Hebrew style square script) in Renewed Covenant texts was largely confined to Israel, and was known to continue in this manner until at least the year 125, where the Talmud passage Mas Shabbath 116a comments on “Nazarene Gospels” with the Hebrew name of YHWH in them. Such clear trending strongly suggests a late 40’s date for Matthew’s Gospel to first be circulating in Israel. This date would also allow Mark and Luke time to incorporate Matthew’s material as well.

At the other end of the spectrum is the book of Revelation, which is nearly universally dated to the year 96, based on the testimony of the Early Church Founder Irenaeus who interviewed John’s own students. The curious thing about Revelation is that it appears to have the longest gestation period between rough draft and final form--perhaps as long as 30 years. The reason for this assertion is simple: Like the Gospel also bearing his name, Revelation 11:1 contains a reference to the earthly Temple and the instruction to “go and measure the Temple of Elohim and count the worshippers there.” As if that were not sufficient proof that the earthly, rather than the heavenly, structure is intended, the very next line talks about excluding the outer Court of the Gentiles from the calculation! So if that vision is prior to the Temple’s destruction, that’s quite a long time to wait for the last half of the book being released in CE 96!<sup>28</sup> first of these was when he went to Rome in the years 59-60 and waited two years for the witnesses to be brought against him while he was under house arrest (Acts 28:30). The details are sketchy but generally speaking it seems Rav Shaul would have been released when his accusers failed to provide evidence or appear for a trial, prompting a smaller, fourth missionary journey to Spain (Romans 15:24-28), Crete (Titus 1:5), Asia Minor (2 Timothy 4:13) and Nicopolis (Titus 3:12). From there very reliable ancient eastern and western traditions tell us he was re-arrested during a wave of persecution by the Emperor Nero in the year 64, and beheaded probably about three years later. That final imprisonment just prior to his death was the most likely time for his writing 1 and 2 Timothy.

All other Renewed Covenant books then squarely fall between these two dates of 48 and 96 CE.

27 In Philemon 1:21 it appears that Rav Shaul is hoping for his release from prison to be soon.

28 The number of the beast in Revelation 13:18 is widely believed to be an Aramaic gematriya for Nero Caesar, who died in 68 CE. Therefore, it appears that portions of Revelation from before this time are at a minimum addressing the Roman emperors of the period.

Step 4: Assemble the chronology

With the data established, we can make the following approximate chronological list for the Renewed Covenant books:

48 CE:	50's CE:	Early to mid 60's CE:	Late 60's to mid 70's CE:	70's to early 90's CE:	96 CE:
Matthew Galatians	Romans 1 Corinthians 2 Corinthians 1 Thessalonians 2 Thessalonians	Mark Acts 1 Peter 2 Peter James Hebrews Ephesians Philippians Colossians Titus Philemon 1 Timothy 2 Timothy	Luke John Jude <sup>29</sup>	1-3 John <sup>30</sup>	Revelation

Summary

The time frames, linkages of books with their authors and ancient testimony of the life-spans of each writer offers plenty of useful information for building a strong consensus on the most likely dates that these books were authored. From a Western perspective many scholars who operate under “higher criticism” with little or no respect for ancient testimony postulate much later dates. This, of course, is also heavily influenced by their theory that the original autographs were written in Greek, rather than Hebrew and Aramaic. Obviously books that were authored within the generation of the Temple’s destruction, are more logically of a Semitic origin, rather than a Greek one. From the time of the Bar Kochba Revolt (CE 135) and onward it would be more plausible that Jews would adopt Greek as a vehicular language rather than their native Hebrew and Aramaic.

29 Confining John’s Gospel to about the years 62-66, just prior to the outbreak of the first Jewish Revolt against Rome. Jude would more likely apply to latter scale, after Peter’s death in about 67 but before his own death in the year 72.

30 Charles Ryrie’s writes in his Ryrie Study Bible/NASB on page 440: “Strong tradition says that John spent his old age in Ephesus. Lack of personal references in this letter [1 John] indicates it was written in a sermonic style to Christians all over Asia Minor (much like Ephesians). It was probably written after the Gospel and before the persecution under Domitian in 95, which places its writing in the late 80’s or early 90’s.”

The 22 Tanakh and the 22 Renewed Covenant Books

Semitic culture and language carries a little-known ancient tradition that involves the canon of the original Tanakh together with the Renewed Covenant writings that illustrate perfect harmony. This convergence cannot be coincidental as we see in the writings of Josephus:

For we have not an innumerable multitude of books among us, disagreeing from and contradicting one another, [as the Greeks have,] but only twenty-two books, which contain the records of all the past times; which are justly believed to be divine; and of them five belong to Moshe, which contain his laws and the traditions of the origin of mankind till his death. This interval of time was little short of three thousand years; but as to the time from the death of Moshe till the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, who reigned after Xerxes, the prophets, who were after Moshe, wrote down what was done in their times in thirteen books. The remaining four books contain hymns to Elohim, and precepts for the conduct of human life. It is true, our history has been written since Artaxerxes very particularly, but has not been esteemed of the like authority with the former by our forefathers, because there has not been an exact succession of prophets since that time; and how firmly we have given credit to these books of our own nation is evident by what we do; for during so many ages as have already passed, no one has been so bold as either to add any thing to them, to take any thing from them, or to make any change in them; but it is become natural to all Jews immediately, and from their very birth, to esteem these books to contain Divine doctrines, and to persist in them, and, if occasion be willingly to die for them. (Against Apion 1.8)

Modern reckoning counts 39 books for the Tanakh but originally it was reckoned as 22. Let's begin with the first five books:

...five belong to Moshe, which contain his laws and the traditions of the origin of mankind till his death. This interval of time was little short of three thousand years; but as to the time from the death of Moshe till the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, who reigned after Xerxes, the prophets, who were after Moshe, wrote down what was done in their times in thirteen books.

So these are the basics. From Moshe's telling of events in Genesis until the time of Artaxerxes, the historian reckons just under three thousand years. Since we know when Artaxerxes ascended to the throne (465 BCE), it is easy to determine that Josephus viewed the earliest events of the Torah as happening roughly around 3500 BCE, which agrees with other chronological data he provides elsewhere.

However, our main focus is that the books of Moshe are obviously counted singly, and these are followed by thirteen prophetic books that would roughly encompass the time from Yehoshua to Esther, the latter having taken her part in the Purim drama with this same Persian king. So our first count is:

- 1) Genesis (Bereshit)
- 2) Exodus (Shemot)
- 3) Leviticus (Vayikra)
- 4) Numbers (Bamidbar)
- 5) Deuteronomy (Devari'im)

The first five books of Moshe are straightforward; however, let's skip over to what Josephus refers to as "the remaining four books":

The remaining four books contain hymns to Elohim, and precepts for the conduct of human life.

We now must engage in the process of elimination. The serial books of Samuel, Kings and Chronicles would clearly seem to be outside all but the most liberal interpretations of Josephus' information. Here the historian definitely seems to be drawing a distinction between "Wisdom Literature" and "Historical Literature" as he describes section one. If we apply the strict definition provided by Josephus, there are only four books that are non-narrative:

6) Psalms/Tehillim

8) Ecclesiastes/Qoheleth

9) Song of Songs/Shir haShirim

Some may argue that Lamentations might also fit this description – and normally it would, if it were not for something else Josephus noted:

But all the people mourned greatly for [King Josiah], lamenting and grieving on his account many days; and Jeremiah the prophet composed an elegy to lament him, (10) which is extant till this time also. Moreover, this prophet denounced beforehand the sad calamities that were coming upon the city. He also left behind him in writing a description of that destruction of our nation which has lately happened in our days, and the taking of Babylon... (Antiquities 10.5.1)

This quote, as many scholars suggest, indicates that Josephus included Lamentations as part of Jeremiah's other prophecies, appending it to the book we now have. This was not the only time Josephus made such a grouping:

Now after the death of Samson, Eli the high priest was governor of the Israelites. Under him, when the country was afflicted with a famine, Elimelech of Bethlehem, which is a city of the tribe of Judah, being not able to support his family under so sore a distress, took with him Naomi his wife, and the children that were born to him by her, Chillon and Mahlon, and removed his habitation into the land of Moab; and upon the happy prosperity of his affairs there, he took for his sons wives of the Moabites, Orpah for Chillon, and Ruth for Mahlon. (Antiquities 5:91)

The importance of this passage is that the book of Ruth never directly mentions Eli at all, either as high priest or judge of the Israelites! Furthermore, if we look at the book of Judges there are many other events that happen after the death of Samson. Therefore, the only possible conclusion is that Josephus has identified the story of Ruth as being part of the greater corpus of Judges as he understood it in his day. So now we have:

11) Judges (with Ruth included)

Now we have thirteen books accounted for, with twenty-six remaining. Our next calculation is according to the "Twelve Minor Prophets." According to the reckoning of ancient Jewish tradition, these Twelve (Amos, Habakkuk, Haggai, Hosea, Joel, Jonah, Malachi, Micah, Nahum, Obadiah, Zechariah and Zephaniah) were counted as one book/scroll. The ancient Aramaic term for this collection used in the Talmud and elsewhere is tarei asar, or "sacred dozen". Furthermore this same tradition carries over into the Septuagint and even ancient Christian communities such as the Armenian Church, which holds a feast for all Twelve on a single day. The Western Catholic tradition is also clear on this point:

The order of the Twelve Prophets is not the same among the Hebrews as it is among us. For which reason, according to how it is read there, they are also arranged here. Hosea is composed of short clauses and speaking as though by aphorisms. Joel is clear in the beginning, more obscure at the end. And they each have their individual properties up to Malachi, who the Hebrews name Ezra the scribe and teacher of the Law. And because it is too long to speak of all these things now, I would only you were warned this, O Paula and Eustochium: the book of the Twelve Prophets to be one; and Hosea a contemporary (συνχρονος) of Isaiah; (and) Malachi in fact to have been of the times of Haggai and Zechariah. And those (books) in which the time is not set down in the title, under those kings which they were to have prophesied under, they also prophesied after those which have titles. (Jerome, Beginning of the Prologue for the Twelve Prophets, fourth century, translated by Kevin Edgecombe)

So this now brings us to the twelfth book which includes:

12) The Twelve Minor Prophets: Amos, Habakkuk, Haggai, Hosea, Joel, Jonah, Malachi, Micah, Nahum, Obadiah, Zechariah and Zephaniah.

At this point Rabbinic traditions become extremely helpful. Put simply, the only difference in the counting of sacred books between Josephus and the Rabbis is that the latter put Ruth and Lamentations into the Writings section and declared a 24-book canon. However, the Rabbinic count otherwise agrees with Josephus, regarding Samuel, Kings, and Ezra-Nehemiah as three books, instead of six.

The final consideration for this section is Chronicles which is perhaps the only part that is less clear. The Septuagint treats these as two separate books and as such may be harking back to a pre-Masoretic tradition that Josephus might have adopted. On the other hand, all standardized Hebrew versions from the 11th Century onwards record Chronicles as one book. Unfortunately, the Dead Sea Scrolls contain one single fragment of two lines, and both lines are from 2 Chronicles. However, if we take Josephus at his word regarding a 22-book Tanakh, it would require listing 1 and 2 Chronicles as one separate book.

That being said our count is now complete with:

- 13) Joshua
- 14) 1 and 2 Samuel
- 15) 1 and 2 Kings
- 16) Ezra-Nehemiah
- 17) 1 and 2 Chronicles
- 18) Job
- 19) Daniel
- 20) Esther
- 21) Isaiah
- 22) Ezekiel

The ancient correlation of 22 books in the Tanakh with 22 books in the Renewed Covenant speaks to far deeper principles of unity and revelation than simplistic numeric values. The two sets of 22 books reveal the Alap-Taw (Alef-Tav) the beginning and the end, and provide two distinct and powerful witnesses that YHWH is One and His Name is One. From within time and space, while Mashiyach was on Earth, he revealed himself physically and spiritually to the Renewed Covenant writers, always referring to YHWH as his Father. Pre-incarnate Mashiyach was the Word (Miltha) of YHWH whom Yochanan testifies came and dwelt among us, the Living Torah (instructions in righteousness) and the Way of YHWH that brings salvation.

The Hebrew alphabet also has 22 letters and, interestingly, each letter carries four unique levels (pardes) of Biblical exegesis (interpretation). PaRDeS is an acronym that stands for:

- Peshat (פְּשָׁט) — “plain” or simple meaning
- Remez (רִמְזָה) — “hints” or the allegoric, beyond the literal meaning
- Drash (דְּרָשׁ) — “inquire” or seek, comparing similar occurrences (midrashic) meaning
- Sod (סוֹד) — “secret” or hidden meaning received through revelation

Words and letters in the physical world provide meaning, understanding and “thoughts” within the spiritual world and, of course, this occurs within the Memra or Word of YHWH that is the creative force which connects us to YHWH. Furthermore, both the finite and infinite aspects of our existence are revealed within the Word of YHWH. The “Word” within the Renewed Covenant is Mashiyach and is Spirit which is meant to be written upon our neshama (spirit) and that Word is the same Torah and Prophetic Word that was revealed in the 22 books of the Tanakh. We can see throughout the Renewed Covenant that the tzelem (image) of this same nature is the Sons' reflection of Father YHWH (Hebrews 1:1-5) of whom the terms devar and memra mature the revelation of Mashiyach onward towards the Miltha – which Yochanan 1:1 reveals as being with YHWH and was YHWH Himself!

The Renewed Covenant Book Order

One of the features of the Aramaic English New Testament is the arrangement of the books which are organized into 22 books on four “scrolls” or groupings, rather than the more familiar 27. While this may come as a surprise, the fact remains that the unified book list in the West was far from universal in the time of the Shlichim (Apostles). Even within the text itself there are strong clues to show that different assemblies had different books, which took a great deal of time to eventually come together into one corpus. We know, for example, from the Renewed Covenant and some extremely ancient and reliable traditions that the assembly of Rome had not just the epistle named after them, but also Philemon and the Gospel of Mark. Ephesus, on the other hand, had their own epistle named after them along with the Gospel and letters of John, as he was a longtime resident in that city before relocating to Patmos (Revelation 1:9). The assembly of Babylon had Keefa's (Peter's) epistles since he wrote them from that location (1 Peter 5:12), and the list goes on. For readers interested in discovering more of these connections, they can check the end of each book for the traditional Aramaic notation that outlines exactly who sent the letters to the congregation (Silas, Timothy, Philemon, and so forth).

The Eastern Aramaic assemblies kept a shorter canon than the rest of the believers, since the original Peshitta texts are lacking 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Jude and Revelation. But this is certainly not the only example of book variances between assemblies. The very ancient Ethiopian Orthodox Church, for example, had about 32 Renewed Covenant books, and many of these same assemblies also added to their copies of the Tanakh what is now called “the Apocryphal” writings. The process of fixing the Renewed Covenant canon was an extremely variegated and unregulated organic development throughout the early centuries of the Netzari and Christian faiths.

However, much of the diversity was on the Western side. In the East, those who preserved the original Peshitta scrupulously limited their canon to those books that were sent to their door personally by apostles or their known associates. As a result, when the first generation of eyewitnesses to Mashiyach died, the canon closed absolutely on the Eastern side around the common year 80.

These processes are tremendously complicated to document but have been addressed in the Ruach Qadim publications by Andrew Gabriel Roth. In any case, it is largely due to the extreme care taken by these Eastern believers of their 22-book canon that accounts for the fact that no major body of Netzari or Christian believers rejects any of these books. In fact, even when anti-Semites in the Catholic Church raised objections to the Epistle of James and Hebrews being “too Jewish” they were overruled by various Popes and other influential folks like Origen because those leaders knew they were nearly universally received as ancient, authentic and original writings.

By contrast, the aforementioned books barely made it into the Western canon and had manifold challenges of being accepted even there. Revelation, for example, took the longest to be accepted and its inclusion continued to be challenged in the Roman Catholic Church by strident minorities up until the 9th Century.

All the books we currently have in our Renewed Covenant canon are divinely inspired, but some have an easier path to proving themselves than others. It can easily be demonstrated that ancient variances in the content and order of our current canon is the rule rather than the exception.

Eastern Traditions vs. Western Agendas

It is important to realize that the Eastern believers, meaning Aramaic speakers east of Jerusalem, had a radically different mindset than their Roman counterparts even when addressing Gentile populations. In the West, the Jewish influence of the Gospels was downplayed greatly and some (Marcion and Tatian immediately come to mind) tried to eradicate it altogether. As a result, when the congregations under their control began distributing Bibles, there was a propensity to put the “Jewish books” last. The obvious exception to this rule was Matthew’s Gospel which was written for a Jewish audience, but that couldn’t be helped as other traditions insisted Matthew had to be the first book.

However, these same groups were far more successful in convincing a majority in the West to accept a canon where Rav Shaul’s epistles came immediately after the book of Acts, putting the “Jewish” James and John at the very end. It was as if these men were thinking that immediately after Acts the Jewish contingent and originating influence of their faith became secondary to the Gentiles who came much later.

However, in the East, the Semitic influence was much stronger, and so they put the General Epistles first and Rav Shaul’s letters last. This was also proper, they reasoned, because Rav Shaul admitted he was just a ringleader, an important but lower echelon organizer, and certainly nothing compared to Peter and James whom he referred to as “pillars” (Galatians 1:19). Elsewhere, Rav Shaul says he was the least of the apostles, and should not be an apostle because he persecuted the believers, and he even goes so far as to lament that Y’shua appeared in resurrected form to him last because of his status (1 Corinthians 15:8-9). The final proof of this idea is that in Acts, Peter’s speech is presented word-for-word while Rav Shaul’s is only summarized. Further, the fact that Rav Shaul is carrying letters written by others is definitely proof of him being a real servant.

The Eastern ordering also reflects Y’shua’s own teachings concerning the fact that while YHWH is no respecter of persons, salvation is from the Jews, and the message goes first to the Jews and then to the Gentiles (Matthew 15:21-28, John 4:19-22).

Then, in the early 6th Century, the Syrian Orthodox Church aligned itself away from the Eastern Aramaic congregations and wedded herself to Rome. When that happened, they also began translating from Greek into Aramaic what we now call the Western 5. The difference, though, between their book order and the more familiar Catholic one was that they appended John’s epistles and Revelation to his Gospel, but otherwise kept the Eastern order intact.

The Changes in this Diglot

In this publication we have restored the original sequence of books while also respecting the Tanakh order of books used in Israel at the time of Y’shua. It is our opinion that these changes also best carry the intentions of these general spiritual reasons mentioned above. However, we must first discuss why there are now 22 books on four scrolls. As many already know, the Hebrew and the Aramaic alap-beet (alphabet) contain 22 letters that are considered perfect, sacred and possessing great spiritual power as the vehicle for delivering YHWH’s original Word. The letters are exactly the same in both languages.

Further, in Hebraic thought, there is a mystical linkage between the concept of letters and words and the Set Apart instructions they contain. This is why in Tanakh the Ten Commandments are often called “The Ten Words” and a single word is referenced per commandment in much of Jewish sacred art. Even the fifth book of Moshe, known popularly as Deuteronomy (Greek for “repetition/second law”), is in Hebrew called “Devarim”, or “the words”. Of course, it hardly needs to be mentioned that John’s Gospel tells us the Word was Elohim and Psalm 33:6 says the Word made the Universe. These connections, suffice it to say for the moment, are things directly mentioned in the texts without even having to resort to extra-canonical works like the Zohar or the Kabbalah.

In addition, as previously mentioned, the Jewish historian Josephus tells us that Israel counted 22 Tanakh books, again one for every letter in the Hebrew alphabet. Similarly, when we look at the oldest and most authoritative Peshitta manuscripts, they also preserve 22 books! These Aramaic believers came directly out of the Netzarim movement, and the Netzarim, in turn, came straight out of Jewish-Rabbinic sacred tradition.

And so, we choose to honor that sense of sacred continuity from Tanakh and into the Renewed Covenant writings, and have therefore reconstituted the Aramaic English New Testament into 22 books. The canon is precisely the same; only the way the books are counted (as separate entities) has been altered. For example, the three Epistles of John and Revelation count as one book, on a scroll known as “The Second Testimony of Yochanan.” The Epistles of Keefa (Peter) are also combined into one “book”. Finally, Yehuda and Ya’akov (James and Jude) are also combined under the heading, “The Testimony of the Two Brothers of our Master Y’shua,” giving us a final total of 22.

Classification by “Scrolls”

It is extremely vital that all Scripture is treated with equal reverence by all Netzarim, Christians and all who put their trust in Mashiyach Y’shua for salvation. All Renewed Covenant texts, in the same manner as Torah, should be perfectly and lovingly copied by an expert scribe on animal skins and placed in a synagogue ark along with the Tanakh scrolls. This kind of liturgical equality is important. If all Scripture is Elohim-breathed why not have all of it similarly cherished and celebrated by the faithful? In order then to reflect all these values, here are the four scrolls for the Renewed Covenant:

Gospels and Emissaries: Matthew through Acts, mirroring the Five Books of Moshe and counting as 5.

The Major Testimonies: Reflecting the Major Prophets in terms sometimes relating to length and other times relating to the importance of the message/writer, the following are counted as 6 books: Hebrews, The Testimony of the Two Brothers of our Master, The Testimony of Mar Keefa, Romans, 1 Corinthians and 2 Corinthians. Another classification within this scroll is with respect to “first to the Jew, then to the Gentile.”

The Ten: In Tanakh we have what is sometimes in Aramaic called Tarei Asar (the Set Apart Twelve). This refers to the “Minor Prophets” – in terms of length, not importance – that are counted as one book: Amos, Habakkuk, Haggai, Hosea, Joel, Jonah, Malachi, Micah, Nahum, Obadiah, Zechariah and Zephaniah. The Renewed Covenant equivalent, although counting separately as 10 books, pays homage to this idea with the grouping of Galatians, Ephesians, Colossians, Philippians, 1 Thessalonians, 2 Thessalonians, 1 Timothy, 2 Timothy, Titus and Philemon.

The Second Testimony of Yochanan: As noted above, this last scroll includes the three Epistles of Yochanan and Revelation as one unified testimony to individuals, various assemblies, and the world at large.

When we add up these book classifications we get 5+6+10+1, which equals 22 books.

Conclusion

Ultimately, the aesthetic presentation of these books is far less important than the salvation message they contain. But even so, this is a way to return respect and esteem to these Set Apart writings and honor the ministry of the Ruach haKodesh through the writings of the Shlichim. In the end, it is simply one outward manifestation of our inner spiritual focus because, as Y’shua pointed out, where our hearts are our treasure will also be.

Gospels and Emissaries

Matthew	27
Mark	115
Luke	167
Yochanan	257
Acts	327

Chapter 1

1. The book of the genealogy of Y'shua<sup>1</sup> the Mashiyach,<sup>2</sup> the son of Dawid, the son of Awraham.
 2. Awraham fathered Yitz'chak, Yitz'chak fathered Ya'akov. Ya'akov fathered Yehuda and his brothers. 3. Yehuda fathered Peretz and Zarakh by Thamar. Peretz fathered Khetzron.
 4. Khetzron fathered Aram. Aram fathered Amminadav, Amminadav fathered Nekhshon. Nekhshon fathered Salmon. 5. Salmon fathered Bo'az by Rachav, Bo'az fathered Awbed by Rawth, Awbed fathered Ishai. 6. Ishai fathered Dawid the king. Dawid<sup>3</sup> fathered Shleemon by the wife of Awrea.
 7. Shleemon fathered Rechav'am, Rechav'am fathered Aviyah, Aviyah fathered Asa. 8. Asa fathered Yahoshapat, Yahoshapat fathered Yoram, Yoram fathered Uziyahu. 9. Uziyahu fathered Yotham, Yotham fathered Akhaz, Akhaz fathered Hizkiyahu. 10. Hizkiyahu fathered M'nasheh, M'nasheh fathered Amon, Amon fathered Yoshiyahu. 11. Yoshiyahu fathered Yochanyahu and his brothers about [the time of] the captivity of Bavel.<sup>4</sup> 12. And after the captivity now of Bavel, Yochanyahu fathered Sh'altiel, Sh'altiel fathered Zerubavel. 13. Zerubavel fathered Awiud, Awiud fathered Elyakim, Elyakim fathered Azor. 14. Azor fathered Tzadoq. Tzadoq fathered Achin, Achin fathered El'ichud. 15. El'ichud fathered El'azar, El'azar fathered Matan, Matan fathered Ya'akov. 16. Ya'akov fathered Yosip, the guardian<sup>5</sup> of Maryam, from whom was born Y'shua, who is called the Mashiyach. 17. Therefore, all the generations from Awraham until Dawid were fourteen generations, from Dawid to the captivity were fourteen generations and from the captivity of Bavel until the Mashiyach were fourteen generations. 18. Now<sup>6</sup> the birth of Y'shua, the Mashiyach, was like this: While Maryam his mother was betrothed<sup>7</sup> to Yosip, without them being united, she was found pregnant by the Ruach haKodesh.<sup>8</sup> 19. But Yosip, her husband was just and did not desire to expose her, yet he was thinking in secret that he would dismiss her.

1 The name Y'shua is short for Y'hoshua and means יְהוֹשֻׁעַ (Yahweh) is Salvation. The giving of names in Israel is a prophetic act. His name Y'shua therefore carries great prophetic insight regarding the office and identity of Mashiyach. We avoid the Greek anglicized version due to its association with the name of a Greek deity. It is written in Exodus 23:13, "Make no mention of the name of other gods, neither let it be heard out of your mouth" which prohibits the use of alternative names and titles that replace the Name of YHWH and His Mashiyach Y'shua; both are absolute.

2 Hebrew Mashiyach (maw-shee'-akh) (Aramaic Meshikha) means "Anointed One". This is a Torah specific term that can only be correctly understood in the context of the Tanakh, i.e. the Torah, the Prophets and the Writings. YHWH directs His servants to perform "h'mishchah" (the anointing) with oil, indicating those whom YHWH sanctifies and puts His Ruach haKodesh within. The Anglicized term "Messiah" has gained connotations of "the hero", whereas Mashiyach ben Yoseph is the Suffering Servant, tender, a man of sorrows and the Savior of all. Matthew 20:28; Phil. 2:7; Isaiah 53:2.

3 Restored waw proclitic was not in 1905; this reads "and David" in Khabouris Codex. Most variances with prepositions/proclitics that do not change the meaning of the word will remain as rendered from 1905 (e.g. 6:27). But key exceptions to this rule are noted as required. See Khabouris Codex in Appendix.

4 Paul Younan renders this passage as: "Yoshiyahu fathered Yochanyahu and his brothers in the captivity of Bavel." However, while the beyt proclitic here can most certainly read "in", the better choice is "about" Babylon, meaning "about the time of the Babylonian captivity" because Josiah died just prior to this happening and did not go into captivity himself. Lamsa uses "about" but Etheridge uses: "at the exile of Babel." In this case "at" or "about" are interchangeable readings for this proclitic. Murdock's translation agrees with Younan, but the context here requires "about" and this is also retained in Greek translations.

5 The word gowra designates a protector-male or guardian; the context of this verse determines its specific meaning. Y'shua elsewhere says "which one of gowra, if he has a son..."; obviously "father" is intended. "Gowra" also applies to other forms of protector-male type relationships depending on the context, such as "husband", "son", and so forth. Ancient Aramaic Matthew ends at verse 17, not verse 25. The text not only establishes the subject, but shifts from "background history" into the present, from intro to body. This means that the Yosip in verse 16 (the guardian or adopted father of Miriyam (Mary)) is not the same Yosip as the husband of Miriyam in verse 19. There is no reason for Matthew to use two different words for the same individual, whereas gowra sometimes means "husband" but can also mean "father". The other term baalah can only mean "husband". On the other hand, there would most definitely be a reason to differentiate two men named Yosip, one being the adopted father, the other the husband of Miriyam. With this differentiation we now have three full sets of 14 generations, which satisfies the demands of verse 17. More detail is presented in Ruach Qadim, accessed online at www.aent.org..

6 A very clear shift from backstory of ancient times into the contemporary narrative of Matthew 1, with “din” or “now” being one of the most common ways in Aramaic of switching to a new thought. While all parts of this chapter are in past tense, the shifting from ancient to recent also demands two different Yosips.

7 Betrothal (Hebrew Erusin or Kiddushin) is as binding as marriage, see Deuteronomy 20:7; 22:23-28.

8 Ruach (Wind/Spirit) haKadosh (the Set-Apart). Most English translators follow the tradition of using “holy ghost”. Holy is etymologically derived from the word “heile” referring to the warmth of the sun; “ghost” is a saxon term that refers to the spirit of a dead person; neither are consistent with being Set Apart for the Kingdom of Elohim.

20. While he was thinking these things, a messenger<sup>10</sup> of Master YHWH<sup>11</sup> appeared to him in a dream, and said to him, “Yosip, the son of Dawid, do not have fear to take Maryam as your wife, for he that is begotten<sup>12</sup> in her (is) from the Ruach haKodesh. 21. And she will bear a son and she will call his name Y’shua, for he will save his people from their sins.” 22. And this all happened that it might be fulfilled what was said by Master YHWH through the prophet, 23. “Behold, a virgin<sup>13</sup> will conceive and give birth to a son, and they will call his name Ammanuel,<sup>14</sup> which is interpreted ‘our El<sup>15</sup> (is) with us.’” 24. When Yosip now rose from his sleep, he did as the messenger of Master YHWH commanded him, and he took his wife. 25. And he did not know her until<sup>16</sup> she had given birth to her first-born son, and she called his name Y’shua.<sup>17</sup>

1. And when Y’shua was born in Beth-Lekhem of Yehuda, in the days of Herodus, the king, Magoshi<sup>18</sup> came from the east to Urishlim. 2. And they said, “Where is he who has been born the king of the Yehudeans?”<sup>19</sup> For we saw his star in the East<sup>20</sup> and have come to worship him.” 3. And Herodus, the king heard, and was troubled and all of Urishlim with him. 4. And he gathered all the chief priests and scribes in Urishlim, and was asking the people, “where would Mashiyach be born?” 5. And they answered like this, “in Beth-Lekhem of Yehuda for it is written by the prophet,” 6. And you Beth-Lekhem of Yehuda you will not be the least of Yehuda. From you, therefore, will go out a king who will shepherd among the kings, my people, Israel.<sup>21</sup> 7. Then Herodus, in secret, called to the Magoshi and learned from them by which time the star appeared to them, 8. And sent them to Beth-Lekhem and said to them, “go on and inquire very carefully concerning the boy, and when you have found him, come inform me so that I also can go (and) worship him. 9. And when they heard from the king, they departed, and behold the star which they saw in the East was going before them until it came and stood from over where the boy was. 10. And when they saw the star, they rejoiced (with) very great joy. 11. And they entered the house and they saw the boy<sup>22</sup> with Maryam, his mother, and they fell (and) worshipped him, and they opened their treasures and offered to him gifts (of) gold and myrrh and incense.

9 In Hebrew Matthew is Mattityahu (Mathai in Aramaic), which means “gift of YHWH”.

10 “Messenger” is more preferable by Aramaic, Hebrew and Greek than “angel.” See Messengers (Angels) in Appendix.

11 YHWH (yud-heh-vav-heh, pronounced YAH - WEH) is the Name of the Most High Elohim. To vocalize the Name YHWH, breathe in slowly while saying “YAH”, then breathe out while saying “WEH”. Netzari followers of Mashiyach never subscribed to the Rabbinic ban against vocalizing the Name of YHWH. Neither was the pronunciation of the Name lost within Jewish culture. When Torah was translated into Greek, observant Jewish scribes preserved the Name of YHWH by writing “YHWH” with Hebrew characters in the Septuagint. Isaiah 52:5-6 states that the Name of YHWH is “continually every day blasphemed, therefore YHWH’s people shall know His name.” This prophecy is nested in Scripture that reveals the “arm of YHWH” who is Mashiyach, therefore it is Mashiyach Y’shua who brought the knowledge of the Name of YHWH to the world. Jeremiah 12:16 states that the Israelites swore by the name of Baal (Lord) a popular heathen deity of the day. Jeremiah 23:27 says that false prophets postured false dreams to manipulate YHWH’s people away from YHWH into Baal worship. One should also note that the English “LORD” is an equivalent term for “Baal.” Jeremiah 44:26, states that YHWH would remove His Name from their lips for using the cliché, “as Adonai YHWH liveth,” all while they burnt incense to the Queen of Heaven. However, Jeremiah 16:21 states that “they shall know my Name is YHWH.” Ezekiel 36:20-24 states that when Israel “entered unto the heathen... they profaned my Set Apart Name... but I had pity for my Set Apart Name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the heathen... and I will sanctify my Great Name, which was profaned among the heathen!” See Ban on the Name of YHWH and MarYah in Appendix.

12 Y’shua the Son is begotten of YHWH as Mashiyach, see Psalm 2:7-12.

13 See Almah in Appendix.

14 Isaiah 7:14-25 speaks of the salvation and regathering of Yisrael, preempted by the sign of a virgin giving birth.

15 El is the shortened form of Eloah, and the singular form of Elohim.

16 Which means he “knew” his wife afterwards (Genesis 38:26; 1 Kings 1:4), and they had other children.

17 The Tanakh records the name Y’shua (Jeshua) 30 times, Y’hoshua (Joshua) 199 times. Y’shua is the shortened form of Y’hoshua, the same name given to Mashiyach. The successor of Moses, Yehoshua (Joshua), is a type of Mashiyach, who brought the Israelites into the promised land. Additionally, yeshua (salvation) used 78 times is the passive participle of yasha (save or savior), which is used 205 times. “I have waited for your yeshua (salvation), O YHWH” (Genesis 49:18). The hybrid name Jesus (Je-Zeus) was coined within a culture where “Zeus” is the chief deity. The name “Jesus” contributes to the polytheistic values that breaks Mashiach away from his Torah based identity. The Greek persona of the “new Messiah” made way to endorse Trinitarian, anti-Torah and Hellenistic lifestyles. See Y’shua to Zeus in Appendix.

18 Magosi or Magi refers to the astrologers/astronomers who were originally taught by Daniel the Prophet while in Babylon. These men are neither sorcerers nor Pagans, but Fearers of Elohim who were patiently awaiting the coming of Mashiach. What they had learned from Daniel was becoming a reality, they had traveled to bear witness of Mashiach’s birth and bring the good news back to their homeland. One of the titles of the Mashiach, Bar enosh, like Hebrew ben adam, can also mean “Son of man,” or simply “man.” Daniel 7:13, 14.

19 The term “Yehudeans” refers to the indigenous people of Jewish Israelite ethnicity who live in Israel. “Jews” is often used to refer those who practice Judaism, or to a small minority of political elite leaders. When Paul says “I am a Jew” in Acts 21:39, he is referring to himself as a Jewish person, in Acts 23:6; 26:5; Phil 3:5 Paul refers to himself as a Pharisee which denotes his religious identity.

20 Many Greek NT scholars believe anatole means “in the rising” as opposed to “in the East”. The distinction makes little difference however as astronomers like the Magi would have noted both a star’s rising and its direction. The Aramaic refers more to the latter, but does imply the former (rising). The Magi saw the star rising from their location to the East of Israel, that is, from Babylon. Later this “star” will move west from Babylon to Israel and appear to pause over Bethlehem.

21 Micah 5:1-4 Y’shua is the Shepherd King of Israel. Critics of the “New Testament” point out that such quotations are not precisely recorded here as in the Tanakh; however, the fact remains that no other “Jewish personality” comes close to the name and fame of Y’shua.

22 The term for “boy” is related to the generic word for “males” in Hebrew (zakar) with respect to circumcision, since any male from eight days to 99 years old may be circumcised. Talia need not conflict with Luke’s calling Y’shua an “infant”, since an infant is counted as a “male” when he is circumcised. This also means the Magi had to come after the circumcision in Luke.

12. And was shown to them in a dream that they should not return to Herodus, and by a different road, they went to their country. 13. And when they went, the messenger of Master YHWH appeared to Yosip in a dream and said to him, “Arise, take the boy and his mother and flee to Misrayin and there remain until I tell you. For Herodus is going to seek the boy as to destroy him.” 14. Yosip arose and took the boy and his mother in the night and fled to Misrayin. 15. That might be fulfilled the thing that was spoken from Master YHWH by the prophet which said that, “From Misrayin I have called my son.”<sup>23</sup> 16. Then, when Herodus saw that the Magoshi mocked him, he was very angry and sent (and) killed all the boys of Beth-Lekhem and of all from its borders two years and under, according to the time that he inquired from the Magoshi. 17. Then was fulfilled the thing that was spoken through Yirmeyahu the prophet who said, 18. “A voice was heard in Ramtha, great crying and wailing. Rakhiel crying for her sons and not desiring to be comforted because they were not.”<sup>24</sup> 19. And when Herodus, the king, died, the messenger of Master YHWH appeared in a dream to Yosip in Misrayin,<sup>25</sup> 20. And said to him, “Arise, take the boy and his mother and go to the land of Israel, for they have died, those who were seeking the life of the boy. 21. And Yosip arose, took the boy and his mother, and came to the land of Israel. 22. And when he heard that Arkhilus was king in Yehuda in place of Herodus his father, he was afraid to go there, and (it) was revealed to him in a dream that he should go to the land of Galeela. 23. And he came and dwelled in the city that is called Nasrath, so that might be fulfilled the thing which was spoken by the prophet<sup>26</sup> that “He will be called a Nasraya.”

1. And in those days came Yochanan<sup>27</sup> the Immerser<sup>28</sup> and would preach in the desert of Yehuda. 2. And said, “Repent<sup>29</sup> (for) near is the Kingdom of Heaven.<sup>30</sup> 3. It is him for whom it was spoken through Yesha’yahu the prophet, “A voice of one crying in the desert ‘Prepare the way of Master YHWH and make straight his path.’”<sup>31</sup> 4. Now Yochanan’s clothes were from the hair of camels, and upon his loins a girdle of skins. And his food was locusts<sup>32</sup> and wild honey. 5. Then was gone out to him Urishlim and all Yehuda and all lands that surround the Yordanan. 6. And they would be immersed by him in the Yordanan River when they would confess in their sins. 7. And when (he) saw the many from the Pharisees and Sadducees that came to be immersed, he said to them, “Generation of vipers! Who has informed you to flee from the wrath that will come? 8. Do therefore the fruits that are worthy of repentance. 9. And you (ought) not suppose and say within yourselves that we have Awraham (as our) father. I say to you that Elohim is able to raise from these rocks sons to Awraham. 10. And behold, the axe is placed on the root of the trees. All trees, therefore, that do not bear good fruit will be cut and thrown in the fire.

23 This verse presents a midrashic fulfillment of Hosea 11:1; the “son” in Hosea refers to Israel, not Mashiach. Mashiach must come from “among his brethren” Israel as the ultimate fulfillment of Deuteronomy 18:15-18. Israel must also come out of Egypt both physically and spiritually (i.e. turn away from polytheism and anti-Torah living). This verse provides a remez (hint) of the goal of Mashiach, while not necessarily attempting to reveal the identity of Y’shua as Mashiach.

24 Jeremiah 31:14,15.

25 Mitzrayin is the Aramaic form of Hebrew word Mitzrayim. After the two references to the nation in Matthew 2, the rest of the translation will use the more familiar term of Egypt.

26 An example of singular plural confusion in Greek. In Aramaic, “prophet” is spelled the same in both singular and plural forms, whereas Hebrew has distinct forms. Greek translators chose to translate this as “prophets” but only one prophet, Isaiah 11:1, refers to Mashiach as a netzer which is Hebrew for “young shoot” or “sprout.” A closer look at Isaiah 11:1-4 reveals the “spiritual branches” of the Menorah as attributes of Mashiach. Netzer is the basis for the name Nazareth, which at that time was a very small village in the Land of Israel. Other prophets reveal Mashiach as the “Branch” but use the Hebrew tzemach, thus eliminating the obvious wordplay here by Matthew. The prophet Daniel also uses the word netzer, but not in the context of Messianic prophecy. See Netzer in Appendix.

27 Yochanan (John) means “YHWH has Graced” which is also the name of a priest, captain and prince in the Tanakh.

28 Immersion (baptism) was practiced for millennia before Y’shua’s arrival, see Immerser in Appendix.

29 See They Repented Not and Conversion in Appendix.

30 Heaven (Shemayim) appears 238 times and hell 23 times in the English KJV New Testament. By comparing Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek words (beliefs), about heaven and hell, we can not only see how mythology, paganism and the occult were woven into the Greek NT, but restore and return to Y'shua's original teachings and Heavenly Kingship. Isaiah 9:6, 7 "...a son is given...the government shall be upon his shoulder... and upon his kingdom..." Please see Matt 11:23.

32 In the Compendious Syriac dictionary Payne Smith lists the Aramaic qamtsa as "parsnip" (a root vegetable), not as "locusts" (insects). Early Christian sources state that St. John's bread was made of carob pods (Heb. "charuv").

11. I immerse you with water to repentance, but he that will come after me is stronger than me. I am not worthy to remove his sandals. He will immerse you by the Ruach haKodesh and by fire. 12. He whose winnowing fan is in his hand will cleanse his threshing-floors and the wheat he will gather to his granaries and the chaff he will burn in the fire that does not extinguish.” 13. Then came Y’shua from Galeela to the Yordanan to Yochanan, to be immersed by him. 14. But Yochanan was refusing him and said, I should be immersed by you, and you come to me. 15. Then Y’shua answered and said to him “Allow (it) now for as such, it is proper for us to fulfill<sup>33</sup> all righteousness,” and then he allowed it. 16. And when Y’shua was immersed, he arose at once from the water and heaven was opened to him, and he saw the Spirit of Elohim which was descending like a dove<sup>34</sup> and it came upon him.<sup>35</sup> 17. Behold, and a voice from heaven that said, “This is my beloved Son in whom I am pleased.”

Chapter 4

1. Then Y’shua was taken by the Ruach haKodesh to the desert to be tempted by the accuser. 2. And he fasted forty days and forty nights and after which he hungered.<sup>36</sup> 3. And approached he that was tempting and said to him “if you are the son of Elohim, say to these rocks become bread,” 4. and he answered and said, “It is written that the Son of man does not live by bread alone, but by all the Words<sup>37</sup> that proceed from the mouth of Elohim.”<sup>38</sup> 5. Then the accuser<sup>39</sup> took him to the Set Apart city and raised him upon the edge of the temple,<sup>40</sup> 6. and said to him, “If you are the son of Elohim, cast yourself down for it is written that his Messengers he commands concerning you, and upon their hands they will bear you up that your foot should not strike upon a rock.”<sup>41</sup> 7. Y’shua said to him, “Again it is written that you will not test Master YHWH your Elohim.”<sup>42</sup> 8. Again the accuser took him to (a) mountain that (was) very high and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory, 9. and said to him, “These all I will give to you if you will fall (and) worship me.” 10. Then Y’shua said to him “Leave enemy, for it is written that you will worship Master YHWH your Elohim and Him alone you will serve.”<sup>43</sup> 11. Then the accuser left him alone and behold, Messengers approached and were ministering to him. 12. And when Y’shua heard that Yochanan was arrested, he departed to Galeela. 13. And he left Nasrath and came (and) dwelt in Capurnakhum on the side of the sea by the border of Zebulon and of Naptali. 14. That might be fulfilled the thing that was spoken through Yesha’yahu the prophet who said, 33 To “fulfill all righteousness” is an extremely important element of the Good News, please see footnote on “fulfill” in Matthew 5:17.

34 In Hebrew the word for “dove” is yonah (Jonah). The phrase “like a dove” alludes to the “Sign of Jonah” where Y’shua foretells the length of his burial and resurrection as three days and three nights (Matthew 12:38-40). Peter is called the “Son of Yonah” (Yochanan 1:42; 21:15), perhaps indicating that Y’shua is well pleased with Peter, as Abba YHWH is well pleased with His Son, and that Peter is being transformed by the Ruach haKodesh into the “dove like” nature of Mashiych.

36 Khabouris has three very minor scribal errors in verses 2-4 which are corrected in 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts. These minor errors are not generally footnoted as Khabouris is but one witness of the Eastern family and receives support from the others.

37 Y’shua declares that he himself, along with all of mankind, is required to live by the “Words” of YHWH, and that the Commandments Y’shua teaches are in fact YHWH’s Commandments from Torah. However, Greek/English translators inserted the title Kurios/Lord, for both YHWH and Y’shua, rather than using original Names. Christian theologians then began teaching the fallacy that their “New Testaments” were the “new” Word, or new “Commandments of Y’shua” that replaced the original Word of YHWH, which is Torah. See John 8:36 (47); 12:48-50; 13:34; 14:10-21; 1 John 2:3-8; 2 John 1:5,6.

38 Deuteronomy 8:3

39 Khabouris has Akelqarza as one word (as does 8:11) whereas 1905 uses the separated spelling Akel Qarza. There is no difference in meaning; the 1905 spelling convention is preferred. This is the general rule that will be followed, including 4:19 where 1905 combines benayanash whereas Khabouris separates them. Matthew 6:1 reverses these choices on this phrase proving either form interchangeable.

40 A dark foreshadowing of the martyrdom of Ya'akov HaTsaddiq (James the Just) brother of Y'shua. Ya'akov, who routinely prayed at the Temple to ask YHWH's forgiveness for the sins of his people, was highly regarded for his meekness, devotion and service to the Jewish people. It was said that Ya'akov had camel's knees because he very often prayed while on his knees. He was ultimately thrown off the top of the Temple by demonized religious fanatics because of his allegiance to Y'shua Mashiyach. Ya'akov taught that Y'shua is the Arm of YHWH revealed, and he refused to renounce his belief in Y'shua Mashiyach. Origen criticized Josephus for attributing the fall of Jerusalem to the martyrdom of Ya'akov, rather than to Y'shua.

43 Deuteronomy 6:13

15. "The land of Zebulon the land of Naphtali (by) the way of the sea the crossings of the Yordanan Galeela of the nations. 16. Who sit the people in darkness have seen a great light, and those that sit in the land and the shadow of death, a light has appeared to them."<sup>44</sup> 17. From then began Y'shua to preach and to say "Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is near." 18. And when he was walking on the side of the sea of Galeela he saw two brothers, Simon who was called Keefa, and Andraus his brother who were casting nets into the sea. For they were fishermen. 19. And Y'shua said to them, "Come after me and I will make you so that you will be fishers of the sons of men." 20. And they left at once their nets and went after him. 21. And when he crossed from there he saw two other brothers, Ya'akov the son of Zawdee, and Yochanan his brother in a boat with Zawdee their father, who were fixing their nets, and Y'shua<sup>45</sup> called them. 22. They left the ship and their father at once and they went after him. 23. Y'shua would preach in all Galeela and would teach in their assemblies. And he preached the Hope<sup>46</sup> of the Kingdom and he healed every disease and sickness among the people. 24. And all those who were very sick with illnesses and others who were oppressed with pain, possessed (by unclean spirits), the mentally ill and the paralyzed approached and came to him, and (Y'shua) healed them. 25. And a great crowd went after him from Galeela, and from the Ten Cities, and from Urishlim, and from Yehuda across the Yordanan.

Chapter 5

1. And when the crowd saw Y'shua, he went up the mountain, and when he sat his disciples drew near to him. 2. And he opened his mouth and was teaching them and said, 3. "Blessed<sup>47</sup> are they who are poor in spirit,<sup>48</sup> because theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. 4. "Blessed are they who are mourning, because they will be comforted."<sup>49</sup> 5. "Blessed are they who are meek because they will inherit the earth."<sup>50</sup> 6. "Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for righteousness because they will be satisfied."<sup>51</sup> 7. "Blessed are they who are merciful because mercies will be upon them."<sup>52</sup> 8. "Blessed are they who are pure in their hearts because they will see Elohim."<sup>53</sup> 9. "Blessed are they who make peace because they will be called the sons of Elohim."<sup>54</sup> 10. "Blessed are they who are persecuted because of righteousness because theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven."<sup>55</sup> 11. "Blessed are you whenever they curse you and they persecute you and they say every evil word about you falsely because of me."<sup>56</sup> 12. "Then rejoice and be glad because your reward in heaven is great for likewise they persecuted the prophets who were before you. 13. You are the salt of the earth, but if the salt should become bland, with what would it become seasoned? For anything not fit (is) but to be thrown outside and be trodden by man. 14. You are the light<sup>57</sup> of the world. It is not possible to hide a city that is built on a mountain.

45 Khabouris has "Y'shua" at the end of this sentence but it is implied anyway. It is however left out of 1905.

46 "Hope" rather than the "gospel," which is of Anglo-Saxon origin; "God's-spell." The hope of Mashiach begins at the beginning of Genesis. See Good News in Appendix.

47 The word translated as "blessed" is touvayhoon, derived from the root tov, meaning "good," literally it is "goodness (towards) you."

15. They do not light a lamp and place it under a bushel, but upon a lamp-stand and it lights upon all those that are in the house. 16. Let your light shine like this in front of the sons of men that they should see your good works and they glorify your father who is in heaven. 17. Do not think that I have come to loosen<sup>58</sup> Torah or the Prophets. I have not come to loosen but to fulfill<sup>59</sup> them through proper meaning. 18. For truly I say to you that until heaven and earth pass away not one Yodh or one stroke will pass from Torah until everything happens.<sup>60</sup> 19. All who loosen,<sup>61</sup> therefore, from one (of) these small commandments and teach thus to the sons of man, will be called little in the Kingdom of Heaven, but all who do and teach this will be called great in the Kingdom of Heaven. 20. For I say to you that unless your righteousness exceeds more than that of the scribes and the Pharisees,<sup>62</sup> you will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven. 21. You have heard that it was said to those before, you should not kill and all that kill are condemned to judgment. 22. But I say to you that anyone who provokes to anger his brother without cause, is condemned to judgment and anyone who should say to his brother, I spit on you, is condemned to the assembly, and anyone who should say, you are a coward, is condemned to the Gehenna<sup>63</sup> of fire. 23. If it is therefore that you offer your offering to the altar and there you should remember a certain grudge your brother holds against you, 24. leave there your offering upon the altar<sup>64</sup> and go first and reconcile with your brother and then come offer your offering. 25. Be in agreement with your adversary at Torah while you are with him on the way, or else your adversary at Torah deliver you to the judge and the judge deliver you to the officer and you be thrown into the house of captives. 26. And truly I say to you that you will not come out from there until you pay the last coin. 27. You have heard that it has been said that you should not commit adultery.<sup>65</sup> 28. But I say to you that all who that looks at a woman as lustfully at once has committed adultery in his heart. 29. And if your right eye stumbles you, pluck it out and cast it from you, for it is better for you that one of your members should perish and not all of your body be thrown into Gehenna. 30. And if your right hand stumbles you, cut it off and cast it from you for it is better for you that one of your members should perish and not all of your body be thrown into Gehenna. 31. It has been said that he that puts away his wife will give to her a writing of divorce.<sup>66</sup> 32. But I say to you that any who puts away his wife aside from a case of fornication makes her commit adultery, and he who takes a divorced woman<sup>67</sup> commits adultery. 33. Again you have heard that it has been said to those before that you should not lie in your oath. But complete your oath to Master YHWH.<sup>68</sup>

58 Deuteronomy 4:2; 13:1 (12:32 Jewish editions). Y'shua at no time "loosened" either Torah or the Prophets! The prophetic Word YHWH gave to His prophets cannot be loosed or annulled, and neither can the Torah of YHWH. These are two witnesses that stand as One. The Word of YHWH is both Torah (instruction in righteousness) and Prophecy declaring, foretelling and revealing the Will of YHWH to each generation. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #2: Destroying the Torah in Appendix.

59 The word "fulfill" is derived from the Aramaic D'MALA מלא, Hebrew MALEY, or the Greek PLEROMA; it means to fill full, accomplish, carry out or to bring to realization, to perform or do, as in a person's duty; or to obey or follow the Commandments, as in satisfying the Commandments by obeying them. The Hebrew cognate MALEY is found 240 places in Tanakh, for example; Gen 1:22 "fill (MALEY) the waters in the seas"; Gen 1:28 "replenish (MALEY) the earth"; Gen 29:27 "Fulfill (MALEY) her week"; Ex 28:2 "I have filled (MALEY) with the Spirit". Isaiah 42:21 reads, "YHWH is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will magnify Torah, and make it (him) honorable." Isaiah 42 reveals the finished work of Mashiyach. We have full prophetic assurance that Mashiyach would never annul Torah; rather he magnified Torah and wrote Torah upon the hearts and imaginations of his people (Jer 31:33). Y'shua carried out (fulfilled) all "ben Yoseph" (suffering servant) prophecies required by YHWH for HaMashiyach. Y'shua performed or fulfilled prophecies, just as he performed (fulfilled) Torah which was his duty and obligation as HaMashiyach; otherwise he would not have qualified as HaMashiyach. D'MALA is found 52 times in the New Testament. Matthew 1:22 states, "that it might be fulfilled what was said by Master YHWH through the prophet". Paul uses D'MALA in Romans 15:19 when he says he "fulfilled (D'MALA) the announcement of the Mashiyach." The last thing Y'shua said on the torture stake was: "הָא מְשָׁלָם", HA (behold) MESHALAM (it is finished), Yochanan 19:30; "meshalam" could well be translated as fulfilled, accomplished or perfected. The word for "fulfill" occurs in Matthew 1:22; 2:15, 17, 23; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:14, 35; 17:11; 21:4; 26:54, 56; 27:9. Mark 13:4; 14:49; 15:28. Luke 1:20, 23; 2:6, 22; 4:21; 9:31, 51; 12:50; 18:31; 21:22, 24; 22:16, 37; 24:44. Yochanan 12:38; 13:18; 15:25; 17:12; 18:9,32; 19:24, 28, 36. Acts 1:16; 2:1; 3:18; 13:27,29; 15:15, 24,27. Romans 8:4; 15:19. 2 Timothy 4:17. Ya'akov 2:23. Revelation 17:17. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #1: Fulfill in Appendix.

61 The word order is slightly different in Khabouris and 1905, however the transposition does not involve a loss of letters or a change in meaning. In such instances there will be no further comments.

62 Y'shua would certainly not mention "the Pharisees" in this context, except that they walked in a degree of righteousness. Most ancient and modern Pharisees (Orthodox) have disciplined and righteous lifestyles; therefore Y'shua is stating the difference. As the Ruach haKodesh writes Torah upon the hearts of his followers, they will surpass the righteousness of the Pharisees who elevate tradition rather than Torah. Those without Torah have no righteousness, and they are certainly not "borrowing" any from Mashiach's righteousness while they continue in sin, regardless of what their theologians have to say. Mashiach imparts his righteousness to those who follow him, and keep Torah. Through Y'shua, YHWH is raising up a Set Apart people who Keep His Commandments rather than making up their own religious traditions.

63 Please see footnotes: Sheol Matthew 11:23; Gehenna Matthew 23:15; Authority Luke 12:5; 2 Peter 2:4 (3 footnotes).

64 Khabouris reading qorbanakh al medebkha (offering upon the altar) is retained here; the 1905 reading qorbanakh qedem al medebkha (offering before [and] upon the altar) is also perfectly fine.

65 Exodus 20:13, 14; Deuteronomy 5:18

66 Deuteronomy 24:1

67 Khabouris has shabiq shabiqta here, while 1905 has shabiqta (divorced woman), the 1905 reading is technically correct here.

68 Leviticus 19:12; Numbers 30:2, 3; Deuteronomy 23:21, 22

34. But I say, you should not say I swear, not by heaven<sup>69</sup> because that is the throne of Elohim. 35. And not by the earth because it is the footstool that is beneath his feet,<sup>70</sup> and not by Urishlim because it is the city of the great king.<sup>71</sup> 36. And not by your head should you swear, because you are not able to make in it one part of the hair black or white. 37. But your word should be but yes, yes, no and no, anything more than these is from evil.<sup>72</sup> 38. You have heard that it has been said that an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.<sup>73</sup> 39. But I say to you that you should not stand against evil,<sup>74</sup> but who hits you upon your right cheek, turn also to him the other. 40. And he that desires to go to court with you and take your coat, leave to him also your cloak. 41. He that compels you to go one mile, go two with him. 42. He that asks you to give to him and he desires to borrow from you, you should not deny him. 43. You have heard that it has been said to love your neighbor and hate your enemy.<sup>75</sup> 44. But I say to you to love your enemies and bless those that curse you and do that which is pleasing to those who hate you. And pray for those that take you by force and persecute you. 45. So that you may be the sons of your Father who is in heaven. He that raises His sun upon the good and upon the evil and causes to descend His rain upon the just and the unjust. 46. For if you love those that love you, what reward have you? Do not even the publicans do this? 47. And if you greet in peace only your brothers, what more are you doing? Do not even the publicans do this? 48. You therefore be perfect<sup>76</sup> as your Father in heaven who is perfect.”

1. “And take heed in your almsgiving so that you should not do it before the sons of men so that you may be seen by them<sup>77</sup> for otherwise you will have no reward from your Father who is in heaven. 2. Therefore when you do almsgiving you should not sound a trumpet before you as do the hypocrites in the assemblies and in the marketplaces so that they be praised by the sons of men and truly I say to you that they have received their reward. 3. But whenever you do almsgiving, you should not reveal what your left hand does to your right hand. 4. So that your almsgiving might be in secret and your Father who sees in secret He will reward you in open. 5. And whenever you pray you should not be like the hypocrites that love to stand in the assemblies and on the corners of the marketplaces to pray that they be visible to the sons of men. And truly I say to you that they have received their reward.

69 Khabouris occasionally shows smudged or hard to read letters that were restored by a scribe. Although these are rare the restorations retain consistency to other Peshitta manuscripts. Here the yodh and alap (the two ending letters) of the word b'shmaya (in heaven) are missing from Khabouris but retained in 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts. Again, there is no specific need to catalogue these kinds of errata

72 Ecclesiastes 5:4, 5

73 When Y'shua says, “you have heard it said” he refers to oral tradition; when he says “it is written” he refers to Scripture. The matter of an eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth, according to Torah, refers to fair restitution; not literally taking out an eye or tooth. The amount to be restored must be commensurate to the loss; the loss of an eye must be rewarded the value of an eye. See Exodus 21:24; Leviticus 24:20; Deuteronomy 19:21. Torahless ultra-religious judges or pagan cultures opted for barbaric punishment as crime for crime, however this is not a Torah principle.

74 Do not react with evil towards evil, rather let patience and temperance prevail when accosted by evil doers. Torah instructs the strong to protect the weak, Deut 22:27. Ya'akov teaches to “stand firm” against Satan, James 4:7. Paul teaches to stand against the strategies of the Accuser in Ephesians 6:11; neither does he mince words in Acts 13:10. Isaiah 14:15 states that haSatan will be brought down to Sheol and a slaughter is prepared for his children (verse 21). Rev 20:10 promises a date for Satan in the lake of fire, in the meantime we are to recognize that our battles are not against flesh and blood, and to act accordingly. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #18: Turn thy Cheek in Appendix.

75 Y'shua says, “You have heard that it has been said,” implying “oral law.” Torah (Leviticus 19:18) does NOT teach that anyone should hate their enemy; it teaches “You shall not avenge nor bear any grudge, but you shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

76 Genesis 17:1; 1 Kings 8:61; Psalm 101:2-6, please also see footnote on Colossians 4:12.

77 Job 13:10; Proverbs 18:11 Y'shua teaches that giving must be done anonymously if one expects a reward from Heaven, opposite to what most religions teach, where it is popular to receive public recognition for parting with one's cash. Those who earn recognition from their peers for giving gifts have already received their reward (from their peers), and receive nothing from Heaven. This teaching does not make Y'shua popular among the rich religious leaders, as he has exposed their "trump card" that offers the rich some "spiritual" rewards for supporting their religion.

6. But when you pray enter your inner room and close your door and pray to your Father who is in secret<sup>78</sup> and your Father who sees in secret He will reward you in open.<sup>79</sup> 7. And when you pray, you should not be chattering like the pagans, for they hope that by many words they will be heard. 8. Therefore, do not imitate them<sup>80</sup> for your Father knows what need you have before you ask Him. 9. Therefore, you pray like this: Our Father in heaven. Hallowed be thy name. 10. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done. As in heaven so on earth.<sup>81</sup> 11. Give us the bread of our need this day. 12. And forgive us our offenses as we also have forgiven those who have offended us. 13. And not bring us into trial,<sup>82</sup> but deliver us from the evil one, for Yours is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. 14. For if you forgive men their transgressions, your Father who is in heaven will also forgive you. 15. But if you do not forgive men, your Father will also not forgive you your transgressions. 16. And when you fast, you should not be sad like the hypocrites for they disfigure their expression so that they may be seen by men that they are fasting. And truly I say to you that they have received their reward. 17. But whenever you fast, wash your face and anoint your head. 18. So that you will not be seen by men that you are fasting, but by your Father who is in secret, and your Father who sees in secret, He will reward you. 19. You should not place for yourself treasure on earth where the moth and rust corrupt and where the thieves break in and steal. 20. But you place treasure in heaven where neither the moth nor the rust corrupt and where the thieves do not break in and they do not steal. 21. For where your treasure is, that there is also where your heart is. 22. The eye is the lamp of the body. If your eye, therefore, should be pure, also all your body is full of light. 23. But if your eye should be evil,<sup>83</sup> all your body will be darkness. If therefore, the light that is in you is dark, how much your darkness will be! 24. No man is able to serve two masters, for either he will hate one and he will love the other, or he will honor one and he will treat the other with contempt. You are not able to serve Elohim and money. 25. Because of this I say to you, you should not be anxious about your life, what you will eat and what you will drink and not about your body, what you should wear. Is not life<sup>84</sup> more than food and the body than clothing? 26. Behold the birds in the sky that they do not sow and they do not reap and they do not gather into storehouses. And your Father who is in heaven nourishes them. Are not you more than they? 27. And who among you while anxious is able to add to his stature one cubit? 28. And about clothing, why are you anxious? Consider the lilies of the wilderness, how they grow without toil and without spinning. 29. But I say to you, not even Shleemon in all his glory was clothed like one of these. 30. And if to the grass of the field, that today is and tomorrow is thrown into the furnace, Elohim like this clothes, will he not much more clothe oh you of little faith?

79 The Aramaic word for “open” is b’gelya, which means “to reveal” or “revelation”. Y’shua resided in the Galilee which literally means the “land of revelation”, he is the revealed light to the nations (Yeshayahu/Isaiah 8:23-9:2).

80 Prayer is a dialogue with Heaven, not a monologue. Y’shua’s teaching stands as the demarcation between relationship with YHWH rather than a religion about Him. Prayer is meant to establish and maintain an intimate relationship, and accountability between each individual and YHWH.

81 Heavens always come before the earth in terms of the creation order, importance and having heaven’s laws rule on earth (Job 38:31-33).

82 YHWH does not lead His people into “temptation,” but He does test and prove them. Deut. 13:3; Job 1:7-12; James 1:13-14.

83 The “evil eye” is a Hebrew idiom that means to be stingy. Earlier, Y’shua taught that one should “not reveal what your left hand does to your right hand” and give charity without receiving recognition back; thereby nurturing one’s dependency upon YHWH for praise, rather than from men.

84 Or soul (PY). Another possibility is that “life” refers to eternal life after death. Aramaic uses the word paroqa for “Savior” in this very sense, of a Life-Giver of “living waters” as Y’shua describes elsewhere in Yochanan 4.

31. “Therefore, do not be anxious or say, What will we eat? Or what will we drink? Or what will we wear? 32. For all these things, the peoples of the world<sup>85</sup> require, and your Father who is in heaven also knows that you require all these things. 33. But first seek the Kingdom of Elohim and His righteousness and all these things will be added to you. 34. Therefore, be not anxious about tomorrow for tomorrow is anxious for itself. Sufficient for the day is its evil.”

Chapter 7

1. “You should not judge that you be not judged.<sup>86</sup> 2. For by the judgment that you judge, you will be judged. And by the measure that you measure, it will be measured to you.<sup>87</sup> 3. And why do you see the twig that is in the eye of your brother, and you not observe the beam that is in your eye? 4. Or how do you say to your brother, Allow me to remove the twig from your eye, and behold a beam is in your eye? 5. Hypocrite! First remove the beam from your eye, and then decide for yourself to remove the twig from the eye of your brother. 6. You should not hang earrings on dogs and you should not place your pearls before pigs that they should not trample them by their feet and they overtake and wound you.<sup>88</sup> 7. Ask, and it will be given to you. Seek, and you will find. Knock, and it will be opened to you. 8. For anyone that asks will receive, and that seeks, will find. And to him that knocks, it will be opened to him. 9. Or whom among you fathers<sup>89</sup> if his son asks of him for bread, why would you hold out to him a rock? 10. And if he asks a fish of him, why would you hold out to him a snake? 11. And if, therefore, you who are imperfect know to give good gifts to your sons, how so much more your Father who is in heaven will give good to those that ask Him. 12. All that which you desire that the sons of men should do for you, also like this you do to them. This is for Torah and the prophets. 13. Enter by the straight door, for wide is the door and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many are they, those that go in it. 14. How narrow the door and straight the road that leads to life, and few are they, those that find it. 15. Beware of false prophets<sup>90</sup> that come among you in the clothing of lambs, but from within are ravenous wolves. 16. But you will know them by their fruits. Why (what do you think)? Do men pick grapes from thorns or figs from thistles? 17. Like this every good tree bears pleasing fruit, but an evil tree bears evil fruit. 18. A good tree is not able to bear evil fruit, and an evil tree cannot bear good fruit. 19. Every tree that does not bear good fruit will be cut and thrown in the fire. 20. Therefore, by their fruits you will know them.<sup>91</sup> 21. It will not be that just anyone who says to me “My master, my master!” Will enter the Kingdom of Heaven, but whoever does the will of my Father who is in heaven. 22. Many will say to me in that day, “My master, my master! By your name, have we not prophesied? And by your name have we cast out demons? And by your name have we done many miracles?

85 Khabouris reading with d'alma is retained with “peoples of the world” rather than the 1905 “the peoples require.” The Eastern reading is much stronger given the context of what Y’shua is presenting; this message goes out from Israel into the nations. “Peoples” rather than “the people” does imply this to some degree, but the Eastern reading drives it home.

86 “You” should not judge by your own judgment, but by YHWH’s righteous judgment. Deuteronomy 1:17; Psalm 37:30, 31. Y’shua teaches that justice (judgment) is one of the more important matters of Torah, Matthew 23:23, but if you judge by your own standards then YHWH will use your own standards to judge you.

87 See Exodus 21:24; Leviticus 24:20; Deuteronomy 19:21

88 Tithlon (hang) was misunderstood as talon (to give); qudesha (earrings) was misunderstood as qudsha (holy). The picture of hanging earrings on dogs dovetails with giving pearls to pigs, and the symbolism of the two animal groups could not be clearer. The dogs represent apostate Jews, the pigs apostate Gentiles who are ignorant of YHWH. Either way, the lesson here is do not give what is precious to those who will not appreciate the value.

89 The word here is gowra. The context references sons, so the protector male in this case is a father.

90 See Priesthood and Religious Leaders in Appendix.

91 By using the “grapes from thorns or figs from thistles” analogy Y’shua ties his teaching to Judges 9:8-15 where the bramble (thorn) tries to pull rank over all the other trees (trees symbolize types of leaders). HaSatan’s religious leadership hierarchy is: 1) Abimelech (my father is king) a self or religiously qualified or appointed father/king leader; 2) Ahab (father’s brother) empty and reckless men, sons of Belial; 3) Jezebel (Baal/the lord exalts) false prophetess, false counsel, a mouth-piece of witchcraft, chief gossip; 4) Balaam (not of the people) self-appointed false prophet who prophecies and teaches for money; 5) Balak (devastator) a person of wealth and/or having secular or religious credentials, destabilizes, manipulates and controls, a "player". YHWH's leadership structure is comprised of: 1) Shoftim (judges), 2) Shoterim (officers), 3) Neviim (prophets), 4) Cohanim (priests) and 5) Melachim (kings) and Y'shua plainly tells us that, "he who is the greatest among you, let him be a servant" (Matt 23:11). Please see footnote on Mark 11:13.

23. And then I will profess to them that from everlasting,<sup>92</sup> I have not known you. Depart from me, you workers of iniquity!<sup>93</sup> 24. Anyone, therefore, who hears my words, these, and does them, will be likened to a wise man who built his house upon a stone. 25. And descended the rain, and came the rivers, and blew the winds, and they beat on the house and it did not fall, for its foundation was laid upon a stone. 26. And anyone who hears my words, these, and does them not, will be likened to a foolish man that built his house upon sand. 27. And descended the rain, and came the rivers, and blew the winds, and they beat on the house and it fell, and its fall was great.” 28. And it happened that when Y’shua finished these words, the crowds marveled at his teaching. 29. He would teach them as an authority,<sup>94</sup> and not as their scribes and the Pharisees.

Chapter 8

1. And when he descended from the mountain, large crowds followed him. 2. And behold a certain leper came and worshipped him and said, “If you my master desire, you are able to make me clean.” 3. And Y’shua stretched out his hand and touched him and said, “I desire, be clean.” And in that moment his leprosy was cleansed. 4. And Y’shua said to him, “Why look to telling a man, rather show yourself to the priests and offer the offering as Moshe commanded for their testimony.”<sup>95</sup> 5. And when Y’shua entered Capurnakhum, a certain centurion approached him and was beseeching him, 6. and he said, “My master, my boy is lying at home and is paralyzed and seriously in pain.” 7. Y’shua said to him, “I will come and heal him.” 8. The centurion answered and said, “My master, I am not worthy that you should enter under my roof, but only say the word, and my boy will be healed. 9. For I am also a man that is under authority, and there are under my hand soldiers, and I say to this one ‘go’ and he goes, and to the other ‘come’ and he comes, and to my servant to do this, and he does it.” 10. And when Y’shua heard this, he was amazed and said to those that had come with him; “I say truly to you that not even in Israel<sup>96</sup> have I found faith like this. 11. And I say to you that many will come from the East and from the West and will recline with Awraham, Yitz’chak, and Ya’akov in the Kingdom of Heaven, 12. but the children of the kingdom<sup>97</sup> will be cast into outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.”<sup>98</sup> 13. And Y’shua said to the centurion, “As you have believed, it will be to you.” And his boy was healed in that moment. 14. And Y’shua came to the house of Shimon and saw his mother-in-law who was lying down and a fever had seized her. 15. And he touched her hand and the fever left her, and she arose and was serving him. 16. And when it became evening, they brought him many possessed and he cast out their demons by a Word, and all of those that were badly afflicted he healed them. 17. So that might be fulfilled which was spoken through Yesha’yahu the prophet who said, “He will take our sorrows and our illnesses he will bear.”<sup>99</sup>

92 Khabouris’ word choice of d’memtuom is preferred here over 1905’s metom, although both present the idea of “always, forever, everlasting.” This usage and spelling is also retained in 9:33.

93 Psalm 6:8, 9 - “workers of iniquity” is a common phrase in the Tanakh. Iniquity is lawlessness (without Torah). “Horror has taken hold upon me because of the wicked that forsake Your Torah” (Psalm 119:53). Each and every teaching of Y’shua is based on Torah. To be anti-Torah is to be anti-Mashiyach; therefore every “authority” will be judged according to whether they uphold Torah or not. According to Y’shua, Torah is “the will of My Father” (Matthew 7:21;12:50). Torah means instruction in righteousness.

94 The Pharisees and scribes both appealed to the authority of oral traditions that were handed down from their teachers of the past, eventually these traditions became codified as the Talmud. However, Y’shua’s authority as the Son of Man was squarely on the Written Torah and YHWH’s Prophets. Y’shua emphatically encouraged the great rabbis of his day to study and apply Torah as a lifestyle (righteous conduct). Had the Pharisees studied Torah and the Prophets with and through Mashiyach, it would have brought them around to the same halachic, or legal positions Y’shua taught his disciples. Contrary to religious opinion Y’shua taught the Government of YHWH (righteous spirituality and conduct) rather than a new or different religion. Please see footnotes on Matthew 15:1-3 and Yochanan (John) 5:45-47.

96 Here and in 27:9 two different spellings of “Israel” are reflected in Aramaic. Khabouris uses the spelling yodh-samekh.

97 Very obviously two distinct "kingdoms" - the Kingdom of Elohim versus the kingdom of religious enterprise, thus exposing the false theology that all Jews or Christians "get saved." Children here refers to they who opt for man's religion, which rejects YHWH, Mashiach or Torah.

99 Isaiah 53:4

18. And when Y'shua saw the many crowds that were surrounding him, he commanded that they depart to the other side. 19. And a certain scribe approached him and said to him, "Rabbi, I will follow after you to wherever you will go. 20. Y'shua said to him, "The foxes they have holes and the birds of heaven nests, but the Son of man has nowhere he should lay his head." 21. And another from his disciples said to him, "My master, allow me to first go bury my father." 22. But Y'shua said to him, "Come follow me and leave the dead to bury their dead."<sup>100</sup> 23. And when Y'shua went up into a boat, his disciples went up with him. 24. And behold a great tempest was in the sea so that the ship was covered by the waves. Now, Y'shua was asleep, and his disciples approached him, woke him, and said to him, 25. "Deliver us our master. We are perishing! 26. Y'shua said to them, "Oh you of little faith! Why are you fearful?" Then he got up and rebuked the wind and the sea, and there was a great calm. 27. And the men were amazed and said, "Who is this that the winds and the sea obey him?"<sup>101</sup> 28. And when Y'shua came to the other side, to the place of Gadarenes, two very evil possessed ones met him who were coming out from the cemetery, so that no man was able to cross over by that way. 29. And they cried out and said, "What do we have to do with each other Y'shua, son of Elohim? Have you come here before the time to torment us?"<sup>102</sup> 30. And there was a distance from them a large herd of pigs that was feeding. 31. And these demons were beseeching and said to him, "If you cast us out, allow us to go to the herd of pigs."<sup>103</sup> 32. Y'shua said to them "Go," and at once they went out and entered into the pigs, and all that herd went straight over a cliff and fell into the sea, and they died in the sea. 33. And those who were herding fled and went to the city and revealed everything that happened, and about those possessed. 34. And out went all the village to meet with Y'shua, and when they saw him, they beseeched him to depart from their borders.

Chapter 9

1. And he went up into a ship and crossed over and came to his city. 2. And they brought him a paralytic that lay on a pallet. And Y'shua saw their faith and said to the paralytic, "Take heart, my son, your sins are forgiven." 3. But some of the scribes said to themselves, "This one blasphemes!"<sup>104</sup> 4. But Y'shua knew their thoughts and said to them, "Why do you think evil in your heart? 5. For what is easier to say, that you are forgiven, or to say arise, walk? 6. But that you know that the Son of man has authority to forgive sins on earth," he said to that paralytic, "Arise, take your pallet and go to your house." 7. And he arose and went to his house. 8. And when they saw the crowds, they were frightened and they gave glory to Elohim who gives authority such as this to the sons of men. 9. And when Y'shua crossed over from there he saw a man who sat at the customs-house whose name was Mattai, and he said to him "Come follow me." And he arose and went following him. 10. And when they reclined in the house, there came tax collectors and sinners, and many reclined with Y'shua and with his disciples.

100 George Lamsa suggested this could mean, "let the town bury their dead." In Jewish culture immediate family members observe a seven day bereavement called "shivah" (seven), right after the burial. This extends into a less intense duration called shloshim (thirty) where the mourner begins to return back into society. Additionally, there is a 12 month period (that includes shloshim) in which to return to one's regular routine. The 12 month period comes from an ancient Jewish custom where at the end of 12 months the bones are "gathered together" and placed into a stone vault along with those of ancestors (1 Kings 13:31). Y'shua says, "leave the dead to bury their dead" because the importance of attendance is now diminished. This does not refer to burial or sitting shivah. Mashiyach is not asking his disciple to dishonor his father or mother by not allowing him to attend the burial. "Honor your father and mother..." (Exodus 20:12).

102 Leviticus 20:6

103 Pigs (swine) are unclean for food (Isaiah 65:4; 66:3, 17) and demons are unclean spirits. Together this indicates judgment against both physical and spiritual uncleanness. The pigs "committed suicide" when the demons entered into them; the lowest level of reprobation is when a person is seduced by demons into committing suicide. The herd of pigs represents collective uncleanness (i.e., birds of a feather flock together). A clean vessel (soul) refuses to be compromised by demons but welcomes clean (righteous) spirits and collectively enjoys abundant life with other clean vessels.

11. And when the Pharisees saw this, they said to the disciples “Why your master dines with sinners and tax-collectors?” 12. But when Y’shua heard, he said to them, “The healthy are not in need of a doctor, rather those that are badly afflicted. 13. Go learn what this means: I require mercy, and not sacrifice,<sup>105</sup> for I came not to call on the righteous, rather on the sinners.”<sup>106</sup> 14. Then the disciples of Yochanan approached him and said, “Why do we and the Pharisees fast much, and your disciples, they do not fast?” 15. Y’shua said to them, “Why? The sons of the wedding-feast are not constrained to fast as long as the bridegroom is with them, but the days are coming when the bridegroom will be taken from them, and then they will fast. 16. No man places a new patch on a worn out garment or else its seam should tear away from that garment, and the hole will be greater. 17. And they do not place new wine in worn-out wineskins or else the wineskins should rip and the wineskins are destroyed and the wine should pour out. Rather, they place new wine in new wineskins, and both of them are preserved.”<sup>107</sup> 18. And when he was saying these things, a certain ruler came to them, approached, worshipped, and said to him, “My daughter is dead. Only come place your hand on her, and she will live. 19. And Y’shua and his disciples arose and went and followed him. 20. And behold, a woman whose blood was flowing twelve years came from behind him and touched the edge of his clothes.<sup>108</sup> 21. For she was saying to herself “If even I touch only his garment, I will be healed.” 22. And Y’shua turned around and saw her and said to her, “Be comforted my daughter, your faith has made you alive.” And the woman was healed from that moment. 23. And Y’shua came to the house of the ruler and saw the wailers and the crowds who were in an uproar, 24. And said to them “Go away for the girl is not dead, but is asleep.” And they were laughing at him. 25 And when he dismissed the crowd, he went in, took her by the hand and the girl arose. 26. This news went out in all the land. 27. And when Y’shua departed from there, two blind men followed him crying and saying, “Have mercy on us son of Dawid.” 28. And when he came to the house, those blind men approached him. Y’shua said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?” They said to him, “Yes, our master.” 29. Then he touched their eyes and said, “As you believed let it be to you.” 30. And at once their eyes were opened and Y’shua admonished them, “See that no<sup>109</sup> man should know!” 31. But they went out and spread his fame in all that country. 32. And when Y’shua went out, they brought a mute to him that had a demon in him. 33. And after the demon went out, that mute spoke and the crowds were amazed and they said, “Such has never been seen in Israel before.” 34. But the Pharisees were saying, “He cast out demons by the chief of demons.” 35. And Y’shua was going around in all the cities and in the villages and would teach in their assemblies and would preach the hope of the Kingdom, and would heal all their diseases and all their afflictions.

<sup>108</sup> Edge of clothes are the “borders” or kanaf of “garments” (beged), which is where “fringes” tzit tzit are placed. Numbers 15:38, 39. Y’shua, like all other Torah observant Jews, wears tzit tzit as a reminder to do the Commandments of YHWH, and not seek after what is right in one’s own eyes. The Hebrew kanaf is also found in Malachi 4:2 “...with healing in his kanaf (wings)...” See also Zechariah 8:23.

109 Khabouris has lama (why) whereas 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts have la (no). The Khabouris reading is rather odd as it does not appear as Y'shua is asking a question but giving a directive, "See that no (la) man should know." The closest rendering would be "See that? Why should a man know (this)?" therefore 1905 is retained.

36. And when Y'shua saw the crowds, he had compassion on them that were weary and were scattered like sheep that have not a shepherd. 37. And he said to his disciples "The harvest is great and the workers few. 38. Ask, therefore, the master of the harvest that he should send workers in his harvest."

Chapter 10

1. And he called on his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, that they may cast them out, and to heal every affliction and disease. 2. Now of the twelve Shlichim,<sup>110</sup> their names are these. The first is Shimon, who is called Keefa, and Andraus his brother, and Ya'akov the son of Zawdee, and Yochanan his brother, 3. and Peleepos and (Nathaniel) Bar-Tulmay,<sup>111</sup> and Tooma and Mattai the tax collector and Yaqub Bar Khalpai and Lewi who is called Taddi. 4. And Shimon the Canaanite, and Yehuda Skaryota, he that betrayed him. 5. Y'shua sent these twelve and commanded them and said, "Do not go by the way of the heathen, and do not enter the cities of the Samaritans."<sup>112</sup> 6. But you go, rather, to the sheep that are lost from the house of Israel.<sup>113</sup> 7. And when you go, preach and say that the Kingdom of Heaven is near. 8. Heal the sick. Cleanse the lepers. Cast out demons. Freely you have received, freely give. 9. Do not accumulate gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses, 10. Nor a wallet for the road, nor two coats, nor shoes, nor staff. A worker is worthy of his food.<sup>114</sup> 11. And into whatever city or village that you enter, you ask who is worthy in it, and there stay until you depart. 12. And when you enter into a house, ask its peace for that house. 13. And if the house is worthy, your peace will come upon it, but if it is not worthy, your peace will return upon you. 14. And whoever does not receive you, and does not hear your words, when you depart from the house, or from that village, shake off the dust from your feet. 15. And truly I say to you that to the land of Sodom and of Ammorah, it will be more tranquil in the Day of Judgment than for that city. 16. Behold, I send you as lambs among wolves. Therefore, be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. 17. And beware of the sons of men. For they will deliver you to the house of judgment and in their assemblies they will scourge you. 18. And they will take you before kings and governors for my sake, for a testimony of them and of the Gentiles. 19. And whenever they deliver you up, do not be concerned how or what you will say. For in that hour, it will be given to you what you should say. 20. For it will not be you speaking, rather the spirit of your Father speaking through you. 21. And brother will deliver his brother to death, and a father his son. And children will rise up against their parents and kill them. 22. And you will be hated by all men because of my name, but whoever that endures until the end, he will live.

110 Shlichim, "sent ones" Adam was sent forth from Gan Eden, the disciples were sent forth to bring souls into the Kingdom. A modernized view of an Apostle is one who establishes congregations, but a Shaliach is one who is called to go out and preach the Truth.

111 "Bartholemew" is the last name or family name of Nathanael, whose first name is recorded in John. His Aramaic name is Bar Tulmay, the son of Tulmay, therefore his full name is Nathanael Bar Tulmay.

112 As in Matthew 2:23, this is another singular/plural confusion. Medintha (city) is a word that looks the same both in singular and plural form. We know it is incorrect that Greek reads "do not go into the city of the Samaritans" as there was more than one Samaritan city. Most translations add the word "any" in an attempt to correct this error.

113 Matthew 10:6 (and 15:24) links to Psalms 119:176 and Jeremiah 50:6 via the hermeneutic rule Gezerah Shavah (Equivalence of Expressions). The Hebrew "sey" (sheep) and "abad" (lost) are common terms, abad (lost) means perished or destroyed, rather than "geographically" lost (see footnote Rev 9:11 on Abaddon). Since YHWH's people have been led astray by false shepherds through disobedience to His Covenant, their relationship with Him has been destroyed in much the same way that Adam and Eve lost their chance at immortality by following the deception of the serpent. It is also important to point out that, along those same lines, there weren't any "Hebrews" before Abraham nor "Israelites/Jews" before the patriarch Jacob had his children. As a result, the first 20 generations of the human race were simply people called to righteous behavior by YHWH with no ethnic identity attached to them at all. It is from that standard only—that of righteousness or wickedness—that causes people to be lost (destroyed) or found (established). For more information on "lost sheep" see the footnote on Matthew 15:24 and Titus 3:9. Also, compare Jeremiah 50:6 with Isaiah 42:1-6; 49:6; 60:3; Jeremiah 16:19; 31:31-37; Hosea 8:8; Micah 5:8. There is little doubt that the "light" of Mashiach was to be presented to the "Goyim" (nations or Gentiles)

by way of the Jewish nation. Mashiyach Y'shua did not go to the "Gentiles", therefore it is imperative for non-Jewish people to comprehend the roots and origin of Mashiyach and the Renewed Covenant according to Torah and the original Hebrew and Aramaic languages. Counterfeit theologies can easily displace the truth if a person does not access the words of Y'shua in their original context. See Assemblies in Appendix.

114 Note that Paul in 1 Timothy 5:18, quotes this as "scripture". Luke 10:7 adds, "not move around from house to house".

23. But when they persecute you in this city, you flee to another. For truly I say to you that you will not complete all the cities of the house of Israel until the Son of man will come. 24. There is no disciple that is greater than his master, nor a servant his master. 25. It is sufficient for a disciple to be like his master, and a servant like his master. If the master of the house they call Beelzebub, how much more the sons of his house. 26. Therefore, do not have fear of them, for there is not anything that is covered that will not be revealed, and that is hidden that will not be known. 27. What I say to you in darkness, you say it in the light, and what you hear with your ears, you preach upon the rooftops. 28. And do not have fear of those who kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul. Rather, have fear<sup>115</sup> more so of Him who is able to destroy the soul and the body in Gehenna. 29. Are not two sparrows sold for a penny, and not one of them falls to earth without your Father. 30. But of you, even all the hairs of your head are numbered. 31. Therefore, do not be afraid; you are more important than many sparrows. 32. Whoever, therefore, that confesses me before the sons of men, he also I (will confess) before my Father who is in heaven. 33. But whoever denies me before the sons of men, he will I also deny before my Father who is in heaven. 34. Do not think that I have come to bring calm on earth. I have not come to bring calm, rather a sword. 35. For I have come to divide a man from his father, and a girl from her mother. And a daughter-in-law from her mother-in-law. 36. And the adversaries of a man will be his household.<sup>116</sup> 37. Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me.<sup>117</sup> And whoever loves son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. 38. And anyone that does not take up his staff<sup>118</sup> and come and follow me is not worthy of me. 39. Whoever finds his soul will lose it, and whoever loses his soul for my sake will find it. 40. Whoever accepts you, accepts me, and whoever that accepts me, whom I send accepts him. 41. Whoever accepts a prophet in the name of a prophet a reward of a prophet will he receive. And whoever accepts a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, a reward of a righteous man will receive. 42. And anyone who gives only a cup of cold water to drink to one of these little ones, in the name of a disciple, truly I say to you that he will not lose his reward.”

Chapter 11

1. And it was when that Y’shua finished commanding his twelve disciples, he departed from there to teach and to preach in their cities. 2. And when Yochanan heard in the house of prisoners the works of the Mashiyach, he sent word through his disciples. 3. And said to him, “Are you he who will come, or are we to expect another?”<sup>119</sup> 4. Y’shua answered and said to them, “Go relate to Yochanan that you have heard and have seen. 5. The blind are seeing, and the lame are walking, and the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf are hearing,<sup>120</sup> and the dead are rising,<sup>121</sup> and the poor are given hope.<sup>122</sup> 6. And blessed is he that is not offended in me.”

115 The Fear of YHWH is one of the Seven Spirits of YHWH, Isaiah 11:2, 3. Y’shua juxtaposes the fear of man (religion) with the Fear of Elohim (truth). When the “fear” of YHWH became theologically changed into “reverence”, the authority of men in ministry “Reverends” began to command fear unto themselves that is intended solely unto the Most High. The Fear of YHWH empowers Y’shua’s followers to uphold the Word of YHWH, regardless of consequences, see Romans 3:18; 2 Corinthians 5:11; 7:1; Ephesians 5:21; Revelation 15:4.

117 Compare the phraseology in verse 37 to Luke 14:26 “he who comes to me and does not hate his father or mother is not worthy of me”. Matthew’s version is literal while Luke’s version is idiomatic. To enter into the Kingdom of Heaven we must love Mashiyach Y’shua more than anything or anyone else. This does NOT mean that we fail to love and honor our parents. Rather, it means that however much love is lavished upon one’s parents; more should be given to Y’shua. Our love for the Kingdom of Heaven brings eternal life to both ourselves and potentially to our family members. By comparison, earthly love “looks” like hatred. YHWH is the Author of love, as we devote our love to Him, and give Him our time to worship Him and study Him and His Word, only then are we better able to love ourselves and those around us. See footnote on Luke 14:26 for more information.

118 Take up your staff and follow means to exercise your personal authority. A staff is a symbol of authority that is used for mobility and protection (see B’midbar/Numbers 17:1-10 or 17:16-25 in Jewish versions). Christian versions insert “cross”

119 Should we expect another? This is a question about the prevailing expectations of two Messiahs. Mashiyach ben Yosef is to suffer and die for Israel's sins. Mashiyach ben David is to rule the world at the End of Days. It is clear that Yochanan recognizes Y'shua as Ben-Yosef with the phrase, "Behold the lamb of Elohim that takes away the sin of the world". But apparently he is not sure if Y'shua is also Mashiyach ben David. Y'shua's answer about the miracles proves he will fulfill that role as well.

7. And when they left, Y'shua started to speak to the crowds concerning Yochanan, "What did you go out to the wilderness to see? A reed that was shaken by the wind? 8. And if not, what did you go out to see? A man that was wearing soft robes? Behold, those that are wearing soft things are among kings. 9. And if not, what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes! I say to you, and more than a prophet. 10. For this is about whom it is written that 'Behold I send my Messenger before your face that he might establish the way before you.'<sup>123</sup> 11. Truly I say to you that not before has anyone born of a woman been greater than Yochanan the Immerser, but even the least in the Kingdom of Heaven is greater than he. 12. From the days of Yochanan the Immerser until now, the Kingdom has suffered violence, and the violent are robbing it.<sup>124</sup> 13. For all the prophets and Torah<sup>125</sup> have prophesied until<sup>126</sup> Yochanan. 14. And if you desire, accept that this is Eliyahu who was to come. 15. He who has ears, let him hear. 16. But what should I liken this generation? It is like children who sit in the street and beseech to their friends 17. and say, 'We sang to you, and you did not dance. And we mourned to you, and you did not lament.' 18. For Yochanan came not eating or drinking, and they said that there was a demon in him. 19. The Son of man came eating and drinking and they said behold a gluttonous man, and he drinks and is a friend of tax collectors and of sinners, but wisdom is justified by its works." 20. Then Y'shua started to revile the cities, those that had many of his miracles in them, and they did not repent. 21. And he would say, "Woe to you Khorzain. Woe to you Beth Saida. For if the miracles, those that had been in you, had been in Tsur and in Sidan, perhaps they would have repented in sackcloth and in ashes. 22. But I say to you that on Tsur and on Sidan, it will be more tranquil in the day of judgment than for you. 23. And you Capurnakhum which has been raised to heaven will be brought down to Sheol."<sup>127</sup> For if the miracles had been in Sadom that had been in you, she would be standing until this day. 24. But I say to you, that for the land of Sadom, it will be more tranquil in the day of judgment than for you." 25. At that moment, Y'shua answered and said, "I give thanks to You my Father, Master of heaven and of earth, that You have hidden these things from the wise and the intelligent, and You have revealed them to the children. 26. Yes my Father for such was the desire in front of You. 27. Every thing has been delivered to me from my Father, and no man knows the son except the Father. Also, no man knows the Father except the son and to whom the son desires to reveal him. 28. Come to me all who labor and bear burdens, and I will give you rest. 29. Bear my yoke<sup>128</sup> upon you and learn from me. That I am tranquil and I am meek, and in my heart you will find tranquility in your souls.<sup>129</sup> 30. For my yoke is pleasant and my burden<sup>130</sup> is light."

<sup>125</sup> This is one of three places in the NT where the word aurayta is used for "Torah." This word has two unique aspects. Unlike the nearly ubiquitous namusa, aurayta can only refer to Torah, as opposed to also meaning "custom, rules or traditions." Also, aurayta is derived from the root aur meaning "light" preserving a very special meaning carried over from Hebrew. <sup>126</sup> Neither Torah nor the Prophets have ceased prophesying, therefore "until" here simply refers until this time, not to the end of the prophetic time clock. Shem Tob reads אֵל "concerning" rather than עַד, "until", as the Aramaic text does here. The fulfillment of Y'shua's first coming as Mashiych ben Yoseph has far fewer verses allotted than Y'shua's second coming as Mashiych ben David.

<sup>127</sup> Sheol in Aramaic NT tracks precisely with the Hebrew sheol in Tanakh in the context of meaning and application (Isaiah 14:13-15, the grave, pit). Greek inserts hades here and 11 other places. In Greek mythology Hades was a god of the dark dismal underworld, the god of death. As Greek translators presented spiritual elements from Hebrew and Aramaic into Greek culture they often used mythological pagan ideas and terms about their gods to represent YHWH and His Mashiych. In Greek mythology the Titan gods were driven from heaven and locked in the pit of Tartaros which was the deepest and worst pit of hades. The concept of burning hell made its way into the Greek New Testament with Greek words like hades and tartaroo (see footnote 2 Peter 2:4). Greek translators used terms that Greek readers would understand, hell and physical torment is Greek mythology, perhaps Greek translators did a fair job if the reader already has a good command of Hebrew, Aramaic and Jewish spirituality, otherwise the Greek reader would project familiar mythological concepts over YHWH, Y'shua and the Kingdom of Heaven. English translations of Greek are even more unreliable than Greek, if we track the same Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek terms from Genesis to Revelation we find English translations voraciously superimposing pagan Greek mythology of physical torment and torture. Hebrew has several words to express the grave, burial or pit, sheol is a common term but also qeburah, qeber, petach, biy, and sachath are similar. Unlike Greek, Roman, Christo Pagan and Muslim culture YHWH opposes torture; criminals are stoned then hung on a tree after death (Deut 21:22). Torah restricts a maximum of 40 lashes (Deut 25:2) for punishments that Romans and Muslims would cut off hands. YHWH's Perfect Torah of Liberty elevates human life by providing effective punishment and restoration for the sinner. The Fear of YHWH is a far different concept than what was offered by mythology, Titans, or Roman emperors. The idea of torturing people in burning hell is from Greek mythology, it is a misrepresentation of Scripture and Jewish culture. Please see footnote Matthew 23:15. 128 A "yoke" that also brings "suffering" for righteousness sake. Mashiyach did not come as a "sugar daddy" to heap all manner of materialism upon his followers. This "yoke" of Mashiyach pertains to righteous judgment, mercy and faith in YHWH, that nurtures peace on earth and good will.

1. At that time Y'shua was walking on the Shabbat in the fields, and his disciples became hungry and began to pick grain and to eat. 2. But when the Pharisees saw them, they said to him, "Behold, your disciples are doing something that is not lawful to do on the Shabbat."<sup>131</sup> 3. But he said to them, "Have you not read what Dawid did when he hungered,<sup>132</sup> and those who were with him? 4. How he entered the House of Elohim and he ate the bread of the altar of Master YHWH, which was not Lawful for him to eat, neither for those who were with him, but only for the priests?"<sup>133</sup> 5. Or have you not read in Torah that the priests in the temple disregard the Shabbat, and they are without blame? 6. But I say to you that one greater<sup>134</sup> than the temple is here now. 7. But if only you would have known what was meant by, "I desire mercy and not sacrifice."<sup>135</sup> You would have not condemned those that are without blame. 8. For the Master of the Shabbat<sup>136</sup> is the Son of man." 9. And Y'shua departed from there and came to their assembly.<sup>137</sup> 10. And a certain man was there that had his hand withered. And they were asking him whether it is Lawful to heal him on the Shabbat,<sup>138</sup> so they might accuse him. 11. And he said to them, "Who among you men that if he has a certain sheep that falls into a pit on the day of the Shabbat would not grab and raise it out? 12. Now, how much more important is a man than a sheep? So then is it Lawful to do that which is good on the Shabbat?"<sup>139</sup> 13. Then he said to that man, "Stretch out your hand." And he stretched out his hand and it was restored like the other. 14. And the Pharisees went out and they took counsel about him so that they might destroy him.<sup>140</sup> 15. But Y'shua knew, and he withdrew from there and large crowds came after him, and he healed all of them. 16 And he charged them that they should not reveal him. 17. That might be fulfilled the thing which was spoken of through Yesha'yahu the prophet who said. 18. "Behold, my servant with whom I am pleased, my beloved one in whom my soul rejoices, I will place My Ruach upon him, and he will preach judgment to the people. 19. He will not argue nor cry out and no man will hear his voice in the street.<sup>141</sup> 20. He will not break the broken reed, and he will not extinguish the flickering lamp until he brings judgment to truth. 21. And the people will hope in his name."<sup>142</sup> 22. They then brought him a certain possessed man who was mute and blind, and he healed him so that the mute and blind man could speak and could see. 23. And all the crowds marveled and were saying that, "Is this not the son of Dawid?" 24. But when the Pharisees heard, said, "This man does not cast out demons, but<sup>143</sup> by Beelzebub, the head of demons. 25. But Y'shua knew their thoughts and said to them, "Any kingdom that is divided against itself will be destroyed, and any house and city that is divided against itself will not stand.

131 The religious "Shabbat" of the Pharisees is in contrast to the Shabbat of YHWH and His Mashiyach. Under these circumstances Torah does not prohibit picking and eating grain on Shabbat. YHWH's Shabbat is an eternal truth for everyone, not a commandment for Jews only; see Exodus 20:10; Leviticus 25:6; Deuteronomy 5:14; Isaiah 56:6. Sadly, the "Jewish Shabbat" had become a rigid set of Pharisaical tradition rather than a universal day of rest and intimacy with YHWH and His Mashiyach.

132 Y'shua did not pluck grain himself, but neither does he prohibit his disciples. Knowing well that accusation would follow, he supports the freedom of his disciples against their accusers and reveals the intent of Torah, elevating but never diminishing either Torah or the Shabbat of YHWH.

133 1 Samuel 21:6

134 YHWH is greater than the Temple. The Ruach haKodesh in Y'shua brings discernment and wisdom, but the Pharisees view Y'shua as making himself the higher authority, rather than recognizing the Spirit of YHWH that speaks through Mashiyach; Matthew 23:15-22.

135 Hosea 6:6

136 Exodus 20:8; 31:16, 17. See Shabbat in Appendix.

137 Beit Knesset

138 Khabouris has an extra B proclitic attached to shabbat, which is corrected in other manuscripts.

139 YHWH made Shabbat for man, not man for the Shabbat. Healing on Shabbat, although contrary to man's traditions or "works of the law" is most certainly not contrary to the Spirit and intent of Torah.

140 The religious "Jewish Shabbat" is broken by an influential Jewish "do-gooder"; Y'shua cast doubt on the traditions of the Pharisees, so they now plan to kill him. Christianity and Judaism both install their own "infallible" traditions upon their followers. Both religions have resorted to killing opponents who expose or refuse to comply with their authority. Religious tradition obscures Torah and obfuscates that which was meant to be accessible to all. The Pharisees are losing their stake hold; their "cash cow" is being jeopardized as Y'shua exposes the tyranny and injustice of their false religious tradition.

141 Khabouris adds a B to shoqa (street) which could suggest shubkha (glory), a very interesting choice given this is referencing Isaiah's (42:2) suffering servant: "...no man will hear his voice in the street." The plain reading makes sense but also consider this as "no man will hear his voice in glory," referring largely to the religious elite. This kind of targumic cleverness by Matthew, to turn on a word to make a deeper point, is something he does in key places especially with respect to Isaiah 7:14. As tantalizing as the Khabouris reading is, there is no need to overturn 1905 as this would also require replacing the qoph with khet. Even so, this could well be a deliberate scribal error in Khabouris that was meant to lead the reader into a deeper insight.

143 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between "but" and "by Beelzebub."

26. And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then does his kingdom stand? 27. And if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, with what do your sons cast them out? Because of this they will be judges to you. 28. And if by the Spirit of Elohim I cast out demons, the Kingdom of Elohim has come near to you. 29. Or how is a man able to enter into the house of a strong man and to plunder his possessions, except first he bind the strong man and then plunder his house? 30. Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever did not gather with me, scatters.<sup>144</sup> 31. Because of this I say to you that all sins and blasphemies will be forgiven to the sons of men, but blasphemy that is against the Spirit will not be forgiven to the sons of men. 32. And anyone who says a word against the Son of man, he will be forgiven, But anyone who will speak against the Ruach haKodesh,<sup>145</sup> he will not be forgiven – not in this world or in the world that is to come. 33. Either make the tree pleasant and its fruit pleasant, or make the tree bad and its fruit bad, for a tree is known for its fruit. 34. Generation of vipers! How are you able to speak good things, you who are evil? For the mouth speaks from the fullness of the heart. 35. A good man brings forth good from his good treasures, and the evil man brings evil from his evil treasure. 36. I say to you for every vain word that the sons of men speak,<sup>146</sup> they will give an account of it in the day of judgment. 37. For by your words you will be made righteous, and by your words you will be condemned.”<sup>147</sup> 38. Then, men of the scribes and the Pharisees answered and said to him, “Teacher, we desire to see a sign from you. 39. And he answered and said to them, “An evil and adulterous generation seeks a sign, and a sign will not be given to it except the sign of Yonah the prophet. 40. For as Yonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights,<sup>148</sup> likewise will the Son of man be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights. 41. The Ninevite men will arise in judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented by the preaching of Yonah,<sup>149</sup> and behold that one greater than Yonah is present.<sup>150</sup> 42. The queen of the south will arise in judgment with this generation, and she will condemn it because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Shleemon,<sup>151</sup> and behold, one who is more than Shleemon is here. 43. Now when an unclean spirit goes out from a man, it wanders in places that have no water in them, and seeks rest, but does not find it. 44. Then it says, ‘I will return to my house from where I came out.’ And it finds that it is empty and swept, and orderly. 45. Then it will go and lead seven other spirits with it who are worse than it, and they will enter and dwell in it, and the end of the man will be worse than his beginning. This evil generation will be like this.” 46. And while he was speaking to the crowds, his mother and his brothers came and were standing outside, and they wanted to speak with him. 47. Then a man said to him, “Behold, your mother and your brothers are standing outside and desire to speak with you.”

144 YHWH is the One True Universal Authority Who chose to be represented by His Mashiach. But mankind wars against Y’shua and one another to establish his own authority. Dividing and scattering, fallen man inadvertently follows the pattern of haSatan, the adversary.

145 If a person committed one of the capital offenses that are mentioned in Torah, but confessed and pleaded for forgiveness, their death could provide atonement. But those who blaspheme against the Spirit of YHWH have nothing to make atonement for themselves, nor can they make an appeal in the name of Y’shua; see also Acts 5:1-11; Hebrews 10:28-30. Blasphemy against the Ruach HaKodesh also entails decrying the work of Father YHWH, as the work of haSatan. YHWH is doing what He promised to bring about the Messianic Age, even though religious people may disagree with how He fulfills His Word. This is the dangerous flip side of being far too quick to apply the standard of a false prophet (Deut 13:1-6) to the work YHWH has accomplished through His Mashiach.

146 Deuteronomy 32:21; “They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not Elohim.”

147 The targum teaches that the “nephesh chayah” (living soul) in Genesis 2:7 is best understood as the “spirit of speech.” YHWH put a portion of His Spirit in mankind, enabling man to speak and create with words. Our words are being judged accordingly. “Death and life are in the power of the tongue...” (Proverbs 18:21).

148 Jonah 1:17 See When was the Resurrection? in Appendix.

149 Jonah 3:5

150 Y’shua points out cases where Gentile nations received proper instruction (Solomon to Sheba, Jonah to the people of Nineveh), and fared better than the nation of Israel who had Torah all along. However, there is another meaning of the phrase “now one greater than Jonah is here.” Jonah means dove, so Y’shua is implying “a greater dove than Jonah is here,” referencing the dove that appeared at his immersion (Matthew 3:16, Mark 1:10, Luke 3:22, John 1:32). The dove pictures the presence of YHWH upon Y'shua and therefore dwelling in him, separate from his humanity (Isaiah 11:1-2). The parallel accounts in Matthew and Luke clearly establish the Ruach haKodesh and the Spirit of YHWH as One and the same, interchangeable terms; not anything separated or discreet.

151 1 Kings 10:9; 2 Chronicles 9:8

48. But he answered and said to him that had spoken to him, “Who is my mother? And who are they who are my brothers?” 49. And he stretched forth his hand towards his disciples and said, “Behold my mother and my brothers. 50. For<sup>152</sup> anyone who does the will of my Father<sup>153</sup> who is in heaven, is my brother, and my sister, and my mother.”

1. Now on that day Y’shua went out from the house and sat by the side of the sea. 2. And large crowds gathered<sup>154</sup> around him, so that he went up to sit himself on a boat, and all the crowd was standing on the shore of the sea. 3. And he was speaking much to them in parables, and said, “Behold, a sower went out to sow, 4. and while he was sowing, there was some that fell upon the side of the road, and a bird came and ate it. 5. And some others fell where stony ground was, and there was not much soil there. And at once, it sprouted because there was no depth to the ground. 6. When the sun came up and it became hot, and because it had not rooted, it withered. 7. And some others fell into a thorny place and grew up thistles and choked it. 8. And others fell on good ground and bore fruit: some a hundred, and some sixty, and some thirty. 9. He who has ears to hear, let him hear.” 10. And his disciples approached and said to him, “Why do you speak<sup>155</sup> in parables to them? 11. And he answered and said to them, “To you it is given to know the mystery<sup>156</sup> of the Kingdom of Heaven, but it is not given to them. 12. For to him who has, it will be given to him and it will increase to him, and to him who has not, even that which he has will be taken from him. 13. Because of this, I will speak in parables with them because they see, and they see not, and they hear and they do not hear, nor do they understand. 14. And is fulfilled in them the prophecy of Yesha’yahu which said that, ‘Hearing, and you will not understand what you will hear, and seeing you will see not know what you see.’ 15. For hardened is the heart of this people, and with their ears they were hard of hearing, and their eyes are blinded that they should not see with their eyes and hear with their ears and should understand in their heart and return and I heal them.<sup>157</sup> 16. But blessed are you. You have eyes that see and ears that hear. 17. For truly I say to you, that many prophets and righteous men have longed to see the things that you see, and they did not see, and to hear, and they did not hear. 18. But you hear the parable of the seed. 19. Everyone who hears the word of the Kingdom and does not understand it comes the evil one and snatches the word, which was sown in his heart. This is that which upon the side of the road was sown. 20. And that which was sown upon stony ground is he that hears the word and accepts it at once in joy.

152 Khabouris adds din (while) here, but the meaning of the sentence is the same.

153 Fifty one (51) times Y’shua speaks of His “Father” YHWH, leaving no doubt as to Who is in charge, and that What is required is Torah (instructions in Righteousness) of YHWH to be upheld and observed by all who follow him.

154 Both traditional Jewish and Christian folklore teaches that very few Jews accepted Y’shua as Mashiyach, which is an absolute falsehood. Both Scriptural and historical records indicate that multitudes of Jews favored Y’shua’s message and what he offered, over the traditional religions of the day. A survey of Jews in America in the 1990’s showed that 1 in 6 Jews believed “Jesus” to either be the Mashiyach or a good Jew who embarrassed “the establishment.”

155 Khabouris has an isolated beyr here, between the words “in parables” and “speak”.

156 Mystery of the Kingdom of Heaven is the spiritual nature of Mashiyach revealed throughout the Tanakh and NT; it relates to the spiritual man more than a consciousness of knowing about Heaven or salvation. In Proverbs it is revealed; “For the obstinate are an abomination to YHWH: but His secret (sod) is with the righteous” (Proverbs 3:32), the secret is the power of spiritual life within the Kingdom of Heaven. “Have you heard the mystery (sod) of Elohim?” (Job 15:8) The mystery of Elohim denotes the nature of Mashiyach and righteousness within the inner man. “Surely Elohim YHWH will do nothing, but that He reveals His secret (sod) to His servants the prophets” (Amos 3:7); YHWH reveals future events from the spiritual to natural worlds with those who pursue righteousness. The mystery unfolds when one realizes that; “I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create calamity: I YHWH do all these things” (Isaiah 45:7). The word “sod” is also repeatedly used by Paul through its Aramaic synonym and cognate araza (e.g. 1 Corinthians 15:51). It is the highest level of interpretation of Scripture (PaRDeS). The word “pardes” literally means “paradise” or “orchard”; the latter harking back to the primordial Garden of Eden. But it also is an acrostic, meaning this word is derived from the first letters of each word in a phrase. In this case PRDS comes from “pshat” (plain meanings of Scripture), “remez” (hints of deeper meanings in words of a scriptural passage), "drash" (comparisons of places in Scripture where the word/concept is used) and, of course, "sod". The idea is that if you can find and enter (apply) all the levels of meaning in Scripture you can attain Paradise. The believer understands that cerebral knowledge is nothing without applied faith as manifested through obedience and good works. By entering into Mashiach and observing Torah the new spiritual man differentiates the things of the Kingdom of Heaven from the religious masks that obscure the hidden spirituality of Mashiach. Most importantly however is the absolute command that these steps be taken one at a time and in their proper order. If we "skip" a step or downplay intermediate steps in our studies, the end result will be confusion and error. This is why the Rabbis limited the study of the mystical traditions to those 40 years old and older, and even then, they were required to have special rabbinic training from a very young age to qualify. Such also explains this warning from the Jewish historian Philo (ca. 20 BCE to 50 CE) who wrote: "The sacred and mystic statements about the one uncreated Being, and about his powers, ought to be kept secret; since it does not belong to everyone to keep the deposit of divine mysteries properly." (Sacrifices of Abel and Cain, 1:60-C.D. Yonge translation). Please see footnotes Romans 12:2; 16:24, 1 Corinthians 2:14, Colossians 2:2; 4:12.

21. But he has no root in him but is temporal. And when trouble or persecution comes, he is quickly offended because of the word. 22. And that which was sown into a thorny place is he that hears the word and the cares of this world and the deception of riches<sup>158</sup> choke the word, and it becomes without fruit. 23. But that which was sown upon good earth is he that hears my word and understands and produces and bears fruit, some a hundred, and some sixty, and some thirty.” 24. He spoke another parable in figure to them and said, “The Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a man who sowed good seed in his field. 25. And when the people were asleep, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and left. 26. And when the blades sprang up and bore the fruit, then the tares also appeared. 27. And the servants approached the House of Master YHWH and said to him, ‘Behold, you did sow good seed in your field. From where are the tares in it?’ 28. And he said to them, a man who is an enemy did this. His servants said to him, ‘Do you desire for us to go pluck them out?’ 29. But he said to them,<sup>159</sup> ‘No, or else while you are plucking out the tares, you also uproot the wheat with them. 30. Let both grow together until the harvest, and at that time of the harvest I will say to the reapers to pluck out first the tares and bind them in bundles to be burned, but the wheat gather them into my store houses.’” 31. He spoke another parable in figure to them and said, “The Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a grain of mustard seed that a man took and sowed in his field. 32. And it is smaller than all the small seeds, but when it grows, it is greater than all the small herbs, and becomes a tree so that the birds of heaven come and nest in its branches.” 33. He said another parable to them. “The Kingdom of Heaven is likened to leaven<sup>160</sup> which a woman took and buried in three measures of flour until it was all leavened.” 34. All these things Y’shua spoke in parables to the crowd, and he would not speak to them without a parable. 35. So might be fulfilled the thing which was spoken through the prophet who said, “I will open my mouth with parables and will bring out secrets that were from before the foundation of the world.”<sup>161</sup> 36. Then Y’shua left the crowds and came to the house and his disciples drew near to him and said to him, Explain to us the parable of the tares and of the field.<sup>162</sup> 37. Then he answered and said to them, “He who sows the good seed is the Son of man. 38. And the field is the world, and the seed are the good sons. And the tares of the Kingdom are the sons of the evil one. 39. And the enemy who sowed them is Satan, and the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers are the Messengers. 40. Therefore, as the tares are plucked and burned in the fire, likewise it will be in the end of this world. 41. The Son of man will send his Messengers out, and they will pluck from His Kingdom all stumbling blocks and all workers of iniquity. 42. And they will cast them into the furnace of fire, and there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. 43. Then, the righteous will shine<sup>163</sup> like the sun in the Kingdom of their Father. He who has ears to hear, let him hear.

<sup>159</sup> Khabouris has “he said to them” while 1905 has “but (din) he said to them.” There is no difference in the meaning or context of the sentence; both are extremely common Aramaic expressions. 1905 reading is retained.

<sup>160</sup> This example is both straightforward and odd at the same time. Straightforward because Y’shua’s point is that it only takes a little bit of yeast to leaven a huge amount of flour - another way of expressing the Mustard Seed Phenomenon (i.e., that big good things can come from very small origins). But here is the odd part: This is the only place where “leaven” is used positively by Y’shua. In other words, every other place the yeast metaphor is employed it’s as a warning (yeast/leaven of the Pharisees, etc.) that small errors can pervert great institutions or structures. Only here, however, are we told it works the other way as well, with good things becoming that much greater and more powerful if just given a little “good yeast.” Analogies, of course, between food and the kingdom of YHWH are extremely common and well documented throughout this diplot.

<sup>162</sup> Transposition of words between Khabouris and 1905 has no effect on meaning.

44. “Again, the Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a treasure that is hidden in a field. That, which a man finds and hides, and from his joy, goes and sells everything that he owns and buys that field. 45. Again, the Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a man who is a merchant who was seeking good pearls. 46. And when he found a certain precious looking pearl, and he went and sold everything that he owned and bought it. 47. Again, the Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a net that was cast into the sea, and every kind of fish it gathered. 48. And when it was full, they pulled it out to the shore of the sea, and they sat down and sorted them. And the good they placed into bags, and the bad they threw away. 49. Thus it will be in the end of the world. The Messengers will go out and separate the wicked from among the righteous. 50. And they will cast them into the furnace of fire, and there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.” 51. Y’shua said to them, “Do you understand all these things?” They said to him, “Yes, our Master.” 52. He said to them, “Because of this, every scribe who is instructed for the Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a man who is the master of a house who brings out from his treasures the new and the old.” 53. And it was when that Y’shua finished these parables, he departed from there. 54. And he came to his own city, and would teach them in their assemblies such that they would marvel and say, “From where to this man did this wisdom and these miracles come? 55. Is this not the son of the carpenter, his mother is called Maryam, and his brothers Ya’akov and Yoseh and Shimon and Yehuda?” 56. “And his sisters,<sup>164</sup> behold, are they not all with us? From where, thus, did all these things come to this man?” 57. And they were offended by him, and Y’shua said, “There is no prophet who is mocked, except in his own city and his own home.”<sup>165</sup> 58. And he did not do many miracles there because of their unbelief.

Chapter 14

1. Now in that time, Herodus the Tetrarch heard the news of Y’shua. 2. And he said to his servants, “This is Yochanan the Immerser. He has risen from the grave. Because of this, miracles are wrought by him. 3. For Herodus had seized Yochanan and bound him and cast him into prison because of Herodia the wife of Pileepos, his brother. 4. For Yochanan would say to him that “It is not Lawful that she be a wife to you.” 5. And he was desiring to kill him, but was afraid of the people who were recognizing him as a prophet. 6. But when the birthday of Herodus occurred, the daughter of Herodia danced before the guests and she pleased Herodus. 7. Because of this, by an oath he swore to her that he would give to her anything that she requested. 8. And because she was taught by her mother, she said, “Give to me the head of Yochanan the Immerser on a plate.” 9. And it saddened the king because of the oath and the guests. He commanded that it be given to her. 10. And he sent and cut off the head of Yochanan in prison. 11. And he brought his head on a plate, and it was given to the girl, and she gave it to her mother. 12. And his disciples approached and came and took his corpse and buried it, and made it known to Y’shua. 13. And when Y’shua heard, he departed from there alone in a ship to a desert place. And when the crowds heard, they followed.

14. And Y'shua went out and saw the large crowds and had compassion on them, and he healed their diseases. 15. And when it became evening, his disciples approached him and said to him, "This is a desert place and the time is passed. Dismiss the crowds that they may go to the villages and buy food for themselves." 16. But he said to them, "It is not necessary for them to go. You give them food to eat!" 17. But they said to him, "We have nothing here but five loaves of bread and two fish." 18. Y'shua said to them, "Bring them here to me." 19. And he commanded the crowds to recline upon the ground, and he took those five loaves of bread and two fish and gazed into heaven and blessed them and broke them and gave them to his disciples. And those disciples placed before the crowds. 20. And all of them ate and were satisfied. And they took up the remnant of the fragments — twelve baskets full! 21. And those men who ate were five thousand,<sup>166</sup> aside from the women and children. 22. And immediately he urged his disciples to get into the boat and to go before him to the opposite side, while he dismissed the crowds. 23. And when he dismissed the crowds, he went up to the mountain alone to pray. And he was alone there when it became dark. 24. And the boat was a great distance away from the land, being tossed greatly by the waves, for the wind was against it. 25. And in the fourth watch of the night, Y'shua came to them walking on the water. 26. And his disciples saw him, that he was walking on the water, and were frightened and saying that it was a false vision. And from their fear, they cried out. 27. But at once Y'shua spoke with them and said, "Have courage! It is I! Do not be afraid!" 28. And Keefa answered and said to him, "My Master! If it is you, command me to come to you on the water!" 29. And Y'shua said to him, "Come." And down went Keefa from the boat and walked on the water to come to Y'shua. 30. And when he saw the wind was strong, he feared, and began to sink, and he raised his voice and said, "My Master! Save me!" 31. And immediately our master stretched out his hand and grasped him and said to him, "Oh you little of faith. Why did you doubt me?" 32. And when they went up into the boat, the winds quieted down. 33. And they who were in the boat came and worshipped him and said, "Truly you are the Son of Elohim. 34. And they sailed and came to the land of Genesar. 35. And the men of the place recognized him and they sent word to all the surrounding villages. All those who were very ill drew near to him 36. And they were pleading to him if only they might touch the edge of his clothing. And those who touched were healed.

Chapter 15

1. Then the scribes and the Pharisees who were from Urishlim drew near to Y'shua and said, 2. "Why do your disciples transgress against the traditions of the elders and do not wash their hands when they eat bread?" 3. Then Y'shua answered and said to them, "Why also do you transgress against the Commandments of Elohim because of your traditions?"<sup>167</sup> 4. For Elohim said, 'Honor your father and mother,'<sup>168</sup> and anyone who reviles his father and his mother let him be put to death.'"<sup>169</sup>

<sup>166</sup> This event occurs just before Pesach (Yochanan 6:4), therefore Y'shua multiplied "old" bread made from grain that was grown, harvested and dedicated according to the previous wave sheaf offering. The Israelites were not permitted to eat of the new grain prior to it being dedicated at the wave sheaf offering. Perhaps the bread that was multiplied could be thought of as "created" and therefore new, however, Y'shua would not break Torah commands here and give new grain prior to the start of the omer count.

<sup>167</sup> A key passage showing how the written Torah was pitted against the oral traditions of the Pharisees. Y'shua shows great concern that the Pharisees are nullifying the Word of YHWH by their tradition. Therefore he would certainly NOT instruct his followers to do likewise! See Tradition in Appendix.

5. "But you say anyone who says to a father or to a mother, 'My offering is whatever you have gained by me,' then he does not need to honor his father or mother. 6. And you nullify the Word of Elohim because of your tradition."<sup>170</sup> 7. Hypocrites! Well did Yeshua' yahu prophesy concerning you and said, 8. 'This people honor me with their lips, but their heart is very far from me.' 9. And they revere me in vain, while they teach the doctrines of the commandments of the sons of men."<sup>171</sup> 10. And he cried out to the crowds and said to them, "Listen and understand. 11. It is not what enters the mouth that defiles a man, but that what proceeds from the mouth defiles a man."<sup>172</sup> 12. Then his disciples approached and said to him, "Do you know that the Pharisees who heard this word were offended? 13. Then he answered and said to them, "Every plant that my Father who is in heaven did not plant, will be uprooted. 14. Let them be blind! They are the blind leaders of the blind. If led into a pit, they both will fall!" 15. And answered Shimon Keefa and said to him. "My Master, explain to us this parable. 16. And he said to them, "Until now, even you do not understand. 17. You do not know that whatever enters the mouth it goes to the stomach, and from there by an excrement is cast out. 18. But whatever that proceeds from the mouth proceeds from the heart and becomes a defilement to a man. 19. For from the heart go out evil thoughts: Murder, fornication, theft, false witness, blasphemy. 20. These are what defile a man. But if while a man eats, his hands are not washed, he is not defiled." 21. And Y'shua went out from there and came to the border of Tsur and of Tsidon. 22. And behold, a Canaanite woman from those borders while crying and saying, "Have mercy on me my Master, the Son of Dawid. My daughter is seriously vexed by a demon. 23. But he did not answer her a word. And his disciples drew near beseeching him and saying, "Send her away because she cries after us." 24. But he answered and said to them, "Have I not been sent except to the sheep, which went astray<sup>173</sup> from the house of Israel?"<sup>174</sup> 25. And she came and worshipped him and said to him, "My Master, help me! 26. He<sup>175</sup> said to her, "It is not good to take the bread of the children and to cast it to the dogs." 27. And she said, "Yes, my Master, but even the dogs eat from the crumbs which fall from the tables of their masters and live. 28. Then Y'shua said to her, "Oh woman! Great is your faith. Let it be to you as you desire." And her daughter was healed from that moment. 29. And Y'shua departed from there and came to the shore of the sea of Galeela. And he went up to a mountain and sat there. 30. And great crowds drew near to him that had among them; the lame and the blind, and mute, and the maimed, and many others. And they laid them at the feet of Y'shua, and he healed them. 31. So amazed were the crowds who saw the mute speak, and the maimed made whole, and the lame walking, and the blind seeing. And they praised the Elohim of Israel.

<sup>172</sup> "What proceeds from the mouth defiles a man." This is most certainly not about kosher food, since the Pharisees who are hearing this teaching keep kosher. In this case as well as the parallel discussion in Mark 7, kosher food entering the mouth is "purified" through the digestive process. But neither here nor in Mark 7 does Y'shua ever cancel the kosher laws of Leviticus 11 and elsewhere.

<sup>173</sup> This verse and Matt 10:6 are used by identity theologians to teach that Christians are the "Lost Tribes of Israel." As most already know, Jewish, Israelite, Ephraimite, Two House, or Christian identity can be a much different thing than Kadosh (Set Apart) spirituality, righteous conduct, and our hearts and spirits abiding deep within the Kingdom of Heaven. Y'shua states that, "children of the kingdom (of Israel) will be cast into outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth" (Matt 8:12); obviously this refers to natural DNA identity, the Israel of the flesh. Isaiah 11:10 says that, "the root of Jesse will stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Goyee (Gentiles) seek." In Isaiah 60:3-5 "the Goyee (nations or Gentiles) shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising... the abundance of the sea shall be converted unto you, the forces of the Goyee (Gentiles) shall come unto you." There are nearly a 100 verses from Genesis to Revelation that speak of Mashiach bringing salvation to the Goyee (nations or Gentiles). Followers of Mashiach must be ever mindful to avoid the traps of "salvation by doctrine," theology, or the religious or cultural identity traps that take the focus off our spiritual rebirth and the Kingdom of Heaven. Scripture also tells us that it is foolish to be involved in "fables and stories about genealogies of which there is no end, which produce contention rather than edification in the Faith of Elohim" (1 Tim 1:4). Please also see footnote Titus 3:9.

174 The Covenant Promises YHWH made through Awraham are for the benefit of all nations Genesis 17:7. So it is that Mashiyach is the "seed" who came to his own people to fulfill the Promise. See also Matthew 10:5, 6.

175 Khabouris adds "Y'shua" here (and in 17:17) making it doubly clear who the speaker is. Khabouris reading is retained.

32. But Y'shua called to his disciples and said to them, "I have compassion for this crowd. Behold that three days they have remained with me and they do not have that which they might eat. And I do not desire to send them away while they are fasting, or else on the way they faint." 33. And his disciples said to him, "Where in this desert is there enough bread for us that we might satisfy all this crowd?" 34. Y'shua said to them, "How many loaves of bread do you have?" They said to him, "Seven, and a few small fish." 35. And he commanded the crowds to recline upon the ground. 36. And he took those seven loaves of bread and the fish and gave thanks and broke them and gave them to his disciples. And the disciples gave them to the crowds.<sup>176</sup> 37. And all of them ate and were satisfied, and they took up seven full baskets of the remnants of the fragments. 38. And those who ate numbered four thousand men,<sup>177</sup> aside from the women and children. 39. And when he dismissed the crowds, he went up into a boat and came to the border of Magdo.

Chapter 16

1. And the Pharisees and the Sadducees drew near, tempting him and asking him a sign from heaven to show them. 2. But he answered and said to them, "When it becomes evening, you say, 'It is clear, for the sky is red.' 3. And in the morning you say, 'Today it is winter for the sky is a gloomy red.' Hypocrites! You know how to observe the appearance of the sky. The signs of this time you do not know how to discern. 4. An evil and adulterous generation requests a sign. And a sign will not be given to it except the sign of Yonan the prophet." And he left them and departed. 5. And when his disciples came to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread with them. 6. But he said to them, "Watch and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees." 7. And they were reasoning among themselves, and saying, "It is because they had not taken the bread. 8. But Y'shua knew, and said to them, "What are you thinking among yourselves, oh you of little faith, that it is because you did not bring the bread? 9. Still, you do not understand nor do you recall those five loaves of bread for the five thousand. And how many baskets you took up! 10. Nor those seven loaves of bread for the four thousand. And how many baskets you took up! 11. How is it that you do not understand that it was not about bread that I spoke to you, but that you should be aware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees." 12. Then they understood that he did not say to be aware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and the Sadducees. 13. And when Y'shua came to the region of Caesarea of Philippi, he was asking his disciples and said, "Concerning me, who do men say that I am, merely a son of a man?" 14. And they said, "Some say Yochanan the Immerser, but others Eliyahu. And others Yirmeyahu, or one of the prophets. 15. He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?" 16. Shimon Keefa said, "You are the Mashiyach, the Son of the Living Elohim." 17. Y'shua answered him and said, "Blessed are you Shimon, the son of Yona, because flesh and blood have not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven.

<sup>177</sup> This miracle of the feeding of the 4,000 most likely occurred just after Shavuot (Pentecost), while crowds of Israelites were returning home from Jerusalem (Matt 15:32 says the crowds were with him for three days). We know that the previous feeding of the 5,000 occurred just before Pesach. The next time element after this event is when Peter comments on building Succahs (Booths) for Moshe and Eliyahu which is commensurate to the Feast of Tabernacles. Shavuot (Feast of Weeks or Pentecost) occurs between Pesach and Succoth, therefore the seven loaves were made from the new wheat harvest that had just been dedicated at the Temple in Jerusalem. The extensive healings Y'shua did throughout Matthew 15 and 16 also point to the work of the Ruach haKodesh on Shavuot (Pentecost) with the seven loaves (alluding to the seven weeks of Shavuot) turning into seven full baskets.

18. I say also to you that you are Keefa, and on this Keefa<sup>178</sup> I will build my assembly, and the gates of Sheol will not subdue it. 19. To you I will give the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven, and any thing you bind<sup>179</sup> on earth will be bound in heaven, and all things<sup>180</sup> that you loose on earth, will be loosed in heaven.” 20. Then he commanded his disciples that they should not say to men that he was the Mashiyach. 21. And from that time onwards, Y’shua began to make known to his disciples that he must go to Urishlim and suffer much from the elders and from the chief priests, and scribes. And he would be killed, and on the third day would rise up. 22. But Keefa took him and began to rebuke him and said, “Far be it from you, my Master that this should happen to you.” 23. But he turned and said to Keefa, “Get behind me Satan! You are a stumbling block to me because you do not think of Elohim, rather of the sons of men.” 24. Then Y’shua said to his disciples, “He who wishes to follow after me, let him deny himself and take up his staff and follow after me. 25. He who desires to save his life, will lose it. And he who loses his life for my sake, will find it. 26. For what does it profit a man if he gains all the world, and loses his soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? 27. For it is necessary for the Son of man to come in the glory of his Father. And then with his Set Apart Messengers he will reward each man according to his work. 28. Truly I say to you, that there are men who are standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of man come in his Kingdom.”

Chapter 17

1. And after six days, Y’shua led Keefa and Ya’akov and Yochanan his brother and took them up high alone. 2. And Y’shua was transformed before them and his face was bright like the sun, and his clothes became white like light. 3. And Moshe and Eliyahu appeared to them speaking with him. 4. And Keefa responded and said to Y’shua, “My Master. It is good for us that we are here. And if you desire, let us make you here three tabernacles (sukkot), one for you, and one for Moshe and one for Eliyahu. 5. And while he was speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them. And a voice came from the cloud saying, “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am pleased. Listen to him.” 6. And when the disciples heard, they fell upon their faces and were very afraid. 7. And Y’shua approached them and touched them and said, “Arise, do not be afraid.” 8. And they lifted up their eyes and they did not see anyone except Y’shua alone. 9. And while they were descending from the mountain, Y’shua commanded them and said to them, “Do not speak about this vision in the presence of anyone until the Son of man arises from the dead.”<sup>181</sup> 10. And his disciples asked him and said, “Why then do the scribes say that Eliyahu must come first?” 11. Y’shua answered and said, “Eliyahu will come first, so that all things might be fulfilled.

178 This is a wordplay between Keefa the man and what his nickname means. Y’shua uses Keefa’s name to reveal the significance of Keefa’s conclusion. Neither flesh nor blood (an individual) can reveal the “nature” of Mashiyach, except YHWH Himself by the Ruach haKodesh! Using the literal meaning of Keefa’s name (rock), Y’shua brings together the understanding of the Tsur (Rock) of D’varim/Deut 32:18, 30, 31; Psalm 18:46; Psalm 61 and 62; Isaiah 8:14; 17:10; 51:1-8. When Shimon Keefa says, “You are the Mashiyach, the Son of the Living Elohim” he confesses faith in Mashiyach, not the person only, but the Spirit of Mashiyach in Y’shua. Y’shua’s reply provides Keefa the same reference that David and the Prophets had regarding YHWH’s Salvation, the Rock. However, this verse was twisted by Catholicism to first give Peter “authority,” then usurp Peter’s “authority” for its leader. Ya’akov was the first Rosh Beit Din of the Netzari, not Peter. Paganism makes the physical persons of Y’shua, Maryam, Peter, and others into deity-like icons, very contrary to Torah and Mashiyach. See also 1 Corinthians 10:4.

179 Binding and loosing refers to the application of Torah (halakha), what is prohibited/obligated (bound) and what is allowed (loosed) within a Torah infrastructure. Acts 15:28, 29 is an example of binding and loosing; the matter of circumcision was being applied commensurate to immediate need, as directed by the Ruach haKodesh. Instead of performing the act of circumcision before learning Torah, new converts are required to learn and apply Torah first, and then, when they have a good understanding, they are circumcised, but not the other way around. The keys of the Kingdom are wisdom and discernment given by the Ruach haKodesh to apply the Word of YHWH.

180 Khabouris has "all"; 1905 "all things (medem)." 1905 reading is retained.

181 Psalms 16:10-11; Job 33:30. Also see Appendix for Mashiych Ben Yoseph and Mashiych Ben David.

12. But I say to you that behold Eliyahu has come, and they did not know him. And they did to him all that they desired. Likewise also the Son of man must suffer from them.” 13. Then the disciples understood that he spoke to them about Yochanan the Immerser. 14. And when they came, the crowds approached towards him. And a man bowed down on his knees. 15. And he said to him, “My Master, have mercy upon me. My son, who has a demon, is badly afflicted. For many times he has fallen in the fire, and many times in the water. 16. And I brought him to your disciples, and they were not able to heal him.” 17. Y’shua answered and said, “Oh crooked and faithless generation! Until when must I be with you and until when must I endure you? Bring him here to me.” 18. And Y’shua rebuked it, and the demon went out from him. And the boy was healed from that moment. 19. Then the disciples drew near to Y’shua while he was alone and said to him, “Why were we not able to heal him?” 20. Y’shua said to them, “Because of your unbelief. For truly I say to you that if you had faith in you like a grain of mustard seed, you could say to this mountain, move away from here, and it would move. And not a thing would be able to prevail over you. 21. But this kind does not go out except by fasting and by prayer.”<sup>182</sup> 22. And while they were traveling in Galeela, Y’shua said to them, “The Son of man will be betrayed into the hands of the sons of men. 23. And they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise.” And they were very saddened. 24. And when they came to Capurnakhum, those who were collecting two coins for each person for (the payment of) the head tax said to Keefa, “Your master did not give his two coins.” 25. He said “Yes” to them, and when Keefa entered into the house, Y’shua anticipated him and said to him, “What do you think, Shimon? The kings of the earth, from whom do they collect tribute and head tax? From their children or from strangers?” 26. Shimon said to him, “From strangers.” Y’shua said to him, “Then the children are free. 27. But or else this should offend them, go to the sea and cast a hook. And the first fish that comes up, open its mouth and you will find a coin. Take that and give it for me and for you.”

Chapter 18

1. At that moment, the disciples drew near to Y’shua and said, “Who indeed is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven? 2. And Y’shua called a child and made him stand in their midst. 3. And said, “Truly I say to you, that unless you change<sup>183</sup> and become like children, you will not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. 4. He therefore who humbles himself like this child, he will be great in the Kingdom of Heaven. 5. And he who receives one like this child in my name receives me.

182 Ancient Greek and all Peshitta manuscripts have this verse intact. How did it get skipped over in later versions? Was it simply overlooked, or was it intentional? You decide. Prayer and fasting are a Hebrew method of dealing with sin; even Y’shua prayed and fasted! In Hebraic thought, “grace” (rakhem, chesed) is when you did something wrong but are not penalized for it; however, “license” means that wrong conduct became right. Since YHWH isn’t in the habit of changing His own rules (Numbers 23:19, Malachi 3:6, Hebrews 13:8); theologies that espouse a license against sin are wicked. The heart of Torah and Brit Chadashah is mercy, but mercy never invalidates Torah. If Torah were invalid, there would be no need to ask for mercy. Truth demands that we also understand the correct interpretation of Rav Shaul’s overall intentions (Acts 17, Romans 3:31, 7:12, etc.), combined with the clear statement in Ya’akov Ha Tzadik’s (James) Epistle, where both faith and works are very necessary. For example, if a law dates back to 1920 against breaking a posted speed limit, does this mean you have no obligation to keep that law now? If an officer writes you a ticket, will your appeal be that it’s an “old law” but now you are under “grace”? The age of the law has nothing to do with whether it is valid and enforceable today, and ignorance of the law is no excuse. If this is true of earthly law enforcement, how much more must it be true of the Almighty YHWH, the ultimate giver and enforcer of His righteous Torah! To echo Y’shua’s own words, “I have explained to you about earthly things and you don’t believe. How then shall I explain heavenly things?” (John 3:12) Fasting and prayer is our stewardship responsibility unto YHWH and His Mashiach to help us put things straight with Mashiach, but the carnal flesh seeks a license or loophole to continue in his sin. See Prayer in Appendix.

183 The burden of change is upon mankind to nurture the spiritual man according to the Image of Elohim, but false religion puts the burden of change on Heaven, demanding that Heaven conform to man's religion. The carnal man seeks "flaws" in Torah and Mashiach to justify his own transgression. See Conversion in Appendix.

6. And anyone who harms one of these little ones who believe in me, it would be better for him that the millstone of a donkey would be hung on his neck and he be sunk into the depths of the sea. 7. Woe to the world because of offenses. It is necessary for offenses that should come, but woe to the man by whose hand the offenses come. 8. And if your hand or your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off and cast it away from you. For it is better to enter into life lame, or while you are maimed, than while you have two hands or two feet to fall into the fire that is everlasting. 9. And if your eye<sup>184</sup> causes you to stumble, pluck it out and cast it away from you, for it is better for you that with one eye you enter into life than while you have two eyes to fall into the Gehenna of fire. 10. See to it that you do not despise one of these little ones. I say to you, for their Messengers in heaven<sup>185</sup> at all times see the face of my Father who is in heaven. 11. For the Son of man has come to save that which was lost. 12. What do you think if a man had one hundred sheep, and one of them went astray. Does he not leave the ninety and nine, go on the mountain, and seek that which strayed? 13. And if he finds it, truly I say to you that he rejoices at it more than the ninety and nine that did not stray. 14. Likewise, your Father who is in heaven does not wish that any of these little ones should perish. 15. And if your brother with you is at fault, go rebuke him, between you and him alone. If he listens to you, you have won your brother. 16. And if he does not listen to you, take with you one or two others, because of the mouth of two or three witnesses, every word is established.<sup>186</sup> 17. And if he will also not listen to them, tell the congregation. And if he will also not listen to the congregation, let him be to you like a tax collector and like a heathen. 18. And truly I say to you, that any thing that you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed<sup>187</sup> in heaven. 19. Again I say to you that if two of you should agree on earth concerning every desire they might ask, they will have it from the presence of my Father who is in heaven. 20. Whenever two or three are assembled in my name,<sup>188</sup> there I am also among them.” 21. Then, Keefa drew near to him and said, “My Master, how many times should I forgive my brother with me who is at fault. Should I forgive him up to seven times?” 22. Y’shua said to him, “I do not say to you up to seven times, rather, up to seventy times seventy-seven.”<sup>189</sup> 23. Because of this the Kingdom of Heaven is likened<sup>190</sup> to a king who desired to take an accounting from his servants. 24. And when he began to take an accounting, they brought him one who owed ten thousand talents. 25. And when he had no way to repay, his master commanded that he be sold, he and his wife, and his children and everything that he owns and he repay. 26. And that servant fell down and worshipped him and said, ‘My master, be patient with me and every thing I will repay to you.’ 27. And the master of that servant had compassion and released him and forgave him his debt. 28. Now that servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him one hundred denarii, and he seized him and was choking him and said to him, ‘Give to me that which you owe to me.’ 29. And that fellow servant fell down upon his feet beseeching him and said to him, ‘Be patient with me and I will repay you.’

184 The “evil eye” is a Hebrew idiom denoting someone who is stingy with their material possessions or having an eye that looks covetously upon the things of others. To enter into Life, each one must turn their eyes from carnal and material things and put them upon YHWH (Matthew 5:29; 6:22, 23; 7:3-5; 20:15). The Aramaic suggests that we should, “remove sinful visions from our eyes as if that eye was unable to see”. There is also a literal component to this verse which says that it is much better to enter into heaven with one eye than to go to Gehenna with two.

185 Khabouris omits “in heaven” in connection to Messengers. Other Eastern Peshitta manuscripts and 1905 add “in heaven” to make it clear that these are not human beings acting as messengers. 1905 reading is retained.

187 To bind means to forbid; loose means to permit.

188 A Torah principle for establishing a Beit Din from B’midbar/Numbers 35:30. D’varim/Deuteronomy 17:6; 19:15 requires that two or more parties petition YHWH to obtain His Judgment rather than following man’s judgment. This is a legal requirement which ensures that the Will of YHWH is being sought and followed to bring perfect unity. See also 1 Cor 14:27, 29; 2 Cor 13:1; 1 Tim 5:19; Hebrews 10:28; and Beit Din in Appendix.

189 Aramaic literally reads as “seventy times seven seven”. Paul Younan has taken this to mean “seventy times seventy seven” whereas the Greek has “seventy times seven”, as do the renderings of Lamsa and Murdock. Etheridge seems closer to Younan with “until seventy times seven and seven”. Assuming the repeating of shabei shabei is not a scribal error, both readings are represented with “seventy times seven” in parentheses. For more information on the prophetic significance of “seventy times seven” please consult Wheel of Stars in Appendix.

190 Khabouris has an isolated beyr here, between “this” and “is likened”.

30. And he did not want to but went and cast him into prison until he paid him what he owed him. 31. And when their fellow servants saw the thing that had happened, it saddened them very much, and they made known to their master all that happened. 32. Then his master called him and said to him, 'Evil servant! I forgave you all of that debt because you beseeched me. 33. Was it not right for you to have mercy on your fellow servant as I had mercy on you.'<sup>191</sup> 34. And his master was angry and delivered him to the scourgers until he repaid every thing that he owed him. 35. Likewise, my Father who is in heaven will do to you unless you do forgive each man his brother his offenses from your heart."

Chapter 19

1. And it happened that when Y'shua finished these words, he departed from Galeela, and he came to the border of Yehuda on the other side of the Yordanan. 2. And great crowds followed him, and he healed them. 3. And the Pharisees drew near to him there, and were tempting him and saying, "Is it Lawful for a man to put away his wife for any cause?" 4. But he answered and said to them, "Have you not read, that He who created from the beginning, He created them male and female?"<sup>192</sup> 5. And he said, Because of this, a man will leave his father and his mother and will be joined to his wife, and they will be both of them one flesh.<sup>193</sup> 6. Henceforth, they will not be two, rather one flesh. Therefore, what Elohim has united, man should not separate." 7. They said to him, "Why then did Moshe command to give a letter of divorce and to put her away?"<sup>194</sup> 8. And he said to them, "Because of the hardness of your heart, you were allowed to put away your wives. But it was not thus from the beginning. 9. But I say to you that he who leaves his wife without a charge of adultery,<sup>195</sup> and takes another, commits adultery. And he that takes a divorced woman commits adultery." 10. His disciples said to him, "If such is the difficulty between husband and wife, it is not worthwhile to take a wife. 11. "But he said to them, Not every man can apply this word to himself, but only he to whom it is given. 12. For there are eunuchs who were born thus in the womb of their mother. And there are eunuchs who became eunuchs by men. And there are eunuchs who made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the Kingdom of Heaven. Let him comprehend who is able to comprehend." 13. Then children drew near to him that he may lay his hands on them and pray. And they were rebuked by his disciples 14. and Y'shua said to them, "Allow the children to come to me, and do not hinder them, for of those who are like these is the Kingdom of Heaven." 15. And he laid his hands on them and departed from there. 16. A certain man came and drew near and said to him, "Good teacher, what is good that I should do that I should have eternal life?" 17. Then he said to him, "Why do you call me good? There is none good except one Elohim? Now if you desire to enter into life, keep the Commandments." 18. He said to him, "Which ones?" Then Y'shua said to him, "That you will not kill, and not commit adultery, and you will not steal, and you will not give false witness."<sup>196</sup> 19. And honor your father and mother,<sup>197</sup> and love your neighbor as yourself."<sup>198</sup>

---

<sup>191</sup> This is a rhetorical question; the servant is expected to know the answer. The servant should have known to have mercy to the other, just as his Master was merciful to him.

<sup>195</sup> This legal discussion very much parallels the one in Matthew 5. The women in both places are abandoned without a written charge or certificate of divorce. To merely send away a wife for any reason no matter how trivial is cruel, as it gives her no remedy to marry again without committing adultery. The language here is a little more specific in some terms, the phrase in Matthew 5:32 is "put away your wife", showing she is still legally married, but here she is called shviqta from the root shbaq which means to "abandon" and that is the sense of the usage here, an abandoned woman. Such is also proven by the grammar deman d'shaveq antateh (he who leaves [shbaq] his wife without a charge of adultery) which leads to the phrase for the woman as shviqta later in the same sentence.

20. That young man said to him, “All these things I have obeyed them from my youth. What do I lack?” 21. Y’shua said to him, “If you desire to be perfect, go sell your possessions and give them to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven, and come follow me.” 22. And that young man heard this word and went away sad, for he had many possessions. 23. Y’shua then said to his disciples, “Truly I say to you that it is difficult for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. 24. And again I say to you that it is easier for a rope<sup>199</sup> to enter into the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim. 25. And when the disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed and were saying, “Who indeed is able to gain life?” 26. Y’shua looked at them and said to them, “With men this is not possible, but with Elohim everything is possible. 27. Then answered Keefa and said to him, “Behold, we have left everything and have come to follow you. What indeed will we have?” 28. Y’shua said to them, “Truly I say to you, that you who have come to follow me in this world, when the Son of man sits new upon the throne of his glory, you will also sit upon twelve seats, and you will judge the twelve tribes of Israel. 29. And anyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or fields for the sake of my name, will receive one hundredfold and will inherit eternal life. 30. But many who are first will be last, and the last first.”

1. “For the Kingdom of Heaven is likened to a man, the master of a house, who went out in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. 2. And he bargained with the laborers for a denarius per day. And he sent them to his vineyard. 3. And he went out in the third hour and saw others who were standing in the marketplace and were idle. 4. And he said to them, ‘Go also to the vineyard and I will give you what is right.’ 5. And they departed. And he went out again in the sixth and in the ninth hour and did the same. 6. And towards the eleventh hour he went out and found others who were standing and were idle and said to them, ‘Why are you standing all day and idle?’ 7. They said to him, ‘Because no man has hired us.’ He said to them also, ‘Go to the vineyard and you will receive what is right.’ 8. And when it became evening, the master of the vineyard said to his steward, ‘Call the laborers and give them their wages, and begin from the last and proceed to the first.’ 9. And those of the eleventh hour came and each received a denarius.<sup>200</sup> 10. And when the first came, they hoped that they would receive more, and they each also received a denarius. 11. And when they received it, they argued against the master of the house. 12. And they said, ‘These last ones worked one hour, and you made them equal with us who bore the burden of the day and its heat!’ 13. Then he answered and said to one of them, ‘My friend, I did not wrong you. Was it not a denarius you bargained with me for? 14. Take yours and go. I but desire that to this last one I give as to you.

199 Gamala refers to a “heavy rope” rather than a “camel” which is also spelled gimel-meem-lamed-alap. Greek scholars puzzled over a camel passing through the eye of a needle, which is a physical impossibility. Y’shua is clearly not saying a rich man can’t enter, or he would not “love” this one! The “heavy rope” lesson teaches about a rich man entering into heaven, after he “unravels” his fortune strand by strand as Y’shua instructs. If his wealth was bound tightly and strong like a rope, it is to be unwound like threads which will pass through the eye of the needle. Careful attention is required to thread a needle; so are the rich obligated unto YHWH for how their wealth is acquired and dispersed. Theological attempts to “prove” the eye of the needle to be a geographical location have utterly failed.

200 And those of the eleventh hour came and each received a denarius. Although this is a parable and not a historical event, it does nevertheless tell us something about Hebrew timekeeping. This is, albeit an extreme form, of fractional reckoning. The workers came at the end of the day, the 11th hour, and yet received a full day’s pay. This indicates that any part of a daylight period can count as a whole day.

15. Or is it not Lawful for me to do that which I desire to do with my own? Or is your eye evil because I am good?"<sup>201</sup> 16. Thus will the last be first and the first last. For many are those that are called, and few that are chosen." 17. And Y'shua was about to go up to Urishlim, and he took his twelve disciples alone on the road and said to them. 18. "Behold, we are going up to Urishlim, and the Son of man will be delivered to the chief priests and to the scribes. And they will condemn him to death. 19. And they will deliver him to the Gentiles, and they will mock him, and they will beat him, and they will execute him on a stake."<sup>202</sup> And he will rise on the third day." 20. Then, the mother of the sons of Zawdee came to him. And she and her sons worshipped him and was asking him something. 21. Then he said to her, "What do you desire?" She said to him, "(Will you)<sup>203</sup> say that these two, my sons, (will be) one on your right and one on your left in your Kingdom." 22. Y'shua answered and said, "You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink the cup that I am about to drink, or the immersion with which I will be immersed?" They said to him, "We are able." 23. He said to them, "You will drink my cup, and be immersed with the same immersion that I am immersed, but that you should sit at my right and at my left is not mine to give, except to those for whom it is prepared by my Father." 24. And when the ten heard of it, they were angry at those two brothers. 25 And Y'shua called to them and said to them, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles are their masters and their nobles are in authority over them. 26. Let it not be thus among you, but whoever among you desires to be great, let him be a servant<sup>204</sup> to you. 27. And he who among you desires to be first, let him be a servant to you. 28. Just as the Son of man did not come to be served, but to serve<sup>205</sup> and to give himself as a ransom for the sake of many." 29. And when Y'shua went out from Yerikho, a large crowd were following him. 30. And behold, two blind men were sitting on the side of the road, and when they heard that Y'shua was passing by, they gave a cry out, and were saying, "Have mercy upon us my Master, the son of Dawid. 31. But the crowds were admonishing them to be quiet, but they raised their voice more, and were saying, "Our Master the son of Dawid, have mercy upon us." 32. And Y'shua stopped and called to them and said, "What do you desire me to do for you?" 33. They said to him. "Our Master, that our eyes may be opened." 34. And Y'shua had compassion on them and touched their eyes, and at once their eyes were opened and they went and followed him.

201 Equality and Justice are the universal domains of Mashiyach for the common good of all, but the servant in this case judges according to self interest. See Acts 11:17; 2 Peter 1:1; 1 Cor. 12:25; 2 Cor. 8:14.

202 The upright stake was foreshadowed by the "pole" which Moshe held up in Numbers 21:8, 9. The brass serpent was put upon the pole and when the people looked upon it they were preserved from the deadly venom of the snake. So it is, that when people are bitten by the "spiritual serpent" of Genesis 3:15, they must look to Mashiyach for healing and deliverance. The pole was replaced by the cross which was formerly the symbol of the Babylonian sun god. Julius Caesar and his heir struck coins with symbols of the cross (solar wheel) to commemorate the sun god. The Roman Emperor Constantine was a sun worshipper who became a famous Christian, advancing pagan Christianity throughout the Roman Empire. His version of "Christianity" included many pagan rituals, including Sun-day, Tammuz (Christmas) and Ishtar (Easter) worship. The Greek "stauros" also denotes an upright stake; the verb stauroo means to drive stakes. The Greek "xulon" denotes a timber or a log or any piece of dead wood. Bullinger's Companion Bible notes: "Our English word 'cross' is the translation of the Latin crux; but the Greek stauros no more means a crux than the word 'stick' means a 'crutch.'" See Pole, the Standard in Appendix. 203 "Will you" is implied in the Aramaic grammar. The Peshitta simply reads "say" and "one on your right and one on your left."

204 Servant and minister are the same words. However, many Pastors, Rabbis or "Ministers" maintain very high materialistic lifestyles off the backs of the poor which is clear evidence that they are hirelings (false leaders). Masked by their "rich" institutions they have succumbed to the lusts of carnal flesh, these are an abomination to Mashiach and the Kingdom of Elohim; rather than servants they are leeches. To follow Mashiach means to surrender to him and live for him in righteousness and equality, rather than lord it over others.

205 Babylon and all false religion serves to enslave their followers. In due course of time, the vast majority of followers succumb to the "Stockholm Syndrome," and give praise to the "upline hierarchy" who keep them impoverished. Mashiach, the highest form of Justice and Righteousness, does the very opposite. He serves, he releases the captives, he cherishes and uplifts the souls of mankind so that each soul has the opportunity to reach their full potential. Those blinded by religious hierarchies inadvertently become enemies of Mashiach.

1. And when he approached Urishlim and came to Beth Pageh on the side of the Mount of Olives, Y'shua sent two of his disciples, 2. And said to them, "Go to this village that is in front of you, and immediately you will find a donkey that is bound and a colt with her. Loose them and bring them to me. 3. And if anyone says anything to you, tell him that they are needed for our Master, and immediately he will send them here." 4. And<sup>206</sup> these things happened (so) that the thing that the prophet spoke might be fulfilled, (for that prophet) said, 5. "Say to the daughter of Tsiyon, behold your king comes to you meek and mounted upon a donkey, and upon a colt the foal of a donkey."<sup>207</sup> 6. The disciples departed and did as Y'shua had commanded them. 7. And they brought the donkey and the colt and placed their garments upon the colt and Y'shua mounted upon it. 8. And a multitude of crowds were spreading out their clothes in the road, and others were cutting branches from the trees and cast them on the road. 9. The crowds and those who were going before him and coming after him were crying out and saying "Ushanna to the Son of Dawid. Blessed is he who comes in the name of Master YHWH. Ushanna in the highest!"<sup>208</sup> 10. And when he entered into Urishlim, all the city was stirred up and saying, "Who is this man?" 11. And the crowds were saying, "This is the prophet Y'shua who is from Nasrath of Galeela. 12. And Y'shua entered into the temple of Elohim and drove out all who<sup>209</sup> were buying and selling in the temple. And he overturned the tables of the moneychangers and the chairs of those who were selling doves. 13. And he said to them, "It is written that my House will be called a house of prayer,<sup>210</sup> but you have made it a cave of bandits."<sup>211</sup> 14. And the blind and the lame in the temple drew near to him, and he healed them. 15. But when the chief priests and the Pharisees saw the wonders that he did, and the children who were crying aloud in the temple and saying, "Ushanna<sup>212</sup> to the Son of Dawid," they were displeased. 16. And they were saying to him, "Do you hear what these are saying?" Y'shua said to them, "Yes! Have you never read that from the mouth of children and infants you have fashioned praise?"<sup>213</sup> 17. And he left them and departed outside of the city to Beth Ani and lodged there. 18. And in the morning when he hungered, he returned to the city. 19. And he saw a certain fig tree by the road and came to it and he did not find anything on it except only leaves. And he said to it, "Let there never again be fruit on you forever!" And at once, that fig tree<sup>214</sup> withered. 20. And the disciples saw and marveled and were saying, "How quickly the fig tree withered." 21. Y'shua answered and said to them, "Truly I say to you, that if you have faith and no doubt, not only this miracle of the fig tree will you do but even if you say to this mountain 'Be removed and fall into the sea!' it will happen. 22. And everything you ask for in prayer and believe, you will receive." 23. And when Y'shua came to the temple, the chief priests and elders of the people drew near to him while he was teaching and were saying to him, "By what authority do you accomplish these things? And who gave to you this authority?" 24. Y'shua answered and said to them, "I will also ask you a certain question, and if you answer me I will also tell you by what authority I do these things.

206 Khabouris has "all these things happened" whereas 1905 has "these things happened." The 1905 reading is retained.

207 Zechariah 9:9

208 Psalm 118:25 and 26. Ushanna means deliver us or save us. The multitudes were recognizing that he is YHWH's Mashiyach and therefore expecting that he will become their King. See Ushanna in the Appendix.

209 Khabouris reads "all who (aylin) were buying" and this reading is retained.

211 Jeremiah 7:11

213 Psalm 8:2,3

214 The fig is first mentioned in Genesis 3:7. The Law of First Mention provides a remez (hint) of the symbolic meaning of the fig tree. It is connected to the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and relates to judgment between good and evil. The fig tree represents the Beit Din (House of Judges), or the Sanhedrin which in that generation were found wanting and without fruit (see the parables of the fig tree, Matthew 24:32; and Luke 13:7). In Luke 10, seventy are sent out, correlating with the seventy elders of Israel in Shemot/Exodus 24. Oftentimes the Olive Tree which represents Israel, is erroneously confused with the symbol of the Fig Tree.

25. Where is the immersion of Yochanan from? Is it from heaven, or is it from men?" And they were reasoning among themselves and they were saying that, "If we say from heaven, he will say to us, 'Upon what reason did you not believe him?' 26. And if we say 'From men,' we are afraid of the crowd!" for all of them regard Yochanan as a prophet. 27. They answered and said to him, "We do not know." Y'shua said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things. 28. But what do you think? A certain man had two sons. And he drew near to the first one and said to him, 'My son, go today and work in the vineyard.' 29. But he answered and said, 'I do not desire it.' But later he regretted it and went. 30. And he drew near to the other and said likewise to him, and he answered and said, 'I will my master,' and did not go.<sup>215</sup> 31. Which of these two did the will of his father?" They said to him that the first one did. Y'shua said to them, "I say truly to you that the tax-collectors and harlots will precede you into the Kingdom of Elohim. 32. For Yochanan came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him. But the tax-collectors and the harlots believed him. But you did not even repent when you saw it, that you might believe him. 33. Hear another parable. There was a certain man, a master of a house, and he planted a vineyard. Around it he set a fence. And he dug a winepress in it. And he built a tower in it, and he leased it to laborers and went on a journey. 34. And when the time of the harvest arrived, he sent his servants to the laborers that they might send to him some of the fruit of his vineyard. 35. And the laborers seized his servants. Some they beat, and some they stoned, and some they killed. 36. And again, he sent other servants that were more than the first, and they did likewise to them. 37. And lastly, he sent his Son to them saying perhaps they might be ashamed before my Son. 38. But when the laborers saw the Son, they said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come let us kill him and seize his inheritance.' 39. And they seized him, took him outside of the vineyard, and killed him. 40. Therefore, when the master of the vineyard comes, what should he do to those laborers?" 41. They were saying to him, "He will savagely destroy them and he will lease the vineyard to other laborers, those who will give to him the fruit in its season." 42. Y'shua said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures of 'The Stone that the builders rejected, the same became the head of the corner. From the presence of Master YHWH came this Stone and is a marvel before our eyes.'<sup>216</sup> 43. Because of this I say to you that the Kingdom of Elohim will be taken from you and will be given to a people who bear fruit.<sup>217</sup> 44. And whoever falls upon this Stone, it will destroy." 45. And when the chief priests and Pharisees heard his parables, they knew that he spoke against them. 46. And they sought to arrest him, but they were afraid because of the crowd, as they were regarding him as a prophet.

<sup>215</sup> This parable epitomizes the Christian dispensational theology that made law and grace into a religious dichotomy. The first son didn't want to work in the vineyard; nevertheless he went to work to honor his father who gave the law (Torah). The vineyard represents the Kingdom of Heaven, the cultivation of righteousness, the rebirth of Messianic spirituality. The second son said he would labor in his father's vineyard and gave his word, leading his father to believe he would, but then he broke covenant with his father. The first son was obedient to his father's instruction (Torah), the second son justified his disobedience to his father's commandment. Rather than being a religious license to break Torah, "Grace" is the empowerment we experience through our Father's love and mercy. After we repent of our sins we begin to recognize the true Nature of our Father's love towards us. Grace is the activated power of love, the desire to bring glory and honor to the Name of YHWH on His terms and conditions. The false grace doctrine (or cheap grace), thrives on "justification" and makes people believe they are saved in their sin, rather than receiving Set Apart spiritual power to overcome the sinful nature. The obedient son discovered that his father's vineyard required the discipline of a Set Apart lifestyle. He learned that obedience to his father's Torah (the Law) was truly his daily delight; his father's instructions (Torah) were being written on his heart by Grace through Faith. He began enjoying the exceedingly deep and satisfying work of righteousness within his eternally grateful soul. He learned that obedience begets more obedience, righteousness begets more righteous conduct. "Faith actions" of obedience to YHWH cause us to desire a lifestyle that is pleasing to our loving Heavenly Father and aspire to do ALL that He commanded us. Practicing the disciplines of obedience to his father's law the obedient son identified himself with others who were also experiencing the same joys and blessings of obedience to Torah (the Law). However, the second son exemplifies religious "justification", a creed that negates the practice of sanctification and living a Set Apart life. Rather than obeying his father's law the second son accepted a religion that justified his disobedience. The "Doctrine of Justification" is the theological reason why many have rejected obedience to Torah, however the true Nature of YHWH's Grace is the same yesterday, today and forever.

217 This warning applies to every generation that upholds man's religious traditions as majority. Many leaders of the "chosen people" openly deny Torah and Mashiych in favor of their own traditions, making themselves enemies of the Kingdom of Elohim.

1. And Y'shua answered again in parables and said, 2. "The Kingdom of Heaven is like a man, a king who prepared a wedding feast for his son. 3. And he sent his servants that they might call those who were invited to the wedding feast, and they did not desire to come. 4. Again he sent other servants and said, "Say to those who were invited that, behold, my supper is prepared and my oxen and my fatlings are killed and every thing is ready. Come to the wedding feast! 5. But they sneered at it. And one departed to his field and another to his business. 6. And the rest seized his servants, and mocked and killed them. 7. And when the king heard, he was angry and sent his armies and destroyed those murderers, and he burned their city. 8. Then he said to his servants, 'The wedding feast<sup>218</sup> is prepared, and those that were invited were not worthy. 9. Go, therefore, to the main roads, and anyone that you find, you call to the wedding feast.' 10. And out went those servants to the roads and gathered anyone that they found, bad and good, and the banquet-house was filled. 11. And the king entered to see the guests, and he saw a man there who was not wearing the attire of a wedding.<sup>219</sup> 12. And he said to him, 'My friend, how did you enter here while you have no garments of a wedding?' And he was speechless. 13. Then the king said to the ministers, 'Bind his hands and his feet and cast him into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth!' 14. For many are those that are called, and few are chosen."<sup>220</sup> 15. Then the Pharisees departed and took counsel on how to trap him by a question. 16. Then they sent the Herodians with their disciples to him. And they were saying to him, "Teacher, we know that you are true, and do rightly teach the way of Elohim, and do not favor any man, for you do not discriminate between men. 17. Therefore tell us how do you think. Does Torah instruct us to pay the head tax to Caesar or not?" 18. But Y'shua knew their evil, and said, "Hypocrites! Why do you tempt me? 19. Show me the denarius of the head tax." And they brought a denarius to him. 20. And Y'shua said to them, "And whose image is this inscription?" 21. They were saying, "Caesar." He said to them; "Therefore give to Caesar that which is Caesar's, and to Elohim that which is Elohim's."<sup>221</sup> 22. And when they heard it, they were amazed, and left him and departed. 23. In that same day, the Sadducees approached and were saying to him, "There is no resurrection of the dead, and they asked him, 24. And said to him, "Teacher, Moshe told us that if a man dies while having no sons, his brother should take his wife and raise up a seed for his brother."<sup>222</sup> 25. Now there were among us seven brothers. The first took a wife and died. And because he had no sons, he left his wife to his brother. 26. Likewise also the second and the third up to the seventh. 27. And after all of them, the woman also died. 28. Therefore in the resurrection, to which of these seven will she be a wife, for all of them married her?" 29. Y'shua answered and said to them, "You err because you do not know the Scriptures or the power of Elohim. 30. For in the resurrection of the dead, men do not marry women, nor are women given to husbands. Rather, they are as the Messengers of Elohim in Heaven. 31. But concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read the thing which was said to you by Elohim who said, 218 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between "the wedding feast" and "is prepared".

219 "Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean" (Isaiah 52:1).

220 Also "have chosen." A person who is "called" must choose to follow. To put the onus of being "chosen" solely upon Mashiyach is false religion. True faith demands voluntary discipleship and sanctification according to the Word of YHWH. Therefore, each soul also has the choice and responsibility of choosing to be chosen. Jews are YHWH's "chosen people" – however, He has most certainly "un-chosen" Jews who wage war against Torah, YHWH and His Mashiyach.

221 See Romans 13:1.

222 Deuteronomy 25:5 and 6. Also note that Khabouris and 1905 have different word orders in this verse, but this has no effect on the meaning.

32. That ‘I am the Elohim of Awraham, the Elohim of Yitz’chak, and the Elohim of Ya’akov?’<sup>223</sup> And He is not the Elohim of the dead, rather of the living.” 33. And when the crowds heard this, they were amazed by his teaching. 34. But when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they assembled together. 35. Then one of them who knew Torah asked testing him. 36. “Teacher, which Commandment in Torah is the greatest?” 37. And Y’shua said to him, that “You should love Master YHWH your Elohim with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your might and with all your mind.” 38. This is the first and the greatest Commandment. 39. And the second is like it. That ‘You should love your neighbor as yourself.’ 40. On these two commandments hang<sup>224</sup> Torah and the prophets.” 41. Now while the Pharisees were assembled, Y’shua asked them, 42. And said, “What do you say about the Mashiyach? Who is he the son of?” They were saying to him, “The son of Dawid.” 43. He said to them, “How then did Dawid in the spirit call him Master YHWH? For he said, 44. ‘That Master YHWH said to my master, “You sit at my right hand until I place your enemies under your feet.”’ 45. Therefore, if Dawid calls him Master YHWH,<sup>225</sup> how is he his son?” 46. And no man was able to give him an answer. And no man dared to question him again from that time on.

Chapter 23

1. Y’shua then spoke with the crowds and with his disciples. 2. And he said to them, “The scribes and the Pharisees sit on the throne<sup>226</sup> of Moshe. 3. Therefore everything that they<sup>227</sup> say to you that you should keep and do. But not according to their deeds, for they talk, but do not. 4. And they bind heavy burdens and place them upon the shoulders of the sons of men, but they do not desire to touch them with their fingers. 5. And they do all their deeds that they might be seen by the sons of men. For they widen their Tefillin<sup>228</sup> and lengthen the Tekhelet<sup>229</sup> of their robes. 6. And they love the chief places at festivals and the chief seats at the assembly. 7. And a greeting in the streets, and to be called Rabbi by men. 8. But you should not be called ‘My Great One’<sup>230</sup> for there is only one Who is Great and you are all brothers. 9. And do not call yourself Father<sup>231</sup> for your Father is one who is in heaven. 10. And you should not be called leaders, because one is your leader, the Mashiyach. 11. But he who is greatest among you, let him be a servant<sup>232</sup> to you. 12. For whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted. 13. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees! Hypocrites! For you shut up the Kingdom of Heaven before the sons of men. For you are not entering yourselves, and those who would enter you do not allow to enter.

223 Ex 3:6; Deut 6:5; Matt 22:37; Lev 19:18; Matt 22:39; Psalm 110:1; Matt 22:44

224 Torah and Prophets hang or “hold on by” these two great Commandments of Love. Those who do the Commandments, are they who love YHWH (Matt 19:17; 1 John 5:2 and 3). Without love, observance of Torah is vanity, and without Torah one’s “love” is vanity.

225 See David’s Master in Appendix.

226 The Aramaic word korseyā (Hebrew cognate kisseh- see Genesis 41:40) specifically means “throne”, exactly as in the Aramaic portion of Daniel 7:9. Y’shua is describing a seat of judgment that implies YHWH’s authority. So while Y’shua vigorously rebukes the scribes and the Pharisees for rebellion, hypocrisy, and their man made traditions that make void the Torah; he also recognizes them as the rightful inheritors of Torah-based halakha (applying the Word of YHWH to our lives). This would include the ancient Priesthood calendar that the Pharisees followed for keeping the Feasts. There are no accounts in the New Testament or in Jewish history of Y’shua or the Apostles departing from the calendar that the Pharisees sanctified. Y’shua and the Apostles routinely taught in synagogues of the Pharisees and in the Temple and observed the moedim (Set Times) in unity. For more information on the calendar Y’shua sanctified please consult Wheel of Stars in Appendix.

227 A very late and unattested reading in Shem Tob Matthew states: “everything ‘he’ (Moshe) tells you to do, do it.” This rendering is nonsense; Y’shua would not mention Moshe when the scribes and the Pharisees are “they” who sit in Moshe’s seat. Peshitta and Greek texts agree that since the Pharisees sit in Moshe’s seat they should teach Moshe but, instead, they elevate their oral traditions above Torah. The fact of the matter is, if they would actually study Torah, they would know Y’shua is Mashiyach. Y’shua returns to this point in John 5:46-47.

prayer, except on Shabbat (Deut. 6:8-PY). Tefillin and Tekhelet are carried perfectly from the Hebrew Tanakh into the Aramaic NT, letter for letter. (AR)

229 The “ribbon of blue” of the “tzitzit” (fringes), as commanded in Num. 15:38. “Tekhelet” can also refer to tzitzit, or even the whole prayer shawl/talit. (PY)

230 Aramaic here does not mean “Rabbi” as in “teacher” per se, as in Matthew 28 Y’shua commands his disciples to teach the world. Instead, Y’shua is addressing the more literal meaning of “rab” which is “great” as shown in Genesis 6:5, “the wickedness of man was great on the earth.” The previous eight verses teach against elitist behavior, so “do not be called My Great One, for you have One that is Great, YHWH.” This is directed to the Rabbis (leaders) themselves, not to the followers. Certainly this does not win popularity among the Rabbis. See Rabbinical Authority and Torah in Appendix.

231 The prohibition against calling leaders “father” is to avoid giving status (fear of man) which is due unto YHWH (see Job 32:21-22). Isaiah 56:10-12 exposes leaders who “never have enough” and who keep their “followers” in spiritual and financial poverty while seeking personal gain. See 1 Timothy 4:3 and Religious Leaders and Unity versus Hierarchy.

232 Khabouris omits “a servant” but this reading is confirmed in all other manuscripts and is in 1905.

14. “Woe to you scribes and Pharisees! Hypocrites! For you consume the houses of widows, and that for a pretense you lengthen your prayers. Because of this you will receive a greater judgment. 15. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees. Hypocrites! For you traverse sea and land that you might make one proselyte, and when he has become one, you make him double the son of Gehenna<sup>233</sup> that you are yourselves.<sup>234</sup> 16. Woe to you blind guides, for you say that whoever swears by the temple is not anything, but who swears by the gold of the temple is guilty. 17. You are blind fools, for what is greater, the gold or the temple that sanctifies the gold? 18. And whoever swears by the altar, it is not anything, but he who swears by the offering that is upon it is guilty. 19. You are blind fools! What is greater, the offering or the altar that sanctifies the offering? 20. Therefore, whoever swears by the altar, swears by it and all things that are upon it. 21. And whoever swears by the temple, swears by it and by He who dwells in it. 22. And whoever swears by Heaven swears by the throne of Elohim, and by Him who sits upon it. 23. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees! Hypocrites! For you tithe mint and dill and cummin, and you overlook the weightiest<sup>235</sup> things of Torah: Judgment<sup>236</sup> and Mercy<sup>237</sup> and Faith.<sup>238</sup> And these things were necessary for you to have done, and these things you should not have forgotten. 24. Blind guides who strain at gnats and swallow camels. 25. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees! Hypocrites! For you clean the outside of the cup and of the plate but inside they are full of extortion and iniquity. 26. Blind Pharisees! First clean the inside of the cup and of the plate, Then the outside will be clean also. 27. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees! Hypocrites! For you are like white tombs that appear beautiful on the outside, but on the inside are filled with the bones and all the corruption of the dead. 28. Thus you also appear on the outside as righteous men to the sons of men. On the inside you are filled with iniquity and hypocrisy. 29. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees. Hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets, and you adorn the sepulchers of the righteous.<sup>239</sup> 30. And you say that if we had been in the days of our forefathers, we would not have been participants with them in the blood of the prophets. 31. Whereby you witness against yourselves that you are sons of those who killed the prophets. 32. And you also fill up the measure of your forefathers. 33. Serpents! Offspring of vipers! How will you flee from the judgment of Gehenna? 34. Behold, because of this I will send to you prophets and wise men and scribes. Some of them you will kill, and you will execute them on stakes, and some of them you will scourge in your assemblies. And you will pursue them from city to city, 35. So that will come upon you all the blood of the righteous poured out on the earth; from the blood of Havel until the blood of Zakharya,<sup>240</sup> the son of Brakhya, he whom you killed between the Temple and the altar. 36. Truly I say to you that all these things will come upon this generation.

<sup>233</sup> Gehenna is a composite word that evolved from two Hebrew words. In Nehemiah 11:30 “Gehenna” refers to the “valley of Hinnom” in the land of Israel. It is to the southwest of Jerusalem (Joshua 15:8). The Hebrew word gey (“valley”) was joined with hinnom and became geenna in Greek, then Gehenna in English. The valley of Hinnom was a place of Moloch worship (Jer 32:35). Josiah, destroyed the high places of Moloch and put an end to the human sacrifices (2 Kings 23:10, 13). In the days of King Ahaz (2 Chron 28:3) and Manasseh (2 Chron 33:6), children were sacrificed by fire to Moloch on altars at the valley of Hinnom. Jeremiah 7:31 states, “they have built the high places of Tophet, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire; which I commanded them not, neither came it into my heart.” Jeremiah said the valley would no longer be known as the son of Hinnom, “but rather, the ravine of the killed, and they shall entomb in Tophet because there is no other place” (Jer 7:31-32; 12:3; 19:6; Zech 11:4-9). As we track the term Gehenna through the New Testament we discover that it has taken on pagan influence and interpretation. Mashiyach teaches several levels of punishment upon wicked angelic and human reprobates, there are “eternal” elements and consequences but Greek and English translations have clearly misrepresented Y’shua and Tanakh when it comes to applying the term Gehenna. Please see footnotes on 2 Peter 2:4

<sup>235</sup> Lighter or weightier (kal v’chomer) is a principle that Y’shua employs on many occasions. In Matt. 6:30 Y’shua teaches that if Elohim clothes the fields with grass (lighter), then how much more will he take care of your needs? (weightier). In most translations, the phrase “how much more then...?” indicates the presence of a kal v’chomer argument.

<sup>236</sup> The Mitzvot (Commandments) of YHWH are categorized as Mishpatim (Judgments), Edyut (Testimonies) and Khokim (Statutes). The Judgments are the moral or ethical Commandments that differentiate right from wrong.

239 A "marketing strategy" of the Pharisees is to posture themselves as being obedient to YHWH's Prophets, and thus appear to legitimize their authority regarding Torah and the Prophets. A similar strategy is adopted by Christians who posture themselves as authorities on the Jewish Meshiyach, but who instead promote pagan religious traditions; these "crucify" Meshiyach daily by choosing to willfully neglect the Word of YHWH.

240 Meshikha (Meshiyach in Aramaic) is using the Hebrew canonical order of Tanakh. By referring to the righteous blood of Haweel (Abel, recorded in Genesis) and of Zakharya (Zechariah, 2 Chronicles), Meshikha is making reference to the first and last book of the Hebrew canon. The meaning of Meshikha's teaching is clear; the blood of every righteous person recorded in all of Scripture will come upon the scribes and Pharisees. (PY)

37. “Urishlim! Urishlim! Murderess of the prophets and stoner of those that are sent to her. How often I have desired to gather your children like a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, and you did not desire it. 38. Behold, your house is left desolate.”<sup>241</sup> 39. I say to you that you will not see me from now on until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of Master YHWH.’”<sup>242</sup>

1. And Y’shua went out of the temple to depart, and his disciples drew near and were showing him the construction of the temple. 2. But he said to them, “Behold, don’t you see all these things? Truly I say to you, nothing will be spared. Not one stone here will be left upon another, which will not be torn down.” 3. And while Y’shua was sitting on the Mount of Olives, his disciples<sup>243</sup> drew near and were saying among themselves and to him, “Tell us when these things will be and what is the sign of your coming and the end of the world.” 4. Y’shua answered and said to them, “Beware, let no man deceive you. 5. For many will come in my name and will say that ‘I am the Mashiyach.’ And many they will deceive. 6. For you are bound to hear of revolutions and rumor of wars. Watch out and do not be disturbed, for it is necessary that all these things happen, but it is not yet the end. 7. For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be famines and plagues and earthquakes in different places. 8. But all these things are only the beginning of sorrows. 9. Then they will deliver to afflictions and they will kill you and you will be hated by all nations because of my name. 10. Then many will stumble and will hate one another and will betray one another. 11. And many false prophets will arise and deceive many. 12. And because of the growth of iniquity, the love of many will grow cold. 13. But whoever has patience until the end, he will have life. 14. And this Good News of the Kingdom will be preached in all the world as a testimony to all the nations, and then the end will come, 15. And when you see the sign of uncleanness and desolation, that was spoken of by Daniel the prophet, which will stand in the Set Apart place.”<sup>244</sup> He that reads, let him understand. 16. Then those who are in Yehuda, let them flee to the mountain. 17. And he who is on the roof, let him not come down to take that which is in his house. 18. And he who is in the field, let him not turn back to take back his clothes. 19. And woe to the pregnant and to those who are nursing in those days. 20. And pray that your flight will not be in winter, nor on the Shabbat. 21. For then will be great suffering such as has not been from the beginning of the world until the present, nor will ever be again.”<sup>245</sup> 22. And if those days were not shortened, not any flesh would live, but because of the chosen, those days will be shortened. 23. If anyone should say to you then, behold the Messiah is here or there, do not believe it. 24. For false Messiahs and lying prophets will arise and they will produce signs and great wonders in order to deceive if possible even the chosen. 25. Behold, I have told you beforehand.

26. Therefore, if they say to you, ‘Behold, he is in the wilderness,’ do not go out. Or, ‘Behold, he is in the inner chamber,’ do not believe it. 27. For as the sunshine comes out from the East and is seen even in the West, thus will be the coming of the Son of man. 28. Wherever the carcass is, there will the eagles<sup>246</sup> gather. 29. And immediately after the suffering of those days, the sun will be darkened and the moon will not shine its light.<sup>247</sup> And the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven will be shaken.<sup>248</sup> 30. And then will be seen the sign of the Son of man in heaven, and then all the tribes of the land mourn,<sup>249</sup> when they will see the Son of man who comes upon the clouds of heaven<sup>250</sup> with great power and glory.<sup>251</sup> 31. And he will send his Messengers with a large trumpet,<sup>252</sup> and they will gather his chosen ones from the four winds from one end of heaven to the other.<sup>253</sup> 32. Now from the fig tree<sup>254</sup> learn a parable. As soon as its branches become tender and bring forth its leaves, you know that summer has arrived. 33. Thus also when you have seen all these things, know that it has arrived at the door. 34. Truly I say to you, that this tribe will not pass until all these things happen. 35. Heaven and earth may pass, but my word<sup>255</sup> will not pass. 36. About the day and about the hour no man knows, not even the Messengers of heaven, but the Father alone. 37. And as in the days of Noah,<sup>256</sup> thus will be the coming of the Son of man. 38. For as they were before the deluge, eating and drinking and taking women and giving them in marriage to men up to the day that Noah entered into the ark, 39. And they did not know until the deluge came and took them all, thus will be the coming of the Son of man. 40. Then two men will be in the field, one will be taken and one will be left. 41. And two women will be grinding at the mill. One will be taken<sup>257</sup> and one will be left. 42. Therefore be alert, because you do not know in what hour your Master will come. 43. And know this, that if the master of the house had known, he would not have allowed his house to be plundered. 44. Because of this also, you should be prepared, because in an hour that you do not expect, the Son of man will come. 45. Then who is the faithful and wise servant whom his master has appointed over his household to give them food in due time. 46. That servant is blessed when his master comes and finds him doing thus. 47. I say truly to you, that he will appoint him over all that he owns. 48. But if a servant being evil in his heart says that “My master will be delayed in coming.” 49. And begins to beat his fellow-servants and to eat and drink with drunkards. 50. The master of that servant will come in a day that he does not expect, and in an hour that he does not know. 51. And he will cut him in two and give him his lot among the hypocrites, and there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.”

252 The phrase here, shipora raba, may be better rendered as “Great Shofar”. Ancient Torah practice is often said to be mirrored in heaven, and as such the Messengers described here, like the Israelites of blessed memory, would assemble in times of great importance or crisis by blowing the shofar. Similar language is also noted and explained in the book of Gilyana (Revelation). See also Isaiah 27:13.

1. "Then let the Kingdom of Heaven be likened to those ten virgins who took their lamps and went out for the meeting of the bride and the bridegroom."<sup>258</sup> 2. Now five of them were wise and five were foolish. 3. And those foolish virgins took their lamps but did not take oil with them. 4. But those wise virgins took oil in vessels with their lamps. 5. Now when the bridegroom delayed, they slumbered and slept. 6. And in the middle of the night there was an outcry, 'Behold, the bridegroom comes! Go out for his meeting!' 7. Then all those virgins arose and prepared their lamps. 8. And those foolish virgins were saying to the wise, 'Give us some of your oil, for behold our lamps have gone out.' 9. These wise virgins answered and said, 'What if there is not enough for us and for you? Rather, go to those who sell and buy for yourselves. 10. And while they went to buy the bridegroom came, and those who were ready entered with him into the banquet-hall. And the door was locked. 11. Now later also came those other virgins, and were saying, 'Our master! Our master! Open the door for us.' 12. Then he answered and said to them, 'Truly I say to you that, "I do not know you!"'<sup>259</sup> 13. Be alert, therefore, for you do not know that day or hour. 14. For it is like a man who went on a journey. He called his servants and delivered his possessions to them.<sup>260</sup> 15. There was one he gave five talents, and another two, and another one - each man according to his ability. And he went immediately on a journey. 16. Now he who received five talents went and traded with them and gained five more. 17. And likewise also, he (who received) two<sup>261</sup> traded (and gained) two others. 18. But he who received one, went and dug in the ground and hid the money of his master. 19. Now after a great time, the master came and received an account from them of those servants. 20. And he who received five talents and brought five others drew near and said, 'My master, you gave to me five talents. Behold, I have added five others to them.' 21. And he said to him, 'Well done good and faithful servant! You have been faithful over a little, I will appoint you over much! Enter into the joy<sup>262</sup> of your master.' 22. And he (who) received two talents drew near and said, 'My master, you gave to me two talents. Behold, I have added two others to them.' 23. His master said to him, 'Well done good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little. I will appoint you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.' 24. And he who received one talent drew near also and said, 'My master, you are known to be a hard man, and that you reap where you have not sown and you gather from where you have not scattered. 25. So I was afraid and went and hid your talent in the ground. Behold, you have what is yours.' 26. His master answered and said to him, 'Evil and lazy servant! So it is known that I reap where I have not sown, and I gather from where I have not scattered!

<sup>258</sup> Some suggest that the Peshitta reading of "bridegroom and the bride" is not reflected in Greek manuscripts. However, according to The New Greek English Interlinear New Testament by Robert Brown and Phillip Comfort (United Bible Society 4th Edition, Nestle-Aland 26th Edition), some ancient Greek texts, in fact, do agree with Peshitta. Without "the bride" the passage allows for the virgins marrying one man. While the Greco-Roman world permitted rich men to have multiple wives, this practice was frowned upon in Israel, before and during Y'shua's day. The Patriarch Ya'akov, Kings Dawid and Solomon, and others had more than one spouse, but technically speaking, YHWH forbade it (Genesis 2:24, Deuteronomy 17:17). (See Basar Echad in Appendix.) Furthermore Y'shua's own halakha on sex and marriage was stricter than even that of the Pharisees (Matthew 5:27-28). Y'shua would not promote this practice; therefore, the Peshitta reveals that the ten virgins are not the ones getting married but are attached to the celebration of the bride and groom. Y'shua reveals with ten women what Zechariah 8:23 does with men, indicating that there are other levels of prophetic fulfillment that require our investigation. Zechariah refers to ten nations/tribes joining with Yehudah in the latter days; Mashiach, of course, is the King of Yehudah. Consider that Y'shua is both king (through the line of Yehudah) and high priest (Hebrews 7:15-8:1). As a result, the ten virgins/tribes are invited to Y'shua's "wedding." However there are several levels here that reveal Mashiach's universal government. The "ten virgins" refers to peoples expecting to be part of Mashiach Y'shua's government, but only five are permitted to enter. The "bride of Mashiach" is a metaphor for the New Jerusalem (Revelation 21:2). Gentiles are ultimately called to worship in Tsiyon, some being made priests and Levites (Isaiah 66). Another level of interpretation refers to apostate Jews who turn to YHWH and observe Torah in Mashiach. Y'shua's true bride represents that portion of humanity which has been purified by acting in faith and obedience to YHWH by keeping His Commandments and trusting in the Perfection of the blood atonement of Y'shua Mashiach ben Yoseph (Revelation 22:14-17).

<sup>259</sup> Following 25:1, this parable ends with the foolish virgins being locked out of the feast. Since the bridegroom is Mashiach, the feast that he holds for his bride and his guests must be the food of eternal life and the well of living water. Like other parables with servants and talents, Y'shua teaches that unwise stewardship of blessings or teachings results in being locked out of salvation.

260 A good steward of smaller sums, will manage greater sums well—money being a metaphor for responsibilities in faith. However, in Luke the two Aramaic words—kakriyn (talent) and karkiyn (city) were confused, rather than “take charge of ten (talents)” the Greek says “ten cities”, however the man in the parable is not a king. When Y’shua says, “I will appoint you over much”, he means over money or other responsibilities specifically related to the job they successfully completed. Good money management does not necessarily mean a gifted political leader, and vice versa. See also the footnote for Luke 19:17.

261 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words “two” and “traded (and gained)”.

262 Followers of Mashiych enter into his Joy in the here and now; each Commandment and every Word that proceeds from YHWH is a vessel that brings Joy to all who “enter”. For example, the 7th Day Shabbat is Kadosh (Set Apart) unto YHWH; the Joyful Memorial He gave at the time of Creation will continue into the Olam Haba (world to come). “YHWH’s Shabbat” (Isaiah 56:4) is of the “Renewed Covenant” YHWH made with Israel and Yehudah (Jeremiah 31:31-34). Entering into the Joy of Shabbat foreshadows the Kingdom, and it is for all who seek YHWH and His Mashiych. Grace empowers the soul to “enter in” and do Torah; this is how each soul can taste and see that YHWH is Good; Psalm 34.

27. For you would have been right to have placed my money in the exchange, and I would have come and have demanded its interest and my principal. 28. Therefore, take away the talent from him and give it to him who has ten talents. 29. For to him who has, it will be given to him and it will increase to him. But he who does not have, even that which he has will be taken from him.' 30. And the idle servant was thrown into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. 31. And when the Son of man comes in his glory, and all his Set Apart Messengers with him, then he will sit upon the throne of his glory. 32. And all the nations will be gathered before him. And he will separate them, one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. 33. And he will set the sheep at his right and the goats at his left. 34. Then the King will say to those who are at his right, 'Come you blessed of my Father. Inherit the Kingdom which has been prepared for you from the foundations of the world. 35. For I was hungry, and you gave to me food to eat. And I was thirsty and you gave me drink. I was a stranger, and you took me in. 36. I was naked, and you covered me. I was sick, and you visited me. And I was<sup>263</sup> in prison, and you came to me.' 37. Then those will say to him, 'Our righteous Master, when did we see that you were hungry and feed you, or that you were thirsty, and gave you drink? 38. And when did we see that you were a stranger and take you in, or that you were naked and covered you? 39. And when did we see you sick or in prison and come to you?' 40. The King will answer and say to them, 'Truly I say to you, inasmuch as you have done it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me.' 41. Then he will also say to those that are on his left, 'You cursed! Go away from me to the everlasting fire that which is prepared for the adversary and his Messengers. 42. For I was hungry, and you did not give me any food. And I was thirsty, and you did not give me drink. 43. And I was a stranger, and you did not take me in. And I was naked, and you did not cover me. And I was sick and in prison, and you did not visit me.' 44. Even then, they will answer and say, 'Our Master, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to you?' 45. Then he will answer and say to them, 'Truly I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do to one of these little ones, you also did not do it to me.' 46. And these will depart to everlasting anguish, but the righteous to everlasting life."

Chapter 26

1. And it was when that Y'shua finished all of these sayings he said to his disciples, 2. "You know that after two days will be the Paskha,<sup>264</sup> and the Son of man will be betrayed to be put to the execution stake."<sup>265</sup> 3. Then the chief priests and scribes and elders of the people were gathered at the court of the high priest who was called Qayapa. 4. And they took counsel concerning Y'shua that by deceit they might arrest and kill him. 5. And they were saying, "Not during the feast,<sup>266</sup> or else a riot should occur among the people. 6. And when Y'shua was in Beth Anya, in the house of the potter,<sup>267</sup> Shimon

<sup>263</sup> Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words "I was" and "and you came".

<sup>267</sup> Aramaic refers to Shimon the potter, not "leper" as the Greek has it, for more information please see p. xiv.

7. A woman approached him who had with her an alabaster vase of ointment which was a very precious perfume, and she poured it upon the head of Y'shua while he was reclining. 8. And his disciples saw and it displeased them and they said, "Why this waste?" 9. For it was able that this be sold for much money and it be given to the poor. 10. But Y'shua knew this and said to them, "Why are you troubling the woman, for she has done a good deed for me. 11. For you will always have the poor with you, but you will not always have me. 12. But the one who poured this perfume upon my body, she did it as though for my burial. 13. And truly I say to you, that wherever my Good News is preached, the thing that which she did this will also be told in all the world as a memorial to her." 14. Then one of the twelve who was called Yehuda Skaryota went to the chief priests. 15. And he said to them, "What are you willing to give me and I will deliver him to you?" And they promised him thirty pieces of silver.<sup>268</sup> 16. And from that time onwards, he would seek an opportunity to betray him. 17. Now on the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the disciples drew near to Y'shua and said to him, "Where do you want us to prepare for you to eat the Paskha<sup>269</sup>?" 18. And he said to them, "Go to the city, to a certain man and say to him, 'Our master says my time it has arrived. With you I will perform the Paskha among my disciples.'" 19. And his disciples did as he commanded them. And they prepared Y'shua the Paskha. 20. And when it was evening, he was reclining among his twelve disciples. 21. And while they were dining he said, "Truly I say to you, that one of you will betray me." 22. And it made them very sad and they began to say to him, each one of them, "Is it I my Master?" 23. And he answered and said, "He who dips his hand with me in the dish, that one will betray me. 24. And the Son of man will go just as it is written concerning him, but woe to the man by whose hand the Son of man is betrayed. It would have been better for him if he had not been born." 25. And the traitor said "Perhaps it is I Rabbi" Y'shua answered and said to him, You have said it. 26. And while they were dining, Y'shua took bread and blessed it and broke it and gave it to his disciples and said, "Take eat. This is my body." 27. And he took the cup and gave thanks and gave it to them and said, "Take drink from it all of you. 28. This is my blood<sup>270</sup> of the renewed covenant,<sup>271</sup> which for the sake of many is shed for the forgiveness of sins. 29. And I say to you that I will not drink this fruit of the vine from now on until the day in which I drink it anew with you in the Kingdom of my Father, of Elohim."<sup>272</sup> 30. And they offered praise and went out to the Mount of Olives. 31. Then Y'shua said to them, "All of you will be offended by me in this night, for it is written, 'I will strike the Shepherd and the sheep of his flock will be scattered.'<sup>273</sup> 32. But after I have risen, I will be in Galeela before you." 33. Keefa answered and said to him, even if everyone is offended, I will never be offended by you. 34. Y'shua said to him, "Truly I say to you, that in this night before the cock crows<sup>274</sup> you will deny me three times."

268 See Zechariah 11:12

269 In the first century the titles for Paskha (Hebrew Pesach / Passover) and Chag HaMatzah (Feast of Unleavened Bread) became interchangeable because these two separate holidays run concurrently and without a gap. Passover begins at twilight, just before sunset on the 14th and extends into the 15th day. As a result, Passover extends over a two day period, since after sunset on the 14th is the beginning of the 15th. Since Pesach begins on the afternoon of the 14th—not a day later—preparations for the seder are made earlier on the 14th before sunset.

270 See 1 Corinthians 11:27

271 Both Aramaic "khawdata" and Hebrew "chadasha" means renewed as in Psalm 51:10, "renew a right spirit within me", Lam. 5:21 "renew our days as of old". "Chadash" can also be "new" or "repair" as in Isaiah 61:4 "repair the waste places". YHWH spoke of the Renewed Covenant in Jeremiah 31:31-37 that He would, "put my Torah in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts... the seed of Israel also shall never cease from being a nation before me for ever... says YHWH..." This is the "Renewed Covenant"; however, even in Paul's day, the Kingdom that Y'shua offered was being violently counterfeited by religious traditions into something very contrary. Successive Greek theologians (like Marcion) replaced the meaning and importance of "Renewed Covenant" with the term "New Testament" and made a division of "Old and New" Testaments. Torah was and is taught by mainstream Christians to be either for Jews only, or completely abolished; thus, the "New Testament" became laden with anti-Semitism. The hierarchical values of "modern" pagan cultures were syncretized by Greek Gnostic philosophies into the teachings of Y'shua and Paul to the point that modern day Christianity would be unrecognizable by the original followers of Y'shua as the "Faith which was once delivered" (Yehuda 1:3). See Renewed Covenant and Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #15: The "New" Covenant in Appendix.

272 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts read b'malkoteh d'abi d'Eloah "in the Kingdom of my Father, of Elohim." Khabouris codex omits d'abi. 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

273 Zechariah 13:7

274 The "temple crier" was a Gaver, Hebrew for "cock" or "rooster". He was responsible for opening the temple before dawn and calling out loudly, two or three times to announce the early morning services.

35. Keefa said to him, "Even if it be necessary for me to die with you, I would not deny you, and all the disciples also said likewise. 36. Then Y'shua came with them to a place which is called Gadseman. And he said to his disciples, "Sit down here while I go and pray." 37. And he took Keefa and the two sons of Zawdee and began to be sorrowful and wearied. 38. And he said to them, "There is sadness to my soul to the point of death. Remain here and watch with me." 39. And he went a little further and fell upon his face and was praying and said, "My father if it is possible, let this cup pass over me. Nevertheless, not as I will but as you will." 40. And he came to his disciples and found them while they were sleeping and said to Keefa, "So you were not able to watch with me one hour! 41. Take heed and pray or else you enter into temptation. The spirit is ready but the body is weak."<sup>275</sup> 42. He went again the second time and prayed and said, "My Father, if this cup can not pass except I drink it, your will be done." 43. And he came again and found them while they were sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. 44. And he left them and went away again and prayed for the third time and he said the same words. 45. Then he came to his disciples and said to them, "Sleep now therefore and get your rest, behold the hour has arrived and the Son of man will be delivered into the hands of sinners. 46. Arise! Let us go. Behold he has arrived who has betrayed me." 47. And while he was speaking, behold Yehuda the traitor, one of the twelve, arrived and with him a great armed crowd with swords and staves before the chief priests and elders of the people. 48. Yehuda the traitor had given them a sign and said, "To him who I kiss is he. Seize him." 49. And he immediately drew near to Y'shua and said to him, "Peace, Rabbi." And he kissed him. 50. And Y'shua said to him, "Is it for this reason you have come my friend?" Then they drew near and placed their hands upon Y'shua and seized him. 51. And behold, one of those who was with Y'shua stretched out his hand and drew the sword and attacked a servant of the high priest and cut his ear off. 52. Then Y'shua said to him, "Return the sword to its place, for all who take up swords will die by swords. 53. Or don't you think that I am able to ask my Father to raise up twelve legions of Messengers? 54. How then could the Scriptures be fulfilled? Thus say that it must be." 55. In that hour Y'shua said to the crowds, "As against a bandit you have come out with swords and staffs to arrest me. Every day I was sitting among you in the temple and was teaching, and you did not arrest me. 56. But this happened that the writings of the prophets might be fulfilled." Then the disciples all left him and fled.<sup>276</sup> 57. And those who seized Y'shua led him to the high priest Qayapa,<sup>277</sup> where the scribes and elders were gathered. 58. Shimon who was called Keefa was following after him from a distance up to the court of the high priest. And he entered and sat inside among the guards that he might see the end. 59. Now the chief priests and the elders and the whole assembly were seeking witnesses against Y'shua so that they might kill him.<sup>278</sup>

275 The spirit of man is vested with power by the Ruach haKodesh. By studying Torah and worshipping YHWH, the neshama (spirit of man) disciplines the mind and, in turn, the mind disciplines the body, providing lasting success (see Joshua 1:8). The lower level of consciousness "mind over matter" operates on willpower, which has many limitations.

276 Khabouris has a stray disconnected qoph in this line, between the words kulhon shaqohi.

277 Qayapa (or Caiaphas) was the son of Khanan (Annas). See John 18:13.

278 The pride of fallen man sits as his own authority and desires to destroy that which he cannot dominate.

60. And they did not find them, but many false witnesses came. But at the end, two came forward. 61. And said, "This man said that, 'I am able to tear down the temple of Elohim, and in three days rebuild it!'" 62. And arose the high priest and said to him, "Do you not answer to this matter, what it is that these witnesses have against you?" 63. But Y'shua was silent and the high priest said to him, "I adjure you by the living Elohim, that you tell us if you are the Mashiyach, the Son of Elohim." 64. Y'shua said to him, "You have said it. But I say to you that from now on you will see the Son of man sitting at the right hand of power and coming upon the clouds of heaven."<sup>279</sup> 65. Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, "Behold he blasphemes! Why therefore do we need witnesses? Behold now you have heard his blasphemy."<sup>280</sup> 66. What do you want to do?" They answered and said, "He is deserving of death." 67. Then they spat upon his face and they were striking him on his head, and others were beating him. 68. And they were saying to him, "Prophecy to us Mashiyach, who is the one who beat you?" 69. And Keefa was sitting in the courtyard outside. A certain maid drew near to him and said, "You were also with Y'shua the Nasraya."<sup>281</sup> 70. But he denied it before all of them and said, "I do not know what you are saying." 71. And when he went out to the porch, another maid saw him and said to them that were there, "This man was also with Y'shua the Nasraya." 72. And again he denied it with oaths, "I do not know the man!" 73. And after a little while, those who were standing by said to Keefa, "Surely you are also with them, for your speech makes you known." 74. Then he began to curse and to say, "I do not know the man!" And in that hour, the cock crowed. 75. And Keefa remembered the word which Y'shua said to him that, "Before the cock crows three times, you will deny me." And he went outside and wept bitterly.

Chapter 27

1. And when it was morning, the chief priests, and the elders of the people all took counsel against Y'shua, so that they might put him to death. 2. And they bound him and took him and delivered him to Peelatos the governor. 3. Then Yehuda the traitor, when he saw that Y'shua was convicted, he repented and went and returned those thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and to the elders. 4. And he said, "I have sinned because I have betrayed innocent blood." But they said to him, "What is that to us? That is your problem." 5. And he threw the silver into the temple and departed and went and hanged himself. 6. Now the chief priests picked up the silver and said, "It is not Lawful to put it in the house of offerings, because the price of it is blood." 7. And they took counsel and bought a field of a potter with it as a cemetery for strangers. 8. To this day, that field is called The Field Of Blood because of this. 9. Then the thing was fulfilled which was spoken of by the prophet<sup>282</sup> who said, "I took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of the precious one which was agreed upon by those sons of Israel. 10. And I gave them for the field of a potter as Master YHWH commanded me."<sup>283</sup>

<sup>280</sup> The Pharisees, Sadducees and most religions tend to make up religious traditions of what "blasphemy" or "unpardonable sin" is when their leadership authority is being challenged or questioned. Please see footnote on Yochanan 5:18

<sup>281</sup> The word Nasraya (Nazarene) is also associated with the word Nazarite, as in the Nazarite vow which is done to separate oneself unto YHWH. The attributes of Mashiyach the Netzer (Isaiah 11:1-4) and the Nazarite (Numbers 6) are all about being separated unto YHWH for a distinctive purpose. See Netzer in Appendix.

<sup>282</sup> The Greek manuscripts incorrectly identify the prophetic quote as coming from Jeremiah. The reality, though, is the right source is in fact Zechariah 11:12-13, "I told them if you think it best give me my pay, but if not keep it. So they paid me thirty pieces of silver. And YHWH said to me, 'Throw it to the potter'—the handsome price at which they priced me! So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of YHWH to the potter." The Greek redactor instead is probably thinking of Jeremiah 19:11 which comes close to evoking similar themes but is not a precise match as the Zechariah quote is, saying instead: "This is what YHWH Almighty says: I will smash this nation and this city just as this potter's jar is smashed and cannot be repaired. They will bury the dead in Topheth until there is no more room." Only the Peshitta traditions effectively deal with the matter by not naming the prophet at all, but the Aramaic is clear that a single man is intended.

11. Now Y'shua stood before the governor, and the governor asked him and said to him, "Are you the King of the Yehudeans?" Y'shua said to him, "You have said it." 12. And while the chief priests and elders were accusing him, he did not return an answer. 13. Then Peelatos said to him, "Do you not hear how much they testify against you?" 14. And he did not give an answer to him, not even with one word. And he greatly marveled at this. 15. Now at every feast it was the governor's custom to free one prisoner to the people, whomever they were desiring. 16. Now they had imprisoned a well-known prisoner who was called Bar Abba. 17. And when they were gathered, Peelatos said to them, "Whom do you desire to be freed to you? Bar Abba or Y'shua, who is called the Mashiyach?" 18. For Peelatos was realizing that they had delivered him because of envy. 19. Now while the governor was sitting on his judgment-seat, his wife sent to him and said to him, "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered greatly in my dream today because of him." 20. But the chief priests and elders persuaded the crowds to ask for Bar Abba and to destroy Y'shua. 21. And the governor answered and said to them, "Whom do you desire to be freed to you from these two?" And they said, "Bar-Abba!" 22. And Peelatos said to them, "And Y'shua who is called the Mashiyach, what should I do to him?" They all said, "Let him be put to death on the stake!" 23. The governor said to them, "What evil indeed has he done?" But all the more they cried out and said, "Let him be put to death on the stake!" 24. And Peelatos<sup>284</sup> when he saw that nothing helped, but instead the clamor was increasing, he took water and washed his hands before the crowd and said, "I am innocent of the blood of this righteous man, you do as you please." 25. And answered all the people and said, "Let his blood be upon us and upon our children."<sup>285</sup> 26. Then he released Bar Abba to them and scourged Y'shua with whips, and delivered him to be put to death on the stake. 27. Then the soldiers of the governor took Y'shua to the Praetorium<sup>286</sup> and assembled against him all of the company of soldiers. 28. And they stripped him and clothed him with a robe of purple. 29. And they wove a crown of thorns and put it on his head, and a reed in his right hand. And they bowed down upon their knees before him and they were mocking at him and saying, "Peace King of the Yehudeans." 30. And they spat in his face and took the reed and were striking him upon his head. 31. And when they had mocked him, they took off the robe and put on his own clothes, and led him away to be put to death on the stake. 32. And while they were going out they found a man of Qureenya, whose name was Shimon. They compelled this man that he might carry his stake. 33. And they came to the place which is called Golgotha, which is interpreted, The Skull. 34. And they gave to him vinegar that was mixed with gall to drink. And he tasted it, and he did not desire to drink it. 35. And when they had nailed him to the stake, they divided his clothes by casting lots.<sup>287</sup> 36. And they were sitting watching him there. 37. And they placed over his head the reason for his death in writing,

THIS IS Y'SHUA, THE KING OF THE YEHUDEANS<sup>288</sup>

284 Khabouris adds Peelatos (Pilate) here for clarification as well as in the following verse.

285 Exodus 20:5 is being referenced here, which indicates that YHWH visits sins up to the fourth generation. Some of the Sanhedrin were concerned that Y'shua was innocent; they concluded that if he was innocent, a worst case scenario would bring a curse on them lasting four generations. However, if Y'shua was guilty and if the Romans became angry, they feared Israel would be wiped off the face of the earth, hence, not only four generations but all future generations would be affected. This idea was also stated by the high priest in John 11:48. This grossly misunderstood (or twisted) verse was fashioned into a "the blood curse" by Christians against the Jewish people. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #17: His Blood Be upon Us and Our Children in Appendix.

286 The Praetorium was located on the North West corner of the Temple, inside the Antonia Fortress. It had a maximum capacity of 200 people. A handful of religious fanatics used crowd psychology against Y'shua to unfairly influence the outcome and the souls in attendance certainly did not represent the entire Jewish race; of the 200 attendees the greatest number were most likely soldiers who were protecting Rome's interests in silencing Y'shua. Y'shua's followers wanted to crown him as their king; this also brought much consternation to the elite of the Roman hierarchy. It was not "the Jews" who put Y'shua to death, but a handful of "scribes and elders" with the consent of their officiating "chief rabbi" and "high priest" who were also political puppets of Rome and who feared for their own positions of power. History tells us that the common people favored Y'shua, and many priests also became followers of Y'shua; see Acts 6:7.

287 Psalm 22:18 says, "They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture." This Psalm provides no less than 35 elements of Messianic specific prophecies, including Ps 22:17 (16 in Christian Bibles) where kari "like a lion" and karu "they pierced" are much disputed between Jewish and Christian scholars. Psalm 22 contains Messianic elements such as the Olam Haba (World to Come), the call to bring people out of poverty, the call for the "mishphocha Goyee" (families of the nations) to worship YHWH also aims squarely at Y'shua as HaMashiyach. No other Jew in history comes close to fulfilling the volumes of these specific prophecies, especially when it comes to bringing "the Jewish Bible" to the nations.

288 Although there are slight variations in the Gospels regarding this inscription, according to Yochanan (John) 19:19 the Hebrew inscription read "Y'shua HaNetzari VeMelech HaYehudim", the beginning letter of each of the four words spells YHWH, please see footnote on John 19:20.

38. And there were put on execution stakes with him two bandits, one on his right, and one on his left. 39. And those who were passing by were blaspheming, were against him, and were nodding their heads.<sup>289</sup> 40. And they were saying, “Oh you who would tear down the temple and rebuild it in three days! Deliver yourself if you are the Son of Elohim and come down from the stake.” 41. Likewise, the chief priests were also mocking together with the scribes, the elders, and the Pharisees. 42. And they were saying, “He saved others, but he is not able to save himself. If he is the King of Israel, let him come down now from the stake so that we may believe in him. 43. He put his trust in Elohim, let him save him now if he is pleased with him. For he said that, ‘I am the Son of Elohim.’”<sup>290</sup> 44. Likewise, even those bandits who were nailed to the stake with him were reproaching him. 45. Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour. 46. And about the ninth hour, Y’shua cried out with a loud voice and said, “My El! My El! [Lemana shabakthani] Why have you spared me?”<sup>291</sup> 47. And some of those men who were standing there when they heard it were saying, “This man calls to Eliyahu.” 48. And immediately, one of them ran and took a sponge and filled it with vinegar and put it on a reed, and was offering a drink to him.<sup>292</sup> 49. But the rest were saying, “Let him be. Let us see if Eliyahu comes to save him.” 50. Then again Y’shua cried out with a loud voice<sup>293</sup> and gave up his spirit. 51. And immediately, the curtains at the door of the temple were torn in two from the top to the bottom. And the earth was shaken and the rocks were split. 52. And the tombs were opened and many bodies of the Set Apart believers<sup>294</sup> who were asleep arose, 53. And went out. And after his resurrection, they entered into the Set Apart city and were seen by many. 54. And the centurion, and those with him who were watching Y’shua, when they saw the earthquake and those things that had occurred, they were very afraid and said, “Truly this was the Son of Elohim.” 55. And there were also many women there who were looking from afar - those who had come after Y’shua from Galeela and had ministered to him. 56. One of them was Maryam of Magdala, and Maryam the mother of Ya’akov and of Yoseh, and the mother of the sons of Zawdee. 57. Now when it became evening,<sup>295</sup> a rich man from Ramtha whose name was Yosip who also was taught by Y’shua, 58. This man drew near to Peelatos and asked for the body of Y’shua. And Peelatos commanded that the body be given to him. 59. And Yosip took the body and wrapped it in a shroud of fine linen. 60. And he laid it in his new tomb, which was hewn in rock. And they rolled a large boulder and they placed it upon the entrance of the tomb. And they departed. 61. And there were Maryam of Magdala and the other Maryam who were sitting opposite the tomb. 62. And on the next day, which was after the sunset,<sup>296</sup> the chief priests and the Pharisees were gathered with Peelatos.

290 Psalm 22:8, 9

291 The Hebrew azbatani is derived from the Hebrew azab (Strong’s #5800) which has been translated as: loosen, relinquish, permit, release, set free, forsake, abandon, leave behind, omit, and relax. It cannot mean forsaken, as we think of the word, because it is not possible that YHWH forsake Himself. Father YHWH does not separate Himself from Mashiyach (His Son), look away from him and pour out His wrath on His Son. Many Bibles read “forsaken” from which came a false teaching that the Father left Y’shua destitute (Marcionite thinking). Also, Y’shua was not necessarily quoting Psalm 22, although the imagery of the Psalm is certainly intended by Matthew. Greek is transliterated Eli, Eli lama sabachthani, but Peshitta and Psalm 22 read: Eli, Eli lama azbatani. Isaiah 53:4 indicates that “we” reckoned him smitten of Elohim, but it is not YHWH who tortured His own son, but men operating under haSatan’s authority. Psalm 22 references those who scorned Y’shua for his Faith in YHWH and called him a worm (detested), but Father YHWH does not forsake the righteous, nor does He at any time “forsake” His own Son – see Psalm 9:9, 10; 37:25; 71:11; Isaiah 49:14-16. Y’shua says “Eli” (my El). He is in great physical pain after being brutally tortured; those around him were confused about whether he was saying “Eli-yah” or “Eliyahu”. If Hebrew eyewitnesses were not sure of what he was saying, it shouldn’t be a surprise that Greek transliteration was also wrong, putting “lama sabachthani” rather than “lemana shabakthani”. Perhaps the reason Y’shua says “why are you sparing me” is because he has proven his commitment by laying down his life and has already endured about six hours of the execution. So, it’s not a matter of being “forsaken” but that he literally means, “Father, I’m ready, why can’t we finish this?” In a matter of moments from saying this, he dies, which fully supports this interpretation. See Appendix “My El! My El!...”.

293 See Luke 23:46 for his final words.

294 Being “Set Apart” unto YHWH, means to be led by the Ruach haKodesh to keep the Commandments of YHWH. Belief in itself does not make one Set Apart; even the demons “believe” in YHWH and His Mashiyach (Ya’akov [James] 2:19).

295 The first of two “evenings” that marked how ancient Hebrews observed the transition from day into night; ramsha, like the Hebrew erev, can refer to either the late afternoon, as it does here, or sunset. The former is indicated here because 27:62 states that sunset happened later, from which the Jewish day officially began as per Genesis 1:5. It can be read, “and when the sun was darkened” referring to the “early erev” between the sixth and ninth hours, as also defined in Jeremiah 6:4 and Amos 8:9-10. See Divisions of the Day in Appendix.

296 This is “after sunset” and not “after the preparation”. The day Y’shua is crucified is Thursday, the 15th of Abib and a high Shabbat, so “after sunset” means the period between Thursday sunset and before Friday at sunset. The word erubata is not used for “preparation” in Aramaic. In fact, the entire phrase “day of preparation” is lacking in the whole Aramaic NT! Please see Ephesians 6:15 where toyabeh is used in the phrase, “with the preparation for the Good News of peace”. If it were the “day of preparation” the phrase would be yomata d’toyaba, which is not in the text. Also see the same word in Luke 22:8 with the phrase, zelo tayebaw lan petzcha (literally, “go prepare for us the Pesach”).

63. And they were saying to him, “Our master, we have remembered that that deceiver would say while he was alive that, “After three days, I will arise.” 64. Command, therefore, that they guard the grave until the third day, or else his disciples come steal him in the night and say to the people that he has risen from the dead. And the last deception should become worse than the first. 65. Peelatos said to them, “You have the guards. Go and take precautions as you know.” 66. And they departed and took precautions by the grave and set a seal upon that stone together with the guards.

Chapter 28

1. Now in the closing (evening)<sup>297</sup> of the Sabbath, as the first of the week was dawning, came Maryam of Magdala and the other Maryam that they might see the grave. 2. And behold a great earthquake occurred for a Messenger of Master YHWH descended from heaven and came and rolled away the boulder from the entrance, and he was sitting upon it. 3. And his appearance was like lightning and his clothes were white like snow. 4. And from the fear of him, those who were watching trembled and they became like the dead. 5. But the Messenger answered and said to the women, “Do not fear, for I know that Y’shua who was executed on the stake, you seek. 6. He is not here. For he has risen as he said. Come see the place in which he was laid. 7. Now go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead. And behold he goes before you to Galeela. There you will see him. Behold, I have told you. 8. And they departed quickly from the grave with fear and with great joy and were running that they might tell his disciples. 9. And behold, Y’shua met up with them and said to them, “Peace to you.” And they drew near and grabbed his feet and worshipped him. 10. Then Y’shua said to them, “Do not fear. Rather, go and tell my brothers to go to Galeela, and there they will see me.” 11. Now when they had departed, some men came from those soldiers to the city and told the chief priests everything that happened. 12. And they were assembled with the elders and they took counsel and they gave not a small amount of money to the soldiers. 13. And they said to them, “Say that his disciples came and stole him in the middle of the night while we were sleeping.” 14. And if this is heard before the governor, we will persuade him to not make trouble for you. 15. And when (the soldiers) took the money, they did as (the Yehudeans) had instructed them. And this word has gone out among the Yehudeans to this day. 16. Now the eleven disciples went to Galeela to the mountain where Y’shua had arranged for them to meet. 17. And when they saw him, they worshipped him, but some of them were doubting. 18. And Y’shua drew near and spoke with them and said to them, “All authority is given to me in heaven and on earth. And as my Father has sent me, I send you.”<sup>298</sup> 19. Go therefore, make disciples of all nations and immerse them in the name<sup>299</sup> of the Father and of the Son and of the Ruach haKodesh. 20. And teach them to keep all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you all the days until the end of the world.<sup>300</sup> Amen.”

297 Aramaic literally reads “b’ramsha din b’shabata,” or “in the evening of the Shabbat.” What is true for “dawning” is also true of “setting” in the sense of “conclusion” as is meant here. This agrees with Greek version, Aramaic information in Matthew, and with other writers in the NT. Murdock and Etheridge also confirm this idiomatic reading in their translations.

298 Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905 have identical meaning but with different phrases.

299 Aramaic has “name” – singular – which does not support the traditional trinity theology. Ruach haKodesh is a title for YHWH, see Isaiah 63:1-11; Psalm 51:1-11. The Son has his Father’s Name within him and the Father keeps His people in His Name; John 17:11. As a result, imagine three branches of the same tree rather than three separate trees. Each branch is united by the Name/Title of the One Divine Personality that is YHWH Elohim. This linkage is established in Shemot/ Exodus 23:20-22 where a Messenger, unlike any other “angel” can forgive sin because YHWH says, “for My Name is in Him”. All other “angels” have EL in their name but Y’shua’s Name is above the angels, hence Yah/YHWH is in Y’shua’s name (Matthew 1:21, Hebrews 1:1-5). Nazarenes have from the very beginning taught salvation in the Name of YHWH. See Immerser in Appendix.

300 Or end of the age, as Aramaic alma means both. The exact meanings apply to the Greek word aion used here, making this one of the few times where an original Aramaic word is perfectly matched with the Greek.

Chapter 1

1. The beginning of the Good News of Y'shua the Mashiyach the Son of Elohim, 2. As it is written by the prophet Yesha'yahu, "Behold I will send my Messenger before your face that he prepare your way."<sup>1</sup> 3. A voice which cries in the wilderness, "Prepare the way of Master YHWH and straighten his paths."<sup>2</sup> 4. Yochanan was in the wilderness immersing and preaching the immersion of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. 5. And to him was going out all of the region of Yehuda and all of the children of Urishlim, and he would immerse them in the Yordanan<sup>3</sup> river while they confessed their sins. 6. And Yochanan was clothed with camel hair clothing and was bound with leather around his loins. And his food was locusts and wild honey.<sup>4</sup> 7. And he would preach and say, "Behold one who comes after me is more powerful than I. I am not worthy to stoop and loosen the straps of his sandals. 8. I immerse you in water, but he will immerse you by the Ruach haKodesh."<sup>5</sup> 9. And it was in those days that Y'shua came from Nazrath of Galeela and was immersed in the Yordanan river by Yochanan. 10. And at once when he arose from the water, he saw heaven split and the Spirit descended on him like a dove. 11. And a voice was heard from heaven, "You are my beloved Son. I am pleased in you." 12. And at once the Spirit drove him into the wilderness. 13. And he was there in the wilderness forty days while being tempted by Satan. And he was among wild animals and Messengers were ministering to him. 14. But after Yochanan was delivered up, Y'shua came to Galeela and was preaching the Good News of the Kingdom of Elohim. 15. And he said, "The time is complete and the Kingdom of Elohim has arrived. Repent and believe in the Good News." 16. And while he was walking around the sea of Galeela, he saw Shimon and Andraus his brother who were casting nets into the sea for they were fishermen. 17. And Y'shua said to them, "Come follow me and I will make you fishers of the sons of men." 18. And they abandoned their nets at once and followed him. 19. And as he crossed further, he saw Ya'akov the son of Zawdee and also Yochanan his brother. And they were in a boat<sup>6</sup> fixing their nets. 20. And he called them and at once they left their father, Zawdee in the boat with the hired help and followed him. 21. And when they entered Capurnakhum, he would immediately teach every Shabbat in their assemblies. 22. And they were amazed by his teaching. For he would teach them as an authority, and not as their scribes. 23. And there was a man in their assembly in whom was an unclean spirit, and he cried out, 24. And said, What have we to do with you Y'shua the Nasraya? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, you are the Set Apart One of Elohim. 25. And Y'shua rebuked him and said, "Shut your mouth and come out from him!" 26. And the unclean spirit threw him down and cried out in a loud voice and came out of him. 27. And all of them were astonished and were asking each other and saying, "And what is this new teaching? For with authority he even commands unclean spirits, and they obey him."<sup>6</sup> 28. And his fame went out at once into the country of Galeela. 29. And they departed from the assembly and came to the house of Shimon and Andraus with Ya'akov and Yochanan. 30. And the mother-in-law of Shimon was ill with a fever, and they told him about her. 31. And he approached and took her by the hand and raised her. And at once, the fever left her and she ministered to them.

2 Isaiah 40:3

3 Khabouris appends "river" to "Jordan".

4 1 Samuel 14:27

5 Khabouris lacks "in the boat" and so the 1905 phrase is retained.

6 Khabouris and 1905 have alternate transposition of words that has no effect on meaning.

32. And in the evening at the setting of the sun,<sup>7</sup> they brought him all those who were severely diseased and possessed. 33. And all the city was assembled at the door. 34. And he healed many who were severely diseased with diverse weaknesses. And he cast out many demons, and he did not allow the demons to speak, because they knew him. 35. And in the morning, he arose very early and went to a secluded place, and there he was praying. 36. And Shimon and those with him were looking for him. 37. And when they found him they said to him, "All the people are looking for you." 38. He said to them, "Walk into the villages and into the cities that are nearby, for I will also preach there. I have come for this reason." 39. And he would preach in all their assemblies in all of Galeela and cast out demons. 40. And a leper came to him and fell upon his feet and was beseeching him and said to him, "If you desire, you are able to make me clean." 41. And he, Y'shua, had compassion on him and stretched out his hand and said, "I desire, be clean." 42. And at that moment, his leprosy departed from him and he was made clean.<sup>8</sup> 43. And he rebuked him and he went out. 44. And he said to him, "See to it that you tell no man, rather go show yourself to the priests and offer an offering for your purification as Moshe commanded for their testimony." 45. But when he departed he began much preaching and made known the event so that Y'shua was not able to openly enter the city, but was outside in a deserted place. And they were coming to him from every place.

Chapter 2

1. And after some days Y'shua entered into Capurnakhum again, and when they heard that he was in the house, 2. So many gathered that the house was not able to hold them - not even in front of the door. And he was speaking the Word among them. 3. And they came to him and brought him a paralytic being carried by four men. 4. Then when they were not able to approach him because of the crowds, they climbed up to the roof and lifted the covering of the place where Y'shua was, and lowered the pallet upon which was laid that paralytic. 5. And when Y'shua saw their faith he said to that paralytic, "My son, you are forgiven your sins." 6. Now there were some scribes and Pharisees who were sitting and were thinking in their hearts, 7. "Why this man speaks blasphemy!<sup>9</sup> Who is able to forgive sins except the one Elohim?" 8. But Y'shua knew in his spirit these things that they were thinking in themselves. And he said to them, "Why do you think these things in your hearts? 9. Which is easier to say to the paralytic that, 'Your sins are forgiven you' or to say, 'Get up! Take your pallet and walk?' 10. But that you might know that it is Lawful for the Son of man to forgive sins on earth," he said to the paralytic, 11. "I say to you, arise and take your pallet and go to your house." 12. And at once he arose and took his pallet and departed in the sight of everyone, so that all of them were amazed. And they gave glory to Elohim while saying they had never seen such. 13. And again he went to the sea. And all the crowds were coming to him, and he would teach them.

7 More evidence of the dual nature of ramsha/erev which can refer to either late afternoon or sunset. If ramsha always meant "sunset" there would be no need to add that detail here. Such a distinction is also found in Joshua 8:29, where there is clear separation between the time Joshua hangs a man on a tree at erev, and the time when he orders the body taken down at shemesh (sundown).

8 Khabouris and 1905 have alternate transposition of words that has no effect on meaning.

9 Blasphemer (by the Pharisaic definition), is a person who makes himself out to be equal with YHWH or who elevates themselves as being above the need for Set Apart righteous conduct. Mashiyach, the Only-Begotten Son of YHWH is no exception when it comes to the foremost need for righteous conduct. However, what the Pharisees failed to comprehend is that it was not an issue of Y'shua's "humanity", but the Ruach HaKodesh in Mashiyach that is "equal" to, and of YHWH. Please see footnote on Yochanan 5:18.

14. And while passing by, he saw Lewi, the son of Khalpai, who was sitting at the custom house, and said to him, "Come follow me!" And he arose and went and followed him. 15. And it happened that when he was seated at his house, many publicans and sinners were seated with Y'shua and with his disciples. For there were many, and they followed him. 16. And when the scribes and the Pharisees saw that he was eating with the publicans and with the sinners, said to his disciples, "Who eats and drinks among publicans and sinners?"<sup>10</sup> 17. But when Y'shua heard, he said to them, "The healthy have no need for a physician, rather those who are very ill. I have not come to call the righteous, rather the sinners." 18. Now the disciples of Yochanan and the Pharisees would fast, and they came and said to him, "Why do the disciples of Yochanan and the Pharisees fast, and your disciples do not fast?" 19. Y'shua said to them, "As long as the bridegroom is among them, the sons of the wedding feast are able not to fast. 20. But the days will come when the bridegroom will be taken from them. In that day they will then fast. 21. No man places a new patch onto an old garment and sews it, or else the new patch be taken away from the old and the tear becomes larger. 22. And no man puts new wine into old wineskins or else the wine burst the wineskins, and the wineskins are destroyed and the wine is poured out. Rather, they put new wine into new wineskins." 23. And it happened that when Y'shua went walking through the sown fields on the Shabbat, his disciples were walking and plucking the grain. 24. And the Pharisees said to him, "See what they are doing on the Shabbat – something that is not Lawful." 25. Y'shua said to them, "Have you never read what Dawid did when he was in need and hungered, he and those with him? 26. How he entered the House of Elohim while Awiathar was the high priest, and he ate of the bread of the table of Master YHWH which was not Lawful to eat except for the priests. And he even gave to those who were with him?" 27. And then he said to them, "For the Shabbat was created for man, and not man made for the Shabbat. 28. Thus, the Son of man is also the master of the Shabbat."

1. And Y'shua entered into the assembly again and there was a certain man with a withered hand. 2. And they were watching him so that they might accuse him if he healed him on the Shabbat, 3. Then he said to that man whose hand was withered, "Arise in the midst." 4. And he also said to them, "Is it Lawful to do that which is good on the Shabbat? Or to destroy that which is evil or to give life to a soul?" But they were silent. 5. Then he gazed at them with anger being saddened by the hardness of their hearts. And he said to that man, "Stretch forth your hand." And he stretched it out and his hand was restored. 6. And the Pharisees left immediately and took counsel with the Herodians against him so that they might destroy him. 7. And Y'shua with his disciples went to the sea, and many people from Galeela joined him and from Yehuda, 8. And from Urishlim, and from Edom, and from across the Yordanan, and from Tsur, and from Tsidon. They came to him, many crowds who had heard everything that he had done.

<sup>10</sup> Khabouris reads "chews and drinks with sinners." The 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts read "eats and drinks with sinners." The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

9. Then he asked his disciples to bring a boat to him because of the crowds, or else they press in on him. 10. For he had healed so many! So much so that they were falling upon him in order to touch him. 11. And those who had infirmities of unclean spirits, when they saw him, were falling and crying out and saying, “You are the Son of Elohim!” 12. And he was rebuking them harshly that they not reveal him. 13. And he went up a mountain and called on those whom he desired, and they came to him. 14. And he chose twelve to be with him and to send them to preach, 15. And be authorities to heal the sick and to cast out demons. 16. And he named Shimon the name Keefa. 17. And Ya’akov the son of Zawdee and Yochanan the brother of Ya’akov, to them he gave the name Bnay-Raghshee.<sup>11</sup> (That is, the sons of thunder) 18. And Andraus and Pileepos and (Nathanael) Bar-Tulmay and Mattai and Tooma and Ya’akov the son of Khalpai, and Taddi and Shimon the Zealot 19. And Yehuda Skaryota, he who betrayed him. And they came to a house. 20. And the crowds gathered again so that they were not able to eat. 21. And when his own family heard, they went out to seize him, for they were saying he was crazy. 22. And those scribes who had come down from Urishlim were saying, “Beelzebub is in him,” and, “He casts out demons by the chief of demons.” 23. And Y’shua called them and by parables told them, “How is Satan able to cast out Satan? 24. For if a kingdom is against itself, it will be divided. That kingdom is not able to stand. 25. And if a house is against itself, it will be divided. That house will not be able to stand. 26. And if he that belongs to Satan rises against himself, and is divided, he is not able to stand, rather, he is at his end. 27. No man is able to enter the house of a strong man and to seize his possessions except first he bind the strong man and then plunder his house. 28. Truly I say to you, that all sins and blasphemies that the sons of man will blaspheme will be forgiven them. 29. But he who blasphemes against the Ruach haKodesh has no forgiveness ever, rather he is guilty before the eternal judgment.” 30. This is because they were saying that an unclean spirit is in him. 31. And came his mother and his brothers standing outside. And they sent someone to call him to them. 32. Now a crowd was sitting around him, and they said to him, “Behold, your mother and your brothers are outside seeking you.” 33. And he answered and said to them, “Who is my mother? And who are my brothers?” 34. And he gazed at those who sat among him and said, “Behold my mother and behold my brothers. 35. For he who does the will of Elohim is my brother and my sister and my mother.”<sup>12</sup>

Chapter 4

1. And again he would begin to teach by the side of the sea, and large crowds were gathered around him, so that he embarked and sat in a boat on the sea. And all the crowds would stand on the ground by the side of the sea. 2. And he would teach them by parables, and would say many in his teaching. 3. “Listen! Behold, a sower went out to sow. 4. And while he sowed, some fell on the side of the road, and the birds came and ate it.

<sup>11</sup> A key scribal gloss, where the translator wrote an explanation in the text to clarify “benay ragshee” which could have a half dozen possible meanings. Nearly all of the scribal glosses in the Greek NT, Mark in particular, are not found in the Peshitta as Aramaic readers do not require help to understand their own language. Here the translator knew his readers would require clarification, so he put a narrative right into the text. These scribal glosses prove that the original text was not Greek, but Aramaic.

5. And others fell on stony ground where there is not much earth. And it sprouted at once because there was no depth of earth. 6. But it was burned when the sun came up. Because it had no root, it dried up. 7. Others fell into a thorny place and the thorns rose up and choked it, and it bore no fruit. 8. But others fell on good ground and rose up and matured and bore some fruit thirty, and some sixty, and some one hundred fold.” 9. And he would say, “He who has ears to hear, let him hear.” 10. Now, when they were alone, his twelve, those who were with him, asked him about that parable. 11. And Y’shua said to them, “It is given to you to understand the mystery of the Kingdom of Elohim, but to those outside, everything is in parables. 12. So that when they see, they will not yet see, and when they hear, they will not hear and comprehend. Unless perhaps they return and their sins be forgiven them.”<sup>13</sup> 13. And he said to them, “You do not understand this parable, how then will you understand all parables? 14. The sower who sowed, he sowed the word. 15. And those that fell on the side of the road are those in whom the word is sown, and when they have heard, Satan comes immediately and takes the word which was sown in their hearts. 16. And those that on stony ground were sown are these that when they heard the word, they received it immediately in joy. 17. And they have no roots in themselves, rather are of a short time and when affliction happens, or persecutions because of the word, they are quickly offended. 18. And those which were sown into a thorny place are they who<sup>14</sup> hear the word, 19. And the cares of the world and the deception of riches and the rest of the other lusts enter in and choke the word and it becomes without fruit. 20. And those that were sown upon good ground, are those who have heard the word and received it and bear fruit thirty times, and sixty times, and one hundred times.” 21. And he said to them, “Is a lamp<sup>15</sup> brought that is placed under a basket, or under a bed? Should it not be placed on a lamp stand? 22. For there is not anything which is hidden that will not be revealed, and not anything existing in secret that won’t be revealed. 23. If any man has ears to hear, let him hear.” 24. And he said to them, “Watch what you hear. With that measure that you measure. It will be measured to you and it is increased to you, those who hear.” 25. For to him who has, it shall be given. And for him who has not, also that is to be taken from him. 26. And he would say, such is the Kingdom of Elohim as a man who casts seeds upon the ground. 27. And he will sleep at night and in the day arise, and the seed will grow and sprout while he is not aware. 28. For the ground brings forth the fruit. And first comes the plant, and after it, the ear, and finally the grain in the full ear. 29. And when the fruit is ripe, immediately comes the sickle because the harvest has arrived.” 30. And he said, “What is the Kingdom of Elohim like? And with what parable can we compare it? 31. It is as a grain of mustard which when it is planted in the earth, is the smallest of all the seeds that are upon the earth.

13 Isaiah 6:9, 10

14 Khabouris adds “who” for clarity. This reading is adopted in the Aramaic. Also this imagery of seed falling into a “thorny place” is most interesting. In Hebrew the word for “thorny” is Sinai and the word for “wasteland” is Mount Sinai’s other name, Horeb. So the Torah (Word) was given in a thorny wasteland, and the cares of the Israelites almost doomed it from ever bringing salvation! Much the same spiritual bankruptcy and hypocrisy is still going on in Y’shua’s day which is why it is being addressed in this manner.

15 Khabouris has an isolated qoph between the words “brought” and “lamp”.

Y’shua was speaking with them with parables like these such as they were able to hear.<sup>16</sup> 34. And he would not speak to them without parables, but to his disciples he would privately explain everything. 35. And at evening on that day<sup>17</sup> he said to them, “Let us cross over to the other side.” 36. And they left the crowds and took him away while he was in a boat. And there were other boats with them. 37. And there was a great storm and wind and waves were falling into the boat, and it was about to be filled. 38. And Y’shua was sleeping on a blanket in the stern of the boat. And they came and woke him and were saying to him, “Master, don’t you care? We are perishing!” 39. And he arose and rebuked the wind and said to the sea, “Cease! Be silent.” And the wind ceased, and a great calm occurred. 40. And he said to them, “Why are you fearful in this manner? And why is there no faith in you?” 41. And they feared with a great fear and were saying to one another, “Who is this man that the winds and sea obey him?”

Chapter 5

1. And he came to the other side of the sea, to the region of the Gadarenes. 2. And when he went out from the boat, a man who had an unclean spirit happened upon him from the cemetery. 3. And he was dwelling in the cemetery. And no man was able to bind him with chains, 4. because whenever he was bound with fetters and chains, he would break the chains and he would cut the fetters and no man was able to subdue him. 5. Always during the night and during the day he was in the cemetery and in the mountains and he would cry out and cut himself with rocks. 6. And when he saw Y’shua from afar, he ran and worshipped him. 7. And he cried out with a loud voice and said, “What have I to do with you, Y’shua the Son of The Most High Elohim? I adjure you by Elohim that you not torment me.” 8. For he was saying to him, “Unclean spirit come out from the man.” 9. And he asked him, “What is your name?” He said to him, “Legion is our name, because we are many.” 10. And he entreated him greatly not to send him out of the country. 11. Now there was a large herd of pigs that were feeding near the mountain. 12. And those demons were entreating him and saying, “Send us upon those pigs that we might attack them.” 13. And he permitted them, and those unclean spirits departed and attacked the pigs. And that herd ran to a steep place and fell into the sea, and about two thousand were drowned in the water. 14. And those who were tending them fled and reported it in the city and also in the villages. And they came out to see what had happened. 15. And they came to Y’shua, and they saw the one possessed of demons dressed and sober and sitting - him in whom Legion had been, and they were afraid. 16. Those who had seen related to them how it happened to the one possessed of the demons and also about those pigs. 17. And they began entreating him to depart from their border. 18. And when he went up into a boat, he who was possessed of the demons was entreating him that he might remain with him.

19. But he did not allow him, rather he said to him, “Go to your house to your people and relate to them what Master YHWH did for you and how he had mercy on you.” 20. And he departed and began to preach in the ten cities what Y’shua had done for him. And all of them were amazed. 21. And when Y’shua had crossed over in a boat to that other side, great crowds again gathered around him, while he was on the side of the sea. 22. And a certain man came whose name was Yoarash from the rulers of the assembly. And when he saw him, he fell upon his feet. 23. And (he) was greatly entreating him and said to him, “My daughter is very sick. Please come place your hand on her and she will be made whole.” 24. And Y’shua went with him, and a great crowd were following him. And they were pressing on him. 25. And a certain woman who had a flow of blood twelve years, 26. Who had suffered much from the many doctors and had spent everything she had and was not helped at all, but was even more afflicted, 27. When she heard about Y’shua, she came through the press of the crowd and she touched his clothing from behind him. 28. For she was saying that, “If only I touch his clothing, I will live.” 29. And immediately the flow of her blood dried up, and she felt in her body that she had been healed of her sickness. 30. Now Y’shua immediately knew in himself that power had gone out from him, and he turned around to the crowd and said, “Who touched my garments?” 31. And his disciples said to him, “You see the crowds that are pressing in on you, and you say, ‘Who touched me?’” 32. But he was looking to see who had done this. 33. And that woman, being afraid and trembling, because she knew what had happened to her came and fell before him and told him all the truth. 34. And he said to her, “My daughter, your faith has given you life. Go in peace and be healed from your sickness.” 35. And while he was speaking, they came from the house of the ruler of the assembly and were saying, “Your daughter is dead. Why, therefore, are you troubling the teacher?” 36. But Y’shua heard the words they were saying and said to the ruler of the assembly, “Do not fear, only believe.” 37. And he did not let anyone go with him except Shimon Keefa and Ya’akov and Yochanan the brother of Ya’akov. 38. And they came to the house of that ruler of the assembly, and saw that they were troubled and weeping and wailing. 39. And Y’shua entered and said to them, “Why are you troubled and weeping? The girl is not dead, rather she is sleeping.”<sup>18</sup> 40. And they were laughing at him, but he sent all of them out, and he took the father of the girl and her mother and those with him and entered where the girl was laid. 41. And he took the hand of the girl and said to her, “Talitha cumi (Young girl, arise).”<sup>19</sup> 42. And at once the girl arose and was walking, for she was a daughter of twelve years. And they were amazed with great amazement. 43. And he much commanded them to tell no man, and he said that they should give her something to eat.

18 Khabouris properly identifies the speaker as Y’shua (here and in 6:1) this has been retained in the Aramaic text.

19 Aramaic original talitha cumi does not add “which is interpreted as” but this phrase was added later when this line was translated into Greek. However “talitha cumi” itself is in proper Aramaic, not Hebrew, form here. It is also interesting to note that the Greek texts preserve in this case the proper sound of Y’shua’s Eastern Aramaic dialect. Eastern Aramaic emphasizes ah sounds on the middle to final syllables of many words with a final Aleph; Western Aramaic however tend to make those Alephs into oh sounds or insert an oh in the second to last syllable as it does here. As a result, Eastern Aramaic for this word is talitha and Western is talithowah.

1. And he departed from there and came to his own city, and his disciples were following him. 2. And when it became the Shabbat, he began to teach in the assembly. And many who heard him were amazed and were saying, "Where did this man acquire these things?" And, "What is this wisdom that was given to him that miracles such as these by his hands may be done?" 3. "Is this not the carpenter, the son of Maryam and the brother of Ya'akov and of Yoseh and of Yehuda and of Shimon?" And, "Behold, aren't his sisters here with us and they were offended at him." 4. And Y'shua said to them, "There is no prophet who is dishonored except in his own city and his own kinsmen and his own house." 5. And he was not able to do even one miracle there,<sup>20</sup> except that upon a few sick he laid his hands and healed them. 6. And he was amazed by their lack of faith, and would go around the villages while teaching. 7. And he called his twelve and began to send them two by two, and he gave them authority over unclean spirits to cast them out. 8. And he commanded them that they not take anything for the road, except a staff alone - no bag, and no bread, and no brass (money) in their purses. 9. Rather, that they wear sandals and not wear two tunics. 10. And he said to them that, "Into that house that you enter, you stay there until you depart from there. 11. And whoever does not receive you, nor hears you, when you depart from there, shake the dust off that is under your feet for their witness. And I truly say to you that it will be tranquil for Sodom and for Amorah in the day of judgment compared with that city." 12. Then they went out and preached that men should repent. 13. And many demons were cast out, and they were anointing the sick with oil and they healed them. 14. And Herodus the king heard about Y'shua, for his name was made known to him. And he was saying, "Yochanan the Immerser has arisen from the dead, because of this miracle that was done by him." 15. Others were saying that, "He is Eliyahu," and others a prophet that, "He is like one of the prophets." 16. But when Herodus heard, he said, "It is Yochanan whose head I cut off. He has risen from the dead." 17. For Herodus had sent and seized Yochanan and bound<sup>21</sup> him in prison because of Herodia, the wife of his brother Pileepos, whom he had taken.<sup>22</sup> 18. For Yochanan would say to Herodus that, "It is not Lawful to take to you the wife of your bother." 19. And Herodia was a threat to him, and was desiring to kill him and was not able. 20. For Herodus was afraid of Yochanan because he knew that he was a righteous and Set Apart man. And he would protect him in many things, and would listen and did these things, and gladly heard him. 21. Then there was a notable day when Herodus gave a banquet on his birthday for his nobles and captains and heads of Galeela. 22. And the daughter of Herodia entered and danced and pleased Herodus and those who were reclining with him. And the king said to the girl, "Ask anything that you desire from me, and I will give it to you." 23. And he swore to her that, "Anything that you ask, I will give it to you, up to half of my kingdom." 24. But she departed and said to her mother, "What should I ask of him?" She said to her, "The head of Yochanan the Immerser."

20 Y'shua repeatedly teaches his followers that "their faith" made them well; where there is little faith there are few miracles. On this point Victor Alexander observed that when Y'shua is called "teacher" (malpana or rabbi) that healings tend to occur through his direct touch. When called Mari (my Master) Y'shua heals with a word. When they acknowledge him as YHWH or the Son/ Mashiyach, Y'shua healed those who were the furthest distance.

21 Khabouris reads "put him in prison" whereas 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts read "and bound him in prison." 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

22 "Because of Herodia, the wife of his brother Pileepos, whom he had taken." This was probably a sin that Herodia bore more so than Antipas. Torah tells us that if Antipas let his wife go, she could not return to her previous husband, Phillip. As a result, if the Immerser's counsel was followed, Herodia would be have been cut off without a penny to her name. It is fear of this possible disgrace and hardship which may have prompted her to encourage Antipas to murder Yochanan. The historian Josephus also tells us that Herodia's constant plotting eventually got both her and her husband into grave trouble with the Emperor Caligula (Antiquities, 18:230-255).

25. And immediately with diligence she entered to the king and said to him, "I desire that you give the head of Yochanan the Immerser to me on a platter right now!" 26. And it made him very much sad, because of the oaths and because of the guests, he desired not to deny her. 27. Rather immediately the king sent the executioner and commanded that they should bring the head of Yochanan, and he went and cut off the head of Yochanan in prison. 28. And he brought it on a platter and gave it to the girl, and that girl gave it to her mother. 29. And his disciples heard and they came and took his corpse and placed it in a sepulcher. 30. And the Shlichim<sup>23</sup> were gathered around Y'shua and said to him every thing that they had done and everything that they had taught. 31. And he said to them, "Come let us go into the desert alone and rest a little." For there was a large group who were coming and going and they had no place, not even to eat. 32. And they departed in a boat to a deserted place by themselves. 33. And many saw them while they were going,<sup>24</sup> and they recognized them. And they ran by land from all the cities before him to that place. 34. And Y'shua went out and saw the many crowds, and he had compassion on them, for they were resembling sheep who had no shepherd, and he began to teach them many things. 35. Then when the time became late, his disciples drew near to him and said to him, "This place is barren and the time is late. 36. Dismiss them to go into the surrounding fields and villages, and let them buy bread for themselves. For they do not have anything to eat." 37. But he said to them, "You give them something to eat." They said to him, "Should we go and buy two hundred Denarii worth of bread and give it to them to eat?" 38. And he said to them, "Go see how much bread you have here." And when they saw, they said to him, "Five loaves of bread and two fish." 39. And he commanded them to seat everyone by groups upon the grass. 40. And they sat by groups of hundreds and fifties. 41. And he took those five loaves of bread and two fish, and he looked to heaven and blessed and broke the bread and gave it to the disciples to place before them. And those two fish they divided to all. 42. And all ate and were satisfied. 43. And they took up the fragments, twelve baskets full, and of fish. 44. And there were five thousand men of those who ate. 45. And he immediately urged his disciples to go up into the boat and to go before him to the opposite shore, to Beth-Saida, while he dismissed the crowds. 46. And when he dismissed them, he went to a mountain to pray. 47. And when evening came, the boat was in the midst of the sea, and he was alone on land. 48. And he saw them straining while rowing, for the wind was against them. And in the fourth watch of the night, Y'shua came to them while walking on the water. And he had desired to pass by them. 49. But they saw him walking on the water and they thought to themselves that it was a false vision, and they cried out. 50. For all of them saw him and were afraid, and he spoke to them at once and said, "Have courage! It is I. Do not have fear." 51. And he climbed up into the boat with them, and the wind ceased. And they greatly marveled and were astonished among themselves.

52. For they had neither gained insight from the miracle of the bread because their heart was confused. 53. Then when they had crossed to the other side, they came to the land of Genesar. 54. And when they departed from the boat, the people of the place recognized him at once. 55. <sup>25</sup>And they all ran into that region and began to bring those who were very sick, while carrying them on pallets to wherever they had heard that he was. 56. And wherever he had entered into the villages and cities, the sick were placed in the streets and they were entreating him that they might touch the edge of his clothing. And all of those who were touching him were healed.

Chapter 7

1. And the Pharisees and scribes who came from Urishlim gathered around him. 2. And they saw some of his disciples who were eating bread while their hands were not washed, and they complained. 3. For all the Yehudeans and the Pharisees, if they do not carefully wash their hands, they do not eat, because they hold to the traditions of the elders. 4. And goods from the marketplace, unless they are washed, they would not eat. And there are many other traditions that they have received to keep washings of cups and of pots and of brass vessels and of beds. 5. The scribes and the Pharisees asked him. "Why don't your disciples walk according to the traditions of the elders? But while they eat bread their hands are not washed!" 6. And he said to them, "Yesha'yahu the prophet did well prophesy about you hypocrites! As it is written that, 'This people honor me with their lips. But their hearts are very distant from me. 7. And vainly they fear me while they are teaching the doctrines of the commandments of the sons of men.'<sup>26</sup> 8. For you have left the Commandment of Elohim, and you have embraced the tradition of the sons of men: the washing of cups and of pots and many others that are like these." 9. He said to them, "You well rejected the Commandment of Elohim that you might establish your tradition. 10. For Moshe said to honor your father and your mother, and anyone who reviles his father and his mother,<sup>27</sup> 'Let them be put to death!'<sup>28</sup> 11. But you say, 'If a man says to his father or to his mother, 'My offering is what you have gained from me,'"<sup>29</sup> 12. Then you do not allow him to do anything for his father or for his mother. 13. And you despise the Word of Elohim, because of the tradition that you have handed down and that resemble these many things that you do." 14. And Y'shua called all the crowd and said to them, "Hear me all of you and understand, 15. There isn't anything that is on the outside of a man that enters into him that is able to defile him. But the thing that goes out from him, that is the thing that defiles a man. 16. He who has ears to hear, let him hear!" 17. And when Y'shua entered into the house away from the crowd, his disciples asked him about that saying. 18. He said to them, "You are likewise slow to understand. You do not know that everything which enters into a man from the outside is not able to defile him. 19. Because it does not enter into his heart, rather into his belly and is cast out by excretion, which purifies all the food."<sup>29</sup> 20. But anything that goes out from a man is that which defiles a man.

<sup>29</sup> This chapter showcases one of the greatest discussions of oral versus written Jewish law that exists in these writings of the Renewed Covenant. In many ways this presages the heated exchanges that would be recorded in the Talmud some 200 years later. However, a major misunderstanding of this verse found its way into the modern translations with the parenthetical comment "in so doing Y'shua declared all foods clean." It does not occur in any Aramaic mss or in early Greek manuscripts, apparently an attempt was made by Gentile or Christian editors to abandon Torah's dietary laws. The point being established is that if you plot things like murder, lies, adulteries and so forth, then why be concerned about the food you eat, when weightier things are making you much more unclean than your food? Even if a person kept a perfectly kosher diet, but had such unclean thoughts, such a one would rank among the most unkosh of people. See Luke 11:40.

21. For from the inside, from the heart<sup>30</sup> of the sons of men proceeds evil thoughts, adultery, fornication, theft, murder, 22. Extortion, wickedness, deceit, lust, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness. 23. All these evil things, they do proceed from within a man and defile him.” 24. Y’shua arose from there and came to the border of Tsur and of Tsidon, and entered into a certain house, and was not desiring for anyone to know about him. And he was not able to hide himself. 25. For immediately a certain woman heard about him whose daughter had an unclean spirit. And she came and fell before his feet. 26. Now that woman was a heathen from Phoenicia in Syria, and was entreating him to cast out the demon from her daughter. 27. And Y’shua said to her, “Allow first the children to be satisfied, for it is not right to take the bread of the children and throw it to the dogs.” 28. But she answered and said to him, “Yes my Master, even the dogs eat the crumbs from under the tables of the children.” 29. Y’shua said to her, “Because of this word that you have spoken, go. The demon has gone out from your daughter.” 30. And she went to her house and found her daughter lying on a pallet, and the demon was gone. 31. Y’shua went out again from the border of Tsur and of Tsidon, and he came to the sea of Galeela on the border of the ten cities. 32. And they brought him a certain deaf man and a stammerer and were asking him to place a hand upon him. 33. And they led him away from the crowd privately and (he) placed his fingers in his ears, and spit and touched his tongue. 34. And he looked into heaven and sighed and said to him, “Etpatakh (Be opened)!” 35. And at that moment, his ears were opened and the restriction of his speech was loosed and he spoke plainly. 36. And he admonished them that not anyone (should) tell (of his miracle). And the more that he was admonishing them, the more they were preaching. 37. And they were exceedingly amazed and were saying that, “He does everything well! He makes the deaf to hear, and those not speaking to speak.”

1. Now in those days when a large crowd was there, and there was not anything to eat, he called his disciples and said to them, 2. “I have compassion on this crowd, for behold three days they have stayed with me and they have had nothing to eat. 3. And if it should happen that I dismiss them while they are fasting, they will faint on the road to their homes. For some of them have come from far away.” 4. His disciples said to him, “Where can a man find bread to satisfy all these people in the wilderness?” 5. And he asked them, “How many loaves of bread do you have?” They said, “Seven,” to him. 6. And he commanded the crowds to sit on the ground. And he took those seven loaves of bread and blessed them and broke them and gave them to his disciples to set forth. And they set them before the crowds. 7. And there were a few fish, and he also blessed them and said to set them forth. 8. And they ate and were satisfied. And they took up the remains of the fragments, seven baskets! 9. And there were about four thousand men who ate. 10. And he dismissed them and went up immediately into a boat with his disciples and came to the region of Dalmanutha.

30 The most imperative difference between religious duty and True Faith has to do with always steering the intentions of our hearts towards righteous Set Apart conduct. The Hebrew word for intention is “kavanah”. Y’shua teaches us that the kavanah of our heart is the nature of our soul, whether it is carnal or transformed (redeemed) according to righteousness. From “inside the heart” our kavanah (intentions) manifest as thoughts that turn into words, and then to actions. We have an “inner voice” telling us what to think about ourselves, others, life, our Creator, the Word and everything else. The empowerment to overcome bad habits, inconsistencies, weaknesses, failings, insecurities, religiosity, sin, procrastination etc., is what Y’shua offers to all who will “bear my yoke upon you” (Matt 11:29). Through his many teachings, examples and parables on kavanah, Y’shua concretely established the imperative of kavanah (intentions of the heart) as the foundation of true Jewish spirituality. Regrettably, modern religions have replaced this vital necessity of kavanah with things like theology, doctrine, statements of faith, meditation, works, tradition, and religious identity, yet there are no substitutes for righteous kavanah and obedience to the Word of YHWH. “For the mouth speaks from the fullness of the heart” (Matt 12:34).

11. And the Pharisees came out and began to dispute with him, and were asking him for a sign from heaven, tempting him. 12. And he sighed in his spirit and said, "Why does this generation seek a sign? Truly I say to you, that a sign will not be given to this generation." 13. And he left them and went up into the boat and they departed to the other side. 14. And they forgot to take bread, and except for one cake, there was nothing with them in the boat. 15. And he commanded them and said, "Watch out! Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herodus." 16. And they were reasoning with one another and saying, "It is because we have no bread." 17. But Y'shua realized this and said to them, "Why are you thinking that you have no bread? Until now, don't you realize nor understand? How long will you have a hard heart? 18. You have eyes and yet you don't see. And you have ears and yet you don't hear. And you do not remember 19. when I broke those five loaves of bread for the five thousand. How many full baskets of fragments did you gather?" They said to him, "Twelve." 20. He said to them, "And when the seven (loaves) to the four thousand (were given), how many full baskets of fragments did you gather?" They said, "seven." 21. He said to them, "Why is it that you do not even now understand?" 22. And he came to Beth-Saida and they brought a blind man to him and were entreating him to touch him. 23. And he took the hand of the blind man and led him outside of the village. And he spat on his eyes and placed his hands on him and asked him what he saw. 24. He looked and said, "I see the sons of men resembling walking trees." 25. He again placed his hand upon his eyes. And he was restored and was seeing everything clearly. 26. And he sent him to his house and said, "Neither enter into the village, nor tell anyone in the village." 27. And Y'shua and his disciples went out to the villages of Caesara of Philippi, and he was asking his disciples along the road and said to them, "What do men say about me, who I am?" 28. And they said, "Yochanan the Immerser," and others, "Eliyah," and others, "One of the prophets." 29. Y'shua said to them, "But you, what do you say about me, who I am?" Shimon<sup>31</sup> answered and said to him, "You are the Mashiyach, the Son of the living Elohim." 30. And he charged them not to tell anyone about him. 31. And he began to teach them that he, the Son of man, would suffer greatly and be rejected by the elders and by the chief priests and by the scribes, and be killed. And on the third day, arise.<sup>32</sup> 32. And he was speaking this word openly, and Keefa began rebuking him. 33. And he turned and looked at his disciples and rebuked Shimon, and said, "Go behind me Satan, for you do not think about the things of Elohim, rather those of the sons of men!" 34. And Y'shua called the crowds with his disciples and said to them, "He who desires to follow after me should deny himself and take up his staff and follow after me. 35. For everyone who desires to save his soul will lose it, and any who loses his soul for my sake, and because of my Good News, will save it. 36. For what is profited a man if he should gain all the world, and he should lose his soul?

31 Khabouris identifies the speaker as Peter (Keefa) and also uses his name Shimon here, creating a double wordplay. Shimon hears (shema) the question of his Master, but when he provides the answer he is referred to by his nickname Keefa. Perhaps in a playful tone Shimon was previously being addressed as Keefa (like a rock) but here his nickname is being equated with the rock (kafa) that the Kingdom of Elohim is being built on; see Matthew 16:18.

32 Variations occur here between Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905 but with identical meanings. The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

37. Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? 38. For all who are ashamed of me and my words in this sinful and adulterous generation, the Son of man will also be ashamed of him when he comes in the glory of his Father with his Set Apart Messengers.”

Chapter 9

1. And he would say to them, “Truly I say to you, that there are some who are standing here who will not taste of death until they see the Kingdom of Elohim which has come in power.” 2. And after six days Y’shua took Keefa and Ya’akov and Yochanan and privately took them up into a high mountain. And he was transfigured before their eyes. 3. And his clothes were bright and became very white resembling snow. So much so that the sons of men are not able to make this white. 4. Y’shua was speaking with Eliyahu and Moshe and were seen by them. 5. And Keefa said to him, “Good Rabbi,<sup>33</sup> it is good for us that we remain here. Let us make three booths, one for you, and one for Moshe, and one for Eliyahu. 6. And he did not know what he was saying, for they were in fear. 7. And a cloud came and it was overshadowing them, and a voice from the cloud said, “This is my beloved Son. Hear him!” 8. And suddenly when the disciples looked up, they did not see anyone except only Y’shua with them. 9. And while they were descending from the mountain, he was commanding them that they should not tell anyone the thing which they saw until after the Son of man has risen from the dead. 10. And they held the saying in themselves, and were inquiring what this saying is “when he is raised from the dead.” 11. And they were asking him and saying, “Why, therefore, do the scribes say that Eliyahu must come first? 12. He said to them, “Eliyahu has come first in order to prepare everything. And as it is written concerning the Son of man that, ‘He will greatly suffer and be rejected.’ 13. But I say to you that Eliyahu has indeed come and they did with him whatever they pleased, as was written about him.” 14. And when he came to see a great crowd he saw his disciples among them and the scribes disputing with them. 15. And all at once all the crowds saw him and were amazed and they ran and greeted him. 16. And he would ask the scribes, “Why are you disputing with them?” 17. And one from the crowd answered and said, “Teacher I brought my son to you because he has a spirit that does not speak. 18. And whenever it overtakes him, it knocks him down and he foams at the mouth and gnashes his teeth and becomes paralyzed. And I asked your disciples to cast him out, and they were not able.” 19. Y’shua answered and said to him, “Oh generation that is not faithful! How long must I remain with you and how long must I endure you? Bring him to me.”<sup>34</sup> 20. And they brought him to him and when the spirit saw him, it knocked him down at once, and he fell on the ground and was violently shaken and he foamed at the mouth. 21. And Y’shua asked his father, “How long has it been since he has been this way?” He said to him, “Since his youth, 22. and many times it has cast him into the fire and into the water to destroy him, but whatever you are able to do, have compassion on me and help me.”

---

33 The word Keefa (Peter) uses here for “good” is SHAPIR, which has a meaning closer to “beautiful” in English. Therefore Keefa can be said to be addressing Y’shua as “my beautiful teacher”.

34 Variations occur here between Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905 but with identical meanings. The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

23. Y'shua said to him, "If you are able to believe, anything is possible to be for him who believes."
 24. And at once the father of the boy cried out while mourning and said, "I believe, my Master.<sup>35</sup> Help the lack of my faith!" 25. And when the people saw Y'shua and ran and gathered around him, he rebuked that unclean spirit and said to him, "Mute spirit that does not speak, I command you come out from him and never enter him again!" 26. And that demon cried out greatly, and he bruised him and came out. And he was like a dead man so that many said that, "He is dead!"
 27. But Y'shua took him by his hand and raised him. 28. Now when Y'shua entered the house, his disciples asked him privately, "Why were we not able to cast him out?"<sup>36</sup> 29. He said to them,
 "This kind is not able to be cast out by anything except by fasting and prayer." 30. And when he departed from there, they were passing through Galeela, and he was desiring that no one would know about him. 31. For he would teach his disciples and said to them, "The Son of man will be delivered into the hands of men. And they will kill him, and after he has been killed, on the third day he will rise." 32. But they were not realizing the meaning of it and were afraid to ask him.
 33. And they came to<sup>37</sup> Capurnakhum. And when they entered the house, he was asking them, "What were you reasoning among yourselves on the road?" 34. But they were silent, for they were arguing on the road with one another, "Who was the greater among them." 35. And Y'shua sat down and called the twelve and said to them, "He who desires to be the first, let him be the last of all men and a minister to all men." 36. Then he took a certain child and set him in the midst.
 And he took him into his arms and said to them, 37. "Whoever receives one child like this in my name, he receives me. And he who receives me does not receive me, but him who sent me."
 38. Yochanan said to him, "Rabbi, we saw a man who was casting out demons in your name, and we stopped him because he did not follow us." 39. Y'shua said to him, "Do not stop him, for there is no man who does miracles in my name and is able readily to speak wickedly about me.
 40. Therefore, he who is not against you is for you. 41. But<sup>38</sup> anyone who only gives you to drink a cup of water because you are in the name of the Mashiyach, truly I say to you that he will not lose his reward. 42. And anyone who causes one of these little ones who believe in me to stumble, it would be better for him if the millstone of a donkey were placed on his neck and he were cast into the sea. 43. Now if your hand offends you, cut it off! For it is better for you to enter into life maimed than you have two hands to go to Gehenna, 44. where their worm does not die and their fire does not go out. 45. And if your foot offends you, cut it off! It is better for you to enter into life lame than though you have two feet to fall into Gehenna, 46. where their worm does not die and their fire does not go out. 47. And if your eye offends you, pluck it out! It is better for you that with one eye you enter into the Kingdom of Elohim than though you have two eyes to fall into the Gehenna of fire."<sup>39</sup>

35 Khabouris lacks "my Master" (mari) that is included in other Peshitta manuscripts and 1905. The latter reading, including this word, is retained here in the Aramaic.

36 Transposition of words has no effect on meaning.

37 Khabouris has an isolated lamed here; apparently a scribal error as the lamed (proclitic) is reproduced in the very next word appropriately as "towards Capernaum".

38 Khabouris reads "for anyone" whereas 1905 reads "but anyone." The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic. The same word for word substitution of "for" and "but" occurs in 13:6.

39 Authority: Y'shua's disciples had been arguing about who was the greatest among them (verse 34), an issue of authority. Y'shua shows Kingdom authority by taking a child into his arms; teaching that he who receives a child is receiving YHWH who sent him. Then Yochanan and his disciples tell of prohibiting a man from casting out demons in Y'shua's name, as he is not under their "discipleship authority." In this context Y'shua quotes from Isaiah 66:24 regarding Gey'Hinnom (Gehenna) "And on their way out they will see the corpses of those who rebelled against me; for their worm will never die nor their fire be put out, and they will be held in horror by all humanity" (also verse 48). YHWH revealed through the Prophet Isaiah that during the restoration of Israel, while New Moons (Feasts) and Sabbaths are being restored, that the rebellious contingent who fight against His Authority, His Word, against His Torah and Commandments, will be burned up in the most detestable place imaginable, where Israel once burned up their children in sacrifice to Moloch. Gey'Hinnom is a physical place just outside of Jerusalem that reminds Israel of not returning to her whoring with the pagan gods. Christo-Pagan theologians use Gey'Hinnom (Gehenna) to teach that the mythological hell of Tartarus and Hades is equivalent to the Biblical concept, but it is most certainly not. The Biblical version of "hell" is reflected prophetically in Har Meggido (Armageddon), Jezreel

(the Valley of Judgment) and Gey'Hinnom. Then Y'shua uses an ancient Hebrew idiomatic expression of the evil eye, Hebrew is a very sensory language that uses physicality to express emotional and spiritual elements. The eye of a greedy man calculates, the eye of a sensual man lusts, the eye of an angry man blazes. Y'shua uses the hands, feet and eyes to teach how our mind, will and emotions can become an offense to the Kingdom of Heaven, and the carnal man must decrease so the spiritual man (Mashiych) can increase. Y'shua's teaching concludes that just as sacrifices must be seasoned with salt (Lev 2:13, Num 18:19), salt (preserves and adds flavor) creates the sacrifice, so does fire relentlessly destroy whatever fuels it. It is our sin that fuels the fire of our own destruction, but Y'shua's righteousness (Messiah in us) is the salt that brings flavor, preservation and salvation to our souls and opens up the Kingdom of Heaven for others to enter in and be in harmony.

48. Where their worm does not die and their fire does not go out.<sup>40</sup> 49. For with fire everything will be vaporized<sup>41</sup> and every sacrifice will be seasoned<sup>42</sup> with salt. 50. Salt is good, but if the salt should become bland, with what will it be seasoned? Let salt be in you and be in harmony among each other.”

Chapter 10

1. And he rose from there and came to the border of Yehuda to the crossing of the Yordanan. And great crowds went there with him, and again he would teach them as he was accustomed. 2. And the Pharisees drew near tempting him and asking if it is Lawful for a man to divorce his wife. 3. He said to them, “What did Moshe command you?” 4. And they said, “Moshe allowed us to write a letter of divorce and to send her away.”<sup>43</sup> 5. Y’shua answered and said to them, “On account of the hardness of your heart, he wrote to you this Commandment. 6. But from the beginning Elohim made them male and female.<sup>44</sup> 7. Because of this, a man will leave his father and his mother and cling to his wife. 8. And the two of them will be one flesh. Thus, they are not two, but one flesh.<sup>45</sup> 9. Therefore, the thing that Elohim has joined, man should not separate.” 10. In the house, his disciples asked him again concerning this teaching. 11. And he said to them, “Anyone who divorces his wife and takes another commits adultery. 12. And if a woman should divorce her husband and becomes a wife to another, she commits adultery.” 13. And children were approaching him so that he might touch them, but his disciples were rebuking those who were bringing them. 14. And Y’shua saw it and was offended and he said to them, “Allow the children to come to me and do not hinder them. For because of those who are as these, the Kingdom of Elohim exists. 15. Truly I say to you, that anyone who does not receive the Kingdom of Elohim like a child, will not enter it.” 16. And he took them into his arms and placed his hand upon them and he blessed them. 17. And while he was traveling on the road, a certain man ran up and fell upon his knees, and asked him, and said, “Good teacher, what should I do to gain eternal life?” 18. And Y’shua said to him, “Why do you call me good? There is no one good, except Elohim. 19. Do you know the Commandments: Do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not kill, and do not bear false witness,<sup>46</sup> do not defraud, honor your father and your mother?”<sup>47</sup> 20. And he answered and said to him, “Teacher I have kept all of these things from my youth.” 21. And Y’shua looked at him and loved him and said to him, “One thing is lacking in you. Go and sell everything that you have and give it to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. And take up your staff and follow me.” 22. But he was sad at this saying and departed while being grieved. For he had much wealth. 23. And Y’shua looked at his disciples and said to them, “How difficult it is for them who have wealth to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim.” 24. And the disciples were wondering at his words. And Y’shua answered again and said to them, “My sons, how difficult it is for those who rely on their wealth to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim.

41 The root (mlkh) can mean ‘to salt, season’ or ‘to destroy, vaporize, scatter’. It is the latter meaning that is obviously intended. The Greek mistranslation points to an Aramaic original. (PY) One of the earliest Old Latin manuscripts which Jerome attempted to standardize in his Vulgate supports this reading. Codex Bobiensis literally follows the Aramaic meaning of “all things of means shall be destroyed”. Origen quotes Peshitta-exclusive Hebrews 2:9 thus the Peshitta must have arrived in Rome by the end of the Second Century. Furthermore, the Roman Catholic tradition of a Hebrew or Aramaic Matthew attributed to Papias (ca. 130 CE) by Eusebius (and reinforced by earlier authorities like Hegesippus and his “Syriac Gospel”) also suggests the full Eastern canon. (Their book order was Matthew to Hebrews.) This early Latin may well have been derived from a Peshitta original since history proves that Latin versions never ventured into the Persian Empire.

42 Meshikha plays on the dual meaning of mlkh. (PY)

25. It is easier for a rope<sup>48</sup> to enter through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim.” 26. And they were all the more wondering and saying among themselves, “Who is able to gain life?” 27. And Y’shua looked at them and said to them, “With the sons of men, this is not possible, but with Elohim it is. For everything is possible with Elohim.” 28. And Keefa began to say, “Behold we have left everything and followed you.” 29. Y’shua answered and said, “Truly I say to you there is no man who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or fields for my sake and for my Good News, 30. who will not receive one hundredfold (back to him). But in this time (he receives) these houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and fields with persecution. (Then), in the world to come (he will receive) life that is eternal. 31. And many are first who will be last, and last who will be first.” 32. While they were going up to Urishlim and were on the road, Y’shua went ahead of them. And they were amazed and were going after him though they were afraid. And he took his twelve and began to show them the things that would surely happen to him. 33. “For behold we will go up to Urishlim and the Son of man will be delivered to the chief priests and to the scribes, and they will condemn him to death and deliver him to the Gentiles. 34. And they will mock him and beat him and spit in his face. And they will kill him. And on the third day he will arise.” 35. Ya’akov and Yochanan, the sons of Zawdee, drew near to him and said to him, “Teacher, we desire that whatever we ask for us, you do.” 36. He said to them, “What is it that you desire me to do for you?” 37. They said to him, “Grant to us that one sit at your right and one at your left in your glory.” 38. But he said to them, “You do not realize what you are asking! Are you able to drink from the cup that I drink from, and be immersed with the same immersion that I am immersed with?” 39. They said to him, “We are able!” Y’shua said to them, “The cup that I drink, you will drink. And the immersion which I am immersed, you will be immersed.”<sup>49</sup> 40. But that you may sit at my right and at my left it is not mine to give, except to those for whom it is prepared.” 41. And when the ten heard, they began arguing against Ya’akov and Yochanan. 42. Y’shua called them and said to them, “You know that those who are reckoned as chiefs of nations are their masters and their great men are in authority over them. 43. But let such not be among you. Rather, he who desires to be great among you must be a minister to you. 44. And whoever of you desires to be the first must be a servant to all. 45. Even the Son of man has not come to be served, rather to serve and to give himself as a ransom for the sake of many.” 46. And they came to Yerikho. And when Y’shua went out from Yerikho there was a great crowd with him and his disciples. There was a blind man, Timi Bar-Timi, sitting on the side of the road and begging. 47. And he heard that it was Y’shua the Nasraya, and he began to cry out and to say, “Son of Dawid, have mercy on me!” 48. Many were reproving him to be silent, but he was crying out all the more and saying, “Son of Dawid, have mercy on me!” 49. And Y’shua stopped and commanded that they call him. And they called the blind man and said to him, “Have courage, arise, he calls you.”

50. And the blind man threw off his clothes and arose and came toward Y'shua. 51. Y'shua said to him, "What is it that you desire me to do for you?" And the blind man said to him, "Rabbi, that I may see!" 52. And Y'shua said to him, "See! Your faith has made you whole." And immediately he saw, and went off down the road.

Chapter 11

1. And when he drew near to Urishlim, towards Beth-Pageh and Beth-Anya, by the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples. 2. And he said to them, "Go to that village that is opposite to us, and at once when you enter it you will find a colt that is tied up which no man has ridden. Loose it and bring it to me. 3. And if anyone should say to you, 'Why are you doing this?' say to him that 'Our Master requires it.' And immediately he will send him here." 4. And they went and found the colt which was tied up at the door outside on the street. And while they loosed him, 5. Some of those who were standing there said to them, "What are you doing loosing the colt?" 6. And they said to them as Y'shua had commanded them, and they allowed them. 7. And they brought the colt to Y'shua and placed their garments upon it, and Y'shua rode upon it. 8. And many were spreading their garments on the road and others were cutting branches from trees and spreading them on the road. 9. And those who were in front of him and those who were behind him were crying out and were saying, "Ushanna!"<sup>50</sup> Blessed is he who comes in the name of Master YHWH.<sup>51</sup> 10. And blessed is the Kingdom of our father Dawid that is coming. Ushanna in the highest!" 11. And Y'shua entered Urishlim and saw the temple and everything. Now when the time of evening arrived, he went out to Beth-Anya with the twelve. 12. And on another day when he went out from Beth-Anya he hungered. 13. And he saw a certain fig tree from afar that had leaves on it. And he came towards it to see if he could find anything on it. And when he arrived, he did not find anything on it except leaves. For the time of figs had not yet arrived. 14. And he said to it, "Now and forever, man will not eat fruit from you."<sup>52</sup> And his disciples heard it and they came to Urishlim. 15. And Y'shua entered the temple of Elohim and began to drive out those who were buying and selling in the temple. And he overturned the tables of the money changers, and the seats of those who were selling doves. 16. And he would not allow anyone to carry possessions inside the temple. 17. And he would teach and say to them, "Is it not written that my House will be called a House of prayer for all nations?"<sup>53</sup> But you have made it a den of robbers!"<sup>54</sup> 18. The chief priests and the scribes heard it and were seeking how they might destroy him. For they were afraid of him because all the people were astonished at his teaching. 19. And when it became evening, they went outside of the city. 20. And in the morning while they were passing by, they saw that fig tree, dried up from its root. 21. And Shimon remembered and said to him, "Behold Rabbi, that fig tree which you cursed has dried up!" 22. And Y'shua answered and said to them, "Let the faith of Elohim be in you.

51 Psalm 118:26

52 There are numerous concurrent elements here; "the time of figs had not yet arrived", and Y'shua obviously knew when figs are ready for harvest. The spiritual fruit he sought was most certainly not "in season". Next, Y'shua enters the Temple in Jerusalem and drives out the money changers (rotten fruit). Then the chief priests and scribes seek how they might destroy him (rotten fruit). When Y'shua says; "Now and forever, man will not eat fruit from you", he is referring to the religious and political "justice system" that governs YHWH's people, it is incapable of bearing good fruit. What was then the money-changer culture of the Temple in Jerusalem is now very apparent throughout the earth being seen in extravagant synagogues, churches and buildings that portray various religions "about" "HaShem", "the LORD" or "Gawd" and these institutions are consistent regardless as to what tradition we are talking about. Modern religious "priesthoods" continue the same self-indulgent, self-entitlement, American Dream, materialistic values that Y'shua brought judgment against. Non-profit religious organizations abound, leadership is neither accountable to YHWH or the common good of His people. Religion is second only to government when taking money from its subjects (members). Every year Judaism, Christianity and Islam collectively take in trillions of dollars, the majority goes into bigger buildings, marketing strategies to win more converts, and luxury living for those who sit on or near the top of the hierarchy. Notice what his disciples saw; "that fig tree which you cursed has dried up!" And Y'shua answered and said to them, "Let the faith of Elohim be in you." Please see footnote on Matt 21:19.

54 Jeremiah 7:11

23. For truly I say to you, that he who says to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and fall into the sea.' And does not become divided in his heart but believes, that will happen. That thing which he said he will have. 24. Because of this I say to you that everything that you pray for and ask for you believe that you will receive it, and it will be to you! 25. And when you stand to pray,<sup>55</sup> forgive anything that you have against anyone, that your Father who is in heaven may also forgive you your transgressions. 26. But if you do not forgive, neither will your Father who is in heaven forgive you your transgressions." 27. And they came again to Urishlim. And while he was talking in the temple, the chief priests and the scribes and elders came to him. 28. And they said to him, "By what authority do you do these things? And who gave this authority to you that you should do these things?" 29. And Y'shua said to them, "I will also ask you a certain question. If you answer me then I will tell you by what authority I do these things. 30. The immersion of Yochanan, From where is it from, heaven or from the sons of man? Tell me!" 31. And they reasoned among themselves and said, "If we say to him that it was from heaven, he will say to us, 'Why then did you not believe him?' 32. And if we say from the sons of men, the fear is there of the people. For all of them did consider that he was truly a prophet." 33. And they answered and said to him, "We do not know." He said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things!"

Chapter 12

1. And he began to speak with them in parables. "A certain man planted a vineyard and surrounded it with a hedge. And he dug in it a winepress. And built in it a tower, and leased it to some workers and left. 2. And in time he sent his servant to the workers so that he might take from the fruit of the vineyard. 3. But they beat him and sent him away empty-handed. 4. And again he sent a different servant also, and that one they stoned and wounded and sent him away in shame. 5. And again he also sent another one, and that one they killed. And many other servants he sent, and some they beat, but some they killed. 6. And afterwards he had one beloved son, and he sent him to them at the end. For he said, 'Perhaps they might be ashamed in front of my son.' 7. But those workers said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come let us kill him and the inheritance will be ours.' 8. And they took him and killed him and threw him outside of the vineyard. 9. Then, what should the Master of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy those workers and give the vineyard to others. 10. Have you not even read this Scripture that, 'The rock that the builders rejected, that has become the head of the corner. 11. This came from the presence of Master YHWH and it is a wonder before our eyes'?"<sup>56</sup> 12. And they were seeking to seize him for they realized that he spoke this parable about them, but they were afraid of the people. And they left him and departed. 13. And they sent men to him from the scribes and from the Herodians to ensnare him in speech.

<sup>55</sup> Many ancient Jewish prayers require some or all portions to be read while standing. Perhaps the most famous one that goes back to Y'shua's day is the Amidah, which is principally said during the Yom Kippur service as well as other sacred occasions.

14. And they came and asked him. "Teacher, we realize that you are true, and do not show favoritism to men, for you do not look on the faces of the sons of men, rather in truth you teach the way of Elohim. Is it Lawful to give the head tax to Caesar or not? Should we give or not? 15. But he knew their trickery and said to them, "Why do you tempt me? Bring a Denarii to me to see." 16. And they brought it to him. He said to them, "Whose image is this and whose inscriptions are those?" And they said, "Caesar's" 17. Y'shua said to them, "Give to Caesar that of Caesar, and that of Elohim's to Elohim." And they marveled at him. 18. And the Sadducees came to him, those who say that there is no resurrection, and they were asking him and saying, 19. "Teacher, Moshe wrote to us that if a brother dies and leaves a wife, but no sons does he leave behind, he should take his brother's wife and raise up seed for his brother.<sup>57</sup> 20. There were seven brothers, and the first took a wife and died, though he did not leave behind any seed. 21. And the second took her and died though he also did not leave behind any seed. And the third likewise. 22. And all seven of them took her and did not leave behind any seed. The last of all of them also died as did the woman. 23. Therefore, in the resurrection, which one of them will she be a wife of? For all seven of them took her. 24. Y'shua said to them, "Isn't it because of this that you err, that you do not understand the Scriptures nor the power of Elohim? 25. For when they rise from the dead, they do not marry women, nor are women given in marriage to men. Rather, they are like the Messengers who are in heaven. 26. Now concerning the dead who (you say) will not rise, Have you read in the book of Moshe of how from the bush Elohim said to him, 'I AM the Elohim of Awraham and the Elohim of Yitz'chak and the Elohim of Ya'akov.'<sup>58</sup> 27. And he is not the Elohim of the dead, but of the living. You err greatly, therefore." 28. And one of the scribes drew near and heard them disputing and saw that he answered them the matter well. And he asked, "What is the first Commandment of all of them?" 29. And Y'shua said to him, "The first of all the Commandments is 'Hear O Israel. Master YHWH our Elohim is one. 30. And you should love Master YHWH your Elohim with all of your heart, and with all of your soul, and with all of your mind, and with all of your strength.' This is the first Commandment.<sup>59</sup> 31. And the second that is like it is that, 'you should love your neighbor as yourself.'<sup>60</sup> There is no other Commandment greater than these." 32. That scribe said to him, "Well said Rabbi! You have spoken in truth that he is one and there are no others apart from him. 33. And that a man should love him with all the heart and all the mind and with all the soul and with all the strength, and that he should love his neighbor like himself. This is greater than all burnt offerings and sacrifices." 34. And Y'shua saw that he answered the matter wisely. He answered and said to him, "You are not far from the Kingdom of Elohim." And no man again dared to question him. 35. While teaching in the temple, Y'shua answered and said, "How do the scribes say that the Mashiyach is the son of Dawid? 36. For Dawid spoke by the Ruach haKodesh, 'YHWH said to my master, "Sit on my right until I place your enemies under your feet like a footstool."<sup>61</sup> 37. Since Dawid calls him 'my Master,' how then is he his son?" And all of the crowd were gladly hearing him.

38. And in his teaching he would say to them, “Beware of the scribes who walk in long robes and love a greeting in the streets, 39. And the chief seats in the assembly, and chief places at banquets. 40. Those who devour the houses of widows. With the pretext that they lengthen their prayers they will receive the greater judgment.” 41. And when Y’shua sat near the treasury, he was looking at how the crowds were casting money into the treasury. And many rich men were casting in much. 42. And a certain poor widow came and cast in two minas, which are small coins. 43. And Y’shua called his disciples and said to them, “Truly I say to you that this poor widow gave more than all the men who cast his cast into the treasury. 44. For all of them gave from their abundance, but this one cast in from her need. She had cast in everything that she had, all her goods!”

1. And when Y’shua departed from the temple, one of his disciples said to him, “Teacher, behold. Look at those stones and buildings. 2. And Y’shua said to him, “Do you see these great buildings? Not one of them will be left here, that one stone upon another that will not be torn down.” 3. And while Y’shua sat on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Keefa and Ya’akov and Yochanan and Andraus asked him privately, 4. “Tell us when these things will happen?” and “What is the sign when all these things are near to being fulfilled?” 5. And Y’shua began to say to them, “Beware or else someone should deceive you. 6. For many will come in my name and say that it is I. And many will deceive. 7. But when you hear of wars and rumors of revolutions, do not have fear. This is bound to happen, but is yet not the end. 8. For nation will arise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be earthquakes in various places. And there will be famine and uprisings. These things are the beginning of sorrows. 9. But you watch out for yourselves, for they will deliver you to the judges and in the assemblies<sup>62</sup> you will be scourged and before kings and governors you will stand because of me as a testimony to them. 10. But first it is necessary that my Hope be preached among all nations. 11. And when they bring you up to deliver you, do not worry beforehand what to say or think, rather, that which is given to you at that moment, you should speak. For it is not you speaking, but the Ruach haKodesh. 12. For a brother will deliver his brother to death, and a father his son. And children will rise against their parents and put them to death. 13. And you will be hated by all men because of my name. But he who endures until the end, he will be saved. 14. And when you see that which was spoken of by Daniel the prophet, the sign of unclean desolation<sup>63</sup> that was standing where it should not be, then let him who reads understand.<sup>64</sup> 15. And he who is on the roof, he should not come down nor should he enter to take anything from his house. 16. And he who is in the field, he should not turn to his back to retrieve his clothes.

<sup>62</sup> Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words “and in the assemblies” and “you will be scourged.”

17. And woe to the pregnant and those who are nursing in those<sup>65</sup> days. 18. But pray that your flight might not be in winter. 19. For in those days there will be suffering such as has not occurred since the beginning of creation which Elohim created until now, nor will there ever be again.<sup>66</sup> 20. And if Master YHWH had not shortened those days, no flesh would live. But because of the elect whom he chose, those days are shortened. 21. If at that time a man should say to you, 'Behold, here is the Mashiyach!' or 'Behold, there he is!' do not believe him. 22. For false Messiahs<sup>67</sup> and lying prophets will give signs and wonders and will deceive even the elect if it is possible. 23. But you take heed! Behold, I have told you everything beforehand. 24. And in those days after that suffering, the sun will be darkened and the moon will not give its light. 25. And the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven will be shaken.<sup>68</sup> 26. And then they will see the Son of man when he comes in the clouds with great power and with glory.<sup>69</sup> 27. Then he will send his Messengers and assemble his chosen from<sup>70</sup> the four winds - from the beginning of the earth and up to the beginning of heaven. 28. Now from the fig tree learn the parable that when its branches are tender and sprout its leaves, you know summer has arrived. 29. Likewise, also when you see these things occur, know that it is near at the door. 30. Truly I say to you, that this tribe will not pass until all these things occur. 31. Heaven and earth will pass, but my words will not pass. 32. But concerning that day and concerning that hour, man does not know, not even the Messengers of heaven nor the Son, only the Father knows. 33. Watch! Be alert and pray for you do not know when is the time. 34. For it is like a man who went on a journey and left his house and gave authority to his servants, and to each man his work. And the porter he commanded that he be vigilant. 35. Be vigilant therefore because you do not know when the master of the house will come - In the evening<sup>71</sup> or in the middle of the night or at the crow of the rooster, or in the morning. 36. Or else he come suddenly and find you while you sleep. 37. The thing that I now say to all of you I say is, Be vigilant!"

Chapter 14

1. And after two days was the Paskha of unleavened bread, and the chief priests and scribes were seeking with deception how they might seize him and kill him. 2. And they were saying, "Not during the feast or else a riot should occur among the people. 3. And while he was reclining in Beth-Anya in the house of Shimon the potter,<sup>72</sup> a woman came who had with her an alabaster vase of perfume of nard, the very best and expensive.<sup>73</sup> And she opened it and poured it upon the head of Y'shua. 4. And some of the disciples who were there were offended said among themselves, "Why was the waste of this perfume?" 5. For it was able to be sold for more than three hundred Denarii, and the money to be given to the poor. And they were angry with her.

65 Khabouris has an isolated qoph here, between the words "in those" and "days".

66 Joel 2:2; Daniel 12:1

67 "False Messiahs" as opposed to the real Mashiyach Y'shua. The English term is used here deliberately to set up the contrast between the worldly humanistic counterfeit and the genuine Mashiyach vouchsafed by YHWH.

68 Isaiah 13:10; 34:4; Ezekiel 32:7; Joel 2:10; 3:4 (2:32); 4:15 (3:15); Haggai 2:6, 21

70 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the words "from" and "the four winds."

71 An example of the other meaning of ramsha, sunset, there are four watches that belong to the night, not the previous erev that belongs to the day. In those other instances day is said to be "in setting," i.e., giving way to sunset. Here sunset begins the timing of the watches mentioned.

72 Aramaic reads Shimon the potter, not "leper" as the Greek has it, for more information, please see p. xiv.

73 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the words "expensive" and "and she opened it."

6. But Y'shua said, "Leave her alone! Why are you troubling her? She has done a good deed for me. 7. For you have the poor with you always, and whenever you desire you are able to do what is good for them. But I am not always among you. 8. She had to do this, she did it in advance as for my burial she has perfumed my body. 9. Truly I say to you, that wherever my Hope is preached, this thing that she has done will be told in all the world for her remembrance." 10. And Yehuda Skaryota, one of the twelve, went to the chief priests so as to betray Y'shua to them. 11. And when they heard him, they rejoiced and they promised to give him money. And he was seeking an opportunity for himself to betray him. 12. And in the first day of the unleavened bread in which the Yehudeans slay the Paskha, his disciples were saying to him, "Where do you desire us to go for you to prepare the Paskha to eat?" 13. And he sent two of his disciples and said to them, "Go into the city and behold you will meet up with a man who is carrying a vessel of water. Go and follow him. 14. And where he enters, say to the master of the house, 'Our master said, "Where is the guest house where I may eat the Paskha with my disciples?"'" 15. And behold he will show you a large upper room that is furnished. Make (that room) ready and prepared as that place for us (to eat)." 16. And his disciples went out and came to the city and found just as he had said to them. And they prepared the Paskha. 17. And when it became evening, He came with his twelve. 18. And while they were reclining and eating, Y'shua said, "Truly I say to you that one of you who eats with me will betray me." 19. And they began to be grieved and were saying to him one at a time, "Is it I?" 20. And he said to them, "It is one of the twelve who dips with me in the dish. 21. And the Son of man will go as it is written concerning him, but woe to that man by whose hand the Son of man is betrayed. It is better for him if he had not been born." 22. Then while they were eating, Y'shua took bread and blessed it and broke it and gave it to them and said to them, "Take it. This is my body." 23. And he took a cup and gave thanks and blessed it and gave it to them and all of them drank from it. 24. And he said to them, "This is my blood of the renewed covenant,<sup>74</sup> shed for the sake of many. 25. I say truly to you that I will not drink from the fruit of the vine again until that day in which I will drink it anew in the Kingdom of Elohim." 26. Then they offered praise and went out to the Mount of Olives. 27. Y'shua said to them, "All of you will be made to stumble at me in this night. For it is written that 'I will strike the shepherd and his lambs will be scattered.'<sup>75</sup> 28. But when I have risen, I will be in Galeela before you." 29. Keefa said to him, "Even if all of them stumble, I will not stumble." 30. Y'shua said to him, "Truly I say to you that you today in this night<sup>76</sup> will deny me three times before the cock will crow."<sup>77</sup> 31. But he<sup>78</sup> all the more was saying, "Even if it be that I must die with you, I will not deny you my Master. And likewise also all the disciples were saying. 32. Then they came to a place which was called Gadseman, and he said to his disciples, "Sit here while I pray."

<sup>78</sup> Khabouris clarifies "the disciple was saying" with the additional word talmidah; this reading is retained in the Aramaic.

33. And he took with him Keefa and Ya'akov and Yochanan and he began to be sad and depressed. 34. And he said to them, "Grievous, even to death is this situation to my soul. Remain here<sup>79</sup> and be alert." 35. And he went on a little and fell upon the ground and was praying that if possible, this hour might pass from him. 36. And he said, "Father! My Father! Anything is possible for You. Make pass from me this cup – yet, not my will but Yours." 37. And he came and found them while they were sleeping, and he said to Keefa, "Shimon you are sleeping! Are you not able to stay alert one hour? 38. Stay alert and pray or else you enter into temptation. The spirit is willing and ready, but the body is weak." 39. And he returned, prayed and came again 40. and found them while they were sleeping, because their eyes were heavy and they were not realizing what to say to him.<sup>80</sup> 41. And he came a third time and said to them, "Sleep now and rest. The end has arrived and the hour has come. And behold the Son of man is delivered into the hands of sinners. 42. Arise! Let us go! Behold he who has betrayed me draws near me." 43. While he was speaking, there came Yehuda Skaryota, one of the twelve, and many people with swords and staves from being with the chief priests and scribes and elders. 44. And he, the traitor who had betrayed him, had given them a sign, and he had said, "He whom I kiss, that is he. Seize him securely and take him away." 45. And at once he drew near and said to him, "Rabbi! Rabbi!" And kissed him. 46. And they placed their hands on him and seized him. 47. Then one of them who was standing there drew a sword and attacked the servant of the high priest, and severed his ear. 48. But Y'shua answered and said to them, "As against a robber do you come out<sup>81</sup> with swords and with staves to seize me. 49. I was with you all day while I was teaching in the temple, but you did not seize me. This has occurred that the Scriptures might be fulfilled." 50. Then his disciples left him and fled. 51. And a certain young lad was following after him and was clothed with a linen cloth. He was naked and they seized him. 52. And then he left the linen cloth and ran away naked. 53. Then they took Y'shua to Qayapa the high priest and the chief priests and scribes and elders were all gathered with him. 54. Shimon was following after him from afar, up to the edge of the courtyard of the high priest. And he was sitting among the servants and was warming himself near the fire. 55. The chief priests and all their assembly were seeking testimony against Y'shua, so that they might kill him. But they did not find it. 56. For while many were testifying against him, their testimony was not worthy. 57. Some false witnesses rose up against him and they said, 58. "We heard him when he said that 'I will tear down this temple which was made with hands, and in three days<sup>82</sup> I will build another that is not made with hands.'" 59. And thus, not even their testimony was worthy. 60. And the high priest arose in the midst and questioned Y'shua and said, "Why do you not answer the accusation they are testifying these things against you?" 61. But he was silent and did not answer him anything. And again the high priest asked him and said, "Are you the Mashiyach, the Son of the Blessed One?"

79 Khabouris has "remain to here" which means exactly the same as the 1905 reading of "remain here." 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

80 Transposition of words in this verse between Khabouris and 1905 has no effect on meaning.

81 Khabouris has "come out on/with swords." The 1905 reading drops "on" and is retained in the Aramaic.

82 Yochanan's Gospel (2:19) is the only place where this saying is recorded in real time. Matthew also records the memory of it the form of an accusation. This is fairly rare and may indicate that this saying was so widespread that Matthew—who wrote first—didn't see the need to give more of an explanation.

62. And Y'shua<sup>83</sup> said to him, "I am."<sup>84</sup> And you will see the Son of man sitting at the right hand of power and coming upon the clouds of heaven."<sup>85</sup> 63. Then the high priest tore his robe and said, "Why are we seeking witnesses now?" 64. "Behold, from his mouth you have heard blasphemy!<sup>86</sup> What do you think?" They and all of them judged that he deserved death. 65. And some began spitting in his face. And they covered his face and were striking him and saying "Prophecy" And the soldiers were striking him on his cheeks. 66. And while Shimon was below in the courtyard, a certain maiden came of the high priest.<sup>87</sup> 67. She saw him while warming himself, and she looked at him and said to him, "You were also with Y'shua the Nasraya." 68. But he denied it and said, "I do not know what you are talking about!" And he went outside to the porch and the cock crowed. 69. And that maiden saw him again and she began telling those who were standing there that, "This one was one of them." 70. But he denied it again. And after a little while again those who were standing there said to Keefa, "Truly you are one of them, for even your speech is like theirs. You are one from Galeela."<sup>88</sup> 71. And he was beginning to curse and swore that, "I do not know this man that you are talking about!" 72. And at that moment, the cock crowed the second time. And Shimon remembered the saying of Y'shua who had said to him that, "Before the cock crows two times, three times you will deny me." And he began to weep.

Chapter 15

1. And immediately in the morning the chief priests with the elders and with the scribes, all of the assembly took counsel and they bound Y'shua and led him away and delivered him to Peelatos.<sup>89</sup> 2. And Peelatos asked him, "Are you the king of the Yehudeans?" And he answered and said to him, "You have said it." 3. And the chief priests were accusing him of many things. 4. And Peelatos again asked him and said to him, "Will you not answer the accusation? See how many are testifying against you! 5. But Y'shua did not return an accusation, so that Peelatos was amazed. 6. Now he was accustomed during every feast to release to them one prisoner, whomever they wanted. 7. And there was one who was called Bar Abba, who was a prisoner with the ones who made insurrection – those who had committed murder in the insurrection. 8. And the people cried out and began to ask him as he was accustomed for them to do. 9. And Peelatos answered and said, "Do you desire that I release to you the King of the Yehudeans? 10. For Peelatos did realize that the high priests had delivered him up from envy. 11. And the chief priests incited the crowds all the more that Bar Abba should be released to them. 12. And Peelatos said to them, "What then do you desire that I do to this one whom you call the King of the Yehudeans? 13. And they again cried out, "Put him to death on the stake!" 14. And Peelatos said to them, "For what evil has he done?" And they all the more were crying out, "Put him to death on the stake!" 15. And Peelatos desired to do the will of the crowds and release Bar Abba to them. Then after Y'shua was scourged, he delivered him to be executed on a stake.

83 Khabouris identifies the speaker as Y'shua, this reading is retained in the Aramaic.

84 "I am that I am" in Aramaic is Ena-Na, in Hebrew Ehyeh Asher Ehyeh (Exodus 3:14-16). Matthew 22:32 says, "I Am the Elohim of Abraham, the Elohim of Isaac and the Elohim of Jacob" which is prefaced with Ena-Na. The expanded I Am could also be translated as "I Am that I Am—the Elohim of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." No human can rightfully say Ena-Na of himself; this is unique to Y'shua who was indwelt by the Ruach of YHWH from conception. From a rabbinical viewpoint, by applying "I Am that I Am" to himself, along with the title "Son of Man" Y'shua was viewed culpable of three forms of blasphemy: 1) saying the Name, 2) calling himself the Messiah/Son of Man when they didn't believe he was and, 3) calling himself One and the Same with the Father. All three statements are true of Y'shua and were predicted centuries in advance to apply to HaMashiyach.

85 Daniel 7:13; Psalm 110:1

86 Steeped in corrupt tradition, the plain truth of Scripture eluded the high priest. It is not blasphemy to quote the prophet Daniel. The high priest had succumbed to the religio-political forces of the day with which he had been ensnared.

87 Transposition of words has no effect on meaning.

88 There are minor variations but identical meaning phrases here and in 14:71 between Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905. The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

89 Khabouris adds Pilate's title hegemonia (governor) which is adopted in the Aramaic.

16. The soldiers led him away into the courtyard that was the Praetorium. And they called all of the company of soldiers. 17. And they dressed him with a purple robe, and wove and placed a crown of thorns on him. 18. And they began to salute him with, "Hail King of the Yehudeans!" 19. And they were striking him on his head with a reed. And they were spitting in his face and were kneeling upon their knees, and were worshipping him. 20. And while they mocked him, they stripped off the purple robe and dressed him with his own clothes and took him out to put him on the execution stake. 21. Then they compelled one who was passing by, Shimon, a Cyrenian who was coming from the field, the father of Alexandros and of Rupus, to carry his stake. 22. And they brought him to Gajultha,<sup>90</sup> the place that is interpreted, "The Skull." 23. And they gave him wine in which was mixed myrrh to drink, but he did not take it. 24. And while they were nailing him on the execution stake, they divided his garments and cast lots for them, who should take what. 25. And it was about the third hour when they nailed him to the stake. 26. And the reason for his death was written in the inscription, "This is the King of the Yehudeans."<sup>91</sup> 27. And they executed him on the stake with two robbers, one at his right and one at his left. 28. And the Scriptures were fulfilled that said, "He was reckoned with the wicked." 29. And also those who were passing by were blaspheming against him and nodding their heads and saying, "He will tear down the temple and build it in three days. Indeed! 30. Deliver yourself and come down from the stake!" 31. And likewise even the chief priests and the scribes were laughing amongst each other and saying, "He gave life to others, yet he is not able to give life to himself. 32. The Mashiach, King of Israel, come down now from the stake that we may see and believe in you!" And even those who were (being) executed on the stake with him were reviling him. 33. And when the sixth hour arrived, there was darkness over all the land until the ninth. 34. And in the ninth hour, Y'shua cried out in a loud voice and said, "Eil! Eil! lemana shabakhthani," that is "My El! My El! Why have you spared me?"<sup>92</sup> 35. Then some of those who were standing there who heard were saying, "He calls to Eliyahu!" 36. And one ran and filled a sponge with vinegar and fastened it on a reed to give him to drink.<sup>93</sup> But they said, "Leave him alone. Let us see if Eliyahu comes to take him down. 37. And Y'shua cried out in a loud voice, and he died. 38. And the curtain of the door of the temple was rent in two from the top to the bottom. 39. And when the centurion who was standing near him saw that he cried out thus and died, he said, "Truly this man was the Son of Elohim!" 40. And there were also women who were watching from afar: Maryam of Magdala and Maryam the mother of Ya'akov the lesser and of Yoseh and Shalom. 41. Those who were following him in Galeela and ministering to him and many others who had gone up with him to Urishlim. 42. And when the afternoon was setting<sup>94</sup> on the (Annual) Shabbat,<sup>95</sup> 43. Yosip who was from Ramtha, an honorable counselor who was also waiting for the Kingdom of Elohim, came and took courage and approached Peelatos and requested the body of Y'shua.

90 A spelling variant representing the dialectical difference between Mark's Aramaic and that of the other Good News writers.

91 Identical meaning phrases between Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905. 1905 is retained in the Aramaic.

92 Compare "Eli, Eli, lemana shabakhthani?" (Matthew 27:46 Younan Peshitta Interlinear Version, cross referenced to NIV) with "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani" (Mark 15:33 NIV). Aramaic had to be transliterated and translated into Greek, so it's important to note that the Aramaic letter for "h" (heh--h) has no equivalent Greek letter. The only way Greek can approximate an "H" sound is through a breathing accent on the letter "O", however, such an accent is only allowed at the beginning of a word, never the middle. The best the Greek redactors of Mark could do, was to insert the "o" into "Eli" to produce the word "Eloi". In Mark, Aramaic reads Ail, Ail, representing a shift from one Aramaic dialect into another. As for the reading and why this does not translate into "forsaken" please see the "My El! My El!..." in Appendix.

93 Psalm 69:22 (21)

94 Mark has an unusual term here, ramsha d'erubata where ramsha can mean "evening", as it does in Mark 4:35 and 13:35. However, the other meaning, which is intended here, is suggested in Mark 1:32 which literally reads, "in the evening of the setting sun". It is this latter reading that proves ramsha does not always mean "evening" as we think of that term. The dual meanings are carried over from Hebrew where "ereb" can be either late afternoon (Arise and attack at noon, for the shadows of ereb lengthen—Jeremiah 6:4) or sunset. In this odd instance, ramsha d'erubata literally means "afternoon of setting", meaning the night period was coming on but still before sunset. As the other Gospels indicate, the Annual Shabbat was setting, or closing down.

דִּישׁוּעַ:

95 That is, before the regular Shabbat that would have begun Friday at sunset, apparently to distinguish between it and the Annual Shabbat that is the day Y'shua was crucified. See footnote for Luke 23:54.

44. And Peelatos marveled that he was already dead, and he called the centurion and asked him if he had already died. 45. And when he learned it, he gave his body to Yosip. 46. And Yosip bought linen cloth and took him down and wrapped him in it and placed him in a grave that was hewn out in the rock. And he rolled a stone upon the door of the grave. 47. And Maryam of Magdala and Maryam the mother of Yoseh saw where he was laid.

Chapter 16

1. And when the Shabbat had passed,<sup>96</sup> Maryam of Magdala and Maryam the mother of Ya'akov and Shalom bought spices that they might come to anoint him. 2. And at early morning on the first of the week, they came to the cemetery as the sun was rising. 3. And they were saying among themselves, "And who will roll that stone from the door of the tomb?" 4. And they looked and saw that that stone was rolled away, for it was very great. 5. Then they entered the tomb and saw a young man who was sitting on the right with a white robe, and they were astonished! 6. But he said to them, "Do not have fear, Y'shua the Nasraya whom you seek who was executed on the stake, has risen! He is not here. Behold the place where he was laid! 7. Rather go say to his disciples and to Keefa that "Behold he goes before you to Galeela. There you will see him as he had told you." 8. And when they heard, they fled and went away from the tomb, for amazement and trembling had seized them. And they did not say anything to anyone, for they were afraid.<sup>97</sup> 9. Then, at early morning on the first of the week, he had risen and appeared first to Maryam of Magdala, she from whom he had cast out seven demons. 10. And she went and brought hope to those who had been with him, who were mourning and weeping. 11. And when they heard what they were saying, that he was alive and had appeared to them, they did not believe them. 12. After these things, he appeared to two of them in another form while they were walking and going to a village. 13. And those went and told the rest, and they did not even believe them. 14. And finally he appeared to the eleven while they were reclining, and he reviled the lack of their faith and the hardness of their hearts, since those who had seen him, that he had risen, they did not believe.<sup>98</sup> 15. And he said to them, "Go into all the world and preach my Hope to all of creation. 16. Whoever believes and is immersed will live, and whoever does not believe will be condemned. 17. These signs will follow those who believe in my name: they will cast out demons and they will speak in new tongues, 18. And they will handle serpents, and if they should drink a deadly poison,<sup>99</sup> it will not harm them. And they will place their hands on the sick, and they will be healed." 19. And Y'shua our Master, after speaking with them, went up to heaven and sat at the right hand of Elohim.<sup>100</sup> 20. And they went out and preached in all places. And our Master was helping them and establishing their words by the signs that they were doing.

96 The Aramaic aiḇret (ayin-beyt-resh-yodh-taw), is the same as arobata (ayin-resh-waw-beyt-taw-alap) that is used in Matthew 27:62, in exactly the same context. Mark 16:1 is also a clearer reading than Matthew 28:1. This may suggest a later clarification for those unfamiliar with the use of ramsha, as a metaphor for the conclusion of an occasion like Shabbat. Such progression upholds the view that Matthew, Mark, Luke and John were indeed written in this order, contradicting scholarship that postures Mark as the first book with "simpler" readings. A better argument is that a simpler more straightforward reading evolves from a previous original, after having excited some confusion.

97 While the two oldest Greek manuscripts have not retained verses 9-20, the Peshitta has. In fairness to Mark's report we must remember he was not an eye witness to the resurrection, but in reality neither were any of the talmidim; they were only witnesses to an empty tomb. Both Peshitta and later Greek manuscripts agree, this verse states that it was early morning on the first of the week when the talmidim first realized Y'shua had risen. This fact is indisputable.

98 Identical meaning phrases between Khabouris and other Peshitta manuscripts/1905, with the 1905 reading retained in the Aramaic. However, Khabouris uses the synonym zaorot (little) as this recalls the famous zowray haymanutha (oh you little of faith - Matthew 6:30; 8:26; 14:31; 16:8; Luke 12:28) and the wordplay with "smallest of seeds" (Matthew 13:32; Mark 4:31) with a nearly identical word, which are hallmarks of Y'shua's teachings.

99 The imagery is from Psalm 91:13 which relates to our faith in YHWH that overcomes the obstacles of the world. Y'shua told haSatan that "you shall not test Master YHWH your Elohim"; therefore, it is safe to say this admonition also applies to his followers. Rav Shaul recovered from a poisonous snakebite (Acts 28:3-6), and so did many Israelites who looked to the "fiery serpent" on the pole (B'midbar/Numbers 21:8, 9), not as testing YHWH but by exercising their Faith according to His will.

1. Because many have desired to write the history of those works which we are familiar with, 2. According to that which they delivered to us, those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and ministers of the Word, 3. It seemed good also to me because I have attended carefully to all of them that everything I should write down in its order for you, noble Tawpeela, 4. That you may know the truth of the words by that you were taught. 5. In the days of Herodus the king of Yehuda, there was a certain priest whose name was Zakharyah, from the order of the house of Awiya and his wife from the descended daughters of Ahron. Elishwa was her name. 6. And both of them were righteous before Elohim and walked in all the Commandments and in the righteousness of Master YHWH without blame. 7. But they did not have a son because Elishwa was barren, and both of them were many in their days. 8. And it came to pass while he was serving as priest in the order of his ministry before Elohim, 9. In the custom of the priesthood, it was his turn to place the incense. And he entered into the temple of Master YHWH. 10. And all the crowds of the people would pray outside at the time of the incense. 11. And a Messenger of Master YHWH appeared to Zakharyah who stood at the right of the altar of incense. 12. When Zakharyah saw him he was dumbfounded and fear fell upon him. 13. And the Messenger said to him, “Do not have fear because your prayer has been heard and your wife, Elishwa, will bear you a son, and you will call his name Yochanan. 14. And you will have joy and gladness and many will rejoice at his birth. 15. For he will be great before Master YHWH. And he will not drink strong drink and wine, and he will be filled with the Ruach haKodesh while he is in the womb of his mother. 16. And many of the sons of Israel he will turn to Master YHWH their Elohim. 17. And he will go before Him in the spirit and in the might of Eliyahu the prophet, that he might turn the heart of the fathers to the children,<sup>1</sup> and those that are not obedient to the knowledge of the just, and he will prepare a perfect people for Master YHWH.” 18. And Zakharyah said to the Messenger, “How should I understand this, for I am an elderly man and my wife is many in her days?” 19. And the Messenger answered and said to him, “I am Gawriel<sup>2</sup> who stands before Elohim, and I have been sent to speak with you and declare these things. 20. Now you will be mute and you will not be able to speak until the day that these things happen, because you did not believe these my words which will be fulfilled in their time.” 21. And the people were standing and waiting for Zakharyah and were wondering about his delay in the temple. 22. And when Zakharyah came out he was not able to speak with them. And they understood that he saw a vision in the temple. And he was repeatedly making signs but remained mute<sup>3</sup> to them. 23. And when the days of his service were fulfilled, he went to his house. 24. And it happened after those days Elishwa his wife conceived. And she had hidden herself for five months and she said, 25. “These things Master YHWH has done for me in the days that he looked on me to take away my reproach that was among the sons of men.” 26. And in the sixth month, the Messenger Gawriel was sent from the presence of Elohim to Galeela<sup>4</sup> to the city whose name is Nasrath, 27. To a virgin who was betrothed to a man whose name was Yosip from the house of Dawid. And the name of the virgin was Maryam.

<sup>2</sup> Gawriel means “El is my strength”; therefore the messenger is also making a statement in addition to revealing his name. <sup>3</sup> Zakharyah was of the 8th course of Abijah (1 Chron 24:10; Luke 1:5). Abijah served exactly 15 Hebrew months (442 days) before the birth of Y’shua. The service cycle corresponds to June 30–July 6, 6 BCE. On the Hebrew calendar this service traverses Tammuz 17, the day Babylon broke through the walls of Jerusalem. The destruction of the Temple was three weeks later, according to the Rabbis, on Ab 9 (July 11), 586 BCE. By the first century it was customary to view that date as cursed. The Second Temple was destroyed on the same Hebrew calendar day (August 2) 70 CE, which added more impetus to the tradition. In Lamentations 2:9–10, the prophet Jeremiah talks about this exact moment—Tammuz 17—when “the elders of Zion stay on the ground and remain silent”; this is fulfilled with Zakharyah—another elder or priest of Zion—being made mute by Gabriel at exactly the same time of year. There is no other time of the year when a priest being made mute would have such power and resonance to a Jewish mind. YHWH apparently waited for just such a year when the 8th division would serve at that precise week to time the birth of His Son 15 months later. Rabbinic tradition puts the destructions on the 9th of Ab, eyewitness records—Jeremiah for the First and Josephus for the Second Temple—put the destruction on 10 Ab. Perhaps the 9th refers to when the fires were started while these other sources refer to the 10th when the flames were extinguished.

4 There is no coincidence that Mashiych is being “revealed” in the place called Galeela, which means “to reveal.” Nor is it happenstance that he would grow up in the City of the Branch, Nazareth.

28. And the Messenger came to her and said to her, "Peace to you full of grace, our Master (Y'shua)<sup>5</sup> is with you (and so you are) blessed among women!" 29. But when she saw him she was disturbed at his saying and wondered, "What is this greeting?" 30. And the Messenger said to her, "Do not be afraid, Maryam, for you have found grace with Elohim. 31. For behold you will receive conception<sup>6</sup> and bear a son and you will call his name Y'shua. 32. This one will be great and will be called the Son of the Highest, and Master YHWH (your) Elohim will give to him the throne of Dawid his father. 33. And he will reign over the house of Ya'akov forever. And there will not be an end to his Kingdom forever. 34. And Maryam said to the Messenger, "How can this be for not a man has known me?" 35. And the Messenger answered and said to her, "The Ruach haKodesh will come and the power of the Highest will rest upon you. Because of this, he who is to be born of you is Set Apart and will be called the Son of Elohim. 36. And behold, Elishwa your kinswoman is also pregnant with a son in her old age. And this is the sixth month to her, she who was called barren, 37. Because nothing is impossible for Elohim." 38. Maryam said, "Behold I am the handmaid of Master YHWH. Let it be to me according to your word! And the Messenger departed from her presence. 39. And Maryam arose and went in those days quickly to a mountain, to a city of Yehuda. 40. And she entered the house of Zakharyah and greeted Elishwa. 41. And it happened that when Elishwa heard the greeting of Maryam, the infant in her womb leaped and Elishwa was filled with the Ruach haKodesh. 42. And she cried out with a loud voice and said to Maryam, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb!" 43. "How did this happen to me that the mother of my Master<sup>7</sup> comes to me?" 44. "For behold when the sound of your greeting fell upon my ears, the infant in my womb leaped with a great joy." 45. "And blessings to she who believed, because there will be fulfillment to those things that were spoken to her in the presence of Master YHWH." 46. And Maryam said, "My soul magnifies Master YHWH. 47. And my spirit has rejoiced in Elohim my Savior. 48. Because He has looked at the meekness of his handmaid,<sup>8</sup> for behold from now on will give me blessings to all generations. 49. Because He has done great things for me, He who is mighty and Set Apart is his Name. 50. And His mercy is upon generations for ages of those who fear Him.<sup>9</sup> 51. And He has accomplished victory with his arm and has scattered the proud hearted. 52. He has cast down the mighty from the seats and exalted the meek. 53. He has satisfied the hungry with good things, and the wealthy he has dismissed empty-handed. 54. He has helped his servant Israel and he has remembered his mercy. 55. As he spoke with our fathers Awraham and with his seed forever." 56. And Maryam remained with Elishwa about three months, and then she returned to her home. 57. Now Elishwa came to her the time that she bear, and she bore a son. 58. And her neighbors and her relatives heard that Elohim had increased his mercy towards her, and they were rejoicing with her. 59. And it happened on the eighth day they came to circumcise the boy and they were calling him by the name of his father Zakharyah. 60. And his mother answered and said to them, "Not so, rather he will be called Yochanan." 61. And they said to her, "There is no man in your clan<sup>10</sup> who is called by this name." 62. And they made signs to his father as to what he desired to name him. 63. And he asked for a writing tablet, and he wrote and said "Yochanan is his name." And everyone marveled. 64. Immediately his mouth was opened and he spoke and blessed Elohim.

5 It would have been redundant for the messenger to say "YHWH is with you" because the very fact the messenger was sent from YHWH already proved that. Rather, Maryam is being told that their Master, the Son of man, will be inside her womb.

6 See footnote on Matthew 1:25.

7 Mari, my Master, refers to Mashiyach who is in Miriyam's womb, not YHWH.

8 1 Samuel 1:11; 2:1

9 Psalm 103:17; 111:9

10 Aramaic sharbata can mean "generation" or "tribe", but here "clan" is the best rendering because Zakhariah is surrounded by relatives who would mostly be from his "tribe". Therefore, a more specific meaning is called for, such as "family group" or "clan", because there can be many of those within a single tribe. Elsewhere though, Y'shua himself uses this word in a wider context.

Chapter 2

1. Now it happened in those days that a decree went out from Augustus Caesar that the names of all the people of his dominion should be written down.<sup>20</sup> 2. This census first happened during the time Quirinius was managing<sup>21</sup> affairs in Syria. 3. And everyone went in his own city to be registered.

11 This poetic section is best read line-by-line to show the structure of the semitic poetry which Luke employs.

12 Semitic poetry uses two main structures. Similar to a stanza in the West, the strophe can be thought of as paragraph or main idea. Within each strophe are smaller verse-like units called stiches. Rhyme is meant to emphasize deeper insights within the stiches in conjunction with adjacent meaning of the text and the strophe as a whole.

13 Psalm 41:14 (13); Psalm 72:18; Psalm 106:48

14 Paul Younan translates the word kanota here as “godliness.” However, partly due to a preference of avoiding common names and also from a technical standpoint, “ritual purity” is preferred. The reason for this is, the word is a homonym for kahnota, “priesthood,” the Aramaic cognate for cohen! The spelling is slightly different, but the meaning is consistent between the two words.

15 “Most high,” ailya, the cognate of Hebrew aliyah, “to go up” as in ascending towards heaven, Jerusalem, or the bimah of a shul.

19 Magnificent poetic patterns abound in Hebrew and Aramaic. The second strophe in particular is truly amazing! Beginning with stiche 1, the statement "to show mercy" is khnan, the Aramaic root of Yu-khnan (John). Followed by stiche 2, the phrase "he remembers his covenant," zakhar is Hebrew for "he remembers," combined with a name for Elohim who does the remembering, or Zakhar-Yah (Zechariah). Stiche 3 has "the oath which YHWH swore to our father Awraham," combined with another Hebrew name for "Elohim" Eli and "oath" shaba, to form the name of the Yochanan the Immerser's mother, Eli-shaba (Elizabeth). There is no coincidence that the names of Zechariah, Elizabeth and John are contained poetically "within" verses that are expressly about them. Furthermore, this poem has the exact Hebrew/Aramaic pattern found in both Hebrew Scriptures and Peshitta Tanakh. The text follows Semitic rules; the first deals with the past, the second the present and third the future.

20 Josephus the historian tells of Herod the Great losing his tax exempt status after angering Augustus. The local census in Luke's region (6 BCE) was then merged with an Empire wide tribute to Augustus (2 BCE), which accounts for Luke recording the sequence as an Empire wide registration.

21 Hegemon does not carry the technical sense of "governor" in English. Pilate is called by this title and he also was not a governor, but a procurator. Quirinius is acting as a military authority under the governorship of Saturnius. In this capacity, Quirinius carried out orders from Rome to manage censuses as early as 10 BCE, including Apamea Syria which was literally next door.

4. And Yosip was also going up from Nasrath, a city of Galeela into Yehuda to the city of Dawid, which is called Beth-Lekhem, because he was from the house and from the clan of Dawid, 5. With Maryam his bride while she was pregnant, that there they might be registered. 6. And it happened that while they were there, her days of pregnancy were fulfilled. 7. And she bore him a firstborn son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger<sup>22</sup> because there was no room where they could lodge. 8. At this time shepherds were there in that region where they were lodging and keeping watch there at night over their flocks. 9. And behold a Messenger of Elohim came to them. And the glory of Master YHWH shone upon them and they feared with a great fear! 10. And the Messenger said to them, “Do not have fear, for behold I announce hope to you! A great joy which will be to the whole world. 11. For born to you all today (is the) Savior that is Master YHWH the Mashiyach,<sup>23</sup> in the city of Dawid. 12. And this is a sign to you; you will find an infant who is wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger.” 13. And at that instant the great host of heaven appeared with the Messenger, glorifying Elohim and saying, 14. “Glory to Elohim in the highest, and on earth peace and good hope to the sons of men.” 15. Then it happened that when the Messengers had departed from their presence to heaven, the shepherds talked amongst each other and said. “Let us journey to Beth-Lekhem. And let us see this matter that has occurred as Master YHWH has made known to us.” 16. And they hurriedly came and they found Maryam and Yosip and the infant who was lying in a manger. 17. After they had seen him, they made known the matter that had been told to them concerning the boy. 18. All who heard marveled at those things that had been spoken to them by the shepherds. 19. And Maryam kept all these words and pondered them in her heart. 20. And those shepherds returned while glorifying and giving praise to Elohim concerning all that they had seen and heard as it was told to them. 21. Then when eight days had passed so that the boy could be circumcised, they called his name Y’shua, as the Messenger had called him before he was conceived in the womb. 22. And when the days of their purification were fulfilled according to the instruction of Moshe, they took him up to Urishlim to present him before Master YHWH, 23. According to what is written in the Torah of Master YHWH that every male who opens the womb will be called a Set Apart one of Master YHWH.<sup>24</sup> 24. And as a sacrifice it is said in the Torah of Master YHWH to give a pair of turtledoves or two chicks of pigeons.<sup>25</sup> 25. And now there was a certain man in Urishlim; His name was Shimon. And this man was just and righteous and was waiting for the consolation of Israel. And the Ruach haKodesh was upon him. 26. And it had been said to him by the Ruach haKodesh that he would not see death until he saw the Mashiyach of Master YHWH. 27. He came by the Spirit to the temple, and when his parents brought the boy Y’shua to do on his behalf as is commanded in Torah, 28. He received him upon his arms and blessed Elohim and said, 29. “Now dismiss your servant in peace my Master according to your Word.<sup>26</sup> 30. For behold my eyes have (seen) your mercy, 31. That which you have prepared before the face of all nations, 32. a light for the revelation to the Gentiles.<sup>27</sup> And a glory to your people Israel.”

22 The Aramaic “aurya” means both a feeding trough for animals and a stable, as in Luke 13:15. The letters also spell Aur Yah (Light of YHWH) and the root is Ari, the Hebrew word for “lion”—a very deep clue that the Light of YHWH and the Lion of Yehuda are one and the same in the baby Y’shua who is laying with them! Genesis 33:17-20 indicates that Ya’akov built feeding stalls (sukkot) for his animals at a place called Succoth. The same word for Feast of Tabernacles (Sukkot) that is happening at this time. So, while the baby Y’shua is lying in one kind of sukkah, his parents are sheltering under another kind with him!

23 One of the most powerful statements about YHWH and His Mashiyach in the entire Aramaic NT. YHWH is the real Mashiyach, who chose the vessel of Y’shua the man. However, within Y’shua the man is an occurrence of the One Divine Nature of YHWH, also known as the Ruach haKodesh. This is the literal meaning of the fullness of YHWH dwelling inside Mashiyach, and in accordance with Tanakh prophecy (Isaiah 53:1, Zechariah 12:10). The divine and human natures exist separately yet side-by-side within Y’shua. Please see YHWH is Y’shua Mashiyach, in Appendix.

25 Leviticus 12:8

26 Shimon’s blessing is toward YHWH; he is seeing His Word being fulfilled as he had desired; he is now holding the promise in his arms. Shimon is not praying to the baby Y’shua here but venerates YHWH who vouchsafes His promises.

 34. And Shimon blessed them and said to his mother Maryam,

Strophe 4<sup>28</sup>

Stiche 1 34a "Behold this one is appointed

Stiche 2 34b For the fall

Stiche 3 34c And for the rise

Stiche 4 34d Of many in Israel,

Stiche 5 34e And for a sign of dispute

Stiche 6 35a And in your soul will pass through a spear

Stiche 7 35b So that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed

36. Then there was Kanna the prophetess a daughter of Peniel from the tribe of Ashir;<sup>29</sup> she was also advanced in her days. And she was seven years with her husband whom she had lived with since her virginity. 37. And she was a widow for about eighty-four years. And she would not go out from (the Temple). (But would) with fasting and with prayer serve by day and by night. 38. And she also stood up in that hour and gave thanks to Master YHWH and was speaking concerning him to everyone who was waiting for the salvation of Urishlim. 39. And when they had completed everything as was in the Torah of Master YHWH, they returned to Galeela to Nasrath their city.<sup>30</sup> 40. And the boy would grow up and become strong in spirit and was filled with wisdom, and the grace of Elohim was upon him. 41. And every year his people would go to Urishlim during the feast of the Paskha. 42. Then when he was twelve years old they went up as they were accustomed to the feast. 43. And after the days of the feast were completed, they returned. But the boy Y'shua remained in Urishlim and Yosip and his mother did not know. 44. For they were hoping that he was with the people in their company. And after they had gone on a one day journey, they searched for him among their relatives and among anyone who knew them. 45. And they did not find him, and they returned to Urishlim and were seeking him. 46. And after three days, they found him in the temple while sitting in the midst of the teachers. And he was listening to them and questioning them. 47. All those who were listening to him were amazed by his wisdom and by his answers. 48. And when they saw him they were amazed and his mother said to him, "My son, why have you acted such towards us, for behold I and your father were searching for you with much anxiety?" 49. He said to them, "Why were you searching for me? Did you not realize it is necessary for me to be in the House of my Father?" 50. But they did not understand the saying that he had told them. 51. And he went down with them and came to Nasrath and was subject to them. And his mother kept all these words in her heart. 52. And Y'shua would grow in his stature and in his wisdom and in favor with Elohim and man.

28 Another seven-stiche strophe which makes four "sevens" in a row, and all in the first two chapters! Jews and Arameans alike – past, present and future – consider the number seven as the embodiment of perfection since Elohim chose to create the Universe in six days and to rest on the seventh.

29 A hidden message is revealed within the names, decoded here as: "Hear (Shimon) of the Mercy (Kanna) before the Face of El (Peniel/Phanuel) Who is (Asher) Y'shua!" Luke in particular enjoys employing this way of communication, as in chapter 1 with the blessing of Yochanan the Immerser's father. Such Hebraisms were lost when Hebrew names were Hellenized and the text translated into Greek.

30 Another key clue to the overall chronology goes deeper into details about the registration and payment of tax, based on the location of the taxpayer and the time of year. Since the Empire-wide tribute to Augustus happened only 4 years later, it would be natural for Luke to assume the Latin word tributum was referring to its meaning of "tax payment" rather than a generic "tribute" which it can also mean. There was no ancient Roman "Freedom of Information Act" where Luke could have conclusively proven or disproven his idea that 2 BCE was the payment for the 6 BCE registration (4 years earlier), but it is also the case that Luke is never contradicted by any known documentation from the time. Here is the actual account: "When Sylleus said so, and added invidiously, that he would not himself have come out of the country, unless he had believed that Caesar would have provided that they should all have peace one with another, and that, had he been there, he would have taken care that the war should not have been to Herod's advantage. Caesar was provoked when this was said, and asked no more than this one question, both of Herod's friends that were there, and of his own friends, who were come from Syria, whether Herod had led an army there? And when they were forced to confess so much, Caesar, without staying to hear for what reason he did it, and how it was done, grew very angry, and wrote to Herod sharply. The sum of his letter was this, that whereas of old he had used him as his friend, he should now use him as his subject." (Antiquities 16:289-290). Subjects, by definition, are taxed, while friends of Rome such as Herod was (and his predecessor Antigonus), are typically exempt from taxation. The change in status from exempt to taxable was the cause of the 6 BCE registration that Quirinius was put in charge of.

1. (We begin)<sup>31</sup> now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar (which was also) during the governorship of Pontius Peelatots in Yehuda. Herodus was tetrarch in Galeela (at this time). (Additionally this was also while) Pelepos his brother was tetrarch in Ituraea and in the region of Trachona. (In this time also) Lusania was tetrarch of Abileena.<sup>32</sup> 2. (Finally) during the high priesthood of Khanan and Qayapa, the Word of Elohim came upon Yochanan, the son of Zakharyah, in the wilderness. 3. And he went into all the regions that surround the Yordanan while preaching the immersion of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. 4. As it is written in the book of the words of Yesha'yahu the prophet who said, "A voice that cries in the wilderness, 'Prepare the way of Master YHWH, and make straight the path in the plains for our Elohim. 5. All the valleys will be filled and all the mountains and heights will be leveled. And the rough will become smooth, and the difficult land a plain 6. And all flesh will see the life of Elohim.'"<sup>33</sup> 7. And he would say to the crowds, those who would come to him to be immersed, "Offspring of vipers! Who has warned you to flee from the wrath that is to come? 8. Therefore produce fruit that is worthy for repentance and do not begin to say within yourselves that, 'We have Awraham as a father.' For I say to you that from these rocks Elohim is able to raise up children to Awraham!" 9. And "Behold, the axe is placed upon the root of the tree. Every tree therefore that does not produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown into the fire." 10. And the crowds would say to him, "What then should we do?" 11. And he answered and said to them, "He who has two coats let him give to him who does not have. And he who has food, likewise let him do." 12. And the tax collectors also came to be immersed and said to him, "Teacher, what should we do?" 13. And he said to them, "Do not require anything more than what is commanded to require you. 14. And the soldiers would ask him and say, 'What should we do also?'" He said to them, "Do no violence to man and do not accuse anyone. This is sufficient for you for your wages. 15. And while the people were thinking about Yochanan and all were considering in their heart whether he was the Mashiyach, 16. Yochanan answered and said to them, "Behold I immerse you with water, but he will come after me who is stronger than I who I am not worthy to loosen the straps of his sandals. He will immerse you by the Ruach haKodesh and by fire."<sup>34</sup> 17. He who holds a winnowing fan in his hand and has cleansed his threshing floor, he will gather the wheat into his granaries, but the chaff he will burn in the fire that does not extinguish." 18. And he would also teach and declare many other things to the people. 19. And Herodus the tetrarch, because he was rebuked by Yochanan on account of Herodia, the wife of his brother Pileepa, and on account of all the evils that he had done, 20. Added all this above that he also locked away Yochanan in prison. 21. Now it happened while he immersed all the people, and while he also immersed Y'shua, He prayed and heaven was opened.<sup>35</sup> 22. And the Ruach haKodesh descended upon him in the likeness of the form of a dove. And a Voice came from heaven that said, You are my beloved Son in whom I am pleased. 23. And Y'shua was about thirty years old and was thought to be the son of Yosip, the son of Heli, 24. The son of Mattath the son of Lewi, the son of Malki, the son of Yani, the son of Yosip, 31 These two verses are difficult to render word for word into English without some very confusing extra long sentences. The connectors, as indicated by ( ), serve as a best attempt to keep Aramaic structure intact while conveying it into the receiving language.

32 All of the historical references match up to the year 27 CE. There were two ways to count the "15th year of Tiberius": from the time Tiberius began co-ruling with Augustus (12 CE) or from the time Tiberius began ruling alone after Augustus died (14 CE). Josephus counts by the latter method, Luke the former method. Yochanan 2:23 says it took "46 years to build the Temple" which corresponds with 27 CE rather than 29 CE. The other confirmation is from Daniel 9:24-27, where 69 weeks (483 years) from the issuing of the decree to rebuild all of Jerusalem (Ezra 7:1-26; 9:8-9) is fixed to 457 BCE at the start and ending at 27 CE, or the time of Y'shua's immersion by Yochanan.

34 Khabouris adds the word "after" as in "he who comes after me." 1905 is corrected according to Khabouris.

35 Heaven is not up, but "in"; heaven opened means the observer sees into another dimension of reality that is not otherwise accessible.

Chapter 4

1. Now Y'shua while being filled with the Ruach haKodesh returned from the Yordanan and the Spirit led him into the wilderness 2. For forty days that he might be tempted by the accuser. And he did not eat anything in those days. And when he had completed them, he hungered at the end.
 3. And the accuser said to him, "If you are the Son of Elohim, say to these rocks that they should become bread." 4. Y'shua answered and said to him, "It is written that man should not live by bread alone, rather, by every Word of Elohim."<sup>36</sup> 5. And Satan took him up to a high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the earth in a short period of time. 6. And the accuser<sup>37</sup> said to him, "I will give all this authority and all its glory that is delivered to me, and I can give it to whomever I desire. 7. All of it will be yours, if therefore you prostrate yourself before me."
 8. But Y'shua answered and said to him, "It is written that you should worship Master YHWH your Elohim, and you should serve Him alone."<sup>38</sup> 9. And he brought him to Urishlim and placed him upon the edge of the temple and said to him, "If you are the Son of Elohim, cast yourself down from here to below, 10. For it is written that He will command to His Messengers that concerning you, to keep watch over you, 11. And they will bear you upon their arms, or else you dash your foot against a stone."<sup>39</sup> 12. But Y'shua answered and said to him, "It is said that you should not test<sup>40</sup> Master YHWH your Elohim." 13. And when the accuser had finished all his temptations, he departed from His presence for a while. 14. And Y'shua returned in the power of the Spirit to Galeela and the news concerning him went out into every region that was around them. 15. And he would teach in their assemblies and would be praised by every man. 16. And he came to Nasrath where he had been raised, and he entered into the assembly as he was accustomed on the day of the Shabbat and stood up to read. 17. Then the scroll of the prophet Yesha'yahu was given to him, and Y'shua opened the scroll and found the place where it is written,

<sup>37</sup> In this sentence the terms "satan" and "Akhel Khartza" (the Accuser) are used interchangeably to refer to the same being.

<sup>38</sup> Deuteronomy 6:13, 14. Also in this line: Khabouris has "but (din) answered Y'shua and said" whereas 1905 just has "answered Y'shua and said." 1905 is corrected according to Khabouris.

<sup>40</sup> Not test/tempt in the sense of YHWH being forced to consider changing his mind, because this is impossible. Rather, Aramaic here means something closer to, "don't attempt to force YHWH to pass one of your man made tests." (See Deuteronomy 6:16.)

18. “The Spirit of Master YHWH is upon me and because of this, He has anointed me to declare hope to the poor. And He has sent me to heal the brokenhearted and to preach release<sup>41</sup> to the captives and sight to the blind. And to free those with the power of forgiveness who are oppressed.<sup>42</sup> 19. And to preach the acceptable year of Master YHWH.<sup>43</sup> 20. And he rolled up the scroll and gave it to the minister and went and sat down. And all of those in the assembly, their eyes were fixed on him. 21. And he began to say to them that, “This Scripture in your ears is fulfilled today.” 22. All of them were testifying about him and were marveling at the words of blessing that were proceeding from his mouth. And they were saying, “Is this man not the son of Yosip? 23. Y’shua said to them, “Perhaps you might tell me this parable, ‘Physician heal yourself.’ And all that we have heard that you did in Capurnakhum, do here also in your city.” 24. And he said, “Truly I say to you that there is no prophet who is accepted in his own city. 25. For truly I say to you that many widows there were in the house of Israel in the days of the prophet Eliyahu when the heavens were shut up three years and six months and a great famine was in all the land. 26. And Eliyahu was not sent to one of them except to Sarpath of Tsidon to a woman, a widow. 27. And there were many lepers in the house of Israel in the days of the prophet Elisha,<sup>44</sup> and not one of them was cleansed except for Naaman the Aramean.” 28. Then when those in the assembly had heard these things, all of them were filled with anger. 29. And they rose up and cast him outside of the city and they brought him up to the ridge of a mountain that which their city was built upon to cast him down from a cliff. 30. But he passed between them and departed. 31. After this, he went down to Capurnakhum, a city of Galeela, and he would teach them every Shabbat. 32. And they were astonished at his teaching because his message had authority. 33. And in the assembly there was a man who had a spirit of an unclean demon, and he cried out in a loud voice, 34. And said, “Leave me alone! What have we to do with each other Y’shua the Nasraya? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, you are the Set Apart one of Elohim.” 35. And Y’shua rebuked him and said, “Shut your mouth and come out from him!” And the demon threw him down in the midst and departed from him, though he did not harm him at all, 36. And a great amazement seized every man, and they were speaking with one another and saying, “What indeed is this message that with authority and power he commands to unclean spirits and they depart?” 37. And the news went out concerning him in all the regions that surround them. 38. After Y’shua departed from the assembly, he entered into the house of Shimon. And the mother-in-law of Shimon was afflicted with a great fever, and they entreated him for her sake. 39. And he stood over her and rebuked her fever and it left her. And she arose and immediately was ministering to them. 40. And at the setting of the sun, all those who were sick, who were ill with various sicknesses, brought them to him and he would lay his hand upon them one at a time, and would heal them. 41. And many demons were also departing while crying out and saying that, “You are the Mashiyach, the Son of Elohim!” And he would rebuke them and would not allow them to say that they knew he was the Mashiyach.

41 See Deliverance in Appendix.

42 Aramaic literally reads, “free those who are oppressed by the power of forgiveness”, but that could leave the wrong impression that the power of forgiveness is oppressing them! Instead, the verse says, “free those who are oppressed—have their oppression end—because of the power of forgiveness. This is a great example of how a “word for word” translation could potentially result in a unintentional meaning.

43 This language is specific to either a Land Sabbath (shemittah) or a Jubilee (yovel) year according to Torah, when the land is required to rest. The occasion that Y’shua is referring to here, is him freeing the captives in Sheol after his death (Isaiah 58:6; 61:1, 2). Y’shua’s burial and resurrection occurred in the year 30 CE, during a Land Sabbath.

44 The 1611 King James Version reads “many lepers were in Israel in the time of Elizeus the Prophet.” Elisha means “Elohim is Salvation”; Elizeus means “God is Zeus”. In this respect, Christianity is a continuum of ancient “Zeus style” worship. Christmas trees, Ishtar (Easter) eggs, Sun-day church and “the Trinity” are but a few examples of anti-Torah and anti-Mashiyach pagan traditions. Eli-Zeus and Je-Zeus are hybrid names of polytheistic pedigree, which became infused into the “New Testament” through the translators’ Hellenistic associations with the “modern” paganism of their day. See Y’shua to Zeus in Appendix.

42. Then on the morning of the day he departed and went to a deserted place, and the crowds were seeking him, and they came up to him and held tightly to him or else he leave from their presence. 43. And Y'shua said to them that, "It is necessary for me to preach to other cities the Kingdom of Elohim, for because this reason I have been sent." 44. And he would preach in the assemblies of Galeela.

1. Now it happened that while the crowds gathered around him to hear the Word of Elohim and he was standing at the side of the lake of Genesar, 2. He saw two ships that were docked at the side of the lake, and the fishermen that had disembarked from them were washing their nets. 3. One of them belonged to Shimon Keefa, and Y'shua embarked and sat in it and asked that they take him a little way from dry land. And he sat on the water and would teach from the ship to the crowds. 4. And after he had stopped talking, he said to Shimon, "Row to deep water and cast your nets to fish." 5. Shimon answered him and said to him, "Rabbi we have labored all night and we have not caught anything! But at your word, I will cast the nets. 6. And after they did this, they caught very many fish and were tearing their nets. 7. And they beckoned to their friends who were in another ship that they come and help them. And after they came, they filled both ships, so much so that they were near to sinking. 8. When Shimon Keefa saw this, he fell before the feet of Y'shua and said to him, "I beg you my Master, depart from me for I am a sinful man." 9. For amazement had seized him and all who were with him because of that catch of fish that they had caught. 10. And likewise also Ya'akov and Yochanan the sons of Zawdee who were partners with Shimon. But Y'shua said to Shimon, "Do not have fear. From now on the sons of men will be caught to life."<sup>45</sup> 11. And they brought those ships to land and left everything and followed after him. 12. And when Y'shua was in one of the cities, a man came who was completely covered with leprosy. He saw Y'shua and fell upon his face and was beseeching him and said to him, "My Master, if you desire you are able to cleanse me." 13. And Y'shua stretched forth his hand and touched him and said to him, "I do desire. Be cleansed."<sup>46</sup> And his leprosy departed from him at once! 14. And he commanded him, "Do not tell to anyone, rather go show yourself to the priests and offer an offering<sup>47</sup> for your purification as Moshe commanded for their testimony." 15. And the news concerning him went out all the more, and a large crowd was gathered to hear from him and to be healed from their diseases. 16. But he had departed into the wilderness and was praying. 17. And it happened that on one of those days while Y'shua was teaching, Pharisees and the teachers of Torah were sitting there who had come from all the villages of Galeela and of Yehuda and of Urishlim. And the power of Master YHWH was there to heal them. 18. And men brought a certain man who was a paralytic on a pallet and were beseeching that they might bring him in to place him before him.

45 "Caught unto life" rather than "fishers of men." In Aramaic, it is clear that the "catching" of men is very different than that of fish. Fish are caught unto death, men are caught (or rescued/saved, a variant on the meaning of Y'shua's name) unto eternal life; a very big difference indeed.

46 Although it is implied that the leper means "I do desire to be cleansed" Khabouris lacks "cleansed" and simply says "I do desire (it)." The 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts have "cleansed" so 1905 is retained in the Aramaic here.

47 Khabouris reads "offer an offering" here whereas 1905 does not. The 1905 is corrected according to Khabouris.

19. And when they could not find how they might bring him in because of the multitude of people, they went up to the roof and let him down on his pallet from the ceiling into the midst before Y'shua. 20. And when Y'shua saw their faith, he said to that paralytic, "Man, you are forgiven you your sins." 21. And the scribes and Pharisees began reasoning and saying, "Who is this man who speaks blasphemy? Who is able to forgive sins, except Elohim alone?" 22. But Y'shua knew their thoughts and answered and said to them, "Why are you reasoning in your hearts? 23. Which is easier to say, 'You are forgiven your sins.' Or to say, 'Arise and walk.' 24. But that you might know that it is Lawful for the Son of man to forgive sins on earth," he said to the paralytic, "I say to you, arise! Take up your pallet and go to your house." 25. And he arose immediately before their eyes and took his pallet and went to his house while glorifying Elohim.<sup>48</sup> 26. And amazement seized everyone and they were glorifying Elohim and they were filled with fear and said, "We have seen wonders today!" 27. After these things, Y'shua went out and saw a tax-collector whose name was Lewi who was sitting at the house of customs. And he said to him, "Come. Follow after me." 28. And he left everything and arose and went after him and followed. 29. And Lewi made a great feast for him in his house, and there was a large crowd of publicans and of others who were reclining with them. 30. And the scribes and the Pharisees were arguing and they said to his disciples, "Why are tax-collectors and sinners eating and drinking among you?" 31. And Y'shua answered and said to them, "The physician is not needed by the healthy, rather by those who are severely ill. 32. I did not come to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance." 33. Then they said to him, "Why do the disciples of Yochanan and of the Pharisees fast and pray continually, but yours are eating and drinking?" 34. But he said to them, "You are not able to make the sons of the wedding feast fast as long as the bridegroom is with them. 35. But the days will come when the bridegroom will be taken from them. Then they will fast in those days." 36. And he told them a parable: "No man tears a piece of cloth from a new garment and places it on a used garment or else the new is torn from the used and makes a worse hole in the used. 37. And no man puts new wine into used wineskins or else the new wine should burst the wineskins and that wine be poured out and the wineskins be destroyed. 38. Instead new wine they put in new wineskins and both of them are preserved. 39. And no man drinks old wine and immediately desires the new wine for he says the old is delicious."

Chapter 6

1. Now it happened on the Shabbat while Y'shua was walking in the fields that his disciples were plucking heads of grain and rubbing them in their hands and eating. 2. And some of the Pharisees said to them, "Why do you the thing that is not Lawful to do on the Shabbat?"<sup>49</sup> 3. Y'shua answered and said to them, "And have you not read the thing which Dawid did when he hungered, and those who were with him?"

<sup>48</sup> Khabouris has an isolated beyr after 5:25 but before the first word of 5:26.

<sup>49</sup> For some 2,500 years, long before the Shabbat Commandment was written upon stone at Mt. Sinai, Shabbat had been a weekly memorial of that "Divine rest" of the Seventh Day of Creation. Exodus 20:11 states; "For in six days YHWH made the heaven and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested on the seventh day; wherefore YHWH blessed the Shabbat day, and Set it Apart." For some 2,500 years there was no religion to order what was "lawful to do on the Shabbat." There was no religious discrimination to dictate who could or could not celebrate Shabbat, when to celebrate Shabbat, no theological arguments for or against Shabbat. Shabbat was a spiritual and intellectual consciousness that pointed to the Architect of Life, long before Sinai. YHWH "blessed the Shabbat day" from the time He rested at the Seventh Day of Creation. Mashiach restored the Edenic nature of Shabbat, the beauty of "divine rest", a day of wonder and glory that YHWH gave to provide spiritual sustenance for thirsty souls. The Shabbat that Mashiach Y'shua offers is not about religion, or a "religious formula", nor a doctrine about which day to rest on, nor a cause for religious discrimination or "creed rattling". Shabbat is Kadosh L'YHWH. Please also see footnote on Matthew 12:2.

4. How he entered into the House of Elohim and he took the bread on the table of Master YHWH and ate it and he gave to those who were with him, that which was not Lawful for anyone to eat except only the priests.” 5. And he said to them that, “The Son of man is the Master of the Shabbat.”<sup>50</sup> 6. Then it happened on another Shabbat he entered the assembly and was teaching and there was a man whose right hand was withered. 7. The scribes and Pharisees were watching him whether or not he would heal on the Shabbat, that they might be able to accuse him. 8. But he knew their thoughts. He said to that man whose hand was withered, “Arise! Come here in the midst of the assembly.” And when he arose and came 9. Y’shua said to them, “I ask you what is Lawful on the Shabbat to do, good or evil, to make a soul to live, or to destroy it?” 10. And he stared at them, at all of them, and said to him, “Stretch out your hand!” And he stretched it out and his hand was restored like his other hand. 11. And they were filled with bitterness and were speaking one with another about what they should do to Y’shua. 12. And it happened in those days that Y’shua went out to a mountain to pray, and there he had spent the night in the prayers of Elohim. 13. And when the day broke, he called his disciples and chose from them twelve, those whom he named Shlichim. 14. Shimon whom he named Keefa, and Andraus his brother, and Ya’akov and Yochanan and Pileepos and Bar-Tulmay 15. And Matti and Tooma and Ya’akov the son of Khalpai and Shimon who is called the Zealot, 16. And Yehuda the son of Ya’akov and Yehuda Skaryota, he who was the betrayer. 17. And Y’shua came down among them and stood in the plain and a large crowd of his disciples and a multitude of crowds of people from all of Yehuda and from Urishlim and from the coast of the sea of Tsur and of Tsidon 18. Who had come to hear his words. And he healed them from their illnesses and those who were afflicted by unclean spirits, and they were healed. 19. And all of the crowds were beseeching to touch him, for power was going out from him and he was healing all of them. 20. And he lifted up his eyes to his disciples and said, “Blessed are you who are poor, because yours is the Kingdom of Elohim. 21. Blessed are you who are now hungry because you will be satisfied. 22. Blessed are you when the sons of men hate you and separate you and revile you and cast out your name as evil for the sake of the Son of man. 23. In that day rejoice and leap for joy for your treasure is great in heaven, for likewise their fathers had done to the prophets. 24. But woe to you who are rich, for you have received your comfort. 25. Woe to you who are satisfied because you will hunger. 26. Woe to you those who are now laughing because you will weep and you will mourn. Woe to you while the sons of men speak good things about you, for likewise had done their false fathers to the prophets. 27. But to you I say to those who hear, Love your enemies and do good things to those who hate you. 28. And bless those who curse you and pray for those who take you with violence. 29. And to him who strikes you on your cheek, offer the other to him. And from him who takes your cloak do not keep back also your coat. 30. From everyone who asks you give to him, and from him who takes your property, do not demand your property back.

31. And as you desire to do to you, you also do likewise to the sons of men. 32. For if you love those who love you, what is your blessing? For even sinners love those who love them. 33. And if you do good to those who do good to you, what is your blessing? For even sinners do likewise. 34. And if you lend to whom you expect to be repaid from, where is your blessing? Even sinners lend to sinners that they might likewise be repaid. 35. But love your enemies, and do good to them. And lend and do not cut off the hope of man, and great will be your reward. And you will be the sons of the Most High because he is pleasant to the evil and the cruel. 36. Therefore be merciful as your Father is also merciful. 37. Do not judge and you will not be judged. Do not condemn and you will not be condemned. Release and you will be released. 38. Give and it will be given to you in good measure and pressed down and abundant it will pour into your robe in that measure. For the measure with which you measure, it will be measured to you.” 39. And he was speaking a parable to them, “Why are the blind not able to lead the blind? Both of them would fall into a ditch. 40. There is no disciple that is greater than his master. For everyone who is perfect should be as his master. 41. And why do you see the straw that is in the eye of your brother, but the beam that is in your eye is not seen by you? 42. Or how are you able to say to your brother, “My brother allow me to take the straw out from your eye” for behold the beam that is in your eye is not seen by you? Hypocrite! First take out the beam from your eye and then you will be able to see to take out the straw from the eye of your brother. 43. There is not a good tree which produces bad fruit. There is also no bad tree which produces good fruit. 44. For every tree is known by its fruit. For they do not gather thorns from figs nor do they gather grapes from a thorn bush. 45. From a good man the treasures that are in his good heart<sup>51</sup> brings forth good things, and an evil man the evil treasures that are in his heart brings forth evil things. For the abundance of the heart speak the lips. 46. Why do you call to me, “My Master, my Master” and the thing that I say, you do not do? 47. Every man who comes to me and hears my words and does them, I will describe to you what he is likened to. 48. He is likened to a man who built a house and dug and went deep and placed its foundations upon rock. And when a flood occurred, the flood beat against that house and was not able to shake it. For its foundations were placed on rock. 49. And he who hears but does not is likened to a man who built his house on soil without a foundation. And when the river beat upon it, it fell at once and great was the fall of that house.”

51 Y’shua’s teaching that good treasures come from a good heart and evil things from an evil heart is a black and white concept. However, religions about Mashiyach have relegated these specific elements of Faith into relativism and relativism into secular humanism with worn out cliché’s such as, “hate the sin but love the sinner”. Although it seems right, the core issue then is focused on “love” and how to “love” the sinner rather than matters of heart consciousness. Y’shua teaches that “evil things come from an evil heart” so it is futile to “love the sinner” unless that means leading them into true repentance and a spiritual heart transplant. In fact Torah requires us to rebuke a brother in sin both firmly and in love at the same time. Our love is perfected in many cases in our willingness to provide Scripture based correction. In reality, “hate the sin but love the sinner” often ends up as a warm fuzzy way of coping with treacherous sinning. Y’shua offers expansive watershed teachings regarding these matters of the heart. In Matthew 5:28 he taught against “adultery in the heart” more specifically, covetousness, a sin of the mind and spirit. If the end result of desiring something is sin, then all steps that lead to the act, whether by thought or deed, are also sin. This is very clearly the nature of the high spiritual and mental discipline Y’shua requires of his followers. The proper balance then of expressing this love for the sinner is realized in the Torah precept of Vayikra/Leviticus 19:17: “You shall not hate your brother in your heart but you will earnestly rebuke your neighbor and not bear sin because of him.” It is for our neighbor’s benefit, as well as the wider community’s, that proper guidance is given to avoid additional problems. For those reasons, one can rebuke both firmly and in a spirit of “loving the sinner” at the same time.

1. And when he completed all the sayings for the hearing of the people, Y'shua entered Capurnakhum. 2. And the servant of a certain centurion was badly ill, one who was dear to him and he was close to dying. 3. And he heard about Y'shua and sent to him elders of the Yehudeans; beseeching him so that he might come and give life to his servant. 4. And when they came to Y'shua they were beseeching him earnestly and saying, "He is worthy that you should do this thing for him. 5. For he loves our people and also he has built an assembly for us." 6. And Y'shua went with them, and not very far from the house, the centurion sent his friends and said to him, "My Master, do not trouble yourself for I am not worthy that you should enter under my roof 7. Because I am not worthy that to you I should come. But speak with a word and my boy will be healed. 8. For I also am a man who is a servant under authority. And there are soldiers under my hand, and I say to this one 'Go!' and he goes, and to another, 'Come!' and he comes. And to my servant, 'Do this!' and he does it." 9. And when Y'shua heard these things he marveled at him and he turned and said to the crowd who had come following him, "I say to you that not even in Israel have I found faith like this." 10. And those who were sent returned to the house and they found that the servant who was ill was made whole. 11. And it happened that on the following day he went with his disciples and a large crowd to the city whose name is Nayn. 12. And when he approached the gate of the city he saw a dead man while being escorted who was the only son of his mother, and his mother was a widow. And a large crowd of the sons of the city was with her. 13. And Y'shua saw her and had compassion on her and said to her, "Do not cry." 14. And he went and touched the coffin and those who were carrying it stood still and he said, "Young man! To you I say arise!" 15. And that dead man sat up and began to speak, and he gave him to his mother.<sup>52</sup> 16. And fear seized all men and they were glorifying Elohim and saying that, "A great prophet has arisen among us," and "Elohim has visited his people."<sup>53</sup> 17. Then this report concerning him went out in all Yehuda and in all the regions that were around them. 18. And his disciples reported all these things to Yochanan. 19. And Yochanan called two of his disciples and he sent them to Y'shua and said, "Are you he that is to come or should we wait for another?" 20. And they came to Y'shua and said to him. "Yochanan the Immerser sent us to you and said, 'Are you he that is to come or should we wait for another?'" 21. In that same hour, he healed many of their sickness and of plagues and of evil spirits and to many blind he gave sight. 22. And Y'shua answered and said to them, "Go tell Yochanan everything that you have seen and heard, that the blind see and the lame walk and the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear and the dead arise and the poor are given hope."<sup>54</sup> 23. And blessed is he who is not offended at me." 24. And when the disciples of Yochanan left Y'shua began to say to the crowds concerning Yochanan, "What did you go out into the desert to see – a reed that is shaken by the wind? 25. And if not, what did you go out to see? A man clothed with soft garments? Behold those who are in expensive clothes and in luxuries, they are in the houses of the kings.

<sup>53</sup> A very clear Aramaic wordplay since Elohim l'aimmeh (Elohim towards our people) is directly preceded by the phrase "among us" which in Hebrew is the soundalike of am. The phraseology is combined to render Immanuel (with us El), the prophetic name for Mashiach found in Isaiah 7:14.

26. And if not, what did you go out and see? A prophet? Yes I say to you, and greater than a prophet! 27. This is he about whom is written, ‘Behold I send my Messenger before your face that he might prepare the way before you.’<sup>55</sup> 28. I say to you that there is no prophet among those begotten of women who is greater than Yochanan the Immerser. But the least in the Kingdom of Elohim is greater than he.” 29. And all the people who heard, even the publicans, Elohim declared to be just for they had been immersed. 30. But the Pharisees and the scribes rejected in themselves the will of Elohim because they were not immersed by him. 31. “To what, therefore, can I liken the men of this generation? And to what are they like? 32. They are like boys who sit in the marketplace and cry out to their friends and say. ‘We have sung to you and you did not dance, and we have mourned for you and you did not weep.’ 33. For Yochanan the Immerser came not eating bread nor drinking wine and you say, ‘There is a demon in him.’ 34. The Son of man came eating and drinking and you say, ‘Behold a gluttonous man and one drinking wine and a friend of publicans and sinners.’ 35. And wisdom is justified by all its works.” 36. Now one of the Pharisees entreated him to eat with him. And he entered the house of that Pharisee and reclined. 37. And a sinful woman was there in that city and when she learned that he was reclining in the house of the Pharisee, she took an alabaster vase of ointment 38. And stood behind him and was crying at his feet. And she began washing his feet with her tears and then wiping with the hair of her head. And she was kissing his feet and anointing them with ointment.<sup>56</sup> 39. And when that Pharisee who had invited him saw that, he reasoned within himself and said that if this man was a prophet, he would realize who she is and what her reputation is. That woman, she is a sinner that who touched him.<sup>57</sup> 40. And Y’shua answered and said to him, “Shimon I have something to say to you.” And he said to him, “Speak Rabbi.” Y’shua said to him, 41. “There were two debtors to a certain creditor. One had owed him five hundred denarii, and the other fifty denarii. 42. And because they had no way to repay, he forgave both of them. Therefore, which of them will love him more?” 43. Shimon answered and said, “I suppose that he that was forgiven the most.” Y’shua said to him, “You have judged correctly.” 44. And he turned to that woman and said to Shimon, “Do you see this woman? I entered into your house and you did not supply water for my feet. But this woman has washed my feet with her tears. And with her hair, she has dried them. 45. You did not kiss me, but behold this woman has not ceased to kiss my feet since I entered! 46. You did not anoint my head with oil, but this woman has anointed my feet with oil of incense. 47. For I say this to you. Because her sins that are forgiven her are many, she has loved much. But he that is forgiven little, loves little.” 48. And he said to that woman, “You are forgiven your sins.” 49. And those who were reclining began saying among themselves, “Who is this who even forgives sins?” 50. But Y’shua said to that woman, “Your faith has given you life. Go in peace.”

1. And it happened after these things that Y'shua was going around in the cities and in the villages and was preaching and declaring the Kingdom of Elohim. And his twelve were with him, 2. and those women who were healed of sicknesses and of evil spirits. Maryam who is called Magdalitha from whom seven demons had gone out, 3. And Yokan the wife of Kuza the steward of Herodus and Shusban and many others, these were ministering to them from their wealth. 4. A large crowd was gathering from all the cities. While they were coming to him, he said in a parable, 5. "A sower went out to sow his seed, and as he sowed there was some that fell on the side of the road and was trampled and a bird ate it. 6. And other seed fell on rock, and at once it sprang up, and because it did not have moisture it withered. 7. And others fell into a thorny place<sup>58</sup> and with it sprang up thorns and choked it. 8. And others fell on good and pleasant earth and sprang up and produced fruit one hundred fold." When he had said these things, he cried out, "He who has ears to hear, let him hear." 9. And his disciples asked him the meaning of what this parable is. 10. And he said to them, "For to you it is given to know the mystery of the Kingdom of Elohim. But to the rest of them it is spoken in parables because though they see, they will not see, and though they hear, they will not comprehend."<sup>59</sup> 11. Now this is the meaning of the parable. The seed is the Word of Elohim. 12. And those seeds that fell upon the side of the road are those who hear the Word, but comes the enemy and takes the Word from the heart so that they might not believe and live. 13. And they that fell upon the rock are those that they heard it and received the Word with joy, but they have no root; Rather for a while their faith is, and in the time of trial they are offended. 14. And that which fell into a thorny place they are those who hear the Word and with the care and wealth and lusts of the world are choked, and they do not produce fruit. 15. And that seed which fell on good ground, they are those who with an honest and good heart hear the Word and retain it and bear fruit with patience. 16. No man lights a lamp and covers it with a vessel or places it under the bed, rather he places it on a lamp stand so that all who enter will see its light. 17. For there is not anything that is hidden that will not be revealed, nor that which is concealed that will not be known and come out openly. 18. Take heed how you hear. For he who has, it will be given him. And to him who does not have, even that which he thinks that he has will be taken from him." 19. Now his mother and brothers came to him, and they were not able to speak with him because of the crowds. 20. And they said to him, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside and desire to see you. 21. But he answered and said to them, "These are my mother and my brothers, those who hear the Word of Elohim and do it." 22. And it happened that on one of those days Y'shua went up and sat in a ship - he and his disciples. And he said to them, "Let us cross over to the other side of the lake." 23. And while they journeyed, Y'shua was asleep. And there was a storm of wind on the lake and the boat was close to sinking. 24. And they came and aroused him and said to him, "Our Master! Our Master! We are perishing!" And he arose and rebuked the wind and the waves of the sea, and they ceased and it became calm.

25. And he said to them, “Where is your faith?” They were afraid and they were amazed and they said one to the other, “Who indeed is this man who even commands to the wind and to the tempest and to the sea and they obey him?” 26. And they journeyed and came to the land of the Gadarenes which is on the other side opposite of Galeela. 27. And when he went out onto land, a certain man from the city caught up to him. In him had been a demon a long time. And he would not wear clothing and he would not dwell in a house, but would in a cemetery. 28. And when he saw Y’shua, he cried out and fell down before him and in a loud voice said, “What have we to do with each other, Y’shua, the Son of the Most High Elohim? I beseech you, do not torment me.” 29. For Y’shua was commanding to the unclean spirit to go out from the man. For much time had passed since he was held captive by him. And he was bound with chains and with bonds and he was restrained, but he would break his bonds and would be driven by the accuser into the wilderness. 30. And Y’shua asked him, “What is your name?” He said to him, “Legion” because many demons had entered into him. 31. And they were beseeching him that he would not command them to go to the abyss. 32. And there was there a numerous herd of swine that was feeding on the mountain and they were beseeching him to permit them to enter into the swine. And he permitted them. 33. And out went the demons from the man and entered into the swine. And that whole herd rushed to a cliff and fell into the lake and they drowned. 34. When the herders saw what had happened, they fled and reported it in the city and in the villages. 35. Men came out to see what had happened, and they came to Y’shua and found that man whose demons had departed, dressed and sober and sitting at the feet of Y’shua. And they were afraid. 36. Those who had seen it reported to them how he healed that possessed man. 37. And all the crowds of Gadarenes were beseeching him to depart from their presence because a great fear had seized them. And Y’shua went up into the ship and returned from their presence. 38. And that man from whom went out the demons was beseeching him that he might remain with him, but Y’shua sent him on his way. And Y’shua said to him, 39. “Return to your house and report what Elohim has done for you.” And he went and was preaching in all the city the thing that Y’shua had done for him. 40. And when Y’shua returned, a large crowd received him, for all were looking for him. 41. And a certain man whose name was Yorash, a chief of the assembly, fell before the feet of Y’shua and was beseeching him that he might enter his house. 42. For he had an only daughter about twelve years old. And she was about to die. And while Y’shua was going with him, a large crowd was pressing against him. 43. And a certain woman whose blood was flowing for twelve years who among the doctors, had spent all her money, but was not able to be healed by man. 44. She approached from behind him and touched the wing<sup>60</sup> of his garment. And immediately the flow of her blood stopped. 45. And Y’shua said, “Who touched me?” And while all were denying it, Shimon Keefa and those with him said to him, “Our Master, the crowds are pressing and thronging you, and you say, ‘Who touched me?’” 46. And he said, “Someone touched me. For I know that power went out of me.”

60 Clearly referring to tzit-tzit according to the Hebrew/Aramaic word kanaph, which literally means “wings.” These “wings” have fringes or strings (like feathers) that branch out as tassels. The woman’s position in approaching Y’shua from behind means that she is reaching the “edges” or the “fringes” of his tzit-tzit. Y’shua references these directly in the form of the blue thread, or tekhelet, which means both “tassel” and “blue” in Matthew 23:5. Finally, kanaph is also a metaphor for protection (Psalm 91:4) and the woman here has sought protection from her disease by taking hold of Y’shua’s “wings”.

47. And when that woman saw that she had not escaped his notice, came while trembling and fell and worshipped him and said before all the people for what purpose she touched him and how immediately she was healed. 48. And Y'shua said to her, "Have courage my daughter. Your faith has given you life. Go in peace." 49. And while he was speaking, a man from the house of the ruler of the assembly came and said to him, "Your daughter has died, do not trouble the teacher." 50. But Y'shua heard it and said to the father of the young girl, "Do not have fear. And only believe she will live." 51. And Y'shua came to the house and did not allow anyone to enter with him except Shimon and Ya'akov and Yochanan and the father of the young girl and her mother. 52. And all were weeping and mourning over her, but Y'shua said, "Do not cry. For she is not dead, but she sleeps." 53. And they were laughing at him because they knew that she had died. 54. And he put everyone outside and took her by the hand and called her and said, "Arise young girl!" 55. And her spirit returned immediately and she arose. And he commanded that they give her something to eat. 56. And her parents were astonished, and he warned them that they should not tell anyone what had happened.<sup>61</sup>

1. And Y'shua called his twelve and gave power and authority to them over all demons and over all sicknesses to heal. 2. And he sent them to preach the Kingdom of Elohim and to heal the sick. 3. And he said to them, "Do not take anything with you on the road, neither a staff nor a wallet nor bread nor money nor two coats should you have. 4. And into whatever house that you enter, there remain and depart from there. 5. And he who does not receive you, when you depart from that city shake off even the dust from your feet for a testimony against them." 6. Then the Shlichim departed and were going around in the villages and in the cities and preaching hope and were healing in every place. 7. And Herodus the tetrarch heard of all the things that were done by their hands, and he was amazed because some men were saying that Yochanan had risen from the dead. 8. And others were saying that Eliyahu had appeared, and others that a prophet from the first prophets has arisen. 9. And Herodus said, "I have cut off the head of Yochanan, but whom (is this person) I hear these things about? And he had wanted to see him. 10. And when the Shlichim returned, they reported everything that they did to Y'shua, and he took them privately to a deserted place of Beth-Saida. 11. And when the crowds realized it, they went after him. And he received them and would speak with them about the Kingdom of Elohim. And those who had need for healing, he would heal. 12. And when the day began to wane, his disciples approached and said to him, "Dismiss the crowds that they may go to the villages around us and to the hamlets to dwell in them and to find food for themselves, because we are in a deserted place." 13. Y'shua said to them, "Give them something to eat." But they said we do not have more than five loaves of bread and two fish, unless we go and buy food for all these people.

<sup>61</sup> Khabouris has "the thing that happened." 1905 has "what happened." Khabouris' word, medem and 1905's word, ma, have been added for the sake of clarity.

14. For there were about five thousand men. Y'shua said to them, "Make them to sit down in groups, fifty people in a group."<sup>62</sup> 15. And the disciples did thus, and made all of them to sit. 16. And Y'shua took those five loaves of bread and the two fish and gazed into heaven and blessed them and broke them and gave them to his disciples to set before the crowds. 17. And all of them ate and were satisfied. And they took up the fragments, what was left over was twelve baskets. 18. And while he prayed alone with his disciples, he asked them and said, "Who do the crowds say about me that I am?" 19. They answered and said to him, "Some say Yochanan the Immerser, and others Eliyahu, and others but a certain prophet from the first prophets has arisen. 20. He said to them, "You, but who do you say that I am?" Shimon answered and said, "The Mashiyach of Elohim!" 21. And he reproved them and warned them that they should not tell this to anyone. 22. Then he said to them that he, the Son of man, would suffer many things and that the elders and chief priests, and scribes would reject him. And they would kill him, and on the third day he would arise. 23. And he would say before everyone, "He who desires to follow after me should deny himself and every day take up his stake and follow after me. 24. For whoever desires to make his soul live, will destroy it, but whoever destroys his soul for my sake, this one it will make live. 25. For what does it benefit a man who gains the whole world but destroys or loses his soul? 26. Whoever is ashamed of me and of my words, the Son of man will be ashamed of him when he comes with his Set Apart Messengers in the glory of his Father. 27. Truly I say to you that there are men who stand here who will not taste death until they see the Kingdom of Elohim." 28. And it happened about eight days after these words that Y'shua took Shimon and Ya'akov, and Yochanan and went up a mountain to pray. 29. And while he prayed, the appearance of his face was changed, and his clothes were whitened and shining. 30. And behold, two men were speaking with him who were Moshe and Eliyahu 31. Who appeared in glory, and they were talking about his departure which was about to be fulfilled in Urishlim. 32. Shimon and those with him were heavy with sleep and barely awake. And they saw his glory and those two men who were standing with him. 33. And when they began to leave, Shimon said to Y'shua, "Rabbi it is good for us that we stay here and we make three shelters - one for you, and one for Moshe and one for Eliyahu," and he did not know what he was saying! 34. And when he said these things, a cloud came and overshadowed them. And they were afraid when they saw Moshe and Eliyahu enter into the cloud 35. And a Voice came from the cloud that said, "This is my beloved Son. Hear Him!" 36. And when the Voice came Y'shua was found alone. And they kept silent and they did not tell to anyone the thing that they saw in those days. 37. And it happened on the next day when they descended from the mountain large crowds met up with them. 38. And a certain man from the crowds cried out and said, "Teacher I beg you take notice of me. He is my only son 39. And a spirit seizes him and suddenly he cries out and gnashes his teeth and foams and with difficulty it departs from him when it has tormented him.

62 A picture that evokes the memory of Shavuot (Pentecost). Each group consists of 50 persons. Each person represents a day in the count between Pesach and Shavuot that Y'shua will host according to the fifty day requirement in Torah.

40. And I begged your disciples to cast it out, and they were not able.” 41. And Y’shua answered and said, “Oh generation<sup>63</sup> that is not faithful and is perverse! How long must I be among you and endure<sup>64</sup> you? Bring your son here.” 42. And while he was bringing him, that demon cast him down and bruised him, and Y’shua rebuked that unclean spirit and he healed the boy and gave him to his father. 43. And all of them were amazed by the greatness of Elohim. And while everyone was amazed at all that he had done, Y’shua said to his disciples 44. “You place these words in your ears! For the Son of man will be delivered into the hands of men.” 45. And they did not comprehend these words because it was hidden from them so that they would not know it. And they were afraid to ask him about this word. 46. And entered into them the thought as to who indeed is greater among them. 47. But Y’shua knew the thought of their heart and took a boy and set him by him. 48. And said to them. “Whoever receives a child like this one in my name, he receives me. And whoever receives me receives Him who sent me. For anyone who is least among all of you, this one will be great.” 49. And Yochanan answered and said, “Our Master, we saw a man who was casting out demons in your name, and we forbade him because he did not follow us after you.”<sup>65</sup> 50. And Y’shua said to them, “Do not forbid him, for he that is not against you is for you!” 51. And it happened that when the days of his journey were fulfilled, he hardened his face to go to Urishlim. 52. And he sent messengers before his face, and they came and entered a village of the Samaritans in order to prepare for him. 53. And they did not receive him because his face was set to go to Urishlim. 54. And when Ya’akov saw it and Yochanan, his disciples, they said to him, “Our Master do you desire us to speak, and have fire descend from heaven and consume them as Eliyahu did also!”<sup>66</sup> 55. And he turned around and rebuked them and said, “You do not realize of which spirit you are. 56. For the Son of man did not come to destroy souls, but to make them live.” And they went on to another village. 57. And while they were going on the road, a man said to him, “I will come after you to the place that you go my Master. 58. Y’shua said to him, “Foxes have holes and birds of heaven a home, but the Son of man has nowhere to lay his head.” 59. And he said to another, “Come after me.” And he said to him, “My Master allow me first to go and bury my father. 60. Y’shua said to him, “Leave the dead to bury their dead, and you go and declare the Kingdom of Elohim.”<sup>67</sup> 61. Another said to him, “I will come after you my Master but first allow me to go and reassure my household and I will come. 62. Y’shua said to him, “No man places his hand upon the handle of a plough and looks backwards and is useful to the Kingdom of Elohim.”

63 Or, “O tribe/family of mine!”

64 The root of this word, sebar, also means Hope/Good News. Y’shua’s point, using this same word, is that until people know the Hope/Good News, he must “endure” seeing them suffer needlessly and in ignorance.

65 Khabouris has shaida whereas 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts have dewa. This proves both words have interchangeable meanings in the same contextual place, that of “demon” or “unclean spirit.” This reading in the ancient record affirms the literal rendering and denies the assertion by a few modern commentators like Lamsa that one of these terms could refer to insane humans not under demonic influence.

66 Y’shua’s talmidim take their lead from Eliyahu who defied the priests of Baal by invoking and declaring the sovereign Name of YHWH; see 2 Kings 1:9-16.

67 Some scholars postulate that “let the dead bury their dead” shouldn’t be taken literally but is better understood as, “let me take care of my father until he dies.” However, a key is in the next line where Y’shua responds: “but you go and proclaim the Kingdom of Elohim.” Therefore Y’shua’s statement “let the dead bury their dead”, helps the man realize the supreme importance of the Kingdom. In the meantime the man would be proclaiming the Kingdom, and perhaps like some other “Sent Out ones” of Y’shua, even he may have been raising the dead! In the next chapter (Luke 10:2) Y’shua appointed 70 and sent them out “to all regions and cities that he was about to go.” A second key is the urgency in which the man is making his request, with a promise to return and follow at a later date. Y’shua’s disciples had just left a “village of the Samaritans” where they were getting ready to call down fire upon it. They just came from a major trial and were on the road to their next destination when they met the man and there was tension in the air. What might happen in the next village? In verse 61 another said, “let me go and reassure my household and I will come.” All these things happened in the context of returning “to Urishlim” (Luke 9:51), perhaps some were even pondering about trouble ahead with the religious establishment in Jerusalem? Perhaps some were simply thinking of creative ways to bypass what they imagined to be a looming disaster? The reality was that those who agreed and said “hineni” (here I am) and went out in Y’shua’s name returned to him with “great joy” (Luke 10:17). (See also Matthew 8:22 footnote.)

1. After these things, Y'shua appointed Seventy<sup>68</sup> from his other disciples and sent them two by two before his face to all regions and cities that he was about to go. 2. And he said to them, "The harvest is great and the workers are few, beseech therefore from the Master of the harvest to send out workers into his harvest. 3. Go! Behold, I send you as sheep among wolves. 4. Do not take purses with you, nor wallets, nor shoes, and do not ask a greeting of a man on the road. 5. And into whatever house that you enter, you first say, "Peace be to this house." 6. And if there is a man of peace, let him rest upon your peace.<sup>69</sup> But if not let (the peace) return upon you. 7. And in that same house, remain in that house while you are eating and drinking from their provisions, and not move around from house to house. For the worker is worthy of his wages. 8. And into whatever city that you enter, and they receive you, eat whatever they set before you. 9. And heal those who are ill in it and say to them, "The Kingdom of Elohim is drawing near to you. 10. But into whatever city that you enter and they do not receive you, go out into the streets and say, 11. "Even the dust which cleaves to us on our feet from your city, we shake off to you. But realize this that the Kingdom of Elohim is drawing near to you." 12. I say to you that for Sodom it will be tranquil on that day compared to that city. 13. Woe to you Korazin! Woe to you Beth-Saida! For if the miracles that occurred in you occurred in Tsur and in Tsidon, perhaps they would have repented in sackcloth and ashes. 14. Nevertheless, it will be tranquil for Tsur and for Tsidon at the judgment compared to you.<sup>70</sup> 15. And you Capurnakhum who are exalted up to heaven, you will be lowered down to Sheol.<sup>71</sup> 16. And whoever listens to you listens to me, and whoever rejects you, he rejects me. And whoever rejects me rejects Him who sent me." 17. And those seventy whom he had sent out returned with great joy and said to him, "Our Master, even demons were subject to us by Your name!"<sup>72</sup> 18. And He said to them, "I did see Satan falling like lightning from heaven. 19. Behold I give authority to you to tread on snakes and scorpions and all the power of the enemy, and nothing will harm you. 20. Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this that demons are subject to you, rather be glad that your names are written in heaven." 21. At that moment Y'shua rejoiced greatly in the Ruach haKodesh and said, "I thank You my Father, Master YHWH of Heaven and of the earth, that You have hidden these things from the wise and prudent, and have revealed them to children. Yes, my Father, because thus was the will in front of You." 22. And he turned to his disciples and said to them, "Everything is delivered to me from my Father, and no man knows who is the Son except the Father, and who is the Father, except the Son and to him to whom the Son desires to reveal it." 23. And he turned to his disciples and said privately, "Blessed are the eyes that see the thing that you see. 24. For I say to you that many prophets and kings desired to see what you see and they did not see, and hear what you hear, and they did not hear." 25. And behold a certain scribe arose to tempt him and said, "What teacher must I do to inherit life that is eternal?"

68 A key number symbol reflecting the seat of judges; there were seventy from the loins of Ya'akov (Exodus 1:5). Seventy elders who served with Moshe (Exodus 24:1). Seventy princes in Judges 9:56. Seventy men sat on the ruling council, or Sanhedrin which participated in putting Y'shua to the torture stake. Y'shua spoke of the fig tree being cut off; the unrighteous judges had succumbed to the traditions of men rather than seeking the Judgments of YHWH and His Torah.

69 "Peace" contains a universe of meaning. Whether elders or new proselytes Y'shua's followers pool their resources and build one another up with all material and spiritual blessings. When an individual enters into the Faith they immediately begin to participate in this "peace" of the community. In Rav Shaul's letters this same concept is given a slightly different title, he uses the word play shalo b'shlama, "send through peace/send peace" (see Acts 21:7; Romans 16:3).

70 Khabouris has "day of judgment" rather than just "judgment" in 1905. 1905 is corrected according to Khabouris.

72 Y'shua has authority in and by his Father's Name YHWH. This, then, does not refer to his name according to his humanity, but the power of the promise in his name (YHWH is salvation), the same name as the Father's (John 17:11).

26. And Y'shua said to him, "In Torah, how is it written? How do you read it?"<sup>73</sup> 27. And he answered and said to him, to love Master YHWH your Elohim with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind and your neighbor as yourself.<sup>74</sup> 28. Y'shua said to him, "You have said it correctly, do this and you will live." 29. And he wanting to justify himself said to him, "Who is my neighbor?" 30. Y'shua said to him, "A certain man had gone down from Urishlim to Yerikho and robbers fell upon him and stripped him and beat him and left him while barely remained life in him. And they left. 31. And it so happened that a certain priest was going down the road and saw him and passed by. 32. And likewise also a Levite came and arrived at that place and saw him and passed by. 33. But a Samaritan man while he was journeying came where he was and saw him and had compassion on him. 34. And he approached and bandaged his wounds and poured wine and oil upon them. And he put him on his donkey and brought him to an inn and took care of him. 35. And on the dawn of the day, he departed. He gave two denarii to the innkeeper and said to him, "Take care of him, and if he requires anything more, when I return I will give it to you."<sup>75</sup> 36. Who therefore from these three seems to you to be a neighbor to him who fell into the hands of the bandits?" 37. And he said, "He who had compassion on him." Y'shua said to him, "Go do likewise also." 38. And it happened that while they were journeying on the road, he entered into a certain village, and a woman whose name was Martha received him into her house. 39. And she had a sister whose name was Maryam. And she came and seated herself at the feet of our Master and was listening to his words. 40. And Martha was occupied with many chores and came saying to him, "My Master, you do not seem to care that my sister has left me by myself to chore. Tell her to help me." 41. But Y'shua answered and said to her, "Martha! Martha! You are anxious and troubled by many things! 42. But there is one thing that is important, and Maryam has chosen the good part for herself. That will not be taken from her."<sup>76</sup>

1. And it happened that while he prayed in a certain place, when he finished one of his disciples said to him, "Our Master, teach us to pray as Yochanan also taught his disciples." 2. Y'shua said to them, "This is how you will pray: Our Father in heaven hallowed be your name. Your Kingdom come. Your will be done. As in heaven so on earth. 3. Give us the bread of our everyday need. 4. And forgive us our sins for we also forgive all who have offended us. And lead us not into trial but save us from the evil one." 5. And he said to them, "Who among you who has a friend would go to him in the middle of the night and say to him 'My friend. Lend me three loaves 6. Because a friend has come to me from a journey, and I have nothing to set before him.'

<sup>73</sup> Aramaic word qara is the same root for the title of the book of Leviticus ("and he called" -vayiqra) and it not only means "read" but "to call out, proclaim". The official name for the Torah text in some rabbinic circles is Mikra, from the same root, "the called out text". The question Y'shua asks here, "How do you qara it?" may be more indicative of these other meanings, such as "how do you understand this passage?" Or, "how do you proclaim the meaning of this passage?" and so on. And finally, "how do YOU read it?" Will you read it as it is written, or will you only read it through the prism of man-made traditions that are attached to Torah? See Tradition in Appendix.

<sup>76</sup> Y'shua is also being sensitive to Martha; perhaps Martha is recognized to be more spiritually developed. That being the case, it is Maryam who needs his attention more than Martha.

7. And his friend from within would answer and say to him, ‘Do not bother me for behold the door is closed and my children are with me in bed. I am not able to get up and give to you.’ 8. I say to you that if he will not give to him because of friendship, he will arise because of his urgency and give to him as much as is required by him. 9. I also say to you, Ask and it will be given to you, seek and you will find, knock and it will be opened to you. 10. For everyone who asks will receive and who seeks will find and who knocks it will be opened to him. 11. For which one among you who is a father if his son asks bread from him would hand him a stone? And if he asks a fish from him would hand him a snake instead of a fish? 12. And if he asks an egg of him, would he hand a scorpion to him? 13. And if you who are evil you know to give good gifts to your children, how much more your Father from Heaven will give the Ruach haKodesh to those who ask him.”<sup>77</sup> 14. And as he was casting out a demon that was mute, it happened that when that demon went out that mute man spoke and the crowds were amazed. 15. But some of them said, “this man casts out demons by Beelzebub, the head of the demons.” 16. But others were tempting him asking a sign from Heaven from him. 17. But Y’shua who was aware of their thoughts said to them, “Every kingdom that is divided against itself will become desolate, and a house that is against its own nature will fail. 18. And if Satan is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand, because you say that I cast out demons by Beelzebub. 19. And if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out? Because of this they will be judges to you. 20. But if I cast out demons by the finger of Elohim,<sup>78</sup> the Kingdom of Elohim is drawing near to you. 21. When a strong man while armed keeps watch over his courtyard, his property is in tranquility. 22. But if one comes who is stronger than him and overcomes him, he will take away all his armor, that which he had trusted in. And he will divide his spoil. 23. He who is not with me is against me, and he who doesn’t gather with me, will scatter. 24. An unclean spirit, when it departs from a man, it goes and wanders around in places where water is absent in which to seek rest for itself, and when it does not find it, it says, ‘I will return to my house from where I went out.’ 25. And if it comes and should find that it was swept and adorned, 26. Then it goes and takes seven spirits that are worse than itself, and they enter and dwell there and the end of that man becomes worse than the beginning.” 27. After he had spoken these things, a certain woman raised up her voice from the crowd and said to him, “Blessed is the womb that bore you and the breasts that nursed you!” 28. He said to her, “Blessed are they who hear the Word of Elohim and keep it.” 29. And when the crowds were gathered he began to say, “This evil generation seeks a sign, and a sign will not be given to it except the sign of the prophet Yonan. 30. For as was Yonan a sign to the Ninevites, thus will also be the Son of man a sign to this tribe.”<sup>79</sup> 31. The queen of the south will rise up with the men of this generation in the judgment and condemn them. Because she came from the far ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Shleemon, and behold one who is greater than Shleemon is here!

77 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts add another form of “you are” (aytikon) in this passage that Khabouris omits. The meaning of the sentence does not change either way. 1905 reading is retained.

79 In this case sharbata means “tribe”, not generation. The Ninevites who received Yonan the prophet, were of a different tribe of Semitic people than the Hebrews whom Y’shua is preaching to in this passage. If “generation” were read here, then these would be the ancestors of the same ethnic group as Yonan, which is clearly not the case.

32. The men of Nineveh will rise up in the judgment with this tribe and will condemn it because they repented at the preaching of Yonan, and behold one who is greater than Yonan is here.<sup>80</sup> 33. No man lights a lamp and sets it in a hidden place, or under a basket, rather upon a lampstand so that those who enter may see its light. 34. Your eye is the lamp of your body. Therefore, when your eye is true, all your body will also be bright. But if it should be evil, your body will also be dark. 35. Therefore take heed or else the light that is in you is darkness. 36. And if all your body is light and does not have any dark portion, it will be enlightened. All of it as a lamp by its flame enlightens you.” 37. While he spoke, a certain Pharisee requested from him to dine, and he entered and reclined. 38. And that Pharisee was amazed when he saw him that he had not first washed before his meal. 39. But Y’shua said to him, “Now you Pharisees, you cleanse the outside of the cup and plate, but the inside of yourselves is full of extortion and iniquity. 40. Fools! Is it not true that He who made the outside, He also made the inside?”<sup>81</sup> 41. Nevertheless, anything that you have, give it in alms, and behold everything will be clean to you. 42. But woe to you Pharisees, because you tithe mint and dill and every herb, and you pass over judgment and the love of Elohim. Now these things were necessary for you to have done, and these things you should not forsake. 43. Woe to you Pharisees, for you love the chief seats in the assembly and a greeting in the streets. 44. Woe to you scribes and Pharisees. Hypocrites! For you are like graves that are not known, and men walk over them and do not realize it.” 45. And one of the scribes answered and said to him, “Teacher, when you say these things, you despise even us. 46. And He said, “Woe to you scribes also,<sup>82</sup> because you make men carry heavy loads and you do not touch the loads with one of your fingers.”<sup>83</sup> 47. Woe to you, for you build the graves of the prophets, those whom your fathers killed! 48. You bear witness therefore and approve the works of your fathers because they killed them, and you build their graves! 49. Also, because of this the wisdom of Elohim said, ‘Behold that I will send prophets to them, and shlichim of whom they will persecute and kill some.’ 50. The blood of all the prophets that was shed from when the world was created, that will be required from this generation! 51. From the blood of Haweel, up to the blood of Zacharyah, he who was killed between the temple and the altar, Yes, I say to you that it will be required from this generation. 52. Woe to you scribes because you have taken away the keys of knowledge. You have not entered, and you have hindered those who were entering.” 53. And while he was speaking these things to them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to be displeased and they were enraged and criticized his words.<sup>84</sup> 54. And they plotted against him in many ways while seeking to seize something from his mouth in order to be able to accuse him.

80 Sharbata as “tribe” shows the cutting edge of Y’shua’s point. The Ninevites were Pagans, though of Semitic stock. They had one prophet come to them while the Hebrews had dozens; and now the greatest prophet of all was teaching them. How is it, then that the Ninevites could repent even though they had no experience with YHWH, while others who claimed to have such great knowledge of, and relationship with YHWH still refused?

81 Compare this verse with Mark 7:14-23; this reading clarifies the teaching by not using the word food, but “vessels.”

82 While the scribes may be under Pharisaic authority, in some ways they are also separate. The scribes have more allegiance to the written Torah of Moshe, as does Y’shua. So when Y’shua attacks the Pharisees on the matter of oral law, the scribes may agree and share some of the same sentiments. But after rebuking the Pharisees, to their shock, Y’shua rebukes the scribes who seem to be thinking, “but we are on your side, aren’t we?”

83 Although not wrapped up in oral law as the Pharisees, the scribes were consumed with the study of Torah. But, rather than doing Torah and helping out their fellow man, they were busy studying Torah. Torah commands hospitality to strangers, but they were too busy chanting rather than doing it, even when the need was right in front of their faces!

84 Khabouris has an isolated qoph between the end of 11:53 and the beginning of 11:54.

1. And when a multitude of many crowds gathered, so that they trampled one another, Y'shua began to say to his disciples, "First of all be wary inside yourselves of the leaven of the Pharisees which is hypocrisy. 2. And there is not anything that is covered that will not be revealed, or that is hidden that will not be known. 3. For everything you say in darkness will be heard in light. And the thing you whisper into ears in closets will be proclaimed upon the roof. 4. But I say to you my friends, do not have fear of those who kill the body and after that they have nothing more to do. 5. But I will show you whom to be afraid of. He whom, after he has killed, has authority<sup>85</sup> to throw into Gehenna. Yes, I say to you have fear of him. 6. Are not five sparrows sold for two coins, and yet not one of them is lost before Elohim. 7. But even the individual hairs of your head are numbered. Therefore, do not have fear because you are more valuable than a multitude of sparrows. 8. And I say to you that whoever confesses me before men, the Son of man will also will confess before the Messengers of Elohim. 9. But whoever denies me before men will himself be denied before the Messengers of Elohim. 10. And anyone who says a word against the Son of man, it will be forgiven him, but he who blasphemes against the Ruach haKodesh will not be forgiven him. 11. And when they bring you into the assemblies before chiefs and authorities, do not be anxious about how your breath should depart,<sup>86</sup> or what you should say. 12. For the Ruach haKodesh will teach you at that moment what is worthy that you should say." 13. A man from the crowd said to him that, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me. 14. But Y'shua said to him, "Man, who has appointed me as a judge and divider over the two of you?" 15. And he said to his disciples, "Watch out against all greed, because life is not in the abundance of wealth." 16. And he spoke a parable to them, "A certain rich man his land brought many crops to him. 17. And he was reasoning in himself and saying, 'What will I do because I have no place in where I can gather my crops.' 18. And he said, 'I will do this, I will tear down my barns and rebuild and enlarge them and gather in there all my wheat and goods. 19. And I will say to myself, "My soul, you have many goods that are laid up for many years. Relax, eat, drink and be merry.'" 20. But Elohim said to him, 'Fool! Your soul will be required from you in this night, and these things that you have prepared, who will they be for?' 21. Such is he who lays up treasures for himself, and does not abound in Elohim." 22. And he said to his disciples, "Because of this I say to you, do not be anxious about yourselves, what you will eat nor about your bodies what you will wear. 23. For the soul is greater than food, and the body than clothing. 24. Consider the ravens that do not sow nor do they reap and they have no storerooms or barns, and yet Elohim provides for them. Therefore, how much more important are you than the birds are? 25. And which of you while you are worrying is able to add one cubit to his stature? 26. And if not even the smaller thing you are able to do, why concerning the rest are you worrying?"

<sup>85</sup> Authority, over eternal and physical life: YHWH has nothing to do with those who try to make themselves His equal. A great number of people have come to hear Y'shua teach, he tells his disciples to beware of the hypocrisy of religious leaders, not to fear them because YHWH hears a whisper, and all things will be revealed. As more followers put their trust in Y'shua the religious leaders become more hateful, in this context Y'shua teaches, "He whom, after he has killed, has authority to throw into Gehenna. Yes, I say to you have fear of him." Y'shua's teachings are of YHWH, but the religious status quo hate him because he has exposed their "religious authority" hoax. Authority is the key element here. Nearly two millennia later and Y'shua has become a boon for millions of religious leaders who give themselves the authority to send people to heaven or hell "in the name of Jesus." Fear is the predominant weakness of the human race. The fear of eternal torment of hell has been a Gentile Christian identity for nearly 2,000 years, yet a modest study of Gehenna, Sheol, Tartarus and Hades shows it entered the churches through Pagan theology. Y'shua teaches, "love your enemies, bless those that curse you, do that which is pleasing to those who hate you...pray for those that take you by force and persecute you. So that you may be the sons of your Father who is in heaven. He that raises His sun upon the good and upon the evil and causes to descend His rain upon the just and the unjust. For if you love those that love you, what reward have you?" Matthew 5:44-46. The roots and fruits of hellfire teaching is spiritually unclean, it is the "religious authority" of Christians with denominational trigger fingers on heaven and hell. Religion causes people to do and say evil things based on the hoax of false religious authority. Torah observant Jews will never accept a Jesus who puts people into the mythological Tartarus Hades hell of the Gentile Christians. Since the onset of Hellenized Christianity many Jews have laid down their lives by resisting paganism in the name of Jesus. YHWH is not like the gods of the pagans. 86 How your breath should depart. Literal Aramaic reading. One's breath could be said to be filled with his or her mental intentions. To be careful of your breath was literally a mental discipline that entailed controlling your thoughts and your tone of voice as you spoke.

27. Consider the lilies how they grow. For they do not labor nor do they spin. But I say to you that not even Shleemon in all his glory was covered like one of these. 28. And if the grass that is in the field today and tomorrow falls into the furnace, Elohim thus clothes, how much more you of little faith? 29. And you, do not seek what you will eat and what you will drink, nor let your mind be disturbed by these things. 30. For these things all the nations of the world seek also, and your Father knows that these things are necessary for you. 31. Nevertheless, seek the Kingdom of Elohim and these things will all be added to you. 32. Little flock, do not fear because your Father desires to give the Kingdom to you. 33. Sell your possessions and give alms [for righteousness sake].<sup>87</sup> Make for yourselves purses which do not wear out, and a treasure in Heaven that does not fail, where the thief does not approach and the moth does not corrupt. 34. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. 35. Let your loins be girded up and your lamps lit. 36. And be likened to men who expect their Master at the time he returns from the wedding feast, so that when he comes and knocks they may immediately open the door to him. 37. Blessed are those servants who when their Master comes and finds them while they are awake. Truly I say to you, he will dress himself up for service<sup>88</sup> and cause them to recline, and will go around serving them. 38. And if in the second watch or third he comes and finds them thus, those servants are blessed. 39. But realize this, that if the Master of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched and would not allow his house to be broken into. 40. Therefore you also be ready because at that moment that you do not expect, the Son of man will come.” 41. Shimon Keefa said to him, “Our Master, do you speak this parable to us, or also to everyone?” 42. Y’shua said to him, “Who indeed is the faithful and wise steward whom his Master will appoint over his service, that he should give a portion in due time? 43. Blessed is that servant who when his Master comes will find that he does thus. 44. Truly I say to you, that he will appoint him over all his wealth.<sup>89</sup> 45. But if that servant should say in his heart that my Master delays to come and begins to beat the servants and maidservants of his Master and begins to eat and to drink and to be intoxicated, 46. Master of that servant will come in a day that he does not expect and in an hour that he does not know. And he will divide him and place his portion with those who are not faithful. 47. And that servant who knows the will of his Master and does not prepare for him according to his will, will be beaten with many stripes. 48. But he who does not know and does the thing that is worthy of stripes will be beaten with fewer stripes. For anyone who is given much to him, much is required from him. And to he whom they have committed much to him, much more they will require by his hand. 49. I have come to cast fire on earth. And I desire it had been kindled, if not already. 50. And I have an immersion to be immersed with, and I am greatly afflicted until it is fulfilled. 51. Do you think that I have come to place tranquility on earth? I say to you, No, rather division. 52. From now on: For there will be five in a certain house that will be divided three against two, and two against three.”<sup>90</sup>

87 The word here, tzedekah, has a majority meaning of “righteousness”. However, in much the same fashion as Orthodox Rabbis today, Y’shua uses this word to indicate charitable giving to the poor. In his day, as now, the phrase in Hebrew/Aramaic habo tzedaka does not mean “give righteousness” but rather “spread righteousness through charity”. Synagogues all over the world continuously encourage Jews on Shabbat and special Moedim to “do/give tzedekah,” a phrase which is preserved perfectly by Y’shua! Therefore, even though technically speaking “for righteousness sake” is not mentioned, the double meaning of the word is implied. Furthermore, Y’shua clearly teaches that not all giving accrues as an act of righteousness if the giver does so with pomp and ego (Matthew 6:2-3, Luke 11:39-44).

88 Literally, gird up his loins.

89 Khabouris has an isolated beyt between the words “to you” (plural) and “that he will appoint him.” Here it seems to serve (perhaps) as a kind of colon, as it is preceded by “truly I say to you.” While it is reasonable to show the word before the beyt as having a period, the Aramaic does not have any equivalent inflection markings.

90 Possibly an autobiographical comment. According to Mark, Y’shua had at least four brothers and two sisters. Two of them became Shlichim/Apostles (Ya’akov and Yehuda) and the two others (Yosip Jr. and Shimon) were at one time plotting to have Y’shua locked up (Mark 3:21), or tried to put him into a potentially dangerous situation (John 7:1-5). Furthermore, the younger unmarried sisters would have been given no say in the validity of their brother Y’shua’s teaching; however, Torah requires that Y'shua and his siblings also honor their mother, and apparently the father was deceased. As for Maryam, she clearly supports her son along with Ya'akov and Yehuda, which tallies two against three and three against two.

53. For a father will be divided against his son and a son against his father, a mother against her daughter, and a daughter against her mother, a mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.”<sup>91</sup> 54. And he said to the crowds, “When you see a cloud that rises from the west, immediately you say, ‘Rain is coming.’ And it happens thus. 55. And when the south wind blows you say, ‘There will be heat.’ And it happens. 56. Hypocrites! You know to distinguish the appearance of the earth and of the heavens, but you do not know how to distinguish this time. 57. And of yourselves, why do you not judge right? 58. For when you go with your accuser to the ruler while on your way, you barter with him and settle with him or else he take you to the judge and the judge will deliver you to the warden and cast you into prison. 59. And I say to you that you will not depart from there until you pay the last coin.”

1. Now at that time men came and told him about those Galileans, those whom Peelatos had mingled their blood with their sacrifices.<sup>92</sup> 2. And Y’shua answered and said to them, “Do you think that those Galileans were greater sinners than all other Galileans because they were killed thus? 3. I say no to you, but that all of you if you do not repent also, you will likewise be destroyed. 4. Or those eighteen who had the tower fall upon them and were killed in Shilokha, do you think that they were greater sinners than all the people who live in Urishlim? 5. I say no to you, but that unless you repent, all of you like them will be destroyed.”<sup>93</sup> 6. And he spoke this parable, “A man had a fig tree that was planted in his vineyard, and he came on it seeking fruit on it, and he did not find any. 7. And he said to the workers, ‘Behold three years<sup>94</sup> I have come seeking fruit on this fig tree and I have not found any. Cut it down! Why should the ground be wasted?’<sup>95</sup> 8. A worker said to him, ‘My Master, allow it even this year until I work with it and fertilize it. 9. Maybe it will produce fruit, and if not, next year you may cut it down.’”<sup>96</sup> 10. Now Y’shua taught while on the Shabbat in one of the assemblies. 11. There was a woman who had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years. And she was bent down and she was not able to straighten herself at all. 12. And Y’shua saw her and called her and said to her, “Woman you are freed from your infirmity.” 13. And he placed his hand on her, and she straightened herself immediately and glorified Elohim. 14. But the leader of the assembly was angered because Y’shua had healed on the Shabbat. And he said to the assembly, “Six are the days in which it is right to labor in them. You should come and be healed, but not on the day of the Shabbat.” 15. But Y’shua answered and said to him, “Hypocrite! Does not each one of you on the Shabbat loose his ox or his donkey from the stable and goes and waters it? 16. And this woman because she is a daughter of Awraham, and the accuser has bound her behold eighteen years, was it not right to free her from this bondage on the day of the Shabbat?”

<sup>92</sup> There is no reference in Josephus or other historical writings of this incident or the tragedy of the tower of Siloam in 13:4. In this case though, Y’shua’s words tell us plainly what happened. Galileans had stirred up trouble against the Romans, so Pilate sent his soldiers in pursuit of the rebels. These men then took refuge in the Temple while sacrifices were being offered. The Romans however did not respect the sanctity of the setting and simply slaughtered the rebels near the altar, so the blood of the rebels mixed with the animal blood on the altar, rendering it unclean. Such an act was well within Pilate’s character to perpetuate, given his extreme hostility to Judaism. Josephus, for example, refers to Pilate marching pagan ensigns into Jerusalem, knowing full well the Jews would regard them as graven images and thousands could have been killed in a riot had Pilate not backed down at the last moment.

<sup>93</sup> A key point between grace and license. Disastrous events are not indicative of judgment being levied; neither is the lack of disasters any indication that punishment has been exempted. Penalty can be delayed, but what saves is repentance, obedience and faith in Y’shua.

<sup>96</sup> 13:5,9: 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts in these two places adds the phrase “and if”, but this addition does not change the meaning of the sentence from Khabouris, which omits these.

17. And while he was saying these things, all of those who opposed him were ashamed and all the people were rejoicing at all the wonders that were occurring. 18. And Y'shua would say, "To what is the Kingdom of Elohim likened? And what can I compare it to? 19. It is like a grain of mustard seed that which a man took and cast it into his garden and it grew and became a large tree, and a bird of heaven nested in its branches. 20. Y'shua said again, "To what can I compare the Kingdom of Elohim? 21. It is like leaven that a woman took and buried it in three measures of flour until all of it was leavened." 22. And he would travel in the villages and cities while teaching. And he went to Urishlim. 23. And a man asked him whether they are few that will live, and Y'shua said to them, 24. "Strive to enter through the narrow door. For I say to you, many will seek to enter and will not be able to. 25. From the hour that the Master of the house rises and secures the door, then they will stand outside and knock on the door and begin to say, 'Our Master! Our Master! Open to us!' And he will answer and he will say, 'I say to you that I do not know you from where you are.' 26. And they will begin to say, 'Before you we ate and we drank, and in our streets you had taught.' 27. And he will say to you that, 'I do not know you from where you are. Depart from me workers of iniquity!' 28. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth when you see Awraham and Yitz'chak and Ya'akov and all the prophets in the Kingdom of Elohim, but you will be cast outside! 29. And they will come from the east and from the west and from the south and from the north and they will recline in the Kingdom of Elohim. 30. And behold there are some who are last who will be first, and there are some who are first who will be last." 31. In that same day men of the Pharisees drew near and said to him, "Depart! Leave from here because Herodus desires to have you killed." 32. Y'shua said to them, "Go and tell that fox that behold I will cast out demons, and I perform cures today and tomorrow and on the third day I will be finished. 33. Nevertheless, it is necessary for me that today and tomorrow I work, and on another day I will go, because it is not possible that a prophet perish outside of Urishlim."<sup>97</sup> 34. Urishlim! Urishlim! You have killed and you have stoned prophets, those who were sent to you. How many times I have desired to gather your children as a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, and you did not want it! 35. Behold your house is left desolate to you. For I say to you that you will not see me again until you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of Master YHWH.'"<sup>98</sup>

1. And it happened that when he entered into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees to eat bread on the day of the Shabbat they were watching him. 2. And behold a certain man who had dropsy was there before him. 3. Y'shua answered and said to the scribes and to the Pharisees, "Is it Lawful to heal on the Shabbat?" 4. And they kept silent. And he took him and healed him and let him go.

<sup>97</sup> Y'shua is speaking in the present tense, "For it is not possible (at this time) that a prophet will perish outside of Jerusalem" rather than "It is not possible that any prophet has ever perished outside of Jerusalem. The latter might suggest that Y'shua doesn't know where Moshe died!

5. And he said to them, “Who among you if his son or his ox falls into a well on the day of the Shabbat and does not immediately pull and bring him up?” 6. And they were not able to give him an answer concerning this. 7. And he was speaking a parable to them who were invited there, because he was seeing those who were choosing places among the front seats. 8. “When you are invited by a man to a banquet-house, do not go and seat yourself in the front seat, or else there should be invited a man more honorable than you. 9. And he will come who called both of you, and will say to you, ‘Give place to this man!’ And you will be ashamed as you get up and take you to a lesser place. 10. Rather, when you are invited go seat yourself in the back, that when he comes, he that called you, he will say to you, ‘My friend, move yourself up and seat yourself higher,’ and you will have glory in front of all who sit with you. 11. For anyone who exalts himself will be humbled and anyone who humbles himself will be exalted.” 12. And he also said to him, who called for him, “When you make a banquet or a dinner, do not call your friends or even your brothers or kinsmen nor your rich neighbors, or else even they call for you and you have this recompense. 13. Rather, when you make a reception, call on the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind. 14. And you will be blessed because they have nothing to repay you. For your repayment will be in the resurrection of the righteous.” 15. And when one of them who were seated heard these things, he said to him, “Blessed is he who will eat bread in the Kingdom of Elohim! 16. Y’shua said to him, “A certain man made a great supper, and he called on many. 17. And he sent his servant at the time of the supper to tell those who were called, ‘Behold, everything is prepared for you. Come.’ 18. And from the first, all began to excuse themselves. The first said to him, ‘I have bought a field and I need to go out and see it. I beseech you, allow me to be excused.’ 19. Another said, ‘I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to examine them. I beseech you, allow me to be excused.’ 20. And another said, ‘I have taken a wife and because of this, I am not able to come.’ 21. And that servant came and told his Master these things. Then the Master of the house was angry and said to his servant, ‘Go out quickly into the marketplaces and streets of the city and bring here the poor and the afflicted and the maimed and the blind.’ 22. And the servant said, ‘It is as you commanded, and yet there is room.’ 23. And the Master said to his servant, ‘Go out into the streets and among the hedges and urge them that they enter, so that my house may be full. 24. For I say to you that not one of those men who were called will taste of my supper.’” 25. And while going, large crowds were with him. He turned and said to them, 26. “He who comes to me and does not hate<sup>99</sup> his father and his mother and his brothers and his sisters and his wife and his children and even himself, is not able to be a disciple to me. 27. And he who does not take up his stake and comes after me, is not able to be a disciple to me. 28. For who among you who desires to build a tower and does not first sit down and thinks about its cost, if he has enough to complete it?

99 This is a metaphoric expression. In the light of the rest of his teachings Y’shua could never command people to literally hate their parents as a condition of following him. Honoring father and mother is one of the Ten Commandments in Torah, and not one yodh or small stroke will drop out of Torah while heaven and earth are still here (Matthew 5:17-18; Luke 16:17). The language here instead is meant to express the idea that love for him and the Kingdom of Heaven must far exceed that of our love for our parents—which is of course supposed to also be great—and yet looks like hatred by comparison to Kingdom love. Y’shua uses powerful imagery to underscore the responsibility every one of us has to him and also to the Kingdom of Heaven that he is offering. Notice that Y’shua also says, “does not hate... even himself”, again, not self-hatred but the empowerment of the spiritual man to love the things of the Kingdom of Heaven more than the things of his own life. Please see the footnote on Matthew 10:38.

1. And publicans and sinners were drawing near to him in order to hear him. 2. And the scribes and the Pharisees were arguing and saying this man receives sinners and eats with them. 3. And Y’shua told them this parable: 4. “Who among you men who has one hundred sheep, and if one of them should be lost, does not leave the ninety and nine in the open and goes and seeks that one which was lost until he should find it? 5. And when he has found it he will take it upon his shoulders 6. And comes to his house and calls upon his friends and upon his neighbors and says to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost.’ 7. I say to you that thus will be the joy in Heaven over one sinner who repents than over the ninety and nine righteous who do not need repentance. 8. Or what woman who has ten coins and loses one of them does not light a lamp and sweep the house and searches for it carefully until she finds it. 9. And when she has found it she calls to her friends and to her neighbors and says to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my coin which was lost.’ 10. I say to you that likewise there will be joy before the Messengers of Elohim over one sinner who repents.” 11. And Y’shua would say to them again, “A certain man had two sons. 12. And his younger son said to him, ‘My father, give to me the portion that is coming to me from your estate.’ And he divided to them his possessions. 13. And after a few days, his younger son gathered everything that was his share and went away to a far country. And there he wasted his wealth while living lavishly. 14. And when he had used up everything that he had, there was a great famine in that country, and he began to be in need. 15. And he went and became acquainted with one of the sons of the city of that country. And he sent him into the fields to tend swine.<sup>100</sup> 16. And he was craving to fill his stomach from those husks that those swine were eating. And no man would give to him. 17. And when he came to himself, he said, ‘Now how many servants are there at my father’s house who have plenty of bread, and here I am with my hunger and I am perishing. 18. I will arise and go to my father and say to him, “I have sinned against Heaven and before you. 19. And therefore I am not worthy that I be called your son. Make me like one of your servants.”’”

20. And he arose and came to his father, and while he was far away, his father saw him and had compassion on him and he ran and fell upon his neck and kissed him. 21. And said to him his son, 'My father I have sinned against Heaven and before you, and I am not worthy that I be called your son.' 22. But his father said to his servants, 'Bring out the best robe and clothe him and place a ring on his hand and put shoes on him. 23. And bring out and kill the ox that is fattened, and let us eat and be merry! 24. For my son was dead, yet he lives, and was lost yet is found.' And they began to be merry. 25. But he, his elder son, was in the field, and when he came and drew near to the house, he heard the sound of the singing of many. 26. And he called to one of the boys and asked him, 'What is this?' 27. He said to him, 'Your brother has come and your father has killed the ox that was fattened, because he has received him back whole.' 28. And he was angry and did not desire to enter. And his father came out and beseeched him. 29. But he said to his father, 'Behold how many years I have worked for you in service, and I have never transgressed your commandments. And during all this time, you did not give me a goat to make merry with my friends! 30. And for this, while your son has wasted your wealth among prostitutes and has come home, you have slain the ox that was fattened for him!' 31. His father said to him, 'My son, you are with me at all times, and everything that is mine is yours. 32. But it was right for us to make merry and to rejoice, because your brother was dead yet he lives, and lost yet he was found.'"<sup>101</sup>

Chapter 16

1. And he spoke a parable to his disciples, "There was a certain man who was rich, and he had a steward and they had accused him of squandering his wealth. 2. And his master called him and said to him, 'What is this that I hear concerning you? Give to me a reckoning of your stewardship, for you are not able any longer to be a steward for me.' 3. That steward said in himself, 'What should I do, for my master has taken the stewardship from me? I am not able to dig, and I am ashamed to beg. 4. I know what I will do, that when I am dismissed from the stewardship, they will receive me into their homes.' 5. And he called the debtors to his master one by one and said to the first one, 'How much do you owe to my master?' 6. He said to him, 'One hundred measures of oil.' He said to him, 'Take your book and sit down and quickly write down fifty measures.' 7. And he said to another, 'And what do you owe to my master?' He said to him, 'One hundred bushels of wheat.' He said to him, 'Take your book and sit down and write eighty bushels.' 8. And our master praised the unjust steward because he had done wisely. For the sons of this world are wiser than the sons of light in this, their, generation. 9. And I also say to you, make for yourself friends from this wealth of iniquity that when it is consumed, they may receive you into their everlasting shelters."<sup>102</sup> 10. He who is faithful in little is also faithful in much. And he who is unjust in little is also unjust in much. 11. Therefore, if you do not remain faithful in the wealth of iniquity, then truly who will believe in you? 12. And if in that which is not yours, you have not been found faithful, who will give your own to you?

<sup>102</sup> This verse appears to say that Y'shua is teaching his followers to buddy up with rich wicked people so they can get bailed out when the going gets tough. This comes on the heels of "the sons of this world are wiser than the sons of light." The simple (peshat) interpretation of this parable is regarding money, materialism, and stewardship of money. It is not uncommon that those who surrender their lives to Y'shua become far less concerned about big bank accounts and materialism than their place in the Kingdom of Heaven. However, by not being good stewards of money Y'shua's disciples are easily exploited, and dependent and therefore controlled by those who have money. Making friends with "this wealth of iniquity" is referring to becoming a good steward of money and the things we do to get it, give it, save it, or spend it. Imagine what the world would be like if every Jew and Christian refused to work for an employer that was dishonest, greedy or provided unhealthy or vain products or services. Imagine if every religious organization, leader, employee or volunteer were treated with equality in regards to money. Imagine if all the religious leaders and the big TV evangelists and heads of ministries and religious institutions around the world would agree to take a modest flat salary, live modest lifestyles, have modest expense accounts for their service to YHWH's people, in return for what He has done for them, and give back what they've stolen. It is the collective stewardship of Y'shua's disciples that could make this happen, it will never happen from the top down.

13. There is no servant who is able to serve two masters. For he will either hate one and he will love the other, or he will honor one and the other he will despise. You are not able to serve Elohim and wealth.” 14. But when the Pharisees heard these things, because they loved money, they were mocking at him. 15. And Y’shua said to them, “You are those who justify themselves before the sons of men. But Elohim knows your hearts. Because the thing that is esteemed among men is abominable before Elohim! 16. Torah and the prophets were until<sup>103</sup> Yochanan. Since then, the Kingdom of Elohim is preached, and all press into it to enter. 17. And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one letter of Torah to pass away. 18. Everyone who divorces his wife, and takes another, commits adultery. And everyone who takes a divorced woman commits adultery.”<sup>104</sup> 19. Now there was a certain rich man, and he would wear purple linen. And everyday he would luxuriously make merry. 20. And there was a certain poor man whose name was Lazar. And he would lay at the gate of that rich man, while being afflicted with sores. 21. And he was longing to fill his stomach from the crumbs that fell from the table of that rich man. Even the dogs would come and lick his sores. 22. Then it happened that this poor man died and the Messengers carried him to the bosom of Awraham, and also that the rich man died and was buried. 23. And while he was anguished in Sheol, he lifted up his eyes and gazed from afar upon Awraham and upon Lazar at his bosom. 24. And he cried out in a loud voice and said, ‘My father Awraham, have compassion on me and send Lazar that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and to moisten my tongue for me. For behold I am anguished in these flames.’ 25. Awraham said to him, ‘My son, remember that you received your good things during your life, and Lazar his bad things. And now behold he is comfortable here and you are anguished. 26. Besides all these things, a great chasm is placed between you and us so that those who desire to pass over from here to you are not able. And neither are those from there able to pass over to us.’ 27. He said to him, ‘If so, I beseech you my father that you send him to my father’s house. 28. For I have five brothers. Let him go and witness to them that they will not also come to this place of anguish.’ 29. Awraham said to him, ‘They have Moshe and the prophets, let them hear them.’ 30. But he said to him, ‘No my father Awraham, but if a man from the dead should go to them, they will repent.’ 31. Awraham said to him, ‘If they do not listen to Moshe and the prophets, they would also not listen and believe him if a man from the dead should rise they would not believe him.’”

Chapter 17

1. And Y’shua would say to his disciples, “It is not possible that offenses will not come, but woe to him by whose hands they come. 2. It would be better for him if a millstone of a donkey were hung on his neck and he were thrown into the sea, than he cause to stumble one of these little ones. 3. Beware in yourselves if your brother sins. Rebuke him, and if he repents, forgive him. 4. And if seven times in a day he offends you and seven times in a day he turns to you and says, ‘I repent,’ Forgive him.” 5. And the Shlichim said to our Master,<sup>105</sup> “Increase to us faith.”

<sup>104</sup> The Pharisees were using the ruling in Deuteronomy 24 to justify “putting away” their wives for any reason (Matthew 19:3). This would render the woman unable to re-marry since her first marriage had not been dissolved legally. Adultery was clearly an exception because the injured party could annul the marriage without stain of guilt to themselves or their future partner. In other cases, the law of death was clearly on the books for those who committed adultery. Either way, a certificate of divorce would be irrelevant. However as a remedy for “all causes” the tradition of the Pharisees was horrific, a wife could be “put away” without obtaining legal divorce status for something as trivial as burning dinner. This is what Y’shua was railing against. The woman who re-marries in such a circumstance commits adultery with the new husband simply because she was never properly divorced, and the new husband commits adultery with her for the same reason. It is also interesting to note that Aramaicist George Lamsa thought the woman here should be called “undivorced” rather than something along the lines of “a woman so separated/put away” for this reason—again, she was not fully divorced from her first husband. Also notice that the woman is still referred to as “wife” when she is “put/sent away” which proves the divorce is not final. An alternate reading is also possible as: And anyone who takes a woman who is abandoned in this manner (i.e. without a written divorce certificate) commits adultery.

105 Maran or "our Master" indicates that Luke expects that his readership consists of followers of Y'shua. However, John seems to write as though his readers are in the process of becoming followers of Y'shua.

6. He said to them, "If you had faith like a grain of mustard seed, you could say to this tree, 'Be uprooted and planted in the sea.' And it would obey you. 7. Now who among you who has a servant who ploughs or who tends a flock, and if he should come to from the field says to him, 'Immediately pass through and recline?' 8. But he will rather say to him, 'Prepare something that I may have my supper, and get yourself dressed for service'<sup>106</sup> and serve me until I eat and drink; and then you can also eat and drink.' 9. What thanks does he receive, that servant, because he did the thing that he was commanded? I don't think so! 10. Likewise even you, when you have done all the things that are commanded, you say that we are idle servants because we have done what we should do." 11. And it happened that while Y'shua went to Urishlim, he crossed over among the Samaritans of Galeela. 12. And when he was near to entering into a certain village, ten men who were lepers met him and they stood from a distance. 13. And they raised their voices and said, "Our master Y'shua, have mercy on us!" 14. And when he saw them he said to them, "Go show yourselves to the priests," and they were cleansed while they were going.<sup>107</sup> 15. But one of them, when he saw that he was cleansed returned and with a loud voice was giving praise to Elohim. 16. And he fell upon his face before the feet of Y'shua, while thanking him. And he, this man, was a Samaritan. 17. And Y'shua answered and said, "Were there not ten who were cleansed? Where are the nine? 18. For what did they separate<sup>108</sup> that they should come and give praise to Elohim? Only this man did who is from a foreign people.<sup>109</sup> 19. And he said to him, 'Arise. Go. Your faith has given you life.'<sup>110</sup> 20. And when those from the Pharisees asked when the Kingdom of Elohim would come, he answered and said to them, "The Kingdom of Elohim does not come by observation. 21. Neither will they say, 'Behold, here it is' nor 'Behold there it is' for the Kingdom of Elohim is within<sup>111</sup> you." 22. And he said to his disciples, "The days will come when you will covet to see one of the days of the Son of man, and you will not see it. 23. And if they say to you, 'Behold here it is' and 'Behold there it is,' do not go. 24. As for flashes, lightning from heaven, and all that is under heaven is lit, such will be the Son of man in His day. 25. But first it is necessary that he suffer many things and be rejected by this generation. 26. And as it was in the days of Noah, likewise it will be in the days of the Son of man. 27. For they were eating and drinking and taking wives and giving them to husbands until the day that Noah entered into the Ark and the flood came and destroyed everyone. 28. And again as it was in the days of Lot, that they were eating and drinking and buying and selling and planting and were building. 29. But on the day that Lot went out from Sodom, Master YHWH rained down fire and brimstone from heaven and destroyed all of them. 30. Thus it will be in the day that the Son of man is revealed. 31. In that day, he who is on the roof and his possessions are in the house, don't let him come down to take them. And he who is in the field, don't let him turn back. 32. Remember the wife of Lot. 33. He who desires to save his soul will destroy it, and he who destroys his soul will make it live.

106 Literally, gird yourself.

107 By calling upon Y'shua as their "Master" in advance of the healing, the lepers earned their new lives. The Ruach haKodesh puts belief within us, but then we are required to "act upon" or exercise faith in what we believe. See Matthew 9:29.

108 Y'shua asks about the nine who did not return, "For what did they separate...?" The word perysh, is the same root word for the name of the "Pharisees" who claim to be "separated" unto YHWH. In one way, Y'shua is not referring only to the lepers, but points out that a Samaritan (Gentile) chose to "be separate" and give thanks to YHWH, even while the Pharisees claim to be "separate" but reject Mashiyach! Nine men did not return to give thanks to YHWH; they were one short of a Pharisee "minyan" required for prayer. The action of the one Samaritan showed himself as one who is truly "separate!"

109 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the words "give" and "praise".

110 Not "made you well" as most Greek translations read, instead faith has given you "life"; the healing was not the goal, just a bonus.

111 How to tell whether the Kingdom is within: "If you will obey my voice, and keep my covenant, then you shall be a peculiar treasure unto me...a kingdom of priests...a holy nation" Exodus 19:5-6. Hear O Yisrael, YHWH our Elohim, YHWH is One. YHWH's Torah is written in our inner heart according to the Covenant promise of Jeremiah 31:33. Our inner man is "rejoicing in the Torah of Elohim" according to Rom 7:22. "The Torah of YHWH is perfect converting the soul" Psalm 19:7. "We know that we have turned from death to life by this, that we love the Brothers" 1 Yochanan 4:14. "My children, let us not love one another in words and in tongue, but in acts and in truth" 1 Yochanan 4:18. Mashiyach is within us when "the body is dead to sin; and the Spirit is alive in righteousness" Romans 8:10. He will convict the world concerning sin and righteousness and judgment, Yochanan 16:8. "For if you love those who love you, what is your blessing? For even sinners love those who love them" Luke 6:32. "Speak not against each other, my Brothers; for he that speaks against his brother, or judges his brother speaks against Torah and judges Torah...There is one Torah-giver and Judge who can make alive and (can) destroy; but who are you that you judge your neighbor?" James 4:11-12. Without true repentance we cannot enter into the Kingdom; "Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is near" Matt 4:17. Please see They Repented Not, in Appendix.

1. And he also spoke a parable to them, that they should pray at all times and not become weary. 2. “There was a certain judge from a certain city who did not fear Elohim. And he did not regard the sons of men. 3. And there was a certain widow in that city, and she did come to him to say to him, ‘Avenge me of my accuser.’ 4. And he did not desire for much time afterwards, but said inside himself, ‘If I do not fear Elohim and I do not regard the sons of men, 5. Yet, because this widow troubles me, I will avenge her that it should not at all occur that she comes at times and annoys me.’” 6. And our Master said, “Hear what the unjust judge said. 7. Will not Elohim do all the more vengeance for his elect who call on him by day and by night? And he will be long-suffering with them. 8. I say to you that he will do their vengeance quickly. Nevertheless, the Son of man will indeed come, and will he find faith on earth?” 9. And he did speak this parable against those men who relied upon themselves, that they are righteous and they despise everyone. 10. “Two men went up to the temple to pray - one a Pharisee and the other a publican. 11. And that Pharisee was standing by himself, and he would pray this way, ‘Elohim, I thank you that I am not like the rest of the people, extortioners, and covetous, and adulterers, nor like this publican. 12. Rather, I fast two times a week and I tithe everything that I earn.’ 13. But that publican was standing from afar and did not even desire to raise his eyes to Heaven, rather, he was beating upon his breast and said, ‘Elohim have compassion on me a sinner!’ 14. I say to you, that this man went down to his house more so righteous than that Pharisee. For every man who exalts himself will be humbled, and everyone who humbles himself will be exalted.”<sup>114</sup> 15. And they were even bringing infants that he might touch them, and his disciples saw them and rebuked them. 16. But Y’shua called them and said to them, “Allow the little children to come to me and do not hinder them, for because those that are as these, theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. 17. Truly I say to you, that he who does not receive the Kingdom of Elohim as a child will not enter it.” 18. And one of the leaders asked him and said to him, “Good teacher, what must I do to inherit to life that is eternal. 19. Y’shua said to him, “Why do you call me good? There is no one good except one Elohim. 20. Know the Commandments, you do not kill and do not commit adultery and do not steal and do not bear false witness, honor your father and your mother.”<sup>115</sup>

21. He said to him, "All these things I have kept them from my youth." 22. But when Y'shua heard these things, he said to him, "One thing is lacking in you. Go sell everything that you have and give it to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven, and come after me." 23. But when he heard these things he was sad, for he was very wealthy. 24. And when Y'shua saw that he felt sad, he said, "How difficult it is for those who have wealth to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim! 25. Because it is easier for a rope<sup>116</sup> that it enter through the eye of a needle than a rich man enter into the Kingdom of Elohim." 26. Those who heard said to him, "And who is able to live?" 27. And Y'shua said, "Those things with which the sons of men are not able to be, are able to be with Elohim." 28. Shimon Keefa said to him, "Behold we have left everything and have come after you. 29. Y'shua said to him, "I say truly to you, that there is no man who has left houses or parents or brothers or wife or children because of the Kingdom of Elohim, 30. And will not receive many times more in this time and in the world to come, that is eternal life." 31. And Y'shua took his twelve and said to them, "Behold we are going up to Urishlim and all things will be fulfilled that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man. 32. For he will be delivered to the Gentiles and they will mock him and they will spit in his face. 33. And they will scourge him and curse him. And they will kill him. And on the third day, he will rise." 34. But they did not comprehend one of these things, rather this saying was hidden from them, and they did not understand these things that were spoken to them. 35. And when he approached Yerikho, a certain blind man was sitting on the side of the road begging. 36. And he heard the sound of the crowds who were passing by, and he was enquiring, "Who is this?" 37. They said to him, "Y'shua the Nasraya is passing by." 38. And he cried out and said, "Y'shua, the Son of Dawid. Have mercy on me!" 39. And those who were going before Y'shua were rebuking him that he should be silent. But he all the more did cry out, "The Son of Dawid, have mercy on me." 40. And Y'shua stood still and commanded that they bring him to him. And when he was near to him, he asked him<sup>117</sup> 41. And said to him, "What do you desire me to do for you?" And he said, "My Master, that I may see!" 42. And Y'shua said to him, "See! Your faith has given you life." 43. And he saw at once and he followed him and gave praise to Elohim. And all the people who saw it were giving glory to Elohim.

1. And when Y'shua entered into and passed through Yerikho 2. A certain man whose name was Zakkai, a wealthy man and was a head of the publicans, 3. and he was desiring to see who Y'shua was, and was not able to on account of the crowds, because Zakkai was small in his stature. 4. And he ran in front of Y'shua and he climbed up a barren tree that he might see him, because he was about to pass that way. 5. And when Y'shua came to that spot, Y'shua saw him and said to him, "Hurry! Come down Zakkai,<sup>118</sup> for it is right that I stay in your house." 6. And hurriedly he descended and received him while rejoicing. 7. But when all of them saw they were arguing and saying that he has entered and lodged with a sinful man.

<sup>118</sup> The name Zakkai ("Zacchaeus" in Greek) also occurs in Nehemiah 3:20 where we read of, "Baruch the son of Zakkai" ("Zabbai" in some translations) diligently making repairs on the walls of Jerusalem. In Ezra 2:9 and Nehemiah 7:14 Zakkai is noted as a family chieftain of 760 exiles who returned from Babylon to help rebuild Jerusalem along with Ezra. While Zakkai in the Tanakh is heralded for coming out of physical Babylon, the Zakkai named here has undeniably come out of spiritual Babylon. Y'shua says; "Life has come to this house today" (verse 9). Zakkai is a beloved name in Judaism, one of the greatest rabbis of all time Yochanan ben Zakkai is widely regarded as having helped save Judaism by persuading the Romans to allow him to open a learning academy in Tiberias after the Temple was destroyed. The name Zakkai is derived from the Hebrew root "zakak" (pure or clean), so there is a bit of irony on account of Zakkai's profession and the meaning of his name, no self-respecting Jew would have thought of him as pure since he was directly or indirectly allied with the Romans.

Furthermore, his image seems diminished by also having a physically small stature, so in addition to being wealthy (not always a popular thing), head of the publicans (mover and shaker), a supporter of Rome, and now a follower of Mashiach, Zakkai was looking like a public relations nightmare. However, as we see later in this chapter Y'shua specializes in the toughest of cases.

8. But Zakkai arose and said to Y'shua, "Behold my Master, half of my wealth I give to the poor and to anyone that I have defrauded of anything, I will repay fourfold."<sup>119</sup> 9. Y'shua said to him, "Life has come to this house today, because this man is also a son of Awraham."<sup>120</sup> 10. For the Son of man came to seek and to make alive that thing which was lost."<sup>121</sup> 11. And when they were hearing these things, he continued to speak a parable because he was near to Urishlim, and they were desiring that it was necessary that the Kingdom of Elohim would be revealed immediately. 12. And he said, "A man, a son of a certain great nobility went to a far country to receive a kingdom for himself and to return. 13. And he called ten of his servants and he gave ten coins to them and said to them, 'Make trade until I return.' 14. But the sons of his city hated him and sent ambassadors after him. And they were saying, 'We do not want this man to rule over us.' 15. And when he received the kingdom and was returning, he said that they should call those servants to him to whom he had given money, that he might know what every last one of them had gained. 16. And the first came and said, 'My Master your coin has gained ten coins.' 17. He said to him, 'Well done good servant. Because with little you have been found faithful, you will be an authority over ten talents.'"<sup>122</sup> 18. And the second came and said, 'My Master, your coin has made five coins.' 19. He said also to that servant, 'Upon you also will be authority over five talents. 20. And came another servant who said, 'My master, behold your coin which was with me was placed in a purse. 21. I feared, for you are a harsh man, and that you take up the thing that you have not laid down, and you reap the thing that you have not sown.' 22. He said to him, 'From your own mouth I will judge you, wicked servant. You knew me that I am a harsh man, and I take up the thing that I have not laid down, and I reap the thing that I have not sown! 23. Why did you not give my money to the exchange and I could demand it with interest?' 24. And to those who were standing before him he said, 'Take the coin from him and give it to him who has ten coins.' 25. They said to him, 'Our master, he has ten coins with him!' 26. He said to them, 'I say to you that to all who have, it will be given to him. And whoever does not have, even that which he has will be taken from him.'"<sup>123</sup> 27. But to those my enemies who did not desire that I rule over them, bring them and kill them before me!"<sup>124</sup> 28. And when Y'shua said these things, he went forward to go to Urishlim. 29. And when he arrived at Beth-Pageh and Beth-Anya on the side of the mountain which is called Beth Zayteh, he sent two of his disciples. 30. And he said to them, "Go to that village which is opposite us and when you enter, behold you will find you a colt that is bound, which a man has never ridden upon it. Loose it and bring it. 31. And if anyone should ask you why you are loosing it, you say thus to him, 'Our Master needs it.'" 32. And those went who were sent and found it as he had said to them. 33. And while they were loosing the colt, its owners said to them, "Why are you loosing that colt?" 34. And they said to them, "Our Master needs it." 35. And they brought it to Y'shua and cast their garments upon the colt. And they mounted Y'shua upon it.

119 After the word Mari (my human master), Khaboris inserts the emblem of the Church of the East, the yodh-heh symbol with three dots and a cross. These letters of course read "Yah" (YHWH), proving that the Church of the East understood that YA (as they spell in Master Yah, meem-resh-yodh-alap) is interchangeable with Hebrew spelling YH, which they use here. The insertion, though, is not meant to insert YH as a word in the sentence, but is a graphic between two words in the same sentence.

120 Y'shua ties the Faith of Abraham with the Kingdom of Heaven when he says; "Life has come to this house today, because this man is also a son of Awraham." Zakkai is as much a Jew or Israelite by blood as any other Yehudean, however it is "Life" in the "the Kingdom of Heaven" by Faith that is imparted into Zakkai at the moment he made teshuva (turned or repented). Zakkai also immediately demonstrated the fruits of repentance by giving back to the poor and making restoration of all his ill-gotten gains. This illustrates that being "sons of Abraham" is neither about racial identity or religion. In Yochanan 8:39 Y'shua teaches, "If you are sons of Awraham, you would do the deeds of Awraham!" This attests to the fact that being a "son of Abraham" is a way of life in Mashiyach according to the Kingdom of Heaven. The Apostle Paul teaches these elements of Faith in Romans 4:16 (please see footnote), Romans 9:7; Galatians 3:7-16; Hebrews 7:6-10. In Galatians 3:14 Paul says; "That the blessing of Awraham might come to the Gentiles through Y'shua the Mashiyach; that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith", a promise Y'shua fulfills that is clearly based on Torah and the Prophets.

121 The Aramaic "abiyd" (lost), is a cognate of the Hebrew and Aramaic "abad", please see footnote on Matthew 15:24.

122 Aramaic karakiyn (talents) was confused for kakriyn (cities) in the Greek mss record. The difference is the transposition of one letter, but "talents" clearly makes more sense because the servants already had shown an ability to multiply one talent many times over.

123 Khabouris adds "yet" (din) in this passage. While this word does not change the meaning of the sentence, the Khabouris reading is retained in the Aramaic.

124 Surrendering to the Authority of YHWH and His Mashiyach is stewardship that brings "Life", see footnote Mark 9:47.

36. And when he came, they were spreading their garments on the road. 37. And when he drew near to the descent of the mountain of Beth-Zayteh, the crowd of disciples all began rejoicing and praising Elohim in a loud voice over all the miracles they had seen. 38. And they were saying, "Blessed is the King who comes in the name of Master YHWH.<sup>125</sup> Peace in Heaven, and glory in the highest!" 39. But some of the Pharisees from among the crowds said to him, "Rabbi rebuke your disciples!" 40. He said to them, "I say to you, that if these should be silent, the rocks would cry out!" 41. And when he had drawn near and saw the city, he wept over her. 42. And he said, "If perhaps you had known those things that were for your peace, even if in this your day now, but they are hidden from your eyes. 43. But to you will come the days when your enemies will surround you, and will oppress you from all sides. 44. And will overthrow you and your children within you, and they will not leave in you a stone upon another, because you did not know the time of your visitation." 45. And when he entered into the temple, he began to cast out those who were buying and selling in it. 46. And he said to them, "It is written that my House is a House of prayer,<sup>126</sup> but you have made it a den of robbers!"<sup>127</sup> 47. And he would teach every day in the temple, but the chief priests and the scribes and elders of the people were seeking to destroy him. 48. And they were not able to find what to do to him, for all the people were clinging to him to hear him.

Chapter 20

1. And it happened on one of the days while teaching the people and preaching in the Temple, the chief priests and the scribes arose against him. 2. And they were saying to him, "Tell us by what authority you do these things? And who is he who gave this authority to you?" 3. And Y'shua answered and said to them, "I will also ask you a question and you tell me. 4. The immersion of Yochanan, was it from heaven or from the sons of men?" 5. But they were reasoning within themselves and saying, "If we say from Heaven, he will say to us, 'Then why did you not believe him?' 6. And if we say from the sons of men, the people will stone us, for they the people all consider that Yochanan is a prophet." 7. They said to him that, "We do not know from where it is." 8. Y'shua said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things." 9. And he began to tell the people this parable, "A certain man planted a vineyard and leased it to the workers and went away for a long time. 10. And in time he sent his servant to the workers that they might give to him from the fruit of the vineyard. But the workers beat him and sent him away empty-handed. 11. And additionally he sent another of his servants and they also beat him and cursed him and sent him away empty-handed. 12. And additionally he sent a third and they even wounded and cast him out. 13. Master of the vineyard said, 'What should I do? I will send my beloved son. Perhaps they will see him and be ashamed.' 14. But when they saw him, the workers, they were reasoning within themselves and saying, 'This is the heir. Come let us kill him and the inheritance will be ours.'

15. And they cast him outside of the vineyard and they killed him. What therefore will Master of the vineyard do to them? 16. He will come and destroy those workers and he will give the vineyards to others.” When they heard it they said, “This will not happen.” 17. But he stared at them and said, “And what is that which is written, ‘The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone.’”<sup>128</sup> 18. And whoever falls upon that stone will be broken. And whomever that it should fall upon, it will destroy.” 19. And the chief priests and scribes were wanting to lay hands on him in that hour, for they knew that he had spoken against them, yet were afraid of the people. 20. And they sent spies to him who appeared to be righteous men to catch him in discourse and to deliver him to the judge and to the authority of the governor.<sup>129</sup> 21. Then they asked him and said to him, “Teacher we know that you speak and teach rightly, and you are not a hypocrite. Rather, you teach the way of Elohim in truth. 22. Is it Lawful for us to give the head-tax to Caesar or not?” 23. But he perceived their craftiness and said, “Why do you tempt me? 24. Show me a denarii. Whose image and inscriptions are on it?” And they said, “Caesar’s.” 25. Y’shua said to them, “Give therefore that which is Caesar’s to Caesar and that which is Elohim’s to Elohim.” 26. And they were not able to get one word from him before the people. And they marveled at his answer, and they kept silent. 27. And some of the Sadducees, those who say that there is no resurrection, drew near and asked him 28. And said to him, “Teacher, Moshe wrote to us that if a man should die, his brother who has a wife without children, should take his brother’s wife and raise up a seed for his brother.”<sup>130</sup> 29. Now there were seven brothers. The first took a wife and died without children. 30. And the second took her for his wife and this one died without children. 31. And then again the third took her and likewise also the seven of them. And they died and did not leave children. 32. And in the end, the woman died also. 33. Therefore, in the resurrection whose wife will she be the wife of, for seven of them married her? 34. Y’shua said to them, “The sons of this world marry women and women are given to men. 35. But those who are worthy of that other world and the resurrection of the dead, do not marry women nor women given to men. 36. For neither are they able to die again, for they are as the Messengers. And sons are of Elohim because they are sons of the resurrection. 37. Now even Moshe showed that the dead will rise. For he referred to it at the bush when he said, ‘Master YHWH, the Elohim of Awraham, and the Elohim of Yitz’chak, and the Elohim of Ya’akov.’”<sup>131</sup> 38. Now he is not the Elohim of the dead, but of the living. For all of them are alive to him.” 39. And some of the scribes answered and said to him, “Teacher you have spoken well.”<sup>132</sup> 40. And they did not dare again to ask him about anything. 41. And he would say to them, “How is it that the scribes say concerning the Mashiyach that he is the Son of Dawid, 42. And Dawid said in the book of the Psalms, ‘Said Master YHWH to my (human) Master, “Sit at my right hand 43. Until I put your enemies under your feet.”’”<sup>133</sup> 44. Therefore, if Dawid calls him ‘my (human) Master,’ how is it that he is his son?”<sup>134</sup> 45. And while all of the people were listening, he said to his disciples,

<sup>129</sup> The authority of the governor (Peelatos). Some have criticized the NT—Greek and Aramaic—for not being accurate about Pontius Pilate’s title. Technically speaking Pilate was a procurator, not a governor, and there are differences between the two offices. However the Greek’s use of hegemon and the Aramaic carrying over that term as a hegemona is a much broader term than the English word “governor” implies. A hegemon/hegemona can be either a military or a civilian leader and need not be in the top office for governing a Roman province. Quirinius is also called by this term in Luke and in that case he is simply a military co-regent doing a census under the governorship of Saturnius, but this also creates a lot of confusion which we will deal with at another time. Finally, a separate term in Aramaic, Rab Khayla (literally, “he who has great power”) comes much closer to the rigid meaning of “governor” in English and is never used with respect to Pilate or Quirinius.

1. And Y’shua stared at the rich men who were casting their offerings into the treasury.<sup>135</sup> 2. And he also saw a certain poor widow who cast in two small coins. 3. And he said, “Truly I say to you that this poor widow has cast in more than everyone. 4. For all of them have cast into the house of offering of Elohim from what was in excess to them, but this one from her poverty. She has cast in all that she had owned.” 5. And while some were speaking about the temple, that it was adorned with beautiful stones and with offerings, Y’shua said to them, 6. “These things that you see, the days will come in which not one stone will be spared. There will not be one stone upon another that is not pulled down.” 7. And they were asking him and said, “Teacher, when will these things be?” And, “What is the sign when these things are near to happening?” 8. But he said to them, “See to it that you are not deceived. For many will come in my name and will say that, ‘I am the Messiah!’ And, ‘The time is near!’ But do not go and follow after them. 9. And when you hear of wars and revolutions, do not have fear, for they are necessary first to happen, but the end has not yet arrived. 10. For nation will rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom. 11. And there will be severe earthquakes from place to place and famine and plagues. And there will be fears and terrors and great signs will be seen from Heaven. And the winters will be severe. 12. But before these things, they will lay hands upon you and persecute you. And they will deliver you to the assemblies and to the prisons. And they will bring you before kings and governors because of my name. 13. But it will be to you for a testimony. 14. But place it in your hearts that you should not try to learn how to answer. 15. For I will give you a mouth and wisdom so that all your enemies will not be able to stand against it. 16. And your parents and your brothers and your relatives and your friends will betray you. And they will kill some of you. 17. Then you will be hated by all men because of my name. 18. Yet not a strand of hair from your head will perish.<sup>136</sup> 19. And by your patience you will gain your souls. 20. And when you see that an army has surrounded Urishlim, then know that its destruction has drawn near to it. 21. Then those who are in Yehuda, let them flee to the mountains. And those who are within it, let them flee. And those in the villages, let them not enter into it. 22. Because these are the days of vengeance that might be fulfilled everything that is written. 23. But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing in those days! For there will be great distress in the land and wrath upon this people.

24. And they will fall by the edge of the sword and be led away to every land. And Urishlim will be trampled by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. 25. And there will be signs in the sun and in the moon and in the stars.<sup>137</sup> And on earth, distress of the nations and confusion from the roaring of the sound of the sea. 26. And upheaval that casts out life from men, because of fear of what is about to come upon the earth. And the powers of heaven will be shaken.<sup>138</sup> 27. And then they will see the Son of man who will come in the clouds with much power and great glory.<sup>139</sup> 28. But when these things begin to happen, have courage and lift up your heads, because your salvation draws near.” 29. And he was speaking a parable to them, “Look at the fig tree, and all the trees. 30. When they bud, you understand immediately from them that summer draws near. 31. Likewise, also when you see these things happening, know that the Kingdom of Elohim is near. 32. Truly I say to you that this tribe<sup>140</sup> will not pass until all these things occur.<sup>141</sup> 33. Heaven and earth will pass away, yet my words will not pass away. 34. But beware in yourselves that your hearts never become heavy by extravagance and by drunkenness and by distress of the world, and that day should come suddenly upon you. 35. For like a snare it will entrap all those who dwell upon the face of all the earth. 36. Therefore, be watchful at all times and pray that you are worthy to escape from these things that are about to happen, and that you stand before the Son of man.” 37. And during the day he would teach in the temple, and during the night he would go out and lodge in the mountain that is called the House of Olives. 38. And all the people were coming early to him at the temple to hear his word.

Chapter 22

1. And the Feast of Unleavened Bread, which is called Paskha,<sup>142</sup> was near. 2. And the chief priests and scribes were seeking how they might kill him. For they were afraid of the people. 3. And Satan had entered Yehuda, who was called Skaryota, who was from the number of the twelve. 4. And he went and spoke with the chief priests and scribes and the chief guards of the temple about how he might deliver him. 5. And they rejoiced and pledged to give their money to him. 6. And he promised them and was seeking an opportunity to deliver him to them away from the crowds. 7. And the day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread arrived during which there was the custom that the Paskha be slaughtered. 8. And Y’shua sent Keefa and Yochanan and said to them, “Go. Prepare the Paskha for us that we may eat.” 9. And they said to him, “Where do you want us to prepare it?” 10. He said to them, “Behold when you enter into the city you will meet up with a man who is bearing a skin of water. Go after him and where he enters 11. Say to the master of the house, ‘Our master says, “Where is the lodging house where I may eat the Paskha with my disciples?”’” 12. And behold he will show you a certain large upper room that is furnished. Prepare there.” 13. And they went and found it as he said to them. And they prepared the Paskha. 14. And when the time arrived, Y’shua came and reclined and the twelve Shlichim with him.<sup>143</sup>

137 See Wheel of the Stars in Appendix.

139 Daniel 7:13, 14

140 Paul Younan renders sharbata here as “generation.” However, it is the “Israel of Elohim,” the “Household of Faith” who is the “tribe” that would not pass away, but bear witness until the end of time. It is easy to understand how early believers could misinterpret this and apply it to their own lifetime.

141 Transposition of words and dalet proclitics has no effect on meaning.

142 See Easter or Pesach in Appendix.

143 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words “reclined” and “the Twelve.”

15. And he said to them, "I have greatly desired that I eat this Paskha with you before I suffer." 16. I say to you for that from now on I will not eat it until it is fulfilled in the Kingdom of Elohim. 17. Verse 17 is nonexistent in the Peshitta. 18. Verse 18 is nonexistent in the Peshitta.<sup>144</sup> 19. And he took bread and gave thanks and broke it and gave it to them and said, "This is my body, which for your sake is given. Do this for my memorial." 20. And likewise also concerning the cup, after they had eaten supper, he said, "This is the cup of the renewed covenant<sup>145</sup> in my blood, which is shed for your sake. 21. But behold the hand of my betrayer<sup>146</sup> is upon the table. 22. And the Son of man goes as it was determined, but woe to that man by whose hand he is betrayed." 23. And they began to inquire among themselves about who of them is about to commit this. 24. And there was also strife among them about who of them is greater. 25. And Y'shua said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles are their masters and those who are authorities over them are called doers of good. 26. But you are not thus. Rather, whomever is great among you must be as the least, and whomever who is the head is as a servant. 27. For he who is great, or who reclines, he who does not serve, it is he who reclines. But I am among you as someone who serves. 28. And you are those who have continued with me during my trials. 29. And I promise to you as my Father has promised to me, a Kingdom, 30. That you may eat and drink at the table of my Kingdom. And sit upon thrones and judge the twelve tribes of Yisrael." 31. And Y'shua said to Shimon, "Shimon, behold Satan wants to sift all of you<sup>147</sup> like wheat. 32. And I have prayed over you that your faith may not weaken. Also in time you will turn and strengthen your brothers." 33. And Shimon said to him, "My Master, with you I am prepared even for prison or for death." 34. Y'shua said to him, "I say to you Shimon that the cock will not crow this day three times until you deny me, that you do not know me!" 35. And he said to them, "When I sent you without purses and without bags and shoes and did you lack for anything?" They said to him, "Nothing." 36. He said to them, "From now on he, who has a purse, let him take it. And likewise also a bag. And he, who has no sword, let him sell his garments and buy for himself a sword. 37. For I say to you for also that this that was written is worthy to be fulfilled in me; that I will be numbered with the wicked.<sup>148</sup> For all things that concern me will be fulfilled." 38. And they said to him, "Our Master, behold here are two swords." He said to them, "They are sufficient." 39. And he departed and went as he was accustomed to the mountain of the House of Olives, and his disciples also went after him. 40. And when he reached the place, he said to them, "Pray that you may not enter into temptation." 41. And he departed from them about a throw of a stone, and he knelt and was praying. 42. And he said, "Father if you desire you let this cup pass over me, but not my will, rather let yours be done." 43. Then a Messenger appeared to him from Heaven to strengthen him.

144 These verses are nonexistent in some early Greek NT manuscripts as well (P75, Aleph, A, B, W, and the Vulgate). The Peshitta could not have been influenced by later texts such as the Byzantine, which came later than the Greek texts which also did not include these verses. The added verses are: "And having taken a cup, when he had given thanks, he said, 'Take this and share it among yourselves; for I say to you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine from now on, until the kingdom of Elohim comes.'" Regardless of this reading's late pedigree, the Aramaic is intact but the English is referenced here for the reader. 145 See Matthew 26:28.

146 While Judas is called a "traitor" throughout the Gospels, the etymology of the actual Aramaic word is most interesting. Meshalmama actually means "to complete" or "to perfect." It is used in Ya'akov 1:25 describing the "perfect" Torah of liberty. In a sense, and in terms of the grammar, Judas' "betrayal" is also a perfection/completion act that enables Y'shua to die for our sins. The Greek word for "traitor" paradidomi, also has a curious etymology, meaning "to hand over" or "to deliver". In Mark 4:29 this same Greek word can also mean "permit" or "allow", also approaching the idea that Judas' betrayal enabled the complete redemptive work of the death and resurrection of our Master. Of course, such meanings in no way detract from Judas' culpability as a villain, for as Y'shua also said in Matthew 26:24 "And the Son of man will go just as it is written concerning him, but woe to the man by whose hand the Son of man is betrayed. It would have been better for him if he had not been born." Please see footnote Yochanan 13:26.

147 Greek reads that Satan wants to sift Simon (who is called Peter), but Aramaic reads that "Satan wants to sift all of you." Shimon is being addressed because Y'shua charged him with taking care of the others. "Your faith," however, is singular, referring to Shimon alone.

44. And while being in fear, he was praying earnestly and his sweat became like drops of blood. And he fell upon the ground. 45. And he arose from his prayer and came to his disciples and found them while sleeping from sorrow. 46. And he said to them, "Why are you sleeping? You arise and pray or else you enter into temptation." 47. And as he spoke, behold a crowd with the one who is called Yehuda, one of the twelve, came before them. And he drew near to Y'shua and kissed him, for this sign he had given them that "Whomever that I kiss, is he." 48. Y'shua said to him, "Yehuda! You betray the Son of man with a kiss!" 49. And when those who were with him saw the thing that happened, they said to him, "Our Master should we strike them with the sword?" 50. And one of them struck a servant to the high priest and severed his right ear. 51. But Y'shua answered and said, "That is enough!" And he touched the ear of him who was wounded and healed it. 52. And Y'shua said to those who had come against him, the chief priests and scribes, and the chief guards of the temple, "You have come out as against a robber against me with swords and with rods to seize me. 53. I was among you every day in the temple, and you did not lay hands upon me, but this is your hour and the power of darkness." 54. Then they seized him and brought him to the house of the High Priest. And Shimon followed him from a distance. 55. And they kindled a fire in the midst of the courtyard, and they were sitting around it, and Shimon was also among them. 56. And a certain young woman saw him while he sat by the fire. And she stared at him and said, "This man was also with him." 57. But he denied it and said, "Woman, I do not know him!" 58. And after a little while another saw him and said to him, "You are also with them." But Keefa said, "I am not!" 59. And after one hour another was affirming and said, "Truly this man was also with him, for he is even a Galilean." 60. Keefa said, "Man I do not know what you are saying!" And immediately while he spoke, the cock crowed. 61. And Y'shua turned and stared at Keefa and Shimon remembered the word of our Master that he had spoken to him, that "Before the cock will crow, you will deny me three times." 62. And Shimon went outside and wept bitterly. 63. And the men who were holding Y'shua were mocking him 64. And were covering him and striking him on his face, and saying, "Prophecy who struck you!" 65. And many other things they were speaking blasphemously and saying against him. 66. And when the day dawned, the elders and the chief priests and scribes gathered and they took him up to their council chamber. 67. And they said to him, "If you are the Mashiyach, tell us!" He said to them, "If I tell you, you will not believe me. 68. And if I ask you, you will not give me an answer, nor will you release me. 69. From now on, the Son of man will be seated at the right hand of the power of Elohim."<sup>149</sup> 70. And all of them said, "Are you therefore the Son of Elohim? Y'shua said to them, "You say, that I am!"<sup>150</sup> 71. They said, "Why are witnesses needed anymore by us, for we have heard it from his mouth?"

150 Y'shua describes himself here as "Ena-Na", the expanded "I am that I am" or Ehyeh Asher Ehyeh. This usage is rather unique since Y'shua is telling the Pharisees what they meant, rather than what they said; "You say that I am that I am" or "You say that I am He, I am Ehyeh Asher Ehyeh". When Caiaphas asks Y'shua if he is the Mashiyach and YHWH's Son in Matthew 26:63 Y'shua answered "You have said it!" However here he adds, "Ena-Na". Many theologians use such verses as proof texts that Y'shua is "YHWH in the flesh" which is true only if we recognize that the Son of man will indeed return "sitting at the right hand of power", rather than being "The Source of All Power." Y'shua represented himself on earth "at the right hand of power" (in his Father's Name), just as he will return "at the right hand of power". What infuriated the Pharisees was that Y'shua spoke in the Name and Authority of YHWH as the one and the only Mashiyach who is King of Kings. Rabbinical Judaism sees the office of Mashiyach as an "anointed" man like King David, rather than a Mashiyach King of a Heavenly Kingdom that sovereignly overrules the material kingdoms of this earth. The Apostle Paul explains this in 1 Corinthians 15:24 when he teaches; "And then will be the completion (of this phase), when he will have delivered up the Kingdom to Elohim the Father; when every prince, and every sovereign, and all powers will have come to nothing." This distinction is critically important not only to understand the nature of Mashiyach but to understand our place in the Kingdom of Heaven through haMashiyach. What Y'shua is teaching is perfectly consistent with how Mashiyach is revealed in Tanakh, one example of many is elucidated by the prophet Daniel who wrote; "I saw in the night visions, and, behold, there came with the clouds of heaven one like unto a son of man, and he came even to the Ancient of days, and he was brought near before Him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all the peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.” (Daniel 7:13-14 JPS 1917) This revelation of the Ancient of days is also confirmed in Micah 5; “But thou, Beth-lehem Ephrathah, which art little to be among the thousands of Judah, out of thee shall one come forth unto Me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth are from of old, from ancient days.” (Micah 5:2 JPS 1917) As well meaning and sincere as any great person or famous rabbi might be, there isn’t a human on earth who could ever qualify as coming from the clouds of heaven, from the Ancient of days, but of course this will be the claim of the anti-Christ who will make a move for dominion over the kingdoms of this world, just before Y’shua returns.

1. And all their assembly arose and brought him to Peelatos. 2. And they began accusing him and saying we have found this man that he is deceiving our people. And he hesitates so that he might not give the head-tax to Caesar. And he says concerning himself that he is a king, the Mashiyach. 3. And Peelatos asked him and said to him, "Are you the king of the Yehudeans?" He said to him, "You say it!" 4. And Peelatos said to the chief priests and everyone, "I am not able to find any cause against this man." 5. But they were crying out and saying that, "He stirs up our people while teaching in all Yehud. And he started from Galeela and has progressed to here." 6. And when Peelatos he heard the name of Galeela inquired if the man was a Galilean. 7. And when he realized that he was from under the authority of Herodus, he sent him to that jurisdiction of Herodus, because he was in Urishlim in those days. 8. And when Herodus saw Y'shua, he was very glad for he desired to see him a long time, because he had heard many things about him and had thought that he might see some sign from him. 9. And he did ask him many questions, but Y'shua did not give him any answer. 10. And the chief priests and scribes did arise and were accusing him vehemently. 11. And Herodus insulted him, and when he had mocked him, his soldiers clothed him with garments of purple and sent him to Peelatos. 12. Later on in that day, Peelatos and Herodus became friends with each other, for enmity had existed from the beginning between them. 13. Peelatos now called to the chief priests and the rulers of the people. 14. And he said to them, "You brought me this man as a deceiver of your people, and behold I have examined him before your eyes and I have not found any fault in this man from all that you have brought against him. 15. Nor has Herodus, for I sent him to him and behold, nothing that is worthy of death has been committed by him. 16. I will chastise him therefore and release him. 17. For there was a custom that he release to them one at the feast. 18. But the crowd all cried out and said, "Take this man away and release Bar Abba to us!" 19. He was who was cast into prison because of a murderous insurrection that had occurred in the city. 20. And again Peelatos spoke with them while desiring to release Y'shua. 21. But they were crying out and saying, "Nail him to the stake! Nail him to the stake!" 22. But for the third time he said to them, "For what evil has this man done? I have not found in him any cause that is worthy of death. I will therefore chastise him and release him." 23. But they were insisting in a high voice and were demanding him to execute him on the stake and their voice and that of the chief priests was prevailing. 24. And Peelatos commanded that their request be granted. 25. And he released to them him who because of insurrection and murder was cast into prison, he whom they requested. But he delivered Y'shua to their will. 26. As they were leading him, they seized Shimon, a Cyrenian who had come from a village, and placed a stake upon him that he might bear it after Y'shua. 27. A multitude of people was coming after him, and women who were wailing and mourning for him. 28. And Y'shua turned and said to them, "Daughters of Urishlim, do not cry for me but cry for yourselves and for your children.

29. For behold the days are coming in which they say, 'Blessed are the barren and the wombs that have not given birth and the breasts that have not nursed.' 30. Then you will begin to say to the mountains, 'Fall upon us!' and to the heights, 'Cover us!'<sup>151</sup> 31. For if to the green wood they do these things, what will happen to the dry?" 32. And coming with him were two others, doers of evil to be killed. 33. And when they came to a certain place, which is called "Skull," they nailed him to the stake there and those doers of evil, one at his right and one at his left.<sup>152</sup> 34. And Y'shua was saying, "Father forgive them for they do not know what they are doing." And they divided his clothing<sup>153</sup> and cast lots for them. 35. And the people were standing and looking and mocking him.<sup>154</sup> And also the rulers were saying, "He made others live. Let him save himself if he is the Mashiyach, the chosen of Elohim." 36. And the soldiers were also mocking him while drawing near to him and offering vinegar to him<sup>155</sup> 37. And saying to him, "If you are the king of the Yehudeans, save yourself!" 38. And there was also an inscription that was written over him in Greek and Roman and Hebrew, "This is the King of the Yehudeans." 39. Then one of those doers of evil who was hanging there with him was blaspheming against him and said, "If you are the Mashiyach, save yourself and us also." 40. And his companion rebuked him and said to him, "You are not even afraid of Elohim, because even you are in that judgment. 41. And we are deserving justly, for as we have done we have been repaid. But that which is hateful has not been done by this man. 42. And he said to Y'shua, "Remember me my Master when you come in your Kingdom." 43. Y'shua said to him, "Truly I say to you today: You will be with me in paradise."<sup>156</sup> 44. And about six hours had passed and darkness<sup>157</sup> was over all the land until the ninth hour. 45. And the sun darkened and the veil of the temple was torn from its middle. 46. And Y'shua cried out with a loud voice and said, "My Father, into Your Hands I place my spirit!"<sup>158</sup> He said this and it was finished. 47. And when the centurion saw the thing that happened, he praised Elohim and said, "Truly this man was righteous." 48. And all the crowds, those who were gathered for this spectacle, when they saw the thing that happened, returned while beating upon their breasts!<sup>159</sup> 49. And standing from afar were all the acquaintances of Y'shua and the women - those who had come with him from Galeela, and they had seen these things. 50. And a certain man whose name was Yosip, a counselor from Ramtha, a city of Yehud, was a good and righteous man. 51. This man did not agree with their will and with their actions, and was awaiting the Kingdom of Elohim. 52. This man drew near to Peelatos and asked for the body of Y'shua.<sup>160</sup> 53. And he took it down and wrapped it in a shroud of linen and laid it in a hewn tomb for which no man had yet been placed.

154 Psalm 22:8 (7)

155 Psalm 69:21 (22)

156 Compare the emphasis: "I say to you: Today you will be with me in Paradise" with, "I say to you today: You will be with me in Paradise." The first promises the immediacy of ascension, as in "today." The second promises that as Y'shua is speaking in the moment, that "you" (the man) will be in paradise. If the former, Y'shua makes a special exception for this man that he does not make for any of his disciples. The latter is more consistent with Y'shua's teaching that eternal life begins with resurrection on the last day; see John 6:40, 54. Aramaic is somewhat complex, for while there is a dalet proclitic rendered as "that" before the word "today," it does not necessarily mean the same thing syntactically as English. Paul Younan renders this in the former, Lamsa the latter. When reviewing John 6:40, 54 in Aramaic, the second reading is preferred. See also John 11:24; Hebrew 11:35; 1 Peter 1:3-5; Revelation 20:4-6.

157 This event is foretold many centuries in advance by Amos the Prophet who wrote: "And in that day declares Adonai YHWH I will make the sun set at noon, I will darken the earth at the moment of the noon-time sun. I will turn your festivals into mourning and all your songs into funerary lamentations; I will put sackcloth on all loins and baldness on every head. I will make it mourn as for an only child, and all of it will be as a bitter day. A time is coming declares Adonai YHWH when I will send a famine upon the land: not a hunger for bread or a thirst for water, but for hearing the words of YHWH. Men shall wander from sea to sea and from north to east to seek the word of YHWH, but they shall not find it. In that day, the beautiful maidens and the young men shall faint with thirst. Those who swear by the guilt of Samaria, Saying, 'As your el, O Dan lives,' And 'As the way to Beer-sheba lives'; They shall fall to rise no more." (Amos 8:9-14) Notice that the sun is darkened at noon, during a Great Feast, and this is occasion for great mourning. The Great Feast of course is Pesach and Chag HaMatzah (Unleavened Bread). "As for an only child, all of it as a bitter day," more specifically the child is "the only begotten Son". Could there be more anguish, sorrow and bitterness of soul than to witness your closest friend and brother, a son, the most righteous of men, an extravagant lover of your soul be falsely charged and put to death? This is a precise foretelling. Amos says YHWH's people hunger and thirst for the true word (halacha -legal understanding) of Torah. Mashiyach Y'shua ignited a spiritual revival that circumnavigated earth, but only the spiritually thirsty souls will understand the difference between following him or following a religion or a religious enterprise about him.

159 See The Ex-Nihilo (Out of Nothing) Theory in Appendix.

160 Yosip is arriving close to the ninth hour, or 3 PM, when the light returned. Even if a case could be made that this ramsha/erev/evening did not belong to the day, the problem remains that there was premature darkness that day, between hours six and nine. As such, because erev can also function as an adjective meaning "mixed" (e.g. Exodus 12:38), it can be argued that the light and darkness had been mixing already, giving even more time for Joseph to ask Pilate for the body!

54. And the day was ending<sup>161</sup> and the (Annual)<sup>162</sup> Shabbat was closing.<sup>163</sup> 55. And those women who came with him from Galeela were drawing near, and they saw the tomb, and how his body had been placed. 56. And they returned and prepared spices and perfume and rested on the (weekly)<sup>164</sup> Shabbat as was commanded.

1. Now on the first day of the week, at dawn while still dark, they came to the tomb and brought the spices, those, which they had prepared. And there were other women with them. 2. And they found the stone that was rolled away from the tomb. 3. And they entered and they did not find the body of Y'shua. 4. And it happened that while they were astonished about this, behold two men stood above them and their clothing was shining. 5. And they were in fear and bowed their faces to the ground and they said to them, "Why do you seek the living among the dead?"<sup>165</sup> 6. He is not here. He has arisen. Remember that he spoke with you while he was in Galeela, 7. And he did say that, "It was necessary for the Son of man to be delivered into the hands of sinful men and be nailed to the stake, and on the third day he will rise!" 8. And they remembered his words. 9. And they returned from the grave and told all these things to the eleven and to the rest. 10. Now they were Maryam of Magdala and Yokan and Maryam the mother of Ya'akov and others who were with them, those who had told the Shlichim. 11. And they did not believe them as these words seemed as foolishness in their eyes. 12. And Shimon rose and ran to the grave, and peeked in and saw the cloth laid alone, and went away while wondering in himself about what had happened. 13. And behold, two of them were going to a village on that day, whose name was Emmaus, and it was distant from Urishlim by sixty furlongs. 14. And they were talking with one another about all these things that had transpired. 15. And while they were speaking and questioning with each other, Y'shua came and met up with them and was walking with them. 16. And their eyes were so that they did not recognize him. 17. And he said to them, "What are these words that you speak one with the other while you are walking and you are sad?" 18. And one of them answered whose name was Qalyopa, and said to him, "You indeed are only a stranger from Urishlim that you do not know what has happened in it in these days. 19. He said to them, "What?" They told him about Y'shua, he who was from Nasrath, a man who was a prophet and mighty he was in Word and in deed before Elohim and before all of the people,<sup>166</sup> 20. And the chief priests and elders delivered him to a judgment of death and executed him on a stake. 21. And we were hoping that he was about to save Israel. And behold, three days have passed<sup>167</sup> since all these things happened. 22. But also some women from us astonished us, for they went early to the tomb. 23. Then, when they did not find his body, they came to us saying, "We saw Messengers there, and they said concerning him that he is alive."

161 The Aramaic word here erubata is derived from Hebrew ereb and refers to a mixing of light and darkness, with specific reference to sunset or the sun declining into sunset shortly. Compendious Syriac by Payne Smith (Oxford at the Clarendon Press, 1903) says of this word (p. 427) "to cause to set as the sun...metaphorically, of souls caused to go down into sleep or death." Not only that, but erubata is listed directly as a derivative of ereb and the references cement its meaning as being applicable to the closing/setting of many things. This same word then was mistranslated into Greek as epiphosko, which is an attempt to use imagery of light mixing with darkness. However, because epiphosko literally means "growing light" confusion crept in that the text meant "was about to begin/dawn". The same use of epiphosko applies in Matthew 28:1. Clearly the Shabbat had ended by the time of the resurrection, but the Greek could be misconstrued to imply the opposite.

162 Y'shua held the seder on the 14th of Abib, the day before. Therefore the following day, when he is crucified, is a high day, or Annual Shabbat, the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread.

163 Here negha literally means "spending the night", so the sense of the Aramaic is "and the Annual Shabbat was about to spend the night", or end, since the Hebrew day ends at sunset.

164 This refers to the weekly Shabbat, from Friday sunset to Saturday sunset, which is the only one tied to one of the Ten Commandments, as in commandment #4, "Remember the Shabbat day to keep it Set-Apart." (Exodus 20:8).

165 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words “in fear” and “and bowed.”

166 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the end of 24:19 and the beginning of 24:20.

167 Peshitta clearly reads, “three days have passed,” but Greek reads “this is the third day.” The reader can decide whether Greek translators stated this to bolster a Sunday resurrection or whether it was a simple translator oversight. See When was the Resurrection? in Appendix.

24. And also some women from us went to the tomb and found likewise as what the other women had said and him they did not see.” 25. Then Y’shua said to them, “Oh fools and of hardened heart and slow to believe in all these things that the prophets spoke! 26. Were not these things necessary that the Mashiyach endure and to enter into his glory?” 27. And he did begin from Moshe and from all the prophets and did expound to them about himself from all the Scriptures. 28. And they were approaching to the village that which they were going to, and he did make suppose them that he was going to a distant place. 29. And they urged him and said to him, “Remain with us because the day is now ending and it is becoming dark. And he entered to stay with them. 30. And it happened that when he reclined among them, he took bread and blessed it and broke it and gave it to them. 31. And immediately their eyes were opened, and they recognized him and he was taken from them. 32. And they were speaking one to another, “Was not our heart heavy within us while he spoke with us on the road and expounded the Scriptures to us?” 33. And they arose in that hour and returned to Urishlim and they found the eleven who were gathered, and those who were with them. 34. While saying that our Master has truly arisen and appeared to Shimon 35. And also those related things, those that happened on the road and how he was made known to them while breaking bread. 36. And while they were speaking these things, Y’shua stood among them and said to them, “Peace be with you. It is I. Do not be afraid.” 37. And they were confused and were in fear. For they were thinking that they had seen a spirit. 38. And Y’shua said to them, “Why are you troubled? And why do thoughts arise in your hearts? 39. Look at my hands and my feet, for it is I. Feel me and realize that a spirit has no flesh and bones, as you see that I have!” 40. And as he said these things he showed them his hands and his feet. 41. And even then they were not believing for their joy and they were astonished. He said to them, “Do you have something here to eat?” 42. And they gave him a portion of fish that was broiled and of a honeycomb. 43. And he took it and he ate it before their eyes. 44. And he said to them, “These are the words that I spoke with you while I was with you, that it was necessary that all things that were written in the Torah of Moshe and in the prophets and in the Psalms<sup>168</sup> concerning me be fulfilled.” 45. Then he opened their mind to understand the Scriptures. 46. And he said to them that, “Thus it is written and thus it was right that the Mashiyach suffer and rise from the dead on the third day. 47. And that he preached repentance<sup>169</sup> for the forgiveness of sins<sup>170</sup> in his name in all nations. And that the beginning would be from Urishlim. 48. And you are a witness of these things. 49. And I will send upon you the promise of my Father. But you stay in Urishlim the city until you will be clothed with power from on high.” 50. And he took them out up to Beth-Anya and raised his hands and blessed them. 51. And it happened that while he blessed them, he was separated from them and ascended into Heaven. 52. And they worshipped him and returned to Urishlim with great joy. 53. And at all times, they were in the Temple<sup>171</sup> while praising and blessing Elohim. Amen.

168 Notice that Y’shua is referencing the Hebrew order of the Tanakh: Torah, Prophets, and Psalms/Writings. Alexandrian or Hellenistic Jews had a different division of the books. He opens their minds to these “Scriptures” that reveal and uphold Mashiyach.

169 Y’shua teaches Teshuva (repentance) which means to return to YHWH and observe His Torah. Repentance means much more than to “change your mind,” although this may be a good first step; however, it means to stop breaking Torah. If you continue to break Torah, you haven’t “repented.” See Appendix: They Repented Not.

170 Forgiveness means there is a pardoning of punishment for sin when confessed, and a person must refrain from further transgression to maintain their forgiveness and atonement. The blood of Mashiyach does not provide atonement for repeated willful sin against Torah. There are many examples in Tanakh and the Ketuvim Netzarim where consequences always followed the sin. There is no class of people, race or religion that can offer exemption from punishment of willful sin. All of Creation will ultimately be held accountable to YHWH by what we do with the life YHWH has given us.

171 The Temple in Jerusalem was the House of Prayer for all Nations (Isaiah 56:1-8). After Y’shua’s resurrection the Temple became a central part of worship for both Jewish and Gentile followers of Mashiyach. Y’shua’s ministry opened the Kingdom of Heaven for all souls of all cultures and religious backgrounds. “Adonai YHWH, which gathers the outcasts of Israel says: "Yet will I gather others to him, beside those that are gathered unto him" Isaiah 56:8. The religious discrimination and hatred that is common within religion is an abomination to YHWH, but sadly, according to Jewish historians it was because of baseless hatred that the Temple was destroyed in 70 CE. Both the Miskhan (Tabernacle) and Temple in Jerusalem served as spiritual patterns of the "One New Man". Rav Shaul wrote, "Do you not know that you are the temple of Elohim and the Spirit of Elohim dwells in you?" (1 Cor 3:16) Please see Acts 2:2 and corresponding footnote.

1. In the beginning<sup>1</sup> was the Miltha.<sup>2</sup> And that Miltha was with Elohim. And Elohim was that Miltha. 2. This was with Elohim in the beginning.<sup>3</sup> 3. Everything existed through his hands,<sup>4</sup> and without him, not even one thing existed of the things which have existed. 4. In him was life, and the life was the light of men.<sup>5</sup> 5. And that light shines in the darkness,<sup>6</sup> and the darkness did not overtake it. 6. There was a man who was sent from Elohim whose name was Yochanan. 7. This man came for a witness that he might testify concerning the light that all might believe through his hand. 8. He was not the light; rather that he might bear witness concerning the light. 9. For the light was of truth, that which shines on all who come into the world. 10. He was in the world, and the world existed by his hand and the world did not know him. 11. He came to his own, and his own did not receive Him.<sup>7</sup> 12. But those who did receive him he gave to them authority that they might be the sons of Elohim, those who have believed in his name. 13. Those who neither by blood nor by the will of the flesh nor by the will of a man, rather were begotten by Elohim. 14. And the Miltha<sup>8</sup> became flesh and dwelt among us and we saw his glory,<sup>9</sup> the glory as the Only-Begotten<sup>10</sup> who is from the Father who is full of grace and truth. 15. Yochanan witnessed concerning him and cried out and said, “This is he whom I said would come after me, and yet be before me because he was earlier than me.” 16. And from his fullness we all have received grace on account of grace; 17. Because Torah was given through Moshe, but truth<sup>11</sup> and grace<sup>12</sup> through Y’shua who is the Mashiyach.<sup>13</sup> 18. Man has not ever seen Elohim. The Only Begotten of Elohim, he who is in the bosom<sup>14</sup> of his Father, he has declared him. 19. And this is the witness of Yochanan when the Yehudeans from Urishlim sent priests and Levites to inquire of him, “Who are you?” 20. And he confessed and did not deny and did not declare, “I am the Mashiyach.” 21. And they asked him again, “Who therefore? Are you Eliyahu?” And he said, “I am not.” “Are you the Prophet?” And he said, “No!” 22. And they said to him, “And then, who are you that we might give an answer to those who sent us? What do you say concerning yourself?” 23. He said: “I am the voice of the crying in the wilderness, ‘Make straight the way of Master YHWH.’ As Yesha’yahu the prophet had said.”<sup>15</sup> 24. And those who were sent were from the Pharisees. 25. And they inquired of him and said to him, “Why therefore do you immerse? You are not the Mashiyach nor Eliyahu nor the Prophet. 26. Yochanan answered and said to them, “I immerse with water among you, but he stands, him who you do not know. 27. This is he who will come after me, yet is before me. I am not worthy to loosen the straps of his sandals.”

1 The phrase B’resheet aytohi hwa miltha breaks a most basic rule of Aramaic grammar by combining a feminine noun (miltha) with two masculine verbs for “to be” (aytohi, hwa). This is unheard of in Aramaic literature other than right here in this passage and in 1 John. This shows YHWH has male and female “images/spirits” even though YHWH remains a He. It may also be a midrash on Isaiah 11:1-2, which describes the Spirit of YHWH descending on Mashiyach using both masculine and feminine suffixes. This is not something easily translated, let alone when it occurs within the first four words. See Feminine Attributes in Appendix.

2 Miltha has no direct English equivalent. It can mean ‘Word’, ‘Manifestation’, ‘Instance’ or ‘Substance’ among other things. In this context, it may best be left untranslated. (PY).

3 Fulfilling Messianic prophecy: Mashiyach (ruler of Israel) to have origins of the ancient past Micah 5:2; Isaiah 48:16. Bear in mind that Micah is referring to the spiritual “Israel of Elohim,” those of the Kingdom of Heaven according to the circumcision of heart.

4 Literal Aramaic reading: “through his hands” indicates the Word as a creative force, like a sculptor working under the orders of a king. See Psalm 33:6; Isaiah 44:24; 66:1, 2. Please see Alef Tav in Appendix.

5 While Abba YHWH is in sole command of the creation process, the “his hands” refers to the Word from His mouth and that Word will become flesh as His Son. Since this is a form of Y’shua the “him” is in small letters. The same is done for Yochanan 1:10-12. Although in another sense it is also accurate to say that Y’shua is YHWH. See Luke 2:11 and 1 Corinthians 12:3.

6 Aramaic wordplay. Nohra b’chashokha menhar (light in the darkness that shines) is a deliberate mirror-reversal of menhar-nohra (menorah), which marks the conception of the light of the world at Hanukkah. This puts the birth of Mashiyach nine months from Hanukkah, during the fall feasts; many point to the first day of Feast of Tabernacles for the date of Y’shua’s birth.

7 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy: “his own did not receive him” Psalm 69:9; Isaiah 53:3; Daniel 9:24-26.

8 Miltha refers to the “Manifestation” of the Ruach haKodesh within Mashiyach. The physical body of Mashiyach is not the Word of YHWH, but his words and actions demonstrate the Will and Word of YHWH, which upholds observance of Torah. However, Christo-Pagans like Marcion and Constantine taught that Y'shua's body and spirit manifest a different "word" that did away with Torah. The Word of YHWH was substituted with dispensational and replacement "theologies," which are more popular among Christians.

10 Ekhadaya is a beautiful term used among Eastern theologians and poets; it literally means "THE ONE" (PY).

11 Shemot/Ex. 34:5, 6; D'varim/Deut. 32:4; Psalm 25:10; 31:5; 119:142, 151; 146:5, 6; Isaiah 65:16; Jer. 4:1, 2; John 17:17.

12 Genesis 6:8; Shemot/Ex. 33:12-17; Psalm 84:11; Jeremiah 31:1-3; see footnote 1 Peter 5:10.

13 The Torah of Moshe is the Word of YHWH, but grace and truth revealed in Y'shua are the impelling forces that uphold all righteousness and keep the Word of YHWH (Torah) positioned in our hearts; these are complimentary, not opposites. It is according to the Grace of the Father YHWH that Mashiyach is revealed in a person's heart; see John 17:9, 10. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #12: Grace and Torah in Appendix.

14 A wordplay exists between "b'Awba" (in the bosom) and "d'Abuhi" (of His Father) (PY).

28. These things occurred in Beth-Anya at the crossing of the Yordanan where Yochanan was immersing. 29. And on the day that followed, Yochanan saw Y'shua who was coming towards him, and said, "Behold the Lamb<sup>16</sup> of Elohim, he who takes away the sins of the world. 30. This is he whom I spoke concerning that, 'After me will come a man, yet he was before me because he is earlier than me.' 31. And I did not know him except that he be made known first to Yisrael. Because of this, I have come that I might immerse with water 32. And bear witness." And Yochanan said, "I saw the Spirit descending from Heaven like a dove and it rested upon him. 33. And I did not know him<sup>17</sup> but He who sent me to immerse with water, He said to me, 'The one whom you see the Spirit descend and rest upon him, he will immerse with the Ruach haKodesh.' 34. And I saw and I testified that he is the Son of Elohim." 35. And on another day, Yochanan and two of his disciples were standing, 36. And he stared at Y'shua while walking, and he said, "Behold the Lamb of Elohim!" 37. And both of his disciples heard when he spoke, and they went after Y'shua. 38. And Y'shua turned and saw those who were coming after him and he said to them, "What do you want, you?" They said to him, "Our Master, where are<sup>18</sup> you?" 39. He said to them, "Come and you will see!" And they came and saw where he was and remained with him that day, and it was about the tenth hour.<sup>19</sup> 40. And one of them who had heard from Yochanan and went after Y'shua was Andraus, the brother of Shimon. 41. And this one first saw Shimon, his brother, and said to him, "I have found the Mashiyach." 42. And he brought him to Y'shua and gazed at him. And Y'shua said, "You are Shimon the son of Yonah. You will be called Keefa."<sup>20</sup> 43. And on another day, Y'shua wanted to depart to Galeela and found Peleepos and said to him, "Come after<sup>21</sup> me!" 44. Now Peleepos was from Beth-Saida,<sup>22</sup> the city of Andraus and of Shimon. 45. And Peleepos found Nathaniel (Bar-Tulmay)<sup>23</sup> and said to him, "He concerning whom Moshe wrote in Torah and the prophets, we have found him! He is that Y'shua, the son of Yosip of Nasrath." 46. Nathaniel said to him, "Is it possible that anything that is good to be from Nasrath?" Peleepos said to him, "Come, and you will see!" 47. And Y'shua saw Nathaniel while coming toward him and said concerning him, "Behold, truly a son of Yisrael in whom there is no deceit!" 48. Nathaniel said to him, "From where do you know me?" Y'shua said to him, "Before Peleepos called you, while you were under the fig tree, I saw you." 49. Nathaniel answered and said to him, "Rabbi, you are the Son of Elohim. You are the King of Yisrael." 50. Y'shua said to him, "Because I told you that I saw you under the fig tree you have believed; for even greater than these things you will see." 51. He said to him, "Truly I say to you that from now on you will see the heavens that are opened and the Messengers of Elohim while ascending and descending<sup>24</sup> to the Son of man."

16 This "Lamb" harkens back to the Akeida (binding of Isaac) when Isaac showed his willful obedience to lay down his life at the command of his father Avraham. Avraham and Isaac did not know then that YHWH would provide the ram caught in the thicket. Yitzak (Isaac) the son of Avraham and Sarah foreshadows Mashiyach ben Yoseph (the Son of YHWH via Yoseph and Miriam). YHWH provided Himself a "seh" lamb for the Perfect and complete sacrifice, not as the "ayil" (ram) caught in the thicket, but through the Lamb of YHWH, His only "begotten" Son Y'shua. The Akeida showed that YHWH provided Himself as the life that was in the place of Yitzhak's, as seen in the sin sacrifices in the temple system, "A life for a life."

17 In verse 31 and 33 Yochanan says, "I did not know him", yet according to Luke, Yochanan and Y'shua are second cousins. It seems odd at first glance that Yochanan says he didn't know his own kin. Considering that both Y'shua and Yochanan had been away from the Galilee for a number of years, Y'shua has now returned a fully grown man, physically much different in appearance than when they met as children. After years of walking in intimate relationship with YHWH, Y'shua's countenance emanated both Separateness and the rejection of mankind (Isaiah 53:3) that would also challenge Yochanan's ability to "know" him. The anointing of HaMashiyach meant his manifest "presence", and spiritual authority as a tsadiq (righteous soul), also made him not only the quintessential Jew, but a human enigma as indicated in Isaiah 53 and the Prophets.

18 Idiomatic expression meaning, 'Where do you live?'

19 The tenth hour here is approximately 10 AM according to Roman time reckoning from midnight. Hebrew time is reckoned by dividing the duration between sunrise and sunset into twelve equal portions or "hours". If the sun rises at 6 AM Roman time, then 9 AM would be the "third hour" according to Hebrew time. The nighttime hours are similarly divided into twelve portions. For more information please see the footnote for Yochanan 19:14.

20 "Keefa" means "Rock" in Aramaic.

24 Genesis 28:12

1. And on the third day there was a wedding feast in Qatneh, a city of Galeela. And the mother of Y'shua was there. 2. And Y'shua and his disciples were also invited to the wedding feast. 3. And the wine was running out and his mother said to Y'shua, "They have no wine!" 4. Y'shua said to her, "What to you and to me, woman?"<sup>25</sup> My hour has not yet arrived." 5. His mother said to the servants, "Do whatever he says to you." 6. And there were there six jars of stone that were set for the purification of the Yehudeans, which held two or three measures. 7. Y'shua said to them, "Fill the jars with water." And they filled them up to the very top. 8. He said to them, "Now draw some and take it to the master of ceremonies." 9. And they took it, and when that master of ceremonies tasted the water that had become wine, and did not know where it was from (but the servants did know because they had filled the water) the master of ceremonies called to the groom. 10. And he said to him, "Everyone first brings good wine, and when they have drunk, then (they drink) that which is inferior, but you have kept the good wine until now." 11. This was the first sign that Y'shua did in Qatneh of Galeela. And he made known his glory and his disciples believed in him. 12. After this he went down to Capurnakhum, he and his mother and his brothers and his disciples, and they stayed there a few days. 13. And the Paskha<sup>26</sup> of the Yehudeans was approaching, and Y'shua went up to Urishlim. 14. And in the temple he found those who were selling oxen and sheep and doves and the moneychangers who were sitting. 15. And he made a whip for himself from cords, and drove all of them from the temple, even the sheep and oxen and moneychangers. And he poured out their exchange money and turned over their tables. 16. And to those who were selling doves, he said, "Take these away from here, and do not make the House of my Father a house of bartering." 17. And his disciples remembered that it is written that, "The zeal of your House has devoured me."<sup>27</sup> 18. But the Yehudeans answered and said to him, "What<sup>28</sup> sign do you show us that you do these things?" 19. Y'shua answered and said to them, "Tear down this temple and after three days I will raise it." 20. The Yehudeans said to him, "For forty and six years this temple was built, and you will raise it in three days!" 21. But he was speaking concerning the temple of his body. 22. And when he rose from the grave, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scriptures and the word that Y'shua had said. 23. And during the feast,<sup>29</sup> while Y'shua was in Urishlim at the Paskha, many believed in him when they saw the miracles that he did. 24. But Y'shua did not entrust himself to them, because he understood every man. 25. And he did not rely on men to testify to him concerning anyone, for he knew<sup>30</sup> what was in man.

YOCHANAN 3

1. And there was a certain man from the Pharisees. His name was Niquodemus,<sup>31</sup> a ruler of the Yehudeans.

25 Idiomatic expression "What do you want from me, woman?" (PY). Note that Y'shua calling his mother by the term "woman" was not disrespectful as it would be in Western culture. This is of course proven by the fact he still honors his mother and goes against his own better judgment in turning the water into wine.

26 Paskha in Aramaic is Pesach in Hebrew (Passover).

27 Psalm 69:9 (10)

28 Their response is an idiomatic expression - "Prove to us you have authority to do these things." (PY).

29 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between "during the feast" and "many."

30 1 Kings 8:39; Luke 16:15

31 Niquodemus is also known as Nakdimon ben Gurion in the Talmud. In (Taaniht 3) he is greatly honored as a generous aristocrat with a righteous heart. A story about him says he borrowed 12 wells of water so a group of pilgrims could be ritually washed and purified, on the condition that he would replace the water used, or pay nearly 655 pounds of silver. After the pilgrims had used the water Nakdimon offered up this prayer: "Creator of the Universe! It is known to Thee, that not for the sake of glory for me... but for the glory of Thy name, that the pilgrims in Jerusalem might have water, did I borrow those wells." Rain fell, the 12 wells refilled, but the sun had already set, and the lender demanded payment. So Nakdimon returned and prayed in the Temple, and the sun reappeared." The Talmud later concludes: "We have learned in a Boraita: His name was not Nakdimon, but Boni, and he was called Nakdimon because on his account the sun hastened. The rabbis taught: 'For the sake of each of three men alone the sun shone, and they are Moses, Joshua, and Nakdimon ben Gurion.'" Knowing a bit about Niquodemus better helps us understand why Y'shua posed the question in verse 10: "You are a teacher of Yisrael, and these things you do not understand?" Nakdimon had been given a preview of heavenly glory and the power of YHWH. He knew enough to recognize Yah's Son when he saw him, and yet still, even for this man of great piety and insight, some of the elements of the Kingdom of Heaven have eluded him, he didn't understand. If such was the case for Nakdimon, one can only imagine how it was for many lesser teachers of his generation when Y'shua came to them.

2. This man came to Y'shua at night and said to him, "Rabbi, we know that you were sent from Elohim, for a man teacher is not able to do these miracles that you do, except he who Elohim is with. 3. Y'shua answered and said to him, "Amen, amen<sup>32</sup> I say to you, that if a man is not born from the beginning,<sup>33</sup> he is not able to see the Kingdom of Elohim." 4. Niqodemus said to him, "How is it possible to enter the womb of his mother the second time and be born?" 5. And Y'shua answered and said to him, "Amen, amen I say to you, that if a man is not born from water and spirit,<sup>34</sup> he is not able to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim. 6. The thing, which is born from flesh, is flesh, and the thing, which is born<sup>35</sup> from spirit, is spirit.<sup>36</sup> 7. Do not marvel that I have said to you that it is necessary for you to be born from the beginning. 8. The wind<sup>37</sup> will blow where it desires, and you hear its voice. But you do not know from where it comes or to where it goes. Likewise is everyone who is born from spirit." 9. Niqodemus answered and said to him, How is it possible for these things to be? 10. And Y'shua answered and said to him, "You are a teacher of Yisrael, and these things you do not understand?<sup>38</sup> 11. Amen, amen I say to you that the thing that we know we speak. We testify to the thing that we see, and our testimony you do not receive. 12. I have explained earthly things and you do not believe. How then will I explain heavenly things? 13. And no man has ascended into Heaven except he who descended from Heaven. The Son of man is he who is in Heaven. 14. And as Moshe lifted up<sup>39</sup> the serpent in the wilderness,<sup>40</sup> thus the Son of man is about to be lifted up 15. So that everyone who believes in him will not perish<sup>41</sup> but have life that is eternal. 16. Thus, for Elohim loved the world so as he would give His Only-Begotten Son, that whoever would believe in him would not perish, but would have life that is eternal. 17. For Elohim did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but to give life to the world through him.<sup>42</sup> 18. He that believes in him is not condemned; but he that does not believe, is already condemned;<sup>43</sup> because he has not believed in<sup>44</sup> the name of the only begotten Son of Elohim. 19. Now this is the judgment: Because the light has come into the world, and men loved the darkness more than the light, for their works are evil. 20. For everyone who does hateful things hates the light and does not come to<sup>45</sup> the light, because his works will be hidden. 21. But he who does truthful things comes to the light that his may be known that they are done in Elohim." 22. After these things, Y'shua and his disciples came to the land of Yehuda, and there he would remain and immerse with them. 23. Now Yochanan was also immersing in Ain-Yon<sup>46</sup> which is on the side of Shalim, because there was plentiful water there, and they were coming and were being immersed.

32 Here is the first of the "Double Amens." When two of the same words appear together in Hebrew or Aramaic it is a "double amplifier," meant to sharpen our spiritual focus. Y'shua uses a double "amen" here to point to a very deep matter that requires us to be in "prayer mode" to understand and receive his teaching. Please see footnote on Yochanan 6:26.

33 Literally, "from the start" as Adam who was born into perfection without sin. This refers to the Ruach haKodesh birthing the "image of Elohim" (perfection) into the Neshama (spirit of man). The term "born again" can be rather misleading as though being born once more, or a "rebirth" rather than experiencing the indwelling of the perfection of YHWH. See Genesis 1:27; 6:9; 17:1; Deut 18:13. Another handicap of the term "born again" is that many are told that they are "born again" when they accept certain theologies or become part of a Christian denomination, or get on a "religious high." But then, some are informed that they're not "born again" when they disagree with the teachings of the religious status quo. The term "born again" has become a religio-political term that is used to judge souls and/or manipulate them into subjection to various religious hierarchies. Many followers of Mashiach experience a series of "born anew-like" experiences as from "faith to faith" (Romans 1:17). However, you have confidence of being "born anew" when your soul thirsts for righteousness and follows in the footsteps of Mashiach, observing Torah, and living to please Master YHWH. This is evidence that you've entered into Covenant with YHWH which is established in Mashiach's blood. See Appendix, Born from the Beginning.

34 Rukha can mean either "Spiri" and "Wind"; in this context the Spirit is the proper translation. (PY).

35 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words "which is born" and "from."

36 B' midbar/Num. 14:24; Ezekiel 11:19; Isaiah 66:5-14; Zech 7:9-12.

37 In this wordplay, Maran Y'shua demonstrates the dual meaning of the Aramaic word "Rukha." (PY).

38 Niqodemus is rich and famous, and a highly respected teacher, yet his spiritual journey is still being cultivated. The question draws vital spiritual elements out of him (and every student and teacher of Mashiach since him), and then while in that fertile moment of receiving spiritual bread Y'shua reveals John 3:16, the most famous and powerful verse ever spoken.

39 See Appendix for Pole, The Standard.

40 Or, "Desert." (PY).

42 Literally, "By His hand." (PY).

43 "Condemned" (Aramaic din) as Murdock renders it, is almost always better translated as "judged". The believer repents and stops their sin before a judgment of punishment (condemnation) is levied, but, no such thing for the unbeliever.

44 Normally the beyt proclitic is translated here as "in" but Murdock opts for "on" which suggests something greater than the peshat (plain) meaning. Normally "on" is derived from the Aramaic al, i.e. "concerning or regarding" the name, this may point to the promise of the name Y'shua as "YHWH is salvation" (Matt. 1:21), as opposed to faith in a man with the name Y'shua.

45 Khabouris and 1905 use synonymous terms for "to/towards". 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

46 Ain-Yon in Aramaic means "Spring of Doves," it is transliterated in Greek manuscripts as Aenon. (PY)

24. For Yochanan had not yet fallen into prison. 25. And a question had arisen about purification to one of the disciples of Yochanan with a certain Yehudean. 26. And they came to Yochanan and said to him, "Our master, he who was with you at the crossing of the Yordanan, about whom you witnessed. Behold he also immerses and many are coming to him." 27. Yochanan answered and said to them, "Man is not able to receive from his own will anything except it be given to him from Heaven. 28. You are my witnesses that I said that I am not the Mashiyach, but am a messenger who is before him. 29. He who has the bride is the bridegroom,<sup>47</sup> but the friend of the bridegroom, he stands and listens to him, rejoices great joy because of the voice of the bridegroom. Therefore behold this my joy is full! 30. It is necessary for him to increase and for me to decrease. 31. For he who has come from above is higher than all, and he who is from the earth, is from the earth he speaks. He who has come from Heaven is higher than all. 32. And what he has seen and heard he testifies to, and his testimony no man receives. 33. But he who receives his testimony is true that Elohim seals.<sup>48</sup> 34. For whoever that Elohim sends the Words of Elohim, he speaks. For Elohim does not give the Spirit in measure. 35. The Father loves the Son and all things he has given into his hands. 36. He who believes in the Son has life that is eternal, and he who does not obey the Son will not see life, rather the wrath of Elohim will rise up against him.

Chapter 4

1. Now the Pharisees had heard that Y'shua made many disciples and was immersing more than Yochanan. 2. Though Y'shua was not immersing, rather his disciples. 3. And he left<sup>49</sup> Yehuda and arrived at Galeela again. 4. But he had to pass through Shamria. 5. And he came to a city of Shamria, which is called Shekar on the side of a field that Ya'akov had given to Yosip his son. 6. And there was there a spring of water that had belonged to Ya'akov, and Y'shua was tired from the effort of the road.<sup>50</sup> And he sat on the well, and it was the sixth hour.<sup>51</sup> 7. Then a woman came from Shamrin to draw water and Y'shua said to her, "Give to me water to drink." 8. For his disciples had entered<sup>52</sup> into the city to buy food for themselves. 9. That Samaritan woman said to him, "How is it you are a Yehudean, and you ask from me to drink, for I am a woman Samaritan? For Yehudeans do not have social dealings with the Samaritans." 10. Y'shua answered and said to her, "If only you had known the gift of Elohim, and who this is who said to you, 'Give to me to drink,' you would have asked him and he would have given you living waters."<sup>53</sup> 11. That woman said to him, "My Master, you have no bucket and the well is deep. Where are your living waters?" 12. Why are you greater than our father Ya'akov who gave us this well and from it drank his sons and his sheep? 13. Y'shua answered and said to her, "All who drink from these waters will thirst again.

47 Isaiah 62:5; Revelation 21:9. See Appendix for Feminine Attributes.

48 To "Seal" means to verify. (PY).

49 Khabouris and 1905 use synonymous terms for "and he left". 1905 reading is retained here in the Aramaic.

50 Meaning, "He was tired from the fatigue of the journey." (PY).

51 In this case the time reference is about 6 PM, near sunset. Yochanan is using Roman time, which has two 12 hour cycles, from midnight to noon and from noon to midnight. Here the latter is intended because we know the women went to draw water from the wells at evening, when it was cooler (Genesis 24:11; Yochanan 4:7).

52 Khabouris has "but his disciples entered" whereas 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts read "for his disciples entered." 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

53 Y'shua is re-gathering and restoring the peoples of Samaria (Shomron) Northern Israel with their brethren in Southern Israel (Jerusalem) by bringing both parties to the Kingdom of Heaven. He has crossed the wide religious and political chasm that existed for centuries. Jeremiah the Prophet writes, "Has a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? But my people have changed their glory for that which does not profit. Be astonished, O ye heavens, at this, and be horribly afraid, be ye very desolate, says YHWH. For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that cannot hold water" Jeremiah 2:11-13. Jeremiah contrasts the "living waters" of YHWH with the broken religious and political "cisterns" of men. Rather than reason with the manmade religious and political systems of the Samaritans or Pharisees, Y'shua brings the Kingdom of Heaven. "O YHWH, the hope of Israel, all that forsake you shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken YHWH, the fountain of living waters. Heal me, O YHWH, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for you are my praise. Behold, they say unto me, Where is the word of YHWH? Let it come now" Jeremiah 17:13-15. Israel is at the dawn of another catastrophe, within 40 years Rome will destroy the Temple, a million Jews slaughtered, hundreds of thousands of Jewish youth killed or taken into slavery. Sadly, the religious elite would rather sacrifice their own people for the cause of their manmade religions and authority than turn to YHWH and repent in humility and with honor. See Matthew 23:1-15

14. But everyone who drinks of the waters that I give him will be forever without any thirst at all. But those waters that I give to him will become in him a spring of water that will spring up into life<sup>54</sup> that is eternal.” 15. That woman said to him, “My Master, give to me from these waters that I will not thirst again, nor have to come and draw from here. 16. Y’shua said to her, “Go call your husband and come here.” 17. She said to him, “I have no husband.” Y’shua said to her, “You have said well that ‘I have no husband.’ 18. For you have had five husbands, you. And the one that you have now is not your husband. This you have spoken is true.” 19. That woman said to him, “My Master, I see that you are a prophet. 20. Our forefathers worshipped<sup>55</sup> in this mountain, and you say that in Urishlim is the place that it is necessary to worship. 21. Y’shua said to her, “Woman believe me, the hour is coming that not in this mountain nor in Urishlim will they worship the Father. 22. You worship something that you do not know. But we worship what we know, for life<sup>56</sup> is from the Yehudeans. 23. But the hour is coming, and now is when the true worshippers will worship the Father in spirit and in truth, indeed. For the Father, He seeks worshippers as these. 24. For Elohim is Spirit, and those who worship, they must worship Him in spirit and in truth.” 25. That woman said to him, “I know that the Mashiyach is coming, and when he comes, he will teach us everything. 26. Y’shua said to her, “I am the one speaking with you.” 27. And while he spoke, his disciples came and were amazed that he spoke with a woman. But no man said, “What do you want?” or “Why do you speak with her?” 28. And the woman left her water jar and went to the city and told the people, 29. “Come see the man who told me everything that I have done! Is he the Mashiyach? 30. And the people went out from the city and were coming to him. 31. And in the midst of these things his disciples were pleading with him and saying to him, “Our Master, eat.” 32. But he said to them, “I have food<sup>57</sup> to eat of which you do not know of.” 33. The disciples said among themselves, “What person has brought him something to eat?” 34. Y’shua said to them, “My food is that I do the will of Him who sent me, and that I complete His work. 35. Do you not say that after four months<sup>58</sup> comes the harvest? Behold I say to you, lift up your eyes and see the fields<sup>59</sup> that are white and have ripened for the harvest already. 36. And he that reaps receives a wage and gathers fruit to life that is eternal. And the sower and the reaper together will rejoice. 37. For in this is an instance of truth, that one is sowing and the other one reaping. 38. I have sent you to reap the thing in which you had not done the labor. For others tired and you have entered into their labor.” 39. And many Samaritans from that city believed in him because of the word of that woman who had testified that, “He told me everything that I have done.” 40. And when those Samaritans came to him, they were pleading with him that he remain with them. And he remained with them two days. 41. And many believed in him because of his word.

54 The word used for “Life” is plural. (PY).

55 Sagheed literally means, “To prostrate before” or “To bow down before.” (PY).

56 The word here for “Life” is plural. The last word in the sentence, Anon (here translated as ‘Is’), means “Are.” (PY). The vital element of “life” here is Eternal Life through the redemption of Mashiyach. Y’shua emphasizes this aspect of life when he contrasts it to regular life, as he contrasts regular waters with “living waters” that bring eternal life. (AR)

57 The harvest imagery is familiar; note the word “Kingdom” compare Matthew 9:35-38; 21:28-32 and consider how this verse about “food” relates to these two passages about the Kingdom of Elohim. Here lies an amazing implied wordplay just under the surface; such a phenomenon may appear subjective, but the fact is they are easy for native speakers to recognize. For example, a sign advertising Ocean City, NJ reads “Come to Ocean City: It’s a Shore Thing.” The word shore (as in beach) is intended to remind the reader of similar sounding word, sure (certain). In this phrase, “I have food to eat that you do not know about,” Y’shua uses the word makultha, but the Aramaic word for “food” is sevartha. Upon the first glance this appears awkward, as if to say, “let’s consume nutrients” rather than “let’s eat.” This odd statement is made to establish a vital spiritual point. While makultha in this verse refers to “food”, malkutha means “kingdom” as in the phrase “Kingdom of Elohim.” The requirements for obtaining both “food” and the “kingdom” are similar: “To do the will of our Heavenly Father.” John almost verbatim copies the imagery of the harvest as used in Matthew.

58 A very clear chronological reference, Yochanan 5 and 6 deal specifically with Purim and Pesach respectively in the second to last year of Y’shua’s life (29 CE). In this case, 4:35 is referring to four months before the spring harvest, which completes at Shavuot (Pentecost). Shavuot hit on June 4th (6 Sivan), four months earlier, in Hebrew terms, brings us to the beginning of First Adar (there was a leap month this year). First Adar 1 began on January 31st, therefore the 6th day of that month

(four months exactly) was February 5th. This is when Y'shua makes this comment, the follow up comment (4:36) gathers fruit to life refers to the second harvest in the fall, that of grapes. It is also symbolic of Y'shua's Second Advent, aligned to coincide with the fall feasts.
59 Literally, "the landscape". (PY)

42. And they were saying to that woman, “From now on it is not because of your word we believe in him, for we have heard and know that this is truly the Mashiyach, the Life-Giver<sup>60</sup> of the world.” 43. And after two days, Y’shua went out from there and went to Galeela. 44. For Y’shua testified that a prophet is not honored in his own city. 45. And when he came to Galeela, the Galileans received him, they who saw all the miracles that he did in Urishlim during the feast.<sup>61</sup> For they had also come to the feast. 46. And Y’shua came again to Qatneh of Galeela where he had made the water into wine. And in Capurnakhum there was a servant of a certain king whose son was ill. 47. This man heard that Y’shua was<sup>62</sup> coming from Yehuda to Galeela, and he went to him and was pleading with him to come down and to heal his son, for he was near to dying. 48. Y’shua said to him, “If you do not see miracles and wonders, you will not believe!” 49. That servant of the king said to him, “My Master come down before the boy dies.” 50. Y’shua said to him, “Go, your son is alive.” And that man believed in the word that Y’shua spoke to him, and he departed. 51. And while he was going down, his servants met up with him and brought him hope, and said to him, “Your son lives!” 52. And he asked them at what time he was made whole, and they said to him, “Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.” 53. And his father realized that was in the same hour that Y’shua said to him, “Your son lives.” And he and his house all believed. 54. Again this is the second miracle that Y’shua did when he came from Yehuda to Galeela.

Chapter 5

1. After these things was a feast<sup>63</sup> of the Yehudeans (Purim) and Y’shua went up to Urishlim. 2. Now there was a certain place of immersion there in Urishlim, which is called Beth-Khisda, and there were five porches in it. 3. And in these were laying many people who were sick, and the blind and the lame and crippled<sup>64</sup> and they were anticipating the stirring of the waters. 4. For from time to time a Messenger would descend to it, to the place of immersion and would stir them the waters, and whoever would first descend after the movement of the waters would be healed<sup>65</sup> of every pain which he had. 5. And there was a certain man who was in sickness thirty and eight years. 6. Y’shua saw this man who was lying there, and he knew that he had this disease for a long time, and he said to him, “Do you desire to be made whole?” 7. That sick man answered and said, “Yes my Master, but I have no person that when the waters are stirred up to place me in the immersional pool. Rather, before I come another descends before me.” 8. Y’shua said to him, “Arise! Take your pallet and walk.” 9. And that man was healed at once and arose and took his pallet and walked. And that day was the Shabbat. 10. And the Yehudeans said to him, to that man who was healed, “It is not Lawful for you to carry your pallet.” 11. And he answered and said to them, “He who made me whole, he said to me, ‘Take your pallet and walk.’” 12. And they asked him, “Who is this man who said to you, ‘Take your pallet and walk?’”

60 “Life-Giver” refers to Kingdom of Heaven “life” as in, “Now if you desire to enter into life, keep the Commandments.” Matthew 19:17.

61 This and the reference in 13:29 are the only places in Yochanan where he refers to Pesach by the general term “feast”. This is clear from the context of what is recorded in the 2nd and 12th chapters. The only other time “the feast” is used is in chapter 5, referring to Purim. Please see Feasts in Appendix.

62 Khabouris adds for clarity hwa (was) to the verb for “coming” which is reflected in the Aramaic.

63 This is the feast of Purim, it takes place on Shabbat (Saturday morning), March 17th, 29 CE. Yochanan has already directly named Pesach, Sukkot and Hanukkah; therefore he is referring to Purim as the “feast” here as it is not previously named. Purim is the only remaining feast that happens on Shabbat during 29 CE—that occurs between two Passovers (2:23, 6:4). In 4:45 Yochanan mentions the Galileans “who saw all the miracles that he did in Urishlim during the feast”, which was according to the previous Passover (2:23). Similar linkages also exist in the feast recorded in 7:10-14 which specifically refers to Sukkot (according to 7:2), and the feast in 11:55-56 that refers to the last Passover. This is also part of Yochanan’s writing style, when “feast” stands alone without such connections it references an event other than the Great Feasts, or Hanukkah, leaving only Purim. Please see footnote for Yochanan 4:45.

64 Khabouris has an isolated beyr here, between the words “and crippled” and “and they were anticipating.”

65 Literally, “Be made whole.” (PY).

13. But he who was healed did not know who Y'shua was, for he was pressed in by a large crowd, which was in that place. 14. After some time, Y'shua found him in the temple and said to him, "Behold you are whole again. Do not sin or else something that is worse than before should happen to you." 15. And that man went and said to the Yehudeans that Y'shua is he who had made him whole. 16. And because of this, the Yehudeans were persecuting Y'shua and were seeking to kill him because of these things he would do on the Shabbat. 17. But he, Y'shua, said to them, "My Father works until now, I also work." 18. And because of this the Yehudeans were seeking all the more to kill him, not only because he had loosed<sup>66</sup> the Shabbat, but also concerning that he would say that his Father was Elohim and was equating<sup>67</sup> himself with Elohim. 19. But Y'shua answered and said to them, "Amen, amen I say to you that the Son is not able to do anything by his desire, but what he sees the things that the Father does. For these things that the Father does, the Son also likewise does. 20. For the Father loves the Son and everything that he does he shows to him. And greater than these works He will show him so that you will marvel. 21. For as the Father raises the dead and gives life to them, likewise also the Son will make alive to those whom he desires. 22. For the Father does not judge man, rather all judgment<sup>68</sup> he has given to the Son. 23. So that every man may honor the Son as he honors the Father. He who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him. 24. Amen, amen: I say to you that whoever hears my word and believes in Him who sent me has life that is eternal, and does not come into judgment but has passed<sup>69</sup> from death into life. 25. Amen, amen I say to you that the hour is coming, even now is, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of Elohim, and those who hear will live. 26. For as to the Father, there is life<sup>70</sup> in [the Father's] Qnoma, and likewise He also gives to the Son, that there might be life in [the Son's] qnoma.<sup>71</sup> 27. And He gave him authority to also execute judgment, because he is the Son of man. 28. Do not marvel at this for the hour is coming when all those who are in the grave will hear his voice! 29. And those who have done good things will go forth to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil things to the resurrection of judgment. 30. I am not able to do anything of my desire, but as I hear I judge and my judgment is just, for I don't seek my will, rather the will of Him who sent me.<sup>72</sup> 31. If I bear witness concerning myself, my testimony is not true. 32. Another is he who bears witness concerning me. And I know that his testimony that he testifies concerning me is true. 33. Yochanan was sent to you and he testified concerning the truth. 34. And I did not receive testimony from man; rather I say these things that you may live. 35. That man was a lamp that shone and brought light, and you desired to boast<sup>73</sup> for an hour in his light. 36. But I have a testimony that is greater than that of Yochanan. For the works that my Father has given to me to complete them, those works that I do, testify concerning me that the Father has sent me.

66 Y'shua did not break the Shabbat according to Torah; rather, he restored the observance of Shabbat as YHWH intended, without the burden of religious tradition. In so doing, the traditions of the Pharisees had been violated, but certainly not the Torah of Moshe.

67 To consider oneself "equal" to YHWH is a very serious matter. Y'shua spoke of himself as being about his Father's business, of coming in his Father's Name; he spoke and taught with authority and performed healings which made him a formidable opponent to religious tradition. The charge here of Y'shua making himself equal to YHWH is simply Pharisee tradition projecting itself onto Y'shua. The Ruach haKodesh in Mashiyach is "equal" to YHWH, but the Pharisees supposed that Y'shua and his followers equated his humanity with YHWH; they didn't understand Isaiah 11:1-2, that Mashiyach has the Ruach haKodesh (another name for YHWH—Psalm 51:1-11, Isaiah 63:1-11) within him. YHWH spoke through the Spirit of Mashiyach, rather than through his human component. Y'shua maintained that his nefesh (soul) would die, but that YHWH would resurrect it. Y'shua believed his own nefesh was mortal. Zechariah 12:10 the Spirit of YHWH is "pierced" but they mourn for him (Y'shua) as an only begotten son. YHWH cannot literally be "pierced"; therefore, this refers to Mashiyach who has the Spirit of YHWH in him. The matter of the Father raising the dead is confirmed in verse 21, but we also see in this verse that the Son takes on the role of His Father as His Firstborn, for both Resurrection Power and Judgment.

68 Isaiah 49      69 Literally, "He has removed himself." (PY).      70 Here again, the word is plural. (PY).

71 Qnoma literally means, "Underlying substance." (PY). Y'shua has an occurrence of human nature and also shares the One Divine Nature through his Father's Divine Qnoma. This gives Y'shua the power and authority to speak on His Father's behalf and yet be vulnerable and mortal in the human office of Mashiyach, so he can die for our sins. After we repent and surrender our lives to Y'shua we also become partakers of the One Divine Nature, or kyanna (2 Peter 1:4). This is not Trinitarian, rather

"three qnume (plural of qnoma) in one kyanna". Godhead is best understood as "one tree, three branches (Father, Son and Ruach haKodesh), not three separate trees (or divine natures). Y'shua was born from the seed of the Ruach haKodesh that overshadowed his mother Maryam, which is also why he "breathed" the Ruach haKodesh upon his disciples at the end of this Gospel. Please also see Rav Shaul's comment in Romans 1:20, that Godhead was never meant to be a mystery. (AR)

73 Or, "Delight." (PY)

37. And the Father who sent me testifies concerning me. You have never heard His voice, nor have you seen His appearance. 38. And His Word<sup>74</sup> does not dwell in you because you do not believe in him whom He sent. 39. Search the Scriptures, because in them you think you have that life that is eternal, and they testify concerning me. 40. And you do not desire to come to me, that you may have that life that is eternal. 41. I do not receive praise from the sons of men. 42. But I know you, that the love of Elohim is not there in you. 43. I have come in the name of my Father, and you have not received me. Yet, if another should come in his own name, you will receive him.<sup>75</sup> 44. How are you able to believe, who receive praise from one to another, and yet the One that is from Elohim you do not seek? 45. Why? Do you think I will accuse you before the Father? The one who will accuse you is Moshe, in whom you place your hope!<sup>76</sup> 46. For if only you had believed in Moshe, you would also be believers in me, for Moshe wrote concerning me.<sup>77</sup> 47. And, if you do not believe the writings of that man, how will you believe my words?<sup>78</sup>

Chapter 6

1. After these things, Y'shua went to the other side of the Sea of Galeela of Tiberius. 2. And a large crowd went after him, because they had seen the miracles which he did with the sick. 3. Then Y'shua went up a mountain and was sitting there with his disciples. 4. And the feast of the Paskha of the Yehudeans was approaching. 5. Y'shua raised his eyes and saw the large crowd that came to him and he said to Pelepos, "Where can we buy bread that these people may eat?"<sup>79</sup> 6. And he said this testing him, for he did know what he was about to do. 7. Pelepos said to him, "Two hundred denarii of bread would not suffice them, even if each of them may take a small amount!" 8. Andraus, one of his disciples, the brother of Shimon Keefa, said to him, 9. "There is here a certain boy who has upon him five loaves of barley and two fish, but what are these items for all those people?" 10. Y'shua said to them, "Make all the people to recline." Now there was much grass there, and the number of men that reclined in that place was five thousand. 11. And Y'shua took the bread and blessed it and divided it to those who reclined, and likewise also of the fish as much as they desired. 12. And when they were satisfied, he said to his disciples, "Gather the fragments that are left over, or else something should be lost." 13. And they gathered them and they counted twelve baskets of fragments, those that were left over from them who ate of the five loaves of barley-bread. 14. And they who saw the miracle that Y'shua did were saying, "Truly this is a prophet<sup>80</sup> who has come into the world!" 15. But Y'shua knew that they were about to come and seize him and make him a king,<sup>81</sup> and he slipped away to a mountain to be by himself. 16. And when evening came, his disciples went down to the sea. 17. And they sat in a boat and were going to the other side to Capurnakhum and it became dark, and Y'shua had not come to them. 18. Now the sea was lifted up against them, because a great wind was blowing.

74 See Miltha footnote John 1:1.

75 All forms of science and religion have a "Messiah" and "priesthood." A "name" carries authority, or "branding" just as a university awards degrees in its "name". Honor and recognition by the faculty or "priesthood" extends the use of the "name" to its "disciples." Y'shua comes in his Father's Name; mankind struggles to distinguish the Name of YHWH, versus the name of man. Most who practice Judaism or Christianity know that Yahweh is the Personal Name of the Creator of the Universe, yet most prefer to follow religious traditions about His Name. Rabbinical authorities have long established a ban on verbalizing the Name of YHWH, they've invented the title "HaShem" to replace YHWH's Name. Christians say, "the LORD". In such cases religious traditions come in "their own name" the followers of these two religions have accepted longstanding religious traditions against the Word of YHWH. By usurping authority over Scripture, religion sends followers out "in the name" of their religion.

76 At the end of Moshe's life he prophesied accurately that the elders of Israel would be disobedient to the written Torah and follow after the traditions of men. He also commanded these same future leaders to follow after "The Prophet", which is another title for Y'shua the Mashiach (Deuteronomy 18:15-17; 31:24-29).

77 Fulfilling Messianic prophecy; "a prophet like Moses" Deut 18:15, 19.

78 Y'shua teaches, as he does in Matthew 15, that the Pharisees have forsaken the Written Torah of Moshe in favor of their oral traditions. As a result, Moshe himself will accuse them and hold them to account for it. This is similar to other pronouncements that the people of Nineveh, the Queen of Sheba and so on will accuse the religious elite of ignoring lessons they had learned.

79 Transposition of words has no effect on meaning.

80 "YHWH will raise up a prophet like me" (Deut 18:15-19)

81 Contrary to the naysayers, Y'shua had large support from the common people. He resisted being made a natural King, knowing this office is reserved for his return as Mashiach ben David.

19. They journeyed about twenty and five or thirty furlongs<sup>82</sup> and they saw Y'shua while he was walking on the lake. And when he drew near to their boat they were afraid. 20. But he, Y'shua, said to them, "Do not be afraid. It is I." 21. And they desired to receive him into the boat, and at that hour that boat was at that land which they were going to. 22. And on the day following, that crowd which was standing on the other side of the sea, saw that boat. There was not any other there except that which the disciples had gone up into it, and that Y'shua had not entered with his disciples into the boat. 23. But other ships had come from Tiberius near that place in which they ate while Y'shua blessed the bread. 24. And when that crowd saw that Y'shua was not there nor his disciples, they went up into these ships and they came to Capurnakhum and were seeking Y'shua. 25. And when they found him at the other side of the sea, they said to him, "Our Master, when did you come here?" 26. And Y'shua answered and said to them, "Amen, amen<sup>83</sup> I say to you, that you seek me not because you saw miracles, rather that you ate bread and were satisfied. 27. Do not labor for food<sup>84</sup> that perishes, rather for food that endures to life that is everlasting, that which the Son of man will give to you, for this man Elohim the Father has sealed." 28. They said to him, "What should we do to work the deeds of Elohim?" 29. Y'shua answered and said to them, "This is the work of Elohim that you should believe in him whom He sent." 30. They said to him, "What miracle do you perform that we may see and believe in you? What have you shown?" 31. Our fathers ate manna<sup>85</sup> in the wilderness as it is written that He gave them bread from heaven to eat." 32. Y'shua said to them, "Amen, amen I say to you that it was not Moshe that gave bread to you from heaven, but my Father gives true bread to you from heaven.<sup>86</sup> 33. For His bread is that of Elohim, He who has come down from heaven and gives life to the world." 34. They said to him, "Our Master give this bread to us at all times!" 35. Y'shua said to them, "I am the Bread of Life. Whoever comes to me will not hunger. And whoever believes in me will not ever thirst. 36. But I have said to you that you have seen me, and you do not believe. 37. All who my Father has given to me will come, and whoever comes to me I will not cast outside! 38. For I came down from heaven,<sup>87</sup> not to do my will, but to do the will of Him who sent me. 39. And this is His will, that of Him who sent me, that all that He has given to me I do not lose even one. 40. For this is the will of my Father, that all who see the Son and believe in Him, will have life that is eternal. And I will raise him up on the last day."<sup>88</sup> 41. Now the Yehudeans were arguing against him because he said "I am the Bread that has descended from Heaven." 42. And they were saying, "Is this not Y'shua, the son of Yosip; do we not know his father and his mother? And how says this man that 'I have descended from Heaven?'" 43. Y'shua answered and said to them, "Do not argue one with another. 44. No man is able to come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him. And I will raise him up in the last day.

82 Three or four miles out, or about halfway to their destination.

83 The "double amen" is a "double amplifier." On a spiritual level it points to the "two witnesses" required by Torah to establish matters of life and death (Deut 17:6-7; 19:15). The ancient Hebrew "amen" (pronounced aw-mane') has its primitive root in the word "aman" (believe, faithful). First mention of "amen, amen" (Num 5:22) is used to establish true testimony. This double element implies that both spirit and soul bear witness to the truth of the testimony. In Deut 27:15-26 all of Israel stood before YHWH and spoke "amen" 12 times (as 12 tribes), to give oral witness and consent to their obligation of obeying YHWH's Commandments. "Amen, amen" is unique (in the NT) to Yochanan's Gospel appearing in Yochanan 3:3, 5, 11; 5:19, 24, 25; 6:26, 32, 47, 53; 8:34 (8:23 in Aramaic), 51 (39 in Aramaic) and 58 (47 in Aramaic); 10:1, 7; 12:24; 13:16, 20, 21, 38; 14:12; 16:20, 23 and 21:18.

84 Makultha (food or nourishment), is spelled and sounds very close to Malkutha (Kingdom). See footnote John 4:32.

85 Manna in Aramaic means, "What is it?" (PY). The manna began falling shortly after the Israelites left Elim on the 15th day of the 2nd month of Iyar (Exodus 16:1-23). This is a relevant time to talk about manna because it is in the middle of the omer count and Shavuot will be coming in approximately three weeks. (AR)

86 Psalm 78:24; Nehemiah 9:15

87 As in the context of Miltha (the Word) or the "Manifestation" or the "Will of" YHWH coming down from heaven to do the Will of YHWH upon earth; his Spirit is of YHWH but his nephesh (soul) and body are human and temporal.

88 Y'shua reiterates that eternal life begins after the resurrection, otherwise known as the "First Resurrection" (Revelation 20:5-6) or the "Resurrection of the Righteous" (Daniel 12:1-2; Luke 4:14; Acts 24:15), not at the time of a person's death.

45. For it is written in the prophets that all of them will be taught of Elohim.<sup>89</sup> Everyone who hears therefore and learns from the Father comes to me. 46. It is not that man can see the Father, rather he who is from Elohim is he who sees the Father. 47. Amen, amen I say to you that whoever believes in me has life that is eternal. 48. I am the Bread of Life.<sup>90</sup> 49. Your forefathers ate manna in the wilderness and they died. 50. And the Yehudeans were arguing one with another and saying, “How is this man able to give his body to us to eat?” 53. And Y’shua said to them, “Amen, amen I say to you, that unless you eat the body of the Son of man and drink his blood, you have no life in your (own) Qnoma.<sup>91</sup> 54. And he who eats from my body and drinks from my blood has life that is everlasting, and I will raise him up on the last day. 55. For truly my body is food and truly my blood is drink. 56. He who eats my body and drinks my blood abides in me and I in him. 57. As the Living Father has sent me, and I live because of the Father, and whoever eats of me he also will live because of me. 58. This is the Bread that has descended from Heaven. It is not as manna your forefathers ate and died. He who eats this Bread will live forever!”<sup>92</sup> 59. He said these things while he taught in the assembly in Capurnakhum. 60. And many who heard it of his disciples said, “This saying is hard! Who is able to do<sup>93</sup> it?” 61. But Y’shua knew in himself that his disciples were arguing about this, and he said to them, “This offends you! 62. What if, therefore, you see the Son of man ascending to the place that he was before? 63. It is the Spirit that makes alive; the body does not profit anything. The words that I speak with you are spirit and are life.<sup>94</sup> 64. But there are some of you who do not believe.” For Y’shua had known from the start who are those that did not believe, and who he was who would betray him. 65. And he had said to them, “Because of this I have said to you that no man is able to come to me unless it is given to him from my Father.” 66. Because of this saying, many of his disciples turned their backs and did not walk with him. 67. And Y’shua said to his twelve, “Why, do you also desire to go?” 68. Shimon Keefa answered and said, “My Master, to whom should we go? You have the words of life that is eternal.

<sup>90</sup> Y’shua was born in Beyt-Lekhem (the House of Bread). As bread sustains physical life, the Word of YHWH provides eternal Life.

<sup>91</sup> Qnoma, usually translated here as “you”, “self”, or “yourselves”, but literally means “Underlying substance.” (PY). The body/blood imagery is metaphoric. Y’shua, of course, knows very well that it is an abomination to drink any kind of blood, let alone human blood (Leviticus 17:11). Consuming human flesh is also an abomination that is strictly prohibited. Rabbis even suggest that part of the reason swine’s flesh is forbidden is because it resembles human skin. There are two underlying parts: Part 1 recalls the imagery of Ezekiel 3:1-15 where the prophet actually ate a Torah scroll; the imagery symbolizing the prophet being sustained by and proclaiming Torah, which is the essence of what Y’shua is teaching. Y’shua’s example and teaching are to be part of our innermost being, literally taken in and ingested into our hearts. This imagery is also seen in Mark 7:19 which distinguishes between physical food and spiritual (heart) “food”, and Jeremiah 31:33 which speaks of writing Torah upon the heart. Part 2, is the life which Y’shua refers to; it is not physicality, as “self”, but the core essence of being, literally of the neshama, (spirit of man).

<sup>93</sup> The word shema can also mean “do”, not just “hear” or “understand”; another possible reading is “who is able to act upon it?”

94 As the "body does not profit anything," then neither can ingesting a wafer that symbolizes the body! Sin is violation of Torah. The absolution of sin begins with Teshuva (turning to YHWH). Faith in Mashiyach is evidence that the Ruach haKodesh has begun to write Torah upon the heart. Obedience to Torah as the Word of YHWH is the process of Sanctification, which is the setting apart of YHWH's people unto Himself, from all manner of worldliness and false religion. No volume of wafer-ism or canned prayer in or about Mashiyach will provide an acceptable substitute to being born into the Image of Elohim!

69. And we believe and know that you are the Mashiyach, the Son of the Living Elohim!”
 70. Y’shua said to them, “Did I not choose you twelve, and is it one of you is an adversary?”<sup>95</sup>
 71. He was speaking now concerning Yehuda Skaryota, the son of Shimon, for he was about to betray him being one from the twelve.

Chapter 7

1. After these things Y’shua was walking in Galeela, for he did not desire to walk in Yehuda because the Yehudeans were seeking to kill him. 2. And the Feast of the Tabernacles<sup>96</sup> of the Yehudeans was drawing near. 3. And his brothers said to Y’shua, “Depart from here and go to Yehuda that your disciples may see the works that you do. 4. For there is no man who does anything secretly yet desires he that it be in the open. If you do these things, show yourself to the people.” 5. For not even his brothers<sup>97</sup> had believed in him, in Y’shua. 6. Y’shua said to them, “My time, mine, is not arrived up until now, but your time, yours, is here at all moments. 7. The world is not able to hate you, but it hates me because I witness, I, against it that its works are evil. 8. You go up to this feast. I will not go up to this feast now because my time is not yet finished.” 9. He said these things, and he remained in Galeela. 10. But when his brothers went up to the feast, then even he went up, not openly<sup>98</sup> but as in secret. 11. But the Yehudeans were looking for him at the feast and were saying, “Where is he?” 12. And there was much arguing among the crowds because of him, for there were those who said, “He is good.” and others who were saying, “No. He only deceives the people.” 13. But no man was openly speaking concerning him because of the fear of the Yehudeans. 14. Now when the days of the feast were divided<sup>99</sup> Y’shua went up to the temple and he was teaching. 15. And the Yehudeans were marveling and saying, “How does this man know the scrolls since he has not learned them?” 16. Y’shua answered and said, “My teaching is not mine, rather it is of He who has sent me. 17. He who desires to do His will can comprehend my teaching,<sup>100</sup> if it is from Elohim, or if from my own will I speak. 18. He who speaks from his own mind seeks glory for himself, but he who seeks the glory of He who sent him is true and there is no iniquity in his heart. 19. Did not Moshe give you Torah, yet not a man among you kept Torah?<sup>101</sup> 20. Why do you want to kill me?” The crowd answered and said, “You have a demon! Who wants to kill you?” 21. Y’shua answered and said to them, “One work I have done and all of you marvel. 22. Because of this, Moshe gave circumcision to you. It was not because it was from him, Moshe, but from the patriarchs; yet you circumcise a man on the day of the Shabbat.

95 Satana in Aramaic means ‘Adversary’ (PY). However, the usage here appears to be figurative. It does not appear that Y’shua means, “one of you is Satan,” even though it is clear elsewhere that Satan controls the betrayer. Rather, “one of you is a little devil,” or has a weak character; this is easily manipulated by Satan, much in the same way that Cain was rebuked just prior to committing murder.

96 The Aramaic word here is matliyn, in places it refers to a tent, like the Tent of Meeting, or as it is here can refer to Tabernacles as in the Feast of Sukkot (Deuteronomy 16:13).

97 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy: “I am estranged from my brothers” Psalm 69:8-9.

98 Yochanan is using a wordplay between b’Galeela (in Galeela, v9) and b’Galeea (openly, v10). Maran Y’shua went up to the feast secretly, not openly. (PY).

99 “In the middle of.” (PY). This event can be dated with complete precision. Sukkot in the year 29 CE fell from sunset on Monday, October 8th and ended at sunset on Tuesday, October 16th. The only Shabbat or Saturday morning that occurs during this feast is on 19 Tishri/13 October, the morning of the 5th day, and the precise mid-point of the feast. This concordance only happens on the year 29 CE, confirming the scope of Y’shua’s ministry from 27-30 CE.

100 Herein is the acid test of truly comprehending the teachings of Mashiyach Y’shua. The teachings of Mashiyach are understood by doing Torah, by obedience to the Word of YHWH, by living our lives according to the same pattern of Y’shua’s own Torah observant lifestyle. By contrast Western Christian civilization requires that you study biblical theology, biblical interpretation, hermeneutics, biblical languages, literature, culture, history, geography, archeology, philosophy and much more so as to understand the teachings of Mashiyach. In Verses 15-19 we read that Y’shua is obedient to his Father YHWH and he invites all others into obedience to his Father’s will. Y’shua’s teaching is not his own but his Father’s. If we want to understand Mashiyach’s teaching we must be obedient to His Father’s Torah. False teachers teach their own understanding to get glory to themselves, but Y'shua observes Torah and brings glory to his Father's Name. The Pharisees say they do Torah, but not a man among them kept Torah. Mashiyach decisively teaches that obedience to Torah is the key to understanding his teachings and this is why the Pharisees and other sects of Judaism rejected Y'shua, because they had already made up their own "torah" according to their own religious traditions. Christianity has done exactly the same thing by using "theology" and knowledge as a replacement for obedience. Please see Appendix, How much Torah do Christians already keep?

101 The Pharisees face a very stern rebuke here from Y'shua for not keeping the Torah of Moshe; his language could not be stronger. Y'shua's teaching comes from the "divine" side (qnoma) within him. It is YHWH who is speaking through Mashiyach Y'shua. By contrast, "not a man among you," not one Pharisee, is keeping Torah. The message is clear; Y'shua in effect is saying, "who are you to judge me when you don't practice what you preach?" Even as a child from Galeela, Y'shua had a flawless understanding of Torah. Y'shua never lived one standard for himself while teaching another to the Pharisees, and another to his Jewish followers, and yet another for non-Jews. See Matthew 5:20.

23. If a man is circumcised on the day of the Shabbat so that the Torah of Moshe not be loosed, why do you argue against me because the whole man I have made whole on the day<sup>102</sup> of the Shabbat? 24. Do not be judging by hypocrisy, rather judge with a just judgment.” 25. And the men from Urishlim were saying “Is this not the man that they want to kill? 26. And behold he speaks openly and they do not say anything to him, why? Do our elders know that this is truly the Mashiyach? 27. But we know where this man is from, but when the Mashiyach comes, no man will know where he is from.” 28. And Y’shua lifted up his voice while he taught in the temple and said, “You know both me and where I am from! And I did not come from my own will but He is true who sent me, He who you do not know Him! 29. But I know him because I am from His presence<sup>103</sup> and He sent me!” 30. Then they wanted to seize him, yet no man placed hands upon him, because his time had not yet come. 31. And many in the crowds believed in him and said, “When the Mashiyach comes, what more than these miracles that this man does will he do?” 32. And the Pharisees heard the crowds who said these things concerning him, and the chief priests sent guards that they might seize him. 33. And Y’shua said, “A little time again I am with you, and I will go to Him who sent me. 34. And you will seek me and you will not find me, and where I am you are not able to come.” 35. And the Yehudeans said among themselves, “Where is this man about to go that we cannot find him? Why indeed is he about to go to the countries of the Gentiles<sup>104</sup> and teach the pagans? 36. What is this teaching which he said that “You will seek me and you will not find me, and where I am you are not able to come?” 37. Now on the great day which is the last of the feast, Y’shua was standing, and he cried out and said, “If a man thirsts, let him come to me and drink. 38. Anyone who believes in me as the Scriptures have said, rivers of living water will flow<sup>105</sup> from his belly.” 39. And this he said concerning the Spirit that they were about to receive, those who believe in him. For the Spirit was not yet given because Y’shua was not yet glorified.<sup>106</sup> 40. And many from the crowds who heard his words were saying, “This is truly a prophet!” 41. Others were saying, “This is the Mashiyach!” and others said, “Does the Mashiyach come from Galeela? 42. Does not the Scripture say that from the seed of Dawid<sup>107</sup> and from Beth-Lekhem<sup>108</sup> the village of Dawid comes the Mashiyach?” 43. And division was occurring in the crowd because of him. 44. And there were some among them who had wanted to seize him, but no man placed hands on him. 45. And those guards returned to the chief priests and Pharisees and the priests said to them, “Why didn’t you bring him?” 46. The guards said to them, “Never has a man spoken thus as this man speaks!” 47. The Pharisees said to them, “Why even you are deceived! 48. No one from the leaders or the Pharisees has believed in him. 49. Except this people who do not know Torah and are accursed.

102 This event is in active participle form in Aramaic, indicating that it is unfolding into the immediate present. As a result, this verse unequivocally invalidates the false theory of a lunar sabbath. This cannot be referring to a miracle on any other time but, rather, at that moment on that day – since that selfsame moment is called the Shabbat day. Y’shua states that a day between the first and last days of Sukkot is the Shabbat. That being the case, the Shabbat is by definition, falling on a day other than the 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd or 29th day of the month. This imperative clearly nullifies the lunar sabbath falsehood; it is validated by Aramaicists and authoritative Aramaic grammars of both Christian and Jewish persuasion. Neither is there any historical documentation among Netzarim followers of Y’shua regarding the observance of a lunar sabbath. Nor do Jewish historians such as Yoseph ben Mattathias (Josephus) support the theory that Y’shua’s talmidim observed a lunar sabbath. Had Y’shua or his talmidim adopted lunar sabbath observance, the Rabbinical world would have raked them over the coals, but no such thing is evidenced in Jewish writings. The lunar sabbath theory is a fallacy, invented by a “luma-tic”. Please see Divisions of the Day in Appendix.

103 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, “But a branch will emerge from the trunk of Jesse, a shoot will grow from his roots. The Spirit of YHWH will rest upon him, the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and power, the Spirit of knowledge and fear of YHWH, he will be inspired by fearing YHWH. He will not judge by what his eyes see or decide by what his ears hear, but he will judge the poor with justice; he will decide fairly for the humble of the land. He will strike the land with a rod from his mouth and slay the wicked with the breath from his lips” Isaiah 11:1-4.

108 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "But you, Beit Lechem near Efrat, so small among the clans of Yehudah, out of you will come forth to me the future ruler of Israel, whose origins are far in the past, back in ancient times" Micah 5:2 (1 JPS)

50. Niquodemus,<sup>109</sup> one of them, he who had come to Y'shua at night, said to them, 51. "Why? Our Torah does not condemn a man except it hears from him first and knows what he has done!" 52. And they answered and said to him, "Why are you also from Galeela? You search and see; the Prophet<sup>110</sup> will not rise from Galeela." 53. Verse 53 is nonexistent in the Peshitta.

Chapter 8

1.<sup>111</sup> (12) Now Y'shua spoke with them again<sup>112</sup> and said, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness but he will find the light of life for himself." 2. (13) The Pharisees said to him, "You do testify concerning yourself; your testimony is not true!" 3. (14) Y'shua answered and said to them, "Even if I do testify concerning myself, my testimony is true because I know from where I have come and to where I go. But you do not know from where I have come, nor to where I go. 4. (15) You judge carnally;<sup>113</sup> I do not judge anyone. 5. (16) Yet if I do judge now, my judgment is true because it is not I alone, rather I and my Father who sent me. 6. (17) And in your own Torah now it is written that the witness of two men is true. 7. (18) It is I that testify concerning myself, yet my Father who sent me testifies concerning me." 8. (19) They said to him, "Where is your Father?" Y'shua answered and said to them, "Neither do you know me, nor my Father. If only you would have known me, you would have known my Father also." 9. (20) These words he spoke while in the treasury. He taught in the temple and no man seized him, for his hour had not yet come. 10. (21) Y'shua again said to them, "I go and you will seek me, and you will die in your sins. And where I go you are not able to come." 11. (22) The Yehudeans said, "Why indeed will he kill himself, that he says 'Where I go you are not able to come.'" 12. (23) And he said to them, "You are from below and I am from above. You are from this world. I am not from this world. 13. (24) I told you that you will die in your sins, for unless you believe that I am<sup>114</sup> you will die in your sins!" 14. (25) The Yehudeans said, "Who are you?" Y'shua said to them, "Even if I should begin to speak with you, 15. (26) I have much against you to say and to judge, but He who sent me is true and I speak those things which I heard from Him. These things are what I speak in the world." 16. (27) And they knew not the Father that he spoke concerning them. 17. (28) Y'shua again said to them, "When you lift up the Son of man, then you will know that I am, and I don't do a thing from my own will but as my Father has taught me. Likewise that I speak. 18. (29) And He who sent me is with me and does not leave me alone because my Father is pleased at all times with the things that I do." 19. (30) While he was speaking these things, many believed in him. 20. (31) And Y'shua said to those Yehudeans who believed in him, "If you should abide by my words, truly you are my disciples."

109 Niquodemus is known as Nakdimon ben Gurion in the Talmud, an endearing name given to him for causing a very favorable rain, and for the sun to return after it had set. The Talmud says his real name was Boni, it records that someone with a similar name was executed as one of Y'shua's five disciples: It is taught: Yeshe had five disciples - Matai, Nekai, Netzer, Buni, and Todah. They brought Matai [before the judges]. He said to them: Will Matai be killed? It is written (Psalm 42:2) "When [=Matai] shall (I) come and appear before G-d." They said to him: Yes, Matai will be killed as it is written (Psalm 41:5) "When [=Matai] shall (he) die and his name perish"-Talmud Sanhedrin 43a. Mattai is clearly "Matthew". "Todah" is a match for "Thaddeus" in Aramaic. But "Buni", most likely the "Boni" referred to earlier is Nakdimon. It is an odd happening that a man so revered in the Talmud should, under another name, be executed for heresy. On the other hand, Josephus speaks of many Rabbis opposing the assassination of Ya'akov Ha Tzadik (James the Just) so double traditions are not without precedent. Another case is Rabbi Gamaliel, Paul's teacher, who is remembered fondly in both the Talmud and NT.

110 The Greek redactor confused the Aramaic future tense for the past tense, and also misunderstood the context of this section. Y'shua is the Mashiyach who is linked to "the Prophet" of which Moshe said, "unto him you shall listen" (Deuteronomy 18:15). The point was that "The" Prophet (meaning Mashiyach as prophesied in Micah 5:1) would not arise from Galilee, but would be born in Bethlehem. It is ironic that the Pharisees assumed that Y'shua was born in Galilee, since he is known as a Nazarene, and tried to use that against him.

111 In later Greek translations a story appears in the text of a woman caught in adultery, which was inserted as verses 1-11. The story is nonexistent in the Peshitta (and the Khabouris Codex) and does not appear in the four earliest Greek manuscripts of John. The brackets reflect verses according to Greek numbers. If any Peshitta manuscript had included the story, it could have been shown as a product of a later period. Please see Woman of John 8 in Appendix.

112 In verse 10, Maran Y'shua uses a wordplay between Mawtha (death) and Matha (to come). Maran, of course, was referring to His upcoming death, as suspected by those who heard him (verse 11--PY).

113 Literally, "According to the flesh." (PY)

114 In Semitic thought, the phrase "E-na-na" (I am) conveys a thought of eternal existence reserved only for Elohim. This naturally leads to the following question in verse 14. (PY), which is also known as verse 25 in Greek based versions. (AR)

21. (32) And you will know the truth and that truth will set you free.”<sup>115</sup> 22. (33) They said to him, “We are the seed of Awraham and never has bondage<sup>116</sup> to anyone been served by us. How do you say that you will be free men?” 23. (34) Y’shua said to them, “Amen, amen I say to you that anyone who commits sin is the servant of sin. 24. (35) And a servant does not remain forever in the house, but the Son remains forever. 25. (36) If therefore the Son should free you, truly you will be free men.”<sup>117</sup> 26. (37) I know that you are the seed of Awraham, but you seek to kill me because you are not open to my word. 27. (38) What I have seen my Father do, I speak to you. And whatever you have seen with your father, you do.” 28. (39) They answered and said to him, “Our father is Awraham.” Y’shua said to them, “If you are sons of Awraham, you would do the deeds of Awraham! 29. (40) But now behold, you seek to kill me, a man who truthfully spoke with you that which I heard from Elohim. This Awraham did not do. 30. (41) But you do the deeds of your father.” They said to him, “We do not come from fornication. We have one Father, Elohim.” 31. (42) Y’shua said to them, “If Elohim were your father, you would love me. For I have gone out from Elohim and I have not come from my own will, but He sent me. 32. (43) Because of what reason do you not comprehend my word? Because you are not able to hear my word! 33. (44) You are from the accusing father. And the lusts of your father you want to do, who from the beginning killed men. And he does not stand in truth because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a falsehood from himself, he speaks because he is a liar, even its father! 34. (45) But because I speak truly, you do not believe me! 35. (46) Who among you rebukes me concerning sin? And if I speak the truth, why do you not believe me? 36. (47) He who is from Elohim hears the words of Elohim. Because of this you do not hear because you are not from Elohim!” 37. (48) The Yehudeans answered and said to him, “Didn’t we say well that you are a Samaritan and you have a demon!” 38. (49) Y’shua said to them, “There is no demon in me, but I do honor my Father and you curse me. 39. (50) And I do not seek my glory. There is He who seeks and judges. 40. (51) Amen, amen I say to you that he who keeps<sup>118</sup> my words, he will not see death ever!” 41. (52) The Yehudeans said to him, “Now we know that you have a demon! Awraham and the prophets died, and you say that ‘He who keeps my word will not taste death forever!’ 42. (53) Why are you greater than our father Awraham and the prophets who died? Who do you make yourself?” 43. (54) Y’shua said to them, “If I glorify myself, my praise is nothing. My Father who glorifies me, He whom you said, ‘That is our Elohim.’

115 While this is a beautiful and endearing verse it also reveals the deeply embedded Hellenistic mindset within Christianity and the secular world. Greek philosophers Socrates, Plato and Aristotle believed their “truth” was divinely inspired and that it provided moral guidance, as long as they gave the proper interpretation. Most Christians interpret “truth” as the “knowledge of Christian truth,” specific Christian doctrines, Statement of Christian Faith, or proper Christian interpretation of Scripture. A Christian label or identity is a “Christian truth”. It is truth as long as they provide proper Christian interpretation and you agree with their interpretation. However, when Y’shua teaches “truth will set you free” he is referring to “applied truth” such as found in Deuteronomy 32:46-47, “command your children to observe and do all the words of this Torah. For it is not a vain thing for you; because it is your life.” YHWH and Y’shua’s truth is neither a Jewish, nor a Christian thing, it is a YHWH thing. Observing (keeping and obeying) Torah as the Word of YHWH is Truth. Truth lives within the act of obedience. Please see Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions in Appendix.

116 Greek translations suggest that the Pharisees knew nothing of the slavery of the Hebrews prior to the Exodus. However, Aramaic has two words that can mean “bondage.” The one used here, abdota, refers to indentured servitude in working off a debt (as in Ya’akov working for Laban); not “slavery” as was the case in Egypt, which is another word. Upon leaving Egypt the Israelites spoiled gold from the Egyptians, as YHWH commanded Moshe. This was certainly not the original plan of the Egyptians, so the Pharisees’ original point is that they are not indebted to anyone. However, Y’shua responds that if they think they get a free pass because of their ancestry, they are wrong. Every individual must work and apply himself to Torah according to Mashiyach, and be growing in righteousness, which is how one redeems their own soul from sin/debt; otherwise they remain slaves to sin.

117 The greatest freedom we will know in this life is the freedom to walk in truth, free from the power of religion and free from the fear of man. Imagine having such a great love for our Heavenly Father YHWH that when He speaks we are free to obey without doubting YHWH or ourselves. Imagine the security, confidence, and trust in Him that we will readily deny the authority of religious leaders in favor of witnessing the Spirit of YHWH work within us, drawing us close to Himself. This

44. (55) And you do not know Him. But I know Him, And if I say that I do not know Him, I would be a liar like yourselves, but I know Him and I keep His Word. 45. (56) Your father Awraham did long to see my day, and he saw it and rejoiced!" 46. (57) The Yehudeans said to him, "You are not yet fifty years old, yet you have seen Awraham!" 47. (58) Y'shua said to them, "Amen, amen I say to you that before Awraham existed, I was!"<sup>119</sup> 48. (59) And they took up rocks<sup>120</sup> to stone him, and Y'shua hid and departed from the temple and passed through their midst and left.

Chapter 9

1. And when he crossed over he saw a man who was blind since his mother's womb. 2. And his disciples asked him and said, "Our Master, who had sinned, this man or his parents that he should be born blind?" 3. Y'shua said to them, "He did neither sin nor his parents, but that might be seen in him the work of Elohim. 4. It is necessary for me to do the works of Him who sent me while it is daytime. The night is coming that man is not able to work"<sup>121</sup> 5. As long as I am in the world I am the Light of the world!" 6. And when he said these things he spat upon the ground and mixed clay with his saliva and he rubbed it upon the eyes of that blind man. 7. And he said to him, "Go wash"<sup>122</sup> in the pool<sup>123</sup> of Shilokha." And he went and washed and he came seeing! 8. Now his neighbors and those who had seen from the beginning that he would beg were saying, "Is it not he this man who would sit and beg?" 9. There were some who were saying that it was he and there were some who were saying, "No, but he closely resembles him." But he was saying that, "I am he!" 10. They said to him, "How were your eyes opened?" 11. He answered and said to them, "A man whose name is Y'shua made clay and rubbed it on me upon my eyes. And he said to me, 'Go and wash in the water of Shilokha,' and I went and I washed and I began to see!" 12. They said to him, "Where is he?" He said to them, "I do not know." 13. And they brought him, he who was blind from the beginning, to the Pharisees. 14. It was now the Shabbat<sup>124</sup> when Y'shua made the clay and opened his eyes. 15. And again the Pharisees asked him, "How is it that you see?" And he said to them, "He placed clay upon my eyes and I washed and I see." 16. Some of the Pharisees were saying, "This man is not from Elohim, he who does not keep the Shabbat!" But others were saying, "How is a sinful man able to do these miracles?" And there was division among them. 17. They said again to that blind man, "What do you say concerning him who opened your eyes?" He said to them, "I say that he is a Prophet!" 18. But the Yehudeans were not believing concerning him that he was blind yet he saw, until they called the parents of him who saw. 19. And they asked them, "If this is your son, he that you say that he was born blind, how is it that he now sees?" 20. And his parents answered and said, "We know that this is our son and that he was born blind."<sup>125</sup> 21. But how he now sees or who opened his eyes, indeed we do not know."

119 See note on verse 13. The idiom is present here in the English as well. (PY).

120 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the words "rocks" and "to stone him."

121 The Semitic root plkh can mean "work", "service" or "worship." (PY).

122 The Aramaic root shwg, from which this word is derived, means to "purify" oneself, especially in the context of a ritual washing prior to worship or priestly service. (PY).

123 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between "wash" and "pool."

124 Many theologians assume that the story of the woman caught in adultery (inserted in John 7:53-8:11) occurred on the following morning after the last day of Sukkot, also known as Shemini Etzeret (please see Yochanan 8:1 footnote). However, in the original text, the events of Yochanan 7:37 and all of chapter 8 are part of the last day of Sukkot (Feast of Tabernacles) celebrations, from sunset October 15 to sunset October 16th (Monday-Tuesday). Y'shua's references to "living waters" and "I am the light of the world" make perfect sense on this very special High Day that involves rituals of fire and water. Furthermore, by restoring the original chronology, the events here in chapter 9 occur on the Shabbat immediately after the end of Sukkot; Saturday morning, October 20th. Regardless as to whether the Torah portions were read in an annual or triennial cycle at this time, this Shabbat represents a new beginning, a new spiritual cycle in our lives making the symbolism of this healing here exceedingly clear. Y'shua made this man whole, not only did his physical blindness end, but now he walked in physical and spiritual newness of life, exemplified by the Kingdom of Heaven.

125 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "I YHWH have called you in righteousness, and will hold your hand, and will keep you, and give you for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; To open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house. I am YHWH: that is my Name: and My glory will I not give to another; neither My praise to graven images." Isaiah 42:6-8

22. His parents said these things because they were afraid of the Yehudeans, for the Yehudeans had decided that if anyone should confess in him that he is the Mashiyach, they would cast him out of the assembly.<sup>126</sup> 23. Because of this, his parents said that, "He is of age, ask him!" 24. And they called the man a second time, he who was blind. And they said to him, "Give glory to Elohim, for we do know that this man is a sinner!" 25. He answered and said to them, "If he is a sinner, I do not know, but one thing I know, that I was blind and now behold I see!" 26. Again they said to him, "What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?" 27. He said to them, "I have told you, yet you have not listened! Again, what do you want to hear? Why, do you also desire to be disciples to him?" 28. And they reviled him and said to him, "You are a disciple of his, for we are disciples of Moshe."<sup>127</sup> 29. And we know that Elohim spoke with Moshe. But this man we do not know from where he is." 30. That man answered and said to them, "In this therefore is something to marvel at that you do not know from where he is, yet my eyes, mine, he opened! 31. We know now that Elohim does not hear the voice of sinners; rather, He hears he who fears Him and does His will. 32. From eternity<sup>128</sup> it has not been heard that someone opened the eyes of a man who was born blind. 33. If this man is not from Elohim, he would not be able to do this!" 34. They answered and said to him, "You were born entirely in sins and you teach us!" And they cast him outside. 35. And Y'shua heard that they had cast him outside, and he found him and said to him, "Do you believe in the Son of Elohim?" 36. He who was healed answered and said, "Who is he my Master that I may believe in him?" 37. Y'shua said to him, "You have seen Him and He who speaks with you is He." 38. And he said, "I believe my Master!"<sup>129</sup> And he fell and worshipped<sup>130</sup> him. 39. And Y'shua said, "The judgment of the world. This I have come for that those who do not see may see and that those who see may become blind." 40. And some of the Pharisees who were with him heard these things and said to him, "Why? Are we even blind?" 41. Y'shua said to them, "If you were only blind you would have no sin, but now you say that, 'We see.' Because of this your sin is standing."<sup>131</sup>

1. "Amen, amen I say to you that he who does not enter into the sheepfold of the flock by the door<sup>132</sup> but climbs up by another place; he is a thief and a robber. 2. But he who enters by the gate is the shepherd of the flock. 3. And to this man the gatekeeper opens the gate and the flock hears his voice and his sheep he calls by their names and he leads them out. 4. And when he leads out his flock he goes before it and his sheep go after him because they know his voice. 5. However, the flock does not go after a stranger;<sup>133</sup> rather, it flees from him because it does not know the voice of the stranger." 6. Y'shua told them this parable but they did not comprehend what he spoke with them. 7. Now Y'shua again said to them, "Amen, amen I say to you that I am the Gate of the flock."<sup>134</sup>

<sup>129</sup> Earlier in Yochanan 9:9 this man established his identity by emphatically saying "I am he!" Probably not saying Ena-Na, but Ena-Ena, which is like "Ani-Ani" in Hebrew. Contrast this to Luke 22:70, where the pronunciation of Ena-Na did lead to the Sanhedrin wanting to stone Y'shua for blasphemy. That second "ey" makes all the difference, even though the spelling is identical. Other occurrences of that exception can be found in Luke 24:36, 39, Yochanan 6:21 and 8:7 (18). Also see the footnote for Yochanan 8:13 (24). Here he affirms his faith in Y'shua by declaring, "I believe my Master!" This belief is not a cerebral acknowledgement but a complete surrender to Y'shua as Mashiyach and King of Kings. To enter into the Kingdom of Heaven "I AM" must live inside the spiritual man through "Mashiyach who in you is the hope of our glory." (Col. 1:27)

<sup>130</sup> The Aramaic root sgd means 'To prostrate oneself before', and is the most submissive form of worship. (PY). In the Middle East it is also common for servants to prostrate and bow low before their Masters, especially when a great kindness or debt is forgiven them. (AR)

131 "Firmly established", "immovable" idiomatically "eternal." (PY).

132 Maran Y'shua uses a wordplay here between tara (Gate) and tyara (Sheepfold). (PY).

133 Literally, "Foreigner."

134 Wordplay with ena (I) and ana (Flock); the word for flock here is plural. (PY).

8. And all those who have come are thieves and robbers if the flock have not heard them. 9. I am the Gate and if a man should enter by me he will live and will enter and go out and he will find pasture.<sup>135</sup> 10. But does not a thief come that he may steal and kill and destroy? I have come that they may have life, which is abundant. 11. I am the Good Shepherd. The Good Shepherd lays down his life for the flock.<sup>136</sup> 12. But a hireling who is not the shepherd nor are the sheep his, when he sees a wolf coming leaves the sheep and flees. And the wolf comes and plunders and scatters the flock. 13. Now the hireling flees because he is hired and he does not care about the flock. 14. I am the Good Shepherd and I know those who are mine. And those who are mine know me. 15. Just as my Father knows me and I know my Father and I lay down my life for the sake of the flock. 16. And I also have other sheep, those who were not<sup>137</sup> from this sheepfold. And also them, it is necessary for me to bring them and they will hear my voice and all the flocks will become one. And there will be One Shepherd.<sup>138</sup> 17. Because of this, my Father loves me that I lay down my life that I might take it up again. 18. No man takes it from me but I lay it down by my own will. For I have authority to lay it down and I have authority to take it up again, for this Commandment I have received from my Father.” 19. And a division occurred again among the Yehudeans because of these words. 20. And many of them were saying that, “He has a demon and is insane. Why do you listen to him?” 21. But others were saying, “These are not the words of a possessed man! Why is a demon able to open the eyes of the blind?” 22. And the Feast of Dedication<sup>139</sup> occurred in Urishlim and it was winter.<sup>140</sup> 23. And Y’shua was walking in the temple in the porch of Shleemon. 24. And the Yehudeans surrounded him and said to him, “How long will you hold our souls<sup>141</sup> if you are the Mashiach? Tell us openly.” 25. Y’shua answered and said to them, “I have told you and you do not believe! And the works that I do in the Name of my Father they testify concerning me. 26. But you do not believe because you are not of my sheep, just as I have told you. 27. My sheep hear my voice and I know them and they come after me. 28. And I give to them life that is eternal and they will not perish and no man will ever snatch them from my hands. 29. For my Father who gave them to me is greater than all, and no man is able to snatch them from the hands of my Father. 30. I and the Father are one.”<sup>142</sup> 31. And again the Yehudeans took up rocks to stone him. 32. Y’shua said to them, “Many pleasing works from the presence of my Father I have shown you. For which of them do you stone me?” 33. The Yehudeans said to him, “It is not because of the pleasing works that we stone you, rather because you do blaspheme<sup>143</sup> and that while you are a Son of man you make yourself Elohim!”<sup>144</sup> 34. Y’shua said to them “Is it not written in your Torah that ‘I have told you that you are Elohim.’”<sup>145</sup> 35. If those people he called Elohim because the Miltha of Elohim was with them and Scripture is not able to be broken.

135 Wordplay between raya (Shepherd, v2) and reya (Pasture, v9). (PY).

137 Those not of the sheepfold (12 Tribes of Israel) are they who come out of the Goyee (nations). “It is a light thing that you should be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give you for a light to the Goyee (nations), that you may be my salvation unto the end of the earth” Isa 49:6. “For from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great among the Goyee (nations)” Mal 1:11. See also Isaiah 11:10; 42:1, 6; 60:3; 66:19; Jer 16:19. No other Jew in history has had such great fame among the Goyee (nations) as Y’shua.

138 “One Shepherd” refers to the removal of all false religious and political leaders who have taken wrongful leadership over YHWH’s people. False shepherds divide sheep, take tithes, offerings, and donations from YHWH’s people, use non-profits to live their “American dream.” YHWH says, “they are greedy dogs which can never have enough...they cannot understand: they look to their own way, every one for his gain...Come, they say...tomorrow shall be as today, and much more abundant” Isa 56:11-12. Motivational shepherds dole out promises of future success, but YHWH says, “I am against the shepherds; and I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease” Ezekiel 34:10. Christians, Muslims and Jews give about three trillion dollars ($3,000,000,000,000) annually to religious causes. Religion is big business.

139 “Dedication” is Hanukkah in Hebrew. Aramaic uses Khawdata, literally “renewal” or “to make new.” This is the same word for “renewed” in Renewed Covenant; therefore, the “New” Covenant is a “renewal” or a “making new” of what YHWH had already established. See Renewed Covenant in Appendix. Hanukkah exemplifies the cultural war between mythology and paganism (Dec 25th Christmas, Ishtar, SUN-day etc) and the Kingdom of Heaven offered by HaMashiach.

140 In 29 CE, Hanukkah was from sunset on Sunday, December 16th to sunset on Monday December 24th, the middle of the feast crosses the winter solstice on the 21st.

142 Fulfilling the prophecy "me whom they pierced", Zechariah 12:10-11. In order to be pierced, Elohim must be in a man. Please see Unity of Mashiach in Appendix.

143 See Appendix: Y'shua in the Talmud.

144 Y'shua states that the Ruach of YHWH is within him, (Isaiah 11:1-2, Zechariah 12:10). He taught that while his nefesh would die, YHWH would reanimate both his neschama (human spirit/ruach) and nefesh (soul). Y'shua never claimed his nefesh was anything other than human and that as such, it would die.

145 Psalm 82:6

36. To him whom the Father sanctified and sent into the world you say, ‘You blaspheme!’ concerning that I had told you that ‘I am the Son of Elohim.’ 37. Unless<sup>146</sup> I do the works of my Father, do not believe me. 38. If, however, I do them even if you do not believe me, you believe the works that you may know and believe that my Father is in me<sup>147</sup> and I am in my Father.” 39. And they were seeking again to seize him, but he escaped from their hands. 40. And he went to the crossing of the Yordanan to the place where Yochanan had been previously when he was immersing, and there he remained. 41. And many men came to him and were saying that Yochanan did not even one miracle, but everything that Yochanan said concerning this man is true. 42. And many believed in him.

Chapter 11

1. Now there was one man from the village Beth-Anya who was sick, Lazar<sup>148</sup> the brother of Maryam and of Martha. 2. Now this Maryam, was who had anointed the feet of Y’shua with perfume and wiped them with her hair, was the sister of this one. 3. And Lazar who was sick sent both of his sisters to Y’shua and said, “Our Master, behold he whom you love is sick.” 4. But Y’shua said, “This sickness is not deadly but for the sake of the glory of Elohim that the Son of Elohim might be glorified because of him.” 5. Now Y’shua had loved Martha and Maryam and Lazar. 6. And when he heard that he was sick he remained in the place that he was two days. 7. And afterwards he said to his disciples, “Come let us go again to Yehuda.” 8. His disciples said to him, “Our Master the Yehudeans were seeking to stone you, and you go there again now!” 9. Y’shua said to them, “Are there not twelve hours in the day, and if a man walks during the daylight, he will not stumble because he sees the light of this world. 10. But if a man should walk during the night, he will stumble because there is no flame<sup>149</sup> in him.” 11. Y’shua said these things and afterwards said to them, “Our friend Lazar sleeps<sup>150</sup> but I will go to wake him”<sup>151</sup> 12. His disciples said to him, “Our Master, if he sleeps will he be whole?” 13. Now Y’shua spoke concerning his death and they thought he spoke of drowsiness sleep. 14. Y’shua said to them plainly, “Lazar has died. 15. And I rejoice that I was not there because of you that you may believe, but let us walk to there.” 16. Tooma,<sup>152</sup> who would be called the Twin, said to his fellow disciples, “Let us go also and die with him.” 17. And Y’shua came to Beth-Anya and found him to be in the tomb for four days. 18. Now Beth-Anya was on the side of Urishlim, being separated from it by about fifteen furlongs. 19. And many of the Yehudeans were coming to Martha and Maryam to comfort their hearts because of their brother. 20. And Martha, when she had heard that Y’shua had come, went out to meet him, but Maryam had sat in the house.

146 The 1905 and other Peshitta manuscripts add “unless” whereas Khabouris only has “I do.” The 1905 reading is retained.
147 In Isaiah 22:20-25 a priestly father is named Hilkiah (my portion is YHWH) and his son is Eliakim (Elohim raises) which foreshadows Mashiach whose “portion” is YHWH, and who is raised up by Elohim. Mashiach is the first begotten of YHWH who suffers, then is raised up and then is given governance over all nations, kindreds, tongues and peoples as foreshadowed in verses 21-22: “And I will clothe him with thy robe, and strengthen him with thy girdle, and I will commit thy government into his hand: and he shall be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah. And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open.”

148 The Hebrew form of this name is Elazar, although Aramaic tended to drop the leading ah (aleph) when it took on this sound, the aspirated “eh”. The result in Aramaic is “Lazar.” From this spelling –os was added in Greek to make up Lazar-os.
149 Nahira (Flame, v10) is used here as an idiomatic expression to mean “He is not enlightened.” Maran Y’shua uses this term in a wordplay with Nuhra (Light, v9). (PY).

150 The difference between ShKB (v11) and DMKh (v12) is used in this story to demonstrate that Maran Y’shua’s disciples did not realize that Lazar was dead. DMKh (v12) means to sleep, but shkb (v11) can mean “To sleep” but also “To take rest of this world” (i.e., to die). Maran Y’shua meant that Lazar had died, and he would raise him (cf., v13-14). This insight is lost in Greek, which rendered both words as “Sleep.” (PY).

151 Literally, “I will resurrect him.” (PY).

152 Tooma means “Thyme,” but he was later nicknamed Taama (the Twin). (PY).

21. And Martha had said to Y'shua, "My Master, if only you had been here, my brother would not have died. 22. But even now I know that however much you ask of Elohim, He will give to you." 23. Y'shua said to her, "Your brother will arise." 24. Martha said to him, "I know that he will rise in the resurrection<sup>153</sup> on the last day." 25. Y'shua said to her, "I am the resurrection and the Life.<sup>154</sup> 26. He who believes yet in me will never die! Do you believe this?" 27. She said to him, "Yes, my Master, I believe that you are the Mashiyach, the Son of Elohim who has come into the world." 28. And when she had said these things, she went and called her sister Maryam and secretly said to her, "Our Master has come and is calling for you." 29. And when Maryam had heard, she arose and came quickly to him. 30. And Y'shua had not yet come into the village yet but he was in that place where Martha had met him. 31. And also those Yehudeans who were with her in the house who were comforting her, when they saw Maryam, that she arose quickly and went out, they followed her. For they thought that she was going to the grave to weep. 32. But when Maryam came to where Y'shua was, she saw him and she fell down at his feet and said to him, "If only you had been here my Master, my brother would not have died."<sup>155</sup> 33. And Y'shua when he saw her weeping and the Yehudeans, those who had come with her who were weeping, he groaned in his Spirit and was moved in his soul. 34. And he said, "Where have you laid him?" And they said to him, "Come and see." 35. And the tears of Y'shua were coming. 36. And the Yehudeans were saying, "See how much he did love him." 37. And some of them said, "Was not this man able that he opened the eyes of that blind man. Couldn't he have done something also that this man might not have died?" 38. And Y'shua, while he groaned within himself, came to them to the tomb. And that tomb was a cave, and a stone was placed upon its entrance. 39. And Y'shua said, "Take this stone away." Martha, the sister of that dead man, said to him, "My Master, it is the fourth day. He stinks already!" 40. Y'shua said to her, "Did I not tell you that if you believe you will see the glory of Elohim?" 41. And they took away that stone and Y'shua lifted his eyes upwards and said, "Father, I thank you that you have heard me. 42. And I know that you always hear me, but because of this crowd that stands here I say these things that they might believe that you have sent me." 43. And when he said these things he cried out in a loud voice, "Lazar, come forth!" 44. And that dead man came out while his hands and his feet were bound in bandages, and his face bound in a head cloth. Y'shua said to them, "Untie him and allow him to go!" 45. And many of the Yehudeans who had come to Maryam, when they saw the thing that Y'shua did, they believed in him. 46. And some of them went to the Pharisees and told them the thing<sup>156</sup> that Y'shua did. 47. And the chief priests and Pharisees gathered together and were saying, "What will we do, for this man does many miracles?"<sup>157</sup> 48. And if we allow him to do thus, all men will believe in him and the Romans will come and take away our land and our nation?" 49. Now one of them whose name was Qayapa was the High Priest in that year, and he said to them, "You do not know anything, 153 Nukhama is a powerful theological term which means, "Resurrection," "Revival," "Recovery," and "Rest" from the Aramaic root Nukh (Rest). (PY).

154 The Aramaic reads, Ena na nukhama w'khayeh, one of the most beautiful and melodious phrases of the NT.

155 Extra "to" in Khabouris has no effect on meaning. 1905's omission is retained in the Aramaic.

156 1905 reads "told them the thing Y'shua did" whereas Khabouris has "told them everything Y'shua did." The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

157 These "miracles" point to Job's words, "I know that my redeemer lives, and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: And...yet in my flesh shall I see Elohim" Job 19:25-26. Isaiah says, "Your dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, you that dwell in dust: for your dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead" Isa 26:19. Daniel says, "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt" Daniel 12:2. The "seed of woman" (Genesis 3:15) prophetically refers to Mashiyach crushing the head of the serpent and defeating death. Y'shua performed 37 miracles that point to the spiritual architecture of the resurrection. Josephus the historian viewed Y'shua as "a doer of wonderful works" Antiquities of the Jews, Book 18, Chapter 3, 3. The Tanakh gives three occurrences of the dead being raised, Zerephath's son, 1 Kings 17:22; the Shunammite woman's son, 2 Kings 4:35; when a corpse touched Elisha's bones the man came to life 2 Kings 13:21. Tosefta Hullin 2:22f; Jerusalem Abodah Zarah 2:2/7; 2:2/12; Jerusalem Shabboth 14:4/8; 14:4/13; Qohelet Rabbah 1:8(3); Babylonian Abodah Zarah 27b discuss Y'shua's miracles. The Toledot Yesu validates Y'shua's miracle powers in YHWH's Name. In Midrash

Raba Ruth 3:1 (98), Rav Maysha, the son of R. Yosef, raised after 3 days. Semachos, ch. 8 (105), one raised/lived 25 more years; another raised/lived to have 5 more sons. Shulchan Aruch Y.D. 394:3 applies 3 day rule to when tombs were used. Likutei Maharil, states; Maharil raised after 3 days, lived another 30 years. Y'shua was 3 days/nights in the grave. Millions have experienced "out of body" events that point to life after death, but Mashiyach alone holds the keys to the resurrection.

50. And you do not realize that it is better that one man should die for us for the sake of the nation, than all the nation should perish.” 51. And this he did not say from his own will because he was the High Priest in that year. He prophesied that Y’shua was about to die for the sake of the nation. 52. And not only for the sake of the nation but that also the sons of Elohim who are scattered that he might gather into one nation. 53. And from that day they had decided to kill him. 54. But Y’shua would not walk openly among the Yehudeans but he went from there to a country that was near to the wilderness, to a fortress which is called Aprim.<sup>158</sup> And there he would remain with his disciples. 55. Now the Paskha of the Yehudeans was approaching, and many went up from the villages to Urishlim before the feast that they might purify themselves. 56. And they were seeking Y’shua and in the Temple were saying to one another, “Do you think that he will not come to the feast?” 57. But the chief priests and the Pharisees had commanded that if anyone should know where, he should show it to them so that they might seize him.

Chapter 12

1. Now six days before the Paskha, Y’shua came to Beth-Anya where Lazar was, he whom Y’shua had raised from the grave. 2. And they made a banquet for him, and Martha was serving and Lazar was one of the guests who were with him. 3. And Maryam took an alabaster vase of very expensive perfume of the choicest nard and anointed the feet of Y’shua and wiped his feet with her hair. And the house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume. 4. And Yehuda Skaryota, one of his disciples, he who was about to betray him, said, 5. “Why was not this oil sold for three hundred denarii and it be given to the poor?” 6. But he did not say this because it is for the poor. But he cared because he was a thief. And the (treasury) bag was with him, and whatever would fall into it, he would carry. 7. But Y’shua said, “Leave her alone. She has kept it for the day of my burial. 8. For you do always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me.” 9. And great crowds of the Yehudeans heard that Y’shua was there, and they came not because of Y’shua alone, but also that they might see Lazar, (whom Y’shua) raised from the dead. 10. And the chief priests were also thinking that they might kill Lazar. 11. Because many of the Yehudeans were leaving and believing in Y’shua. 12. And on the next day that great crowd had come to the feast when they heard that Y’shua was coming to Urishlim. 13. They took branches of the palm tree and went out to meet him and were crying out and were saying, “Ushanna!<sup>159</sup> Blessed is he who comes in the name of Master YHWH,<sup>160</sup> the King<sup>161</sup> of Yisrael!” 14. And Y’shua found a donkey and sat upon it, as it is written, 15. “Do not have fear daughter of Tsiyon. Behold your King comes to you and is mounted upon a colt, the foal of a female donkey.”<sup>162</sup> 16. But his disciples did not understand these things at that time, but when Y’shua was glorified, his disciples remembered that these things were written concerning him and these things they had done to him.

158 Aprim is Aramaic for Ephraim, the city of Ephraim is about 16 miles north of Jerusalem and 5 miles west of Jericho (2 Chr. 13:19). The “lost sheep of the house of Israel” (see Matt 10:6; 15:24) are not “geographically” lost, in Aramaic “lost” implies “cut off” counting them as destroyed unless they turn from paganism to Torah. See 1 Corinthians 1:18 and 2 Thessalonians 2:10. The Samaritans mentioned in Yochanan 4:9 trace their ancestry to the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh.

159 Ushanna is an Aramaic term of high praise (see Psalm 118:25) (PY). It is also important to look at the exact way that John and the other Good News writers relate the event of Y’shua’s anointing by the woman here. All agree that Y’shua is in Beth-Anya when this happens, and this is important because three of the four accounts deal with either discourses or events involving fig trees around this time. As stated earlier, fig trees are usually associated with the Sanhedrin. However, there is an additional layer of symbolism to consider as well, since Beth-Anya, which is clearly set as the place Yehuda decides to betray his Master, literally means “House of Figs.” John and Mark’s account in particular seem focused on Yehuda himself protesting about the perfume the woman used, with John being the only one to directly link it to Yehuda’s thievery from the money bag. Therefore, when Y’shua curses the fig tree as he does in other accounts saying “May you never bear fruit again,” it can also be a curse against Yehuda Skaryota personally; that he will never bear fruit (offspring) because his betrayal is about to doom him forever.

160 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, Psalm 118:26.

161 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion" Psalm 2:6.

162 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, Zechariah 9:9.

17. And that crowd that was with him bore witness that he had called Lazar from the grave, and had raised him from the dead. 18. And because of this, great crowds went out to receive him because they heard that he did this miracle. 19. But the Pharisees were saying one to another, “Do you see that you don’t gain anything? For behold all the world follows him!” 20. And there were also from the Gentiles<sup>163</sup> some of them who had gone up to worship during the feast. 21. These came and drew near to Peleepos, he who was from Beth Saida of Galeela, and asked him and said to him, “My Master, we desire to see Y’shua.” 22. And Peleepos told Andraus and Andraus and Peleepos told Y’shua. 23. And Y’shua answered and said to them, “The hour has come that the Son of man be glorified! 24. Amen, amen I say to you that a grain of wheat, except it should fall and die on the ground, remains by itself. But if it dies, it produces<sup>164</sup> much fruit. 25. Whoever loves his soul will destroy it, and whoever hates his soul in this world will keep it to life eternal. 26. If a man should serve me, let him come follow me. And where I am there will my servant also be. Whoever serves me, the Father will honor him. 27. Behold my soul is now disturbed, and what will I say? ‘My Father deliver me from this hour?’ Rather because of this I have come for this hour. 28. Father glorify your Name.” And a voice was heard from Heaven, I have glorified and I will glorify again. 29. And the crowd, which was standing there, heard it and said, “It was thunder.” But others said a Messenger spoke with him. 30. Y’shua answered and said to them, “This voice did not occur for me, but it is for you. 31. Now is the judgment of this world. Now the ruler of this world is cast outside. 32. And when I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw all men to me.” 33. And this he said to show by what death he would die. 34. The crowd said to him, “We have heard from Torah that the Mashiyach remains forever. How do you say that about the Son of man to be lifted up? Who is this Son of man?” 35. Y’shua said to them, “A little time longer the light is among you. Walk while you have light or else the darkness overcomes you and he who walks in the darkness does not know to where he goes. 36. Believe in the light while you have the light, that you may become the sons of light.” Y’shua spoke these things and departed and hid from them. 37. And though he did all these miracles before them, they did not believe in him. 38. That would be fulfilled the word of Yesha’yahu the prophet who said, “My Master who will believe our report and to whom has been revealed the arm of YHWH?”<sup>165</sup> 39. Because of this they were not able to believe, because again Yesha’yahu said, 40. That “They have blinded their eyes and have darkened their heart that they might not see with their eyes and understand with their heart and repent and I heal them.”<sup>166</sup> 41. These things Yesha’yahu said when he saw his glory and spoke concerning him. 42. And also many from the leaders believed in him but they would not confess because of the Pharisees, or else they would be thrown out of the assembly. 43. For they loved the praise of men more than the glory of Elohim. 44. But Y’shua cried out and said, “He who believes in me, it is not in me he does believe, but in Him who sent me.”<sup>167</sup>

163 The word emma in the Aramaic NT can refer to those of the nations, to they who sojourn with YHWH’s people or convert to Judaism, depending on context. The Greek NT uses the word hellas here which is artificially narrow in scope to refer only to Greek people. Some critics of the Aramaic NT use these “Greeks” as proof that Y’shua was fluent in Greek, but in reality these Greeks would have had to learn Hebrew and Aramaic for meaningful worship in Jerusalem. This is why Thayer’s Greek Lexicon reads: 1772 Hellen. The word is used in the same wide sense by the Greek church Fathers, cf. Otto on Tatian, p. 2; (Sophocles’ Lexicon, under the word). The hellen spoken of in John 12:20 and Acts 17:4 are Jewish proselytes from the Gentiles. Compare hellas to the much clearer Hellenistes in Acts 9:29, which refers directly to Greek speaking Jews. Please see Gentiles and Ger Toshav in Appendix.

164 Maran Y’shua here uses the wordplay between myta (v24, it dies) and mytya (v24, it produces). (PY).

167 Y’shua does not bring a new Faith, but reveals the original Faith of YHWH the Father.

He who rejects me and does not receive my words, there is something that judges him. The word that I have spoken,<sup>169</sup> it will judge him on the last day. 49. For I have not spoken from my soul, but the Father who sent me. He gave a Commandment to me what I should say and what I should speak. 50. And I know that His commands are eternal life.<sup>170</sup> Therefore, these things that I speak just as my Father told me, thus I speak.”<sup>171</sup>

Chapter 13

1. Now before the feast of the Paskha, Y’shua had known that the time that he would depart this world to his Father had arrived. And he loved his own who were in this world, and he loved them up until the end. 2. And when supper was done, Satan placed it into the heart of Yehuda, the son of Shimon, Skaryota that he would betray him. 3. But because Y’shua had known that the Father had given everything into his hands, and that he came from Elohim and he was going to Elohim, 4. He arose from supper and laid aside his garments and took a cloth and girded his loins. 5. And he poured water into a basin and began to wash the feet of his disciples, and was wiping them with the cloth that girded his loins. 6. But when he came to Shimon Keefa, Shimon said to him, “My Master, you wash my feet for me?” 7. Y’shua answered and said to him, “The thing that I do, you do not understand now, but afterwards you will know.” 8. Shimon Keefa said to him, “You will never wash my feet for me!” Y’shua said to him, “Unless I wash<sup>172</sup> you, you have no portion with me!” 9. Shimon Keefa said to him, “In that case my Master, not only my feet but wash for me also my hands, even my head!” 10. Y’shua said to him, “He who has bathed<sup>173</sup> does not need but to wash only his feet, for all of him is clean. Even all of you are clean, but not all of you!” 11. For Y’shua had known he who would betray him. Because of this, he said, “not all of you are clean!” 12. And when he had washed their feet, he took up his garments and he reclined and said to them, 13. “You call me ‘Our Master’<sup>174</sup> and ‘Our Master’<sup>175</sup> and well you speak, for I am. 14. Therefore, if I, your Master, have washed your feet for you, how much more you should wash the feet of one another. 15. For this example should do. 16. Amen, amen I say to you that there is no servant who is greater than his Master, nor a shaliach who is greater than he who sent him. 17. If you know these things, blessed are you if you should do them. 18. It is not concerning all of you; I speak for those I know whom I have chosen, but that the Scripture might be fulfilled. He who eats bread with me has lifted his heel against me.”<sup>176</sup>

168 Y’shua proclaims that he came to give life, then he declares that His father’s Commands are eternal life. The Father’s “Commands” are instructions in righteousness; this is Torah which contains Commandments, Judgments, Testimony and Witness regarding the Kingdom of Elohim. Those who enter into Covenant with Y’shua Mashiyach are entering into Covenant with his Father YHWH; therefore, it is evil – an outright lie – to teach that Torah is done away with and replaced by a new theology.

169 There is a wordplay here between MLTHA (Word) and MLLTH (I have spoken), (PY).

170 The Commands of YHWH bring eternal life. YHWH’s “Commands” refers to all of His Commandments; these are one and the same as every Word that proceeds out of the Mouth of Elohim. These are not Commands only between Y’shua and His Father but they are universal for all souls who will enter into the Malchut Elohim.

171 Y’shua speaks the Word of YHWH, not his own words; therefore, he conveys the revelation of YHWH according to the Ruach haKodesh without the baggage of man’s religious tradition. Religion has a propensity to reinvent or interpret the Word of YHWH to make it “acceptable” to man’s standards; whereas Mashiyach came not to please men, but to honor and bring Glory to his Father.

172 From the Aramaic root mshg, a ceremonial cleansing performed before worship that symbolizes ritual cleanliness. (PY). 173 skha, literally, “To swim” or “To fully immerse oneself.” (PY).

174 The first “Master” here is rabban which can be interpreted as either “our great one” or “our teacher/rabbi”. The second “Master” is maran, such as “Maran atha”, as in “Our Master comes” (1 Corinthians 16:22). Both terms acknowledge Y’shua’s sovereignty but can also mean he is called “our teacher, our master” by his disciples, and this he says is shapir (well or beautiful) that they are making this specific designation.

175 Fulfilling Messianic prophecy, "For thus says the high and lofty One that inhabits eternity, whose name is Kadosh; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones" Isa 57:15.

176 Psalm 41:9 (10 JPS)

19. From now on I will say to you a thing before it happens, so that when it happens you will believe that I am. 20. Amen, amen I say to you that whoever receives him, who I send, receives me, and whoever receives me receives Him who sent me.” 21. Y’shua said these things and he groaned in his spirit and bore witness and said, “Amen, amen I say to you that one of you will betray me.” 22. And the disciples stared at each other because they did not know concerning whom he spoke. 23. Now there was one of his disciples who was reclining on his bosom, he whom Y’shua had loved. 24. Shimon Keefa beckoned this one to ask him, “Who is he who he spoke about?” 25. And that disciple fell upon the breast of Y’shua and said to him, “My Master, who is that person?” 26. Y’shua answered and said, “The one for whom I dip and he I give the bread to.” And Y’shua dipped the bread and gave it to Yehuda, the son of Shimon Skaryota (the Zealot).<sup>177</sup> 27. And after the bread, then Satan entered in him. And Y’shua said to him, “The thing that you do, you do it quickly!” 28. But no man of those who reclined understood of this concerning what he said to him. 29. For some thought that because of the bag Yehuda was carrying that he had expressly commanded him to buy what was needed for the feast,<sup>178</sup> or that he might give something to the poor.<sup>179</sup> 30. Now Yehuda took the bread and went at once, and he departed when it was night outside. 31. And Y’shua said, “The Son of man is now glorified and Elohim is glorified in him. 32. And if Elohim is glorified in him, Elohim will also glorify him in himself, and will glorify him immediately. 33. My sons, I am with you a little while longer. You will seek me. And as I said to the Yehudeans, ‘Where I go you are not able to come.’ And even now I say to you 34. a new Commandment<sup>180</sup> I give to you: Be loving one to another just as I have loved you, you also should love one another. 35. By this all men will know that you are my disciples if there will be love among you one to another.” 36. Shimon Keefa said to him, “Our Master, where do you go?” Y’shua answered and said to him, “To where that I go, you are not able to come now and follow me, but at the end, you will come.” 37. Shimon Keefa said to him, “My Master, why am I not able to come and follow you now? I will lay down my life<sup>181</sup> for you.” 38. Y’shua said to him, “You will lay down your life for me? Amen, amen I say to you that the cock will not crow until you deny me three times.”

Chapter 14

1. “Do not let your heart be troubled. Believe in Elohim and believe in me. 2. There are many rooms in my Father’s House, and if not I would have told you so. For I go to prepare a place for you. 3. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again for you and take you with me, that where I am, you may be also. 4. And you know where I go and the way you know.” 5. Tooma said to him, “Our Master, we do not know where you go and how are we able to know the way?”

177 Skaryota could mean that the disciple we know as “Simon the Zealot” was the father of Yehuda, the traitor who handed Y’shua over to the Romans. Potentially making this the only father-son team among the disciples, that otherwise appears to consist of siblings. “Skaryota” is a mysterious word in Aramaic, one of the most likely meanings is “sicarii,” the name Josephus uses in reference to a sect within the Zealot movement. “Sicarii” was a type of dagger that was concealed in their clothing and used to kill Romans. If Yehuda was a member or sympathizer of the Zealot party, he may have viewed handing Y’shua over to the priests as a righteous act, believing Mashiach would then be forced to bring about the long awaited Jewish overthrow of the Roman occupiers. The term “zealot” also appears along with the Aramaic qanana (or “Canaanite”) and tanana, either of which could refer to the Zealot party. Skaryota could well indicate that Shimon and/or Yehuda had participated in the killing of Romans. If the Romans suspected that Zealots were hiding among Y’shua’s disciples it would have added more justification for his death. See footnote on Yochanan 14:22.

178 Pesach, or Passover day, is not one of the annual Shabbats. The first Day of Unleavened Bread is a Shabbat; therefore, it is acceptable to buy provisions on the day of Passover. See Vayikra/Leviticus 23:5-8.

179 Khabouris has an extra “from” in this verse that is not needed and has no effect on the meaning. The 1905 reading is retained in the Aramaic.

180 See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #10: A New Commandment in Appendix.

181 Literally, “My soul” or “My Breath.” (PY).

6. Y'shua said to him, "I am the Way and the Truth and the Life."<sup>182</sup> No man comes to the Father except by me. 7. If only you would have known me, you would have also have known my Father. And from now on you know Him and you have seen Him." 8. Pelepos said to him, "Our Master, show us the Father and it will satisfy us." 9. Y'shua said to him, "I am with you all this time and you do not know me, Pelepos? Whoever sees me sees the Father, and how do you say, 'Show us the Father?' 10. Don't you believe that I am in my Father and my Father is in me? These words that I speak, I do not speak of myself but He who dwells in me, my Father does these works. 11. Believe that I am in my Father and my Father is in me; otherwise believe even because of the works. 12. Amen, amen I say to you that whoever believes in me, these works that I do, he will do also, and more than these he will do because I go to the Father. 13. And whatever you ask in my name, I will do for you that the Father might be glorified by His Son. 14. And if you ask of me, in my name, I will do it! 15. If you love me, keep my Commandments. 16. And I will ask of my Father and He will give you another Redeemer<sup>183</sup> who will be with you forever. 17. The Spirit of Truth, He who the world is not able to receive because it has not seen Him, nor does it know Him. But you know Him for He dwells with you and He is in you. 18. I will not leave you bereaved. For I will come to you in a little while. 19. And the world will not see me, but you will see me. Because I live, you also will live. 20. In that day you will know that I am in my Father and you are in me and I am in you. 21. He who has my Commandments with him and keeps them, he is who loves me and he who loves me will be loved by my Father. And I will love him and reveal myself to him." 22. Yehuda (not Skaryota)<sup>184</sup> said to him, "My Master, why is it you are about to reveal yourself to us and not the world?" 23. Y'shua answered and said to him, "He who loves me keeps my word, and my Father will love him and we will come to him and we will make a dwelling with him. 24. But he who does not love me will not keep my word and this word that you hear is not mine; rather, it is of the Father who sent me. 25. These things I have spoken among you while I am with you. 26. But the Redeemer, the Ruach haKodesh, the One whom my Father will send in my name will teach you everything. And He will remind you of everything that I said to you. 27. Peace I leave to you. I give my own peace to you. It is not as the world gives that I give to you. Do not let your heart be troubled and do not have fear. 28. You have heard that I have told you that I go away and I will come to you. If you had only loved me you would have rejoiced that I go to my Father, for my Father is greater than I. 29. And now behold, I have told you before, that when it happens you might believe. 30. Henceforth I will not speak much with you for the ruler of the world comes and he has nothing in me. 31. But that the world may know that I love my Father, and as my Father has commanded me I do likewise. Arise; let us depart from here."<sup>185</sup>

182 Y'shua is the Way; the Hebrew Derek (way) is first mentioned in Genesis 3:24, as the "way to the Tree of Life." Throughout Torah and the Prophets "Ha Derek YHWH", the Way of YHWH is presented as keeping the Commandments of YHWH, living a righteous Set Apart life, walking in humility and service to YHWH and His Creation. Y'shua exemplifies "Ha Derek YHWH" by demonstrating solidarity and obedience to Torah, through his extravagant love and obedience to his Father, and by serving YHWH's people according to the ministry of the Ruach haKodesh. Y'shua is the Truth; the Hebrew Emet (Truth) is first mentioned in Scripture when Abraham's servant Eliezer worships YHWH because of His Mercy and Truth. Through walking in "the way" (of YHWH) he was divinely led to his master's brethren where he found Rebecca, Genesis 24:27. Truth leads us to the Master of the Universe and to live among and be part of His called out people. Truth reveals the cause and effect of our choices each day; as we walk in Truth we see the beauty and importance of the Way of Life. Y'shua said, "He who desires to do His will (walk in Truth) can comprehend my teaching, if it is from Elohim," Yochanan 7:17. Y'shua is the Life; the Hebrew Chai (life) is first mentioned in Genesis 1:20, when Elohim first created living creatures. Hebrew reveals many elements of "life," however Y'shua's teaching is more focused on spiritual life according to the Spirit of YHWH, the Ruach HaKodesh. This Spiritual life is described as the Spirit of YHWH, the Spirit of Wisdom, the Spirit of Understanding, the Spirit of Counsel, the Spirit of Might, the Spirit of Knowledge, and the Spirit of the Fear of YHWH (Isaiah 11:2). This Spiritual Life-Force demonstrates fruit of the Spirit of YHWH as love, joy, peace, kindness, goodness, faith, meekness, self-control (Galatians 5:22-23).

183 PRQL+A has been confused with the Greek "Paracritus", meaning "Advocate." The Aramaic construct PRQL+A is derived from two Aramaic roots: PRQ ("To end," "To finish" or "To save." See Strong's Concordance entries 6561 and 6562) and L+A ("The curse," cf. Marqus 11:21, Matti 5:44, "A Compendious Syriac Dictionary," page 236, and Oraham's Dictionary, page 250). PROL+A means “Redeemer” or “One who ends the curse.” By the indwelling of the Ruach haKodesh, our sinful predisposition is redeemed from the curse of Adam. (PY) By ending the curse, Mashiach as savior (paroqa), more literally fulfills the office of Mashiach as the “giver of lives.”

184 If skaryota means “zealot” or Sicarii (see footnote 13:26), then we could then read this as, “Yehuda, not the Zealot.”

See footnote Yochanan 18:2.

185 Verses 8-31 are missing from the Khabouris but are in other Eastern Peshitta manuscripts.

1. I am<sup>186</sup> the Vine of Truth and my Father is the Cultivator. 2. Every branch that is on me that does not give fruit, He takes it away. And that which bears fruit He prunes it that it might produce more fruit. 3. You are already pruned because of the word which I have spoken with you. 4. Abide in me and I in you, as the branch is not able to produce fruit by itself unless it should abide in the vine. Likewise you are also not able unless you abide in me. 5. I am the Vine and you are the branches.<sup>187</sup> Whoever abides in me and I in him, this man will produce plentiful fruit because without me you are not able to do anything. 6. Now unless a man abide in me, he is cast aside like a branch that is withered and they pluck it and place it into the fire that it may burn. 7. Now if you abide in me and my words<sup>188</sup> abide in you, anything that you desire to ask will be given to you. 8. In this the Father is glorified that you bear abundant fruit and that you be my disciples. 9. As my Father has loved me, so too I have loved you. Abide in my love. 10. If you keep my Commandments, you will abide in my love, just as I have kept the Commandments of my Father,<sup>189</sup> and I abide in His love. 11. I have spoken these things with you that my joy may be in you and that your joy might be full in you. 12. This is my Commandment, that you love one another just as I have loved you. 13. There is no love that is greater than this that a man lay down his life for the sake of his friends. 14. You are my friends if you do all that I commanded you. 15. I do not call you servants any longer, because a servant does not know what his Master does. But, I have called you my friends because everything that I have heard from my Father I have made known to you.<sup>190</sup> 16. You have not chosen me but I am the one who has chosen you. And I have appointed you that you should also go and produce fruit, and that your fruit might remain. That all that you ask of my Father in my name He will give you. 17. These things I command you, that you should love one another. 18. And if the world hates you, know that it hated me before you. 19. And if you are of the world, the world would love its own. But you are not of the world for I have chosen you from the world. Because of this, the world hates you. 20. Remember the word which I have spoken to you. That there is no servant who is greater than his master. If they persecute me, they will also persecute you. And if they keep my word, they will also keep yours. 21. But all these things they will do to you because of my name, for they do not know He who sent me. 22. If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin, but now they have no holocaust upon the face of<sup>191</sup> their sin. 23. Whoever hates me also hates my Father. 24. And if I had not done works before their eyes that no other man has done, they would have no sin. But now they have both seen and hated both me and even my Father. 25. That the Word might be fulfilled which is written in their Torah that ‘They hated me without reason.’<sup>192</sup> 26. But when the Redeemer comes, He Whom I will send to you from the presence of my Father, the Spirit of Truth, He Who proceeds from the presence of my Father will witness concerning me. 27. You will also testify, for you were with me from the start.”

186 Here Y’shua uses the divine form of “I am” (Ena-na) indicating that YHWH is speaking through him. However, the Speaker is acting as if it is Y’shua speaking, because He refers to “my Father is the Cultivator” when in reality YHWH is speaking of Himself. If He were speaking directly to the talmidim He would have said, “He is the vine and I am the cultivator”.
187 Aramaic “shebista” is the word for “branch”; however, the Netzer/branch of Isaiah 11:1-2 is also being pictured here. The Netzer wordplays with haNatzrati “the Nazarene” and “haNetzarim,” “the Netzarim” title for disciples; see Acts 24:5. See Netzer in Appendix.

188 See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #9: My Word/Commands/Commandments in Appendix.

189 The “Commandments of my Father” always refers to Torah; see also John 15:5. Y’shua and his Talmidim (disciples) keep his Father’s Commandments, but mainstream Christianity is not only anti-Torah; they turned rebellion against Torah into a “fashionable” form of lawlessness. See Daniel 7:25; 2 Thessalonians 2:7; 2 Timothy 2:19; Titus 2:14; 2 Peter 2:21; 1 John 3:4; Hebrews 2:2-4; Romans 4:15; Matthew 7:23; 13:41. See Renewed Covenant in Appendix.

190 Literally, “My friendship.” Both rkhma and khuba mean “Love,” but the former is used in the context of friendship, and the latter is a deeper form of affection. (PY).

191 Aramaic idiomatic construct – “Their sin is left uncovered.” Greek translators confused the word Alatha (Offering, Sacrifice, Holocaust, and Oblation) with Altha (Excuse, Pretext.) Maran Y’shua said “Their sin is left uncovered” not, “Their sin is without excuse.” There never is an excuse for sin. (PY).

1. "I have spoken these things with you that you might not stumble. 2. For they will drive you out from their assemblies and will come a time that all who kill you will think that they offer an offering to Elohim. 3. And they will do these things because they know neither my Father nor myself. 4. I have spoken these things with you that when their time comes you might know them that I have told you these things. But prior I had not told you because I was with you. 5. But now I go to Him who sent me. And not a man among you asks me 'Where are you going to?'<sup>193</sup> 6. For I have told you all these things, and sorrow has come and has filled up your hearts. 7. But I speak truth to you that it is better for you that I go, for if I do not go, the Redeemer will not come to you. But if I go, I will send Him to you. 8. And when He comes, He will convict the world concerning sin and concerning righteousness and concerning judgment. 9. Concerning sin because they do not believe in me; 10. And concerning righteousness because I go to my Father and you will not see me again. 11. And concerning judgment because the ruler of this world is judged.<sup>194</sup> 12. Again I have much to say to you but you are not able to grasp it now. 13. But when the Spirit of Truth comes, He will guide you in all truth. For He will not speak from Himself<sup>195</sup> but He will speak everything that He hears.<sup>196</sup> And future things He will make known to you. 14. And He will glorify me because He will take of my own and show it to you. 15. Everything that my Father has is mine. Because of this I have said to you that, 'He will take of my own and show it to you.' 16. A little while and you will not see me, and again a little while and you will see me because I go to the Father." 17. And his disciples were saying one to another, "What is this that he said to us, 'A little while and you will not see me and again a little while and you will see me,' and that, 'I go to my Father?'" 18. And they were saying, "What is 'a little while' that he said? We do not understand what he says!" 19. But Y'shua knew that they were desiring to ask him, and he said to them, "Concerning this you are inquiring among yourselves that I told you 'That a little while and you will not see me and again a little while and you will see me.' 20. Amen, amen I say to you that you will weep and you will wail and the world will rejoice, And sadness will be upon you, but your sadness will be changed into joy. 21. When a woman is in labor, sadness is upon her for the day of her delivery has arrived. But when she has given birth to a son, she does not recall her travail because of the joy that a man has been born into the world. 22. Even now sadness is upon you, but again I will see you and your hearts will rejoice, and no man can take your joy from you. 23. And in that day you will not ask me anything. Amen, amen I say to you that everything that you ask of my Father in my name, He will give it to you!"<sup>197</sup> 24. Until now you have not asked anything in my name. Ask and you will receive that your joy may be full. 25. I have spoken these things with you in parables, but I will openly<sup>198</sup> reveal to you concerning the Father. 26. In that day you will ask in my name, and I will not say that I will beseech the Father concerning you.

193 Extra "for" from Khabouris is added to Aramaic for clarity.

194 There is a triple wordplay here using DYNA (Judgment), DYN (And) and DYN (Judged.) (PY).

195 Literally, he will not speak from "His own mind." (PY).

196 The Spirit is not a substitute for YHWH, the Spirit of YHWH is the Father; however, the Father is ein sof (without end); therefore, our spirits are quickened by His Spirit to the degree that He reveals Himself to us. It is not possible that mortal bodies can contain the infinite presence; therefore, "He" speaks everything "He hears." In other words, everything from the Ruach haKodesh comes directly from YHWH.

197 Y'shua did not come as a substitute "God" to replace the Father YHWH, as many have been misled into believing. Y'shua is here affirming the original Faith according the Word of YHWH as given in Torah and the Prophets. We have been directed by Mashiyach to ask YHWH "in" the name of Y'shua, which addresses the essential element of Faith in Mashiyach, but also calls us to live according to the example Y'shua provided. As we approach YHWH in the name of Y'shua, we accept the redemption YHWH provides through Mashiyach. Mainstream Christianity does not regard the true nature of Mashiyach, but teaches that it doesn't matter whether you pray to Father, Son, or Holy Spirit as "they are all the same"; but that is purely paganism (see footnote on 1 John 5:7 and Prayer in Appendix).

198 Idiomatic construct, literal meaning "With eyes uncovered." (PY).

We believe that you have proceeded from Elohim.” 31. Y’shua said to them, “Believe. 32. For behold the hour is coming, and now has come, when you will be dispersed every man to his own place. ## Chapter 17

1. Y’shua spoke these things and he lifted up his eyes to Heaven and said, “My Father the hour has come. Glorify your Son so that your Son might glorify you. 2. Just as you have given him authority over all flesh that whomever You have given him, he will give to him life that is eternal. 3. Now this is life that is eternal, that they might know You, that You are the Elohim of Truth, and he alone whom You have sent, the Mashiyach Y’shua. 4. I have glorified You on earth. The work that You have given to me to do I have finished it. 5. And now glorify me my Father with You in that glory that I had with You from before the world was. 6. I have made Your Name known to the sons of those men whom You had given to me from the world. They were Yours and You have given them to me, and they have kept Your Word. 7. Now they have known that everything that you have given to me I have given to them and they received them. 8. And they know that I have truly proceeded from your presence, and they believe that You have sent me. 9. And I plead for them. It is not for the world I plead; rather, for those whom you have given to me because they are Yours. 10. And everything that is mine is Yours, and Yours is mine and I am glorified by them. 11. Henceforth, I will not be in the world, and these are in the world. And I am coming to Your presence. Kadosh<sup>201</sup> Father, keep them by your Name,<sup>202</sup> the same Name which you have given to me, that they may be one even as We are one. 12. I was with them while I was in the world. I have kept them in your Name,<sup>203</sup> those whom you have given to me, I have kept. And not a man of them is lost except for the son of destruction, that the Scriptures might be fulfilled. 13. And now I come to Your presence, and these things I speak in the world that my joy may be full in them. 14. I have given to them Your Word and the world hates them because they are not of the world as I am not of the world. 15. It is not that I plead You take them from the world, but that You might keep evil from them. 16. For they are not from the world, as I am not from the world. 17. Father sanctify them by your Truth, for Your Word is Truth. 18. As you have sent me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. 19. And I fear for their sakes.<sup>204</sup> I sanctify myself so that they may also be sanctified by Truth.

199 Most Greek manuscripts, as well as the Syriac Peshitto, read “Elohim.” (PY). Khabouris has “Father” instead, but the 1905 convention of “Elohim” is retained in the Aramaic. (AR)

200 Y’shua knows his followers will forsake him, but he states that his Father will remain with him. Mashiyach was never “forsaken” by his Father. Psalm 22 states that he would be scorned by others for his trust in YHWH, and they would count him as forsaken by his Father. See also Psalm 71:11.

201 Kadosh/Set Apart means that YHWH and His Word will never change; we can put our trust in Him knowing He will keep His Word. See Unity of the Name of YHWH in Appendix.

202 A very key passage. Aramaic literally reads that YHWH gave His Name to Y’shua; therefore, he has the Name of his Father within him.

203 Y’shua keeps them in YHWH’s name so when we call upon YHWH in Y’shua’s name, we are calling on YHWH for Salvation. As the Name of YHWH is in Mashiyach, so are we to have the name of Mashiyach in us, which means that as followers of Y’shua we are to walk according to his righteousness, observe Torah and walk in the anointing of the Ruach haKodesh as Mashiyach demonstrated to us.

204 Literally, “Their faces.” (PY).

1. Y'shua spoke these things and he went out with his disciples to the other side of the brook of Qidrun to a place which had a garden where he entered, he and his disciples. 2. Now Yehuda, the traitor,<sup>205</sup> had also known that place because Y'shua would assemble there many times with his disciples. 3. Therefore Yehuda took a unit of soldiers and some men from the chief priests and Pharisees. He took guards and came there with torches and lamps and weapons. 4. But Y'shua, because he had known all things that came upon him, went out and said to them, "Whom do you seek?" 5. They said to him, "Y'shua the Nasraya."<sup>206</sup> Y'shua said to them, "I am he." Now Yehuda the traitor was also standing among them. 6. And when Y'shua said to them that "I am he," they went backwards and fell upon the ground. 7. Y'shua asked them again, "Whom do you seek?" And they said "Y'shua the Nasraya." 8. Y'shua said to them, "I have told you that I am he, and if you do seek me, allow these to go." 9. That might be fulfilled (according to) the word which he said that "Those whom you have given to me I have not lost even one of them." 10. But Shimon Keefa had a sword on him and he drew it and struck the servant of the High Priest and took off his right ear. Now the name of the servant was Malek. 11. And Y'shua said to Keefa, "Place the sword into its sheath. The cup which my Father<sup>207</sup> gave to me, will I not drink it?" 12. Then the unit of soldiers and captains and guards of the Yehudeans seized Y'shua and bound him. 13. And they brought him to Khanan first<sup>208</sup> because he was the father-in-law of Qayapa, he who was the High Priest of that year. 14. Now Qayapa<sup>209</sup> was he who advised the Yehudeans that it is better that one man should die for the sake of the people. 15. And Shimon Keefa and one of the other disciples were coming after Y'shua. Now that disciple had known the High Priest, and he entered with Y'shua into the courtyard. 16. But Shimon was standing outside by the gate. And that other disciple who had known the High Priest went out and spoke to the gatekeeper and brought in Shimon.

205 This "traitor" also known as "Yehuda Skaryota, the son of Shimon" (Yochanan 6:71) has a hidden agenda. Evidence points to Yehuda being a Zealot (Yochanan 13:26) with plans to force the showdown: Rome versus Mashiyach. He brings a unit of Roman soldiers, chief priests (Sadducees/Sanhedrin), Pharisees and (Temple) guards. But when Y'shua is convicted, he repents, gives back the money, and commits suicide (Matt 27:3-5)? He misunderstood that the Sanhedrin had to reject Y'shua in order for him to fulfill his duties as Mashiyach. See footnote Luke 22:21 and New Testament Anti-Semitism in Appendix. 206 Y'shua is Mashiyach; the foremost "Netzer" (Branch) of Isaiah 11. "Nasraya" serves to remind his followers of this fact. 207 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities...YHWH has laid on him the iniquity of us all" Isa 53:5-6.

208 The classic strategy for promoting discrimination and baseless hatred is to build a slander campaign among the lower ranks, then take it up the ladder to "higher authorities" for political legitimacy.

209 Caiaphas, his real name was Joseph, was very likely born into wealth since he married the daughter of the High Priest Annas. He was appointed "High Priest" by the Roman governor Valerius Gratus and served under him from 18-26 CE. He then served under Pontius Pilate from 26-37 CE. For him to maintain the office of "High Priest" for 19 years (18-37CE) he would have had strong political allies and significant monetary support. He sat as chairman over the Sanhedrin which was comprised primarily of Sadducees. The Sadducees ran the tax collection agency for Rome, which puts Caiaphas as more of a Sadducee than Pharisee. It's one thing for a crooked politician to say, "better that one man should die," and another for a "High Priest," yet he wasn't a priest by Torah requirement. His office and title was under Roman authority, to keep religious Jews happy and make them feel relevant. The Temple had become a "den of robbers" (Luke 19:46), and Caiaphas their chief.

17. And the young woman, the gatekeeper, said to Shimon, "Why are you also of the disciples of this man?" He said to her, "No!" 18. And the servants and guards were standing and had made a fire to warm themselves, because it was cold. Now Shimon was also standing with them and warming himself. 19. Now the High Priest questioned Y'shua concerning his disciples and concerning his teachings. 20. Y'shua said to him, "I have openly spoken among the people at all times. I have taught in the assemblies and in the temple where all the Yehudeans assemble, and I did not say anything in secret. 21. Why do you ask me? Ask those who heard<sup>210</sup> what I have said. Behold, among them they know everything which I have spoken." 22. And when he spoke these things, one of the guards who was standing there struck Y'shua upon his cheek and said to him, "Thus do you give an answer to the High Priest." 23. Y'shua answered and said to him, "If I have spoken evil, testify against the evil. Yet, if I spoke well, why did you strike me?" 24. Now Khanan sent Y'shua while bound to Qayapa the High Priest. 25. Shimon Keefa was standing and warming himself and they said to him, "Why are you also one of his disciples?" And he denied it and said, "I am not!" 26. One of the servants of the High Priest, a relative of he whom Shimon had cut off his ear, said to him, "Did I see you with him in the garden?" 27. And again Shimon denied it, and at that moment the cock crowed. 28. And they brought Y'shua from the presence of Qayapa into the Praetorium, and it was morning and they did not enter into the Praetorium, that they not be defiled before they had eaten the Paskha.<sup>211</sup> 29. And Peelatos went outside to them and said to them, "What accusation do you have against this man?" 30. They answered and said to him, "If he was not a doer of evil, we would not even have delivered him to you." 31. Peelatos said to them, "You take him and judge him according to your own Torah." The Yehudeans said to him, "It is not Lawful for us to kill a man." 32. That the word might be fulfilled that Y'shua said when he made known by what death he was about to die. 33. Now Peelatos entered into the Praetorium and called Y'shua and said to him, "Are you their King, of the Yehudeans?" 34. Y'shua said to him, "Have you yourself<sup>212</sup> spoken this, or have others told you concerning me?" 35. Peelatos said to him, "Why, am I a Yehudean? The sons of your people and the High Priest have delivered you to me. What have you done?" 36. Y'shua said to him, "My Kingdom is not of this world.<sup>213</sup> This my Kingdom, if it was of the world, my servants would have fought or else I would be delivered to the Yehudeans now. But my Kingdom is not from here." 37. Peelatos<sup>214</sup> said to him, "Therefore you are a King." Y'shua said to him, "You have said that I am a King. For this I was born and for this I have come into the world that I might testify concerning truth. Everyone who is of truth hears my voice." 38. Peelatos said to him, "What is truth?" And when he had said this, he went out again to the Yehudeans and said to them, "I do not find even one cause against him!"

210 Y'shua's question is a call for at least a dozen elements of Torah jurisprudence to be honored and upheld during his trial. A Judge "must not commit unrighteousness," Lev 19:15. A Judge "must not favor or be partial to a litigant," Lev 19:15. A Judge "must not avoid justice because of being in fear of a wicked person," Deut 1:17. A Judge "must not hear one litigant in absence of the other," Ex 23:1. A judge "must not take vengeance or bear a grudge," Lev 19:18. Please see the section on JUSTICE in Appendix: How much Torah do Christians already keep?

211 As the Mishnah details in Pesahim 6:4: "A festal offering derives from the flock of the sheep or from the herd of oxen, from lambs or from goats, from males or from females. And it is eaten for two days and the intervening night [to the night of the fifteenth of Nisan]." The second night's eating then of what is also called the chagigah, or obligatory burnt offering that the Pharisees must consume, and this chagigah is "the Paskha" that they are afraid they will not be able to eat if they are defiled. Otherwise it seems John's timeline is contradicting the Synoptics and is a day behind. If the Paschal lamb that is slaughtered on the 14th is meant here, this would certainly contradict the Synoptics accounts that the Passover Seder had happened already when Y'shua was arrested, as opposed to here in John where the Pharisees are waiting to do this the next morning. (All Mishnah quotes are from the Jacob Neusner edition published in 1992 by Yale University Press.) For more information, please see When Was the Crucifixion in Appendix.

212 Literally "from your souls." (PY).

213 Alma can also mean "age." (PY).

214 Pilate is viewed as a hero by many Christians, yet they forget that as these NT events unfolded, Christianity was punishable by death under Roman law. According to Philo ("De Legatione ad Caium," ed. Mangey, ii. 590), Pilate ruled by corruption, violence, robberies, and continuous executions without trial. He brought pagan images into Jerusalem causing riots and the slaughter of many Jews until he realized that Jews would rather die than let Jerusalem to be desecrated. Pilate stole cash from the Temple treasury, he tried to stop those riots by sending disguised soldiers into the crowds with concealed daggers, slaughtering rioters and bystanders alike. Pilate's last wicked deed was the Samaritan massacre that made Vitellius, legate of Syria, bring him back to Rome. Pilate was indeed judge over Y'shua; the King of the Jews. Most Christians imagine a mob of Jews yelling, "Crucify him," and Pilate trying to pull strings to release him. No, Pilate's power was absolute, if he cared to free Y'shua he would have. Jews had no power to force a crucifixion on someone that Pilate may have had the slightest intrigue. Christians convinced Rome that Jesus was good for the Roman Empire and would not have been crucified except that the Jews put Pilate up to it. It was from such sentiments and other wicked perversions that Christians labeled "the Jews" as "the Christ killers." Pilate was no saint, according to Eusebius ("Hist. Eccl." ii. 7), he was banished to Vienna (Vienne) in Gaul, where he committed suicide. Please see New Testament Anti-Semitism in Appendix.

39. But you have a custom that I release one person to you during Paskha. Therefore, do you want me to release this King of the Yehudeans to you?" 40. All of them cried out and said, "Not this man, but Bar Abba!"<sup>215</sup> Now this Bar Abba was a robber.

Chapter 19

1. Then Peelatos scourged Y'shua. 2. And the soldiers wove a crown of thorns and they placed it on his head and they covered him with garments of purple. 3. And they were saying, "Peace to you King of the Yehudeans." And they were striking him on his cheeks. 4. And Peelatos went outside again and said to them, "Behold I bring him to you outside that you may know that I do not find even one cause against him." 5. And Y'shua went outside while there was a crown of thorns and garments of purple upon him, and Peelatos said to them, "Behold the man!" 6. And when the chief priests and the guards saw him they cried out and said, "Nail him to the stake! Nail him to the stake!" Peelatos said to them, "You take him and execute him on the stake, for I am not able to find a cause in him." 7. The Yehudeans said to him, "We have a Torah to us, and according to that which is in our Torah, he is deserving of death because he made himself the Son of Elohim." 8. And when Peelatos heard this word he was all the more afraid. 9. And he entered into the judgment hall again and said to Y'shua, "Where are you from?" But Y'shua did not give a reply to him. 10. Peelatos said to him, "You do not speak with me. Do you not realize that I have authority to release you and I have authority to have you executed on the stake?" 11. Y'shua said to him, "You would have no authority over me whatsoever if it had not been given to you from above. Because of this, he who delivered me to you, his sin is greater than yours." 12. And because of this, Peelatos was wanting to release him, but the Yehudeans were crying out, "If you release this man you are not a friend of Caesar. For every one who makes himself a king is an adversary of Caesar." 13. Now when Peelatos heard this word, he brought Y'shua outside and sat upon the Biym<sup>216</sup> in a place that is called the Pavement of Stones but in Hebrew is called Griptha.<sup>217</sup> 14. And the evening of the Paskha,<sup>218</sup> had turned over<sup>219</sup> and then it was about the sixth hour,<sup>220</sup> and he said to the Yehudeans, "Behold your King!" 15. But they were crying out, "Take him away! Take him away! Execute him! Execute him!" Peelatos said to them, "Should I execute your king?" The chief priests said to him, "We have no king but Caesar!" 16. Then they delivered him to them that they might execute him on the stake. And they took Y'shua and led him out. 17. Carrying his stake to a place called The Skull in Hebrew, but is called Gagultha,<sup>221</sup> 18. The place of his execution on the stake; and with him two others, one on one side and one on the other, and Y'shua in between. 19. Peelatos also wrote a tablet and placed it upon his stake, and it was written thus, "This is Y'shua the Nasraya, the King of the Yehudeans."

215 Ironically, Bar Abba in Aramaic means "Son of the Father." (PY).

216 Judgment Seat. (PY).

217 Yochanan here points out a difference in the Northern (Galilean) and Southern (Yehudean, which he calls "Hebrew") dialects of Aramaic. Both rtisiptha and griptha are Aramaic words which mean "Pavement." (PY). See Aramaic or Greek Lingua Franca? in Appendix.

218 Paskha, or Pesach in Hebrew, was (and is) frequently used interchangeably with the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The first high day of the Feast runs seamlessly after Pesach ends at sunset on the 14th. Exodus 12 shows that the actual emancipation of Israel from Egypt was after YHWH killed the firstborn at midnight, so on the early hours of the 15th day. Mark 14:12-16 tells us that the seder on the 14th of Abib—Passover evening—was the night before the crucifixion. Also, about the sixth hour refers to 6 AM or dawn as synchronized to Matthew 27:1. In Yochanan 4:6, Roman timekeeping system had two 12 hour cycles, one from midnight to noon and the other from noon to midnight. The time here is now 6 hours after midnight.

219 This very rare reading presents a number of challenges. He is definitely speaking of the previous evening, Pesach on the 14th turned over to the 15th. The arrest and trials during the night "turned over" into daybreak, as in all the other Gospels. The word howat (heh-waw-taw) most of the time means "was", so that is how it was rendered into Greek. However, the other meaning of "turn" is intended here, and it is in perfect (past tense) flowing directly from erubata (evening) and into "of Pesach". Otherwise the reading would ascribe ereb/erubata to a daylight period. This plainly demonstrates an earlier Aramaic primacy over Greek, because it cannot work the other way into Aramaic. The Greek redactor simply assumed howat had its majority reading and infected all other Greek versions since. Subsequently those churches, now divorced from their Semitic roots, uncritically accepted their translations of Yochanan even when it was clear those readings contradicted the timing of the other three Gospels.

220 Yochanan is reckoning on Roman, the "6th hour" here is about 6 AM rather than 12 noon, in agreement with Matthew, Mark and Luke. Please see the footnote on Yochanan 1:39

221 Here is another case of Yochanan translating between two Semitic dialects as qaraqeta (Hebrew) and gagultha (Aramaic); both mean "skull." Yochanan is probably realizing that his audience knows Aramaic but is less familiar with Hebrew unless it was being used liturgically. Since the Hebrew name was more common, Yochanan interpreted it into the more familiar Aramaic, even as we know Hebrew Scriptures were being targumed into Aramaic at this time for much the same reasons. See Aramaic or Greek Lingua Franca? in Appendix.

20. And many of the Yehudeans read this tablet because the place at which Y'shua was nailed to the stake was near to the city. And it was written in Hebrew<sup>222</sup> and in Greek and in Latin. 21. And the chief priests said to Peelatos, "Do not write that he is the King of the Yehudeans; rather, that he said that I am King of the Yehudeans." 22. Peelatos said, "The thing that I have written, I have written." 23. And when the soldiers had nailed Y'shua to the stake, they took his garments and made four pieces for each of the soldiers, but his robe was without stitch, woven completely from the top. 24. And they said one to another, "Let us not tear it but let us cast lots for it to determine whose it will be." And the Scripture was fulfilled that said that, "They divided my garments among themselves, and for my clothing they cast a lot."<sup>223</sup> The soldiers did these things. 25. Now at the stake of Y'shua were standing his mother and the sister of his mother and Maryam, that of Qalyopa, and Maryam of Magdala. 26. And Y'shua saw his mother and a disciple whom he loved who was standing there, and he said to his mother, "Woman, behold your son." 27. And he said to that disciple, "Behold your mother."<sup>224</sup> And at that hour that disciple took her with him. 28. After these things Y'shua knew that everything was complete so that Scripture might be fulfilled, and he said, "I thirst." 29. And they placed a vessel there that was full of vinegar, and filled a sponge with the vinegar and placed it on hyssop and brought it to his mouth. 30. And when he had taken that vinegar Y'shua said, "Behold, it is finished!" And he bowed his head and gave up his spirit. 31. And the Yehudeans, because it was the setting of the day, said, "These bodies should not remain on their stakes because the (Annual) Shabbat is closing."<sup>225</sup> For it was a high day, that they entreated Peelatos that they might break the legs of those who were nailed to the stake and take them down. 32. And the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first and those of the other who was on the stake beside him. 33. And when they came to Y'shua, they saw that he was dead already and they did not break his legs. 34. But one of the soldiers struck his side with a spear, and blood and water immediately came out. 35. And the one who saw it has testified and his witness is true and he knows the truth. He spoke that you also may believe. 36. For these things happened that the Scripture might be fulfilled that said that, "Not a bone of him will be broken."<sup>226</sup> 37. And again another Scripture that said that, "They will gaze at him whom they pierced."<sup>227</sup> 38. After these things Yosip, who was from Ramtha, pleaded from Peelatos that he might take the body of Y'shua because he was a disciple of Y'shua and had concealed himself for fear of the Yehudeans. And Peelatos gave permission, and he came and took the body of Y'shua.<sup>228</sup> 39. And Niqodemus also came, he who had come previously to Y'shua at night. And he brought with him spices of myrrh and of aloe, about one hundred pints.

Mark 15:26 – "This is the king of the Jews," but does not include Y'shua by name.

Luke 23:38 adds details that Matthew and Mark leave out: "DIN AP K TABA D'KTIB AIL MENEH (and there was also an inscription that was written above him)"; "YONIT W'RAHOMIYT W'AI BRIYT (in Greek Roman and HEBREW)"; "HANA MALK D'YEHUDIYA (this is the king of the Jews)." Luke does not mention Y'shua by name.

John, however, references Y'shua directly and includes Nazareth in the tag. In Hebrew, this would appear as: "Y'shua Hanozri Wumelech HaYehudim." John is the only one who transliterates the Hebrew portion of the sign literally. As with Luke, John also states the sign is "in Greek, Roman and Hebrew" (aibriyt) but he puts "Hebrew" first, meaning this is the part of the sign that catches his attention. John turns the Hebrew into Aramaic by adding the dalet proclitic (d'Yehudiya) that Hebrew does not have. He also drops the definite article ha, which Hebrew has but Aramaic does not. Then he changes the plural ending of Yehudim to Aramaic Yehudiya. Technically, it's a very minor transposition from one dialect to another, almost like an "accent." Here is where it is fair to say that all Aramaic versions are targumming from Hebrew script and language as recorded in the Peshitta. We have seen before where one Aramaic word in a dialect (like Matthew's exclusive use of aurayta for Torah instead of namusa everywhere else) is interpreted in another. Other times both Hebrew and Aramaic names for the same place (Golgotha, Gabbatha--see esp. John 19:13) or titles (Rabbuli or Rabboni) are used to make the point very clear to Aramaic readership who use Hebrew liturgically. Here aibriyt means Hebrew literally, not dialektos Hebraidi as the Greek NT and church fathers sometimes designated Aramaic in "Hebrew" style script. Here Yochanan records the Hebrew sign as having an acrostic above Y'shua's head that spells "YHWH," the first letter of each word. This is why the authorities, who were very acquainted with Hebrew prayer and poetry, were very upset and wanted Pilate to amend the sign. But the message is clear: the Spirit of Mashiyach is YHWH.

223 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "they divide my clothes among themselves and throw dice for my garments." Psalm 22:18 (19 JPS) Psalm 22 contains nearly a dozen Messianic prophecies.

224 Not as in "behold the mother of Elohim" but that John would care for Y'shua's mother, and so he takes her with him.

225 Most popular translations say "preparation day" but this is not how Yochanan reads in the original Aramaic. The word erubata refers to the closing or setting of the day, derived from Hebrew ereb. It is only by assuming the execution day to be a Friday that one would also make the wrong assumption that afternoon was a preparation day, and this crept into early Christian imagination and interpretation of their texts. For more information on erubata, see the footnote for Luke 23:54.

40. And they took the body of Y'shua and bound it in linen and with the spices, as is the custom for the Yehudeans when they bury. 41. Now there was a garden in that place that Y'shua was executed in, And in that garden a new tomb that a man had not yet been laid in it. 42. And they placed Y'shua there because the (Annual) Shabbat was turning over<sup>229</sup> and the tomb was near.

1. On the first of the week, in the morning while it was dark, Maryam of Magdala came to the tomb and saw that the stone was removed from the grave. 2. And she ran and came to Shimon Keefa and to the other disciple whom Y'shua had loved and she told them that, "They have taken our Master from that tomb, and I<sup>230</sup> do not know where they have laid him." 3. Shimon and that other disciple went out and came to the tomb. 4. And both of them were running together, but that other disciple ran in front of Shimon and arrived at the tomb first. 5. And he peeked in and saw the linen lying there, but he did not enter. 6. And Shimon came after him and entered into the tomb, and saw the linen lying there. 7. And the burial cloth, that which had been wrapped around his head, not with the linen but being folded and placed aside in a certain place. 8. Then that disciple who arrived at the tomb first also entered and saw and believed.<sup>231</sup> 9. For they had not yet understood the Scripture that he was to rise from the dead. 10. And those disciples went away again to their place. 11. But Maryam was standing at the tomb and weeping, and while she wept she peeked in the grave. 12. And she saw two Messengers clothed in white who were sitting, one at his pillow and one at the foot of the bed, where the body of Y'shua had lain. 13. And they said to her, "Woman, why do you weep?" She said to them, "Because they have taken my Master and I do not know where they have laid him." 14. She said this and she turned her head around and saw Y'shua standing behind her. And she did not know that it was Y'shua. 15. Y'shua said to her, "Woman, why do you weep and whom do you seek?" But she thought that he was the gardener<sup>232</sup> and she said to him, "If you have taken my Master, tell me where you have laid him. I will go and take him. 16. Y'shua said to her, "Maryam." And she turned around fully and said to him in Hebrew, "Rabbuli!" which means Teacher. 17. Y'shua said to her, "Do not touch me, for I have not yet ascended to my Father. But go to my brothers and tell them that I ascend to my Father and your Father and my Elohim and your Elohim."<sup>233</sup> 18. Then Maryam of Magdala came and declared to the disciples that she had seen our Master, and these things that he had told her. 19. Now when it was evening<sup>234</sup> on that day, the first of the week, the doors were shut where the disciples were, because of the disciples' fear of the Yehudeans, Y'shua came and stood among them and said to them, "Peace be with you." 20. He said this and showed them his hands and his side and the disciples rejoiced that they had seen our Master. 21. And Y'shua said to them again, "Peace be with you. As my Father has sent me, I also send you."

229 The word ealaa occurs once in the Aramaic NT. Another rare term here, howat (see footnote on Yochanan 19:14), is a usage that is unique to Yochanan's original writing style. The literal phrase is metil (because) d'shabta (that Shabbat that was) ealaa (brought/entered) howat (was turning). Halachically speaking, Torah requires burial on the same day as execution which overrode the requirement to rest on Shabbat (Deuteronomy 21:21-23). The close proximity of Joseph's tomb reduced the work and allowed time to wash, change clothes, and be clean before sunset that day (Leviticus 11:35-39).

230 A question arises: Why would Greek translators change this to "we" when the Aramaic unambiguously reads I? Was this a small oversight or were translators trying to "fix" the text to prove a sunrise Sunday resurrection? See When was the Crucifixion? and When was the Resurrection? in Appendix.

231 Doesn't it make you wonder what he saw inside the tomb that caused him to believe? In verse 7, the burial cloth was found "placed aside in a certain place", or maybe that the linen and the burial cloth had not been unwrapped, but the body was missing?

232 Ironically, a rabbinic parody known as the toldot Yeshu, perhaps as early as the Third Century, has the tale of a gardener who hid the "body" of Y'shua as a way to "fake" the resurrection. Obviously in order to do so, they affirmed the charge in Matthew that some Jews would say the disciples stole the body, but they were undoubtedly "inspired" by this verse.

233 "My Elohim and your Elohim" proves that this is the reanimated nefesh of Y'shua, the "human side" that is speaking.

234 The first erev/ramsha is distinguished from the second; the first belongs to the day as this "evening," and the second to the night, e.g. Mark 13:35. Therefore, this is referring literally to late afternoon on the first day of the week, (Sunday).

22. And when he said these things, he breathed<sup>235</sup> on them and said to them, "Receive the Ruach haKodesh. 23. If you forgive a man's sins, they will be forgiven. And if you retain the sins of a man, they will be retained." 24. Now Tooma, one of the twelve, he who was called the Twin, was not there with them when Y'shua came. 25. And the disciples told him, "We have seen our Master!" But he said to them, "Unless I see the places of the nails in his hands and I place my fingers in them, and I stretch forth my hand in his side, I will not believe." 26. And after eight days the disciples were again inside. And Tooma was with them and Y'shua came while the doors were locked and stood in the midst and said to them, "Peace be with you." 27. And he said to Tooma, "Place your finger here and see my hands and place your hand and stretch it in my side and do not be an unbeliever, but a believer." 28. And Tooma answered and said to him, "My Master and my Elohim!" 29. Y'shua said to him, "Now that you have seen me, you have believed. Blessed are those who do not see me and believe." 30. Now Y'shua did many other miracles before his disciples that are not written in this book. 31. Indeed, these things are but written that you might believe that Y'shua is the Mashiyach, the Son of Elohim, and when you believe you might have in his name life that is eternal.

Chapter 21

1. After these things Y'shua revealed himself again to his disciples by the sea of Tiberius. Now he appeared in this way: 2. There were together Shimon Keefa and Tooma, who is called the Twin,<sup>236</sup> and Nathaniel (Bar-Tulmay), who was from Qatneh of Galeela, and the sons of Zawdee, and two others of the disciples. 3. Shimon Keefa said to them, "I go to catch fish." They said to him, "We will also come with you." And they departed and embarked into a ship. And during that night they did not catch anything. 4. And when it became morning, Y'shua stood at the edge of the sea, and the disciples did not realize that it was Y'shua. 5. And Y'shua said to them, "Children, do you have something to eat?" They said "No!" to him. 6. He said to them, "Cast your net from the right side of the ship and you will find." And they cast it and they were not able to drag the net in from the multitude of fish that it had caught. 7. And that disciple whom Y'shua had loved said to Keefa, "This man is our Master!" And when Shimon heard<sup>237</sup> that it was our Master, he took his garment and girded his loins, because he was naked, and threw himself into the sea that he might come to Y'shua. 8. But the other disciples came by boat for they were not very far from the land, only but about two hundred cubits, and they were dragging that net of fish.

235 A very beautiful picture that brings us back to Genesis 2:7 where YHWH breathed (naphach) a spirit (neshama) into man. Nepakh in this verse is the equivalent Aramaic term. While Y'shua is breathing the Ruach haKodesh on his disciples he is also teaching the imperative of forgiving a man's sins. Practicing acts of righteousness increases the power and frequency of the Ruach haKodesh working in our lives. In Luke 10:17 the Ruach haKodesh empowered them in such a way that, "even demons were subject to us by Your name." The Seventy Elders of Israel (Numbers 11:25) received the Ruach haKodesh and "when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, and did not (yasaph) cease." Isaiah 42:5 says YHWH gives, "breath (neshama) unto the people and a spirit (ruach)" which means that every one of us has been created with the potential to receive the Ruach haKodesh and become empowered in the things of the Kingdom of Heaven. Isaiah 44:3 says He will pour His "Spirit upon your seed" a promise given to Israel that is to be ministered to all the nations of the earth. Yochanan 7:39 says, "For the Spirit was not yet given because Y'shua was not yet glorified" is a reference to Acts 2:4 when a plethora of spiritual gifts enabled miracles, signs, and acts of power to further the Kingdom of Heaven. In Yochanan 14:12 Y'shua says, "Amen, amen I say to you that whoever believes in me, these works that I do, he will do also, and more than these he will do because I go to the Father." Please see footnote on Acts 28:31. The promises and work of the Ruach haKodesh are activated by Set Apart obedience rather than any religious or theological formulae. In Isaiah 63:10 YHWH says, "But they rebelled, and grieved His holy spirit; therefore He became their enemy, He Himself fought against them." In Yochanan 11:40 Y'shua says, "if you believe you will see the glory of Elohim" and in nearly 2000 years the Ruach haKodesh has not changed.

236 Taama means "Twin," and sounds similar to tooma; this wordplay is absent in Greek translations. (PY).

237 Wordplay between "Shimon" (Keefa) and "shema" (hear), appearing very close to one another. (PY).

9. When they had come up onto the land they saw burning coals, and placed fish and placed bread upon them. 10. Y'shua said to them, "Bring some of those, now that you have caught fish." 11. And Shimon Keefa embarked and dragged the net to land, being full of one hundred and fifty and three great fish.<sup>238</sup> And with all this weight, that net was not torn. 12. Y'shua said to them, "Come dine." Not one of the disciples did dare to ask him who he was, for they had known that he was our Master. 13. And Y'shua drew near and took the bread and fish and gave to them. 14. This was the third time that Y'shua had appeared to his disciples after he had risen from the grave. 15. Now after they had dined, Y'shua said to Shimon Keefa, "Shimon, son of Yonah, do you love me more than these?"<sup>239</sup> He said to him, "Yes my Master you know that I love you." He said to him, "Tend my lambs for me."<sup>240</sup> 16. He said again to him the second time, "Shimon son of Yonah, do you love me?" He said to him, "Yes my Master. You know that I love you." Y'shua said to him, "Tend my sheep for me." 17. He said the third time to him, "Shimon son of Yonah, do you love me?" And Keefa was sad that he said the third time<sup>241</sup> to him, "Do you love me?" And he said to him, "My Master, you understand everything. You know that I love you." Y'shua said to him, "Tend my ewes<sup>242</sup> for me. 18. Amen, amen I say to you that when you were a boy, you had girded your loins yourself and had walked to wherever you wanted. But when you grow old, you stretch out your hands and another will dress you (as a servant), and will conduct you to where you do not want." 19. And this he said that he might show by what death he would glorify Elohim. And after he said these things to him, "Come follow me." 20. And Shimon Keefa turned and saw the disciple who followed him whom Y'shua had loved, the one who had fallen upon the breast of Y'shua during the supper, and said, "My Master, who will betray you?" 21. This man he saw when Keefa said to Y'shua, "My Master, and what of this man?" 22. Y'shua said to him, "What is it to you if I desire that this man remain until I return? You come and follow me." 23. And this saying went out among the Brothers that that disciple would not die. But Y'shua did not say that he would not die; rather, "If I desire that this man remain until I return, what is it to you?" 24. This is the disciple who testified about all these things and wrote them and we know that his testimony is true. 25. And there are many other things that Y'shua did, which if those were written one by one, not even the world as I suppose would be sufficiently large enough for the books that would be written.

238 How significant is 153 great fish? Each Hebrew letter has a corresponding number (gematriya value), for example 153 is the gematria, the numeric value of the word Bezelel, the name of the man who built the Ark of the Covenant and whose name means "in the shadow of El". HaPesach (the Passover) also adds up to 153. The "17th triangular number" adds up to 153 (start a pyramid at the top with number 1, next level 1 and 2, next level 1,2, and 3, and so on until your base has 17 units and the total for all those units is 153), some then view this symbolically as 10 (Commandments) and 7 (Shabbat or Completion) signifying those who keep the Commandments and have entered into Shabbat according to the completed work of Mashiyach, and there are plenty more ideas and variations. However, the context of Yochanan 21 is salvation and redemption of YHWH's people, there are beautiful, tender and convicting verses in this chapter that speak of loving and tending to YHWH's people, those who are pressing into the Kingdom of Heaven. Far beyond the scope of our religious identities of Judaism, or Christianity, or Messianic, or Hebraic denominationalism, or YHWH's Jewish or Greek or Aramean or black or white peoples, is His universal Kingdom of Heaven and the redemption He has brought through Mashiyach. The number of 153 great fish, points to the greatest of redemptions, in an elegant and profound way it points to, you, who are reading and studying this Aramaic English New Testament Bible. A massive amount of research has uncovered the sequence of the ancient Hebrew calendar and priesthood as they relate to our modern times, 153 is the story of the final generation before the return of Mashiyach the details of which are recorded in the publication Wheel of Stars.

239 Aramaic word rakhem (love) can refer to all forms of love and affection, from friend, to brother, and all the way up to loving obedience to a master or king. Y'shua asks this question of Keefa three times in part to "counteract" the three denials, but also to ensure that Keefa understands the kind of love Y'shua is looking for: "Will you Keefa follow me no matter what, when it is hard and painful and regardless of personal sacrifice?" The rakhem of loving obedience is what is meant here moreso than casual friendship.

240 Khabouris includes Y'shua's name directly as the speaker whereas 1905 does not, but it is not in doubt there either. Khabouris reading is retained in the Aramaic.

241 Khabouris has "again the third" rather than 1905's "the third." Khabouris reading is adopted in the Aramaic.

242 Aramaic says "ewes" (female sheep) rather than the Greek's male sheep twice or a mixed un-differentiated group of sheep (probaton). The message in Aramaic is that Y'shua lovingly desires that both his male and female followers are nurtured by the leaders who come after him.

Chapter 1

1. I wrote the former book, O Tawpeela, concerning all those (things) that our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach began to do and to teach. 2. Up until that day in which he was taken up after he had commanded the Shlichim,<sup>1</sup> those whom he had chosen by the Ruach haKodesh. 3. Those who also to whom he revealed himself alive after he had suffered. With numerous signs for forty days<sup>2</sup> he was being seen by them, and he spoke concerning the Kingdom of Elohim. 4. And while he ate bread<sup>3</sup> with them, he commanded them that, "You should not depart from Urishlim, but they should wait for the promise of the Father, He whom you have heard about from me. 5. For Yochanan immersed with water, and you will be immersed by the Ruach haKodesh not after many days." 6. Now while they (were) assembled they asked him and said to him, "Our Master, if at this time will you restore the Kingdom to Israel?" 7. He said to them, "This is not yours to know the time or those times that the Father has placed (them) in the authority of His Person.<sup>4</sup> 8. But when the Ruach haKodesh comes upon you, you will receive power, and you will be witnesses for me in Urishlim and in all Yehuda, and also among the Samaritans and to the ends of the earth." 9. And after these (things), he spoke while they watched him. He was taken up and a cloud received him and he was hidden from their eyes. 10. And while they were staring into heaven as he was departing, two men were found standing near them clothed in white. 11. And they said to them, Galilean men, why are you standing and staring into heaven? This Y'shua who was taken up from you to heaven, likewise he will come just as you have seen him who ascended into heaven. 12. And afterwards they returned to Urishlim from the mountain, which is called Of the House of Olives, which is on the side of Urishlim and distant from it seven furlongs.<sup>5</sup> 13. And after they entered, they went up into an upper room. (Those) that were staying in (her): Petros, and Yochanan, and Ya'akov, and Andraus, and Pelepos, and Tooma, and Mattai, and Bar-Tulmay, and Ya'akov Bar-Khalpai, and Shimon the zealot, and Yehud Bar-Ya'akov. 14. These, all of them, were steadfast in prayer<sup>6</sup> with one soul, and (with) the women with Maryam, (his) mother of Y'shua, and with his Brothers. 15. And among them in those days arose Shimon Keefa in the midst of the disciples there. Now there was a gathering of men, about a hundred and twenty, and he said, 16. Men, our brothers, it was right that the Scripture be fulfilled which said beforehand, The Ruach haKodesh, by the mouth of Dawid concerning Yehuda. He who was a guide to those who seized Y'shua. 17. Because he was numbered with us, and he had a portion in this ministry.<sup>7</sup> 18. This is he who obtained a field for himself from the reward of sin and fell upon his face on the ground and burst from his middle and poured out all his insides.<sup>8</sup>

1 Shlichim – "sent ones" or "emissaries" – sent to proclaim the Kingdom of Elohim and represent the Name of YHWH and His Mashiyach.

2 Y'shua began appearing the 3rd day after his death and then forty days thereafter. Therefore, a total of only seven days remains from Mashiyach's ascension, until the Feast of Shavuot.

3 See The Ex-Nihilo (Out of Nothing) Theory in Appendix.

4 Here the Aramaic naphshah is rendered as "Person." Naphshah is usually rendered as "soul/self" when relating to humans. The Hebrew cognate, nefesh, also specifically refers to the life-force in humans and animals (Genesis 2:7). When referring to YHWH, however, the majority use in Aramaic is the word parsopa, which is more accurately linked to the divine presence or Shekhinah. The possibility here of referring to "YHWH's soul" as this verse implies, is nonetheless very intriguing.

5 Greek reads "Sabbaton echo hodos," or "a Sabbath day's journey" rather than "seven furlongs." Yoseph ben Matthias, a.k.a., Josephus (The Jewish War, 5.2.3) also notes the distance between Mt. Olives and Yerushalayim, indicating the disciples lived very close to the Temple in this manner: "These (Roman) legions had orders to encamp at the distance of six furlongs from Jerusalem, at the mount called the Mount of Olives which lies over against the city on the east side, and is parted from it by a deep valley, interposed between them, which is named Cedron." Greek readers would not likely equate seven furlongs to the maximum distance of travel permitted on Shabbat, see Exodus 16:29. The Shabbat day's journey, i'chum, points to how time is to be invested on Shabbat, in local participation rather than travel. Six days we go, but on Shabbat we stay and rest in YHWH, along with those He has gathered. We welcome the Ruach haKodesh as a Chavurah (close knit people), a Mishpocah (family), a Kedoshim (set-apart people) who take joy together with the Spirit of YHWH and His Mashiyach.

The Shabbat is a forever remembrance. The "Shabbat day's journey" was beautifully recorded here in Greek for non-Jewish followers of Mashiach. Throughout the Book of Acts, we read of multitudes of non-Jewish followers of Y'shua worshipping on Shabbat with Jewish followers, and this continued for nearly 400 years, although on a much smaller scale. In the latter part of the First Century, the Hellenized Christian church began to take root and replace with Sunday worship the Shabbat that Y'shua and the Shlichim lovingly and devotedly observed. Early in the Second Century, all-Gentile churches with Gentile motif were being established, thus making the "Sabbath day's journey" irrelevant among a majority of Christians.

7 Fulfilling the Messianic prophecy, "Even my close friend, on whom I relied, who shared my table, has turned against me" Psalm 41:9.

8 1905 has an extra male pronoun that has no impact on the way the verse reads. Khabouris lacks this word, hano.

19. And this became known to all who lived in Urishlim, and thus that field was called, in the tongue<sup>9</sup> of the area, Khagel-Dema. That is interpreted, the field of blood. 20. For it is written in the book of Psalms that, Let his dwelling be desolate, and let not one be a dweller in it,<sup>10</sup> and let another take his ministry.<sup>11</sup> 21. It is right, therefore, that one from these men who were among us during that whole time in which our Master Y'shua entered among us and went out. 22. Who went out from the immersion of Yochanan, until the day that he was taken up from our presence, that he may be with us a witness of his resurrection. 23. And they caused two to stand, Yosip who was called Bar-Shaba, and Matya who was named Yostos.<sup>12</sup> 24. And then they prayed, and said, "You Master YHWH<sup>13</sup> know that which is in the hearts of all. Reveal one, the one that You have chosen from these, the two of them. 25. That he might receive a portion of the ministry and the office of emissary from which Yehuda departed, that he might go to (in) his place." 26. And they cast lots, and it fell upon Matya, and he was numbered among (with) the eleven Shlichim.

Chapter 2

1. And after the (fifty) days of Shavuot (Pentecost)<sup>14</sup> were fulfilled,<sup>15</sup> all were assembled as one. 2. All of a sudden there was a sound from heaven like a roaring wind<sup>16</sup> and all that House<sup>17</sup> in which they were sitting was filled. 3. And (it) appeared to them like tongues divided, and fire sat upon every one of them. 4. And all of them were filled with the Ruach haKodesh, and they were compelled to speak in different tongues,<sup>18</sup> just as the Spirit had given them to speak. 5. Now there were men who were living in Urishlim who feared Elohim - Jews from all nations that are under heaven. 6. And when that sound occurred, all the people gathered and were disturbed because they were hearing each man among them who were speaking in their own language. 7. Now they were astonished, all of them, and wondered while they were saying one-to-another, "Can't grasp it!" These, all of them who are speaking, are Galileans. 8. "How do we hear, we each man the tongue in which we were born?" 9. Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and those who dwell in Beth-Nahrin, and Cappadocians, and those from the areas of Pontus, and of Asia. 10. And those from the areas of Phrygia, and of Pamphylia, and of Egypt, and of the areas of Libya that are near to Cyrene, and those who have come from Rome - Jews and proselytes. 11. And those from Crete, and Arabians. "Behold we are hearing from them that they are proclaiming the wonders of Elohim in our language!"<sup>19</sup> 12. And they were astonished, and all of them were amazed while saying one-to-another, "What's happening?"

<sup>12</sup> Bar-Shaba means "son of the promise" and Matya means "gift of YHWH"! Put together we have "the son of promise is the gift of YHWH," similar coding as in the opening chapters of Luke's previous book.

<sup>13</sup> The early talmidim called on the Name of YHWH in prayer; however, this was obscured when generic Greek terms were implemented to replace the Personal and Covenant Name of YHWH. This was done in violation of the Commandments: Do not add to, nor take away from the Word D'varim/Deut. 4:2 and do not take the Name of YHWH in vain, Sh'mot 20:7. Rabbinical and Christian tradition has literally made void the Name of YHWH. However, the practice of calling on the Name of YHWH in both personal and congregational prayer is rapidly being restored among those with the love of the Truth.

<sup>14</sup> The loan word pentaqostia (fiftieth day) appears here and in 1 Corinthians 16:8. Tradition has it that Luke translated for Paul, who would have used this term for the benefit of a Gentile audience. Luke's upbringing in Syrian Antioch prepared him for toggling between Semitic and Gentile terminology. On the other hand, in Israel where the Gospels originated, Aramaic paskha, the direct cognate of pesach, was being used for "Passover" and was later loaned into Greek. Loanwords going either from Aramaic into Greek or vice versa are the effect of this time when Semitic culture was dominated by Greco-Roman power. Without loanwords, the Peshitta could not be authentic.

<sup>15</sup> This means, "after the days counting the Omer were fulfilled." The English could be misconstrued to mean after the days of the feast itself were completed. However, Aramaic literally reads "after the days of pentaqostia were fulfilled" or, "after the 50 day period was reached." "Pentecost" is used here as both a technical term to refer to the feast and a time marker. Also the actual day was Shabbat (Saturday) morning, not Sunday as many Christians assume. The last day of the omer count ended at sunset on Friday, May 24th in the year 30 CE, so the disciples were “assembled as one” on the following morning after Shavuot ended, when the Ruach haKodesh came.

16 Or “groaning spirit.”

17 “House” here refers to the Temple; see Matthew 12:4; 21:13; Luke 2:49; John 2:16, 17, not the “upper room” of 1:13. It is the Day of Shavuot; Y’shua’s disciples are gathered together in the Father’s House. Luke 24:53 states the disciples were “at all times in the temple.” The Ruach haKodesh is openly poured out in full view of those in attendance at the Temple, not in some hidden place. Y’shua was known to visit the Temple daily. In the early mornings he taught those who came to learn of the Kingdom of Elohaim; see Luke 21:36-38.

18 The universal remedy to the confusion of language at Babel, Genesis 11:9, is to learn the language of the Spirit that unifies all souls in righteousness.

19 All the tongues listed here are man-made; these are not angelic or heavenly. The gift of angelic tongues, the issue of genuineness aside, cannot be linked to this event in Acts 2 or to the Shavuot-Pentecost holiday. Please see footnotes on 2:17, Yochanan 20:22, and Founders of the all Gentile Church: Tertullian 155-230 CE in Appendix.

13. But others were mocking them while saying, “These (men) drank new wine and have become drunk!” 14. Afterwards, Shimon Keefa stood up among the eleven Shlichim and lifted up his voice and said to them, “Men, Jews, and all who dwell in Urishlim. Let this be known to you, and pay attention to my words. 15. For (it is) not as you think (that) these (men) are drunk, for behold, it is now (only) until the third hour. 16. But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Yoel. 17. Elohim said, In later days<sup>20</sup> it will be (that) I will pour out my Ruach upon all flesh, and your sons will prophesy and your daughters and your young men will see visions, and your elders will dream dreams. 18. And upon my servants and upon handmaids I will pour out my Ruach in those days. And they will prophesy. 19. And I will cause signs in heaven and mighty deeds upon the earth: blood, and fire, and columns of smoke, 20. the sun will be changed into darkness and the moon into blood before the coming of the great and awesome day of Master YHWH. 21. And it will be (that) all who call (on) the name of Master YHWH will be saved.<sup>21</sup> 22. Men, sons of Israel, listen to these words Y’shua the Nazarene, a man, who by Elohim was shown to you with miracles and with signs and with acts of power, those that Elohim did among you by his hand as you know. 23. This (man), who was Set Apart for this, by the foreknowledge and will of Elohim, you delivered into the hands of the people who were without Elohim and you nailed upon a stake and killed! 24. But Elohim loosed the cords<sup>22</sup> of Sheol and raised him because it was not possible that he be held in Sheol. 25. For Dawid spoke concerning him, I foresaw my Master, for at all times he (is) at my right hand so that I will not be moved. 26. Because of this my heart rejoices and my praise flourishes and also my body dwells in hope. 27. Because you will not leave my soul in Sheol, and neither will you allow<sup>23</sup> your Righteous One<sup>24</sup> to see corruption.<sup>25</sup> 28. You have revealed the road of life to me, You will fill me with gladness with your presence.<sup>26</sup> 29. Men, our brothers, allow (me) to speak boldly<sup>27</sup> with you concerning the Patriarch Dawid, who is dead and also buried, and whose grave is with us until today. 30. For he was a prophet, and he had known that oaths that Elohim had sworn to him, that, of the fruit of your loins I will establish (a king) upon your throne.<sup>28</sup> 31. And he foresaw and spoke concerning the resurrection of the Mashiyach, that he was not left in Sheol, nor did his body<sup>29</sup> see corruption. 32. This Y’shua Elohim raised, and we (are) all of his witnesses. 33. And this is he who is exalted at the right hand of Elohim, and received the promise from the Father concerning the Ruach haKodesh. And he has poured out this gift, which behold you see and you hear. 34. For it was not (that) Dawid did ascend into Heaven, because he said, ‘Master YHWH said to my Master, sit (yourself) at my right hand. 35. Until I place your enemies (as) a footstool for your feet.’<sup>30</sup> 36. Truly therefore let all of the house of Israel know that Master YHWH has made<sup>31</sup> this Y’shua whom you have crucified both Elohim and Mashiyach.” 37. And when they heard these things they were touched in their hearts, and they said to Shimon and to the rest of the Shlichim, “What should we do, our brothers?”

20 The later (last or latter) days, “acharit hayamim” in Hebrew, is the season when “the Day of YHWH” will be fulfilled. The acharit hayamim and Day of YHWH references prophecies regarding Mashiyach ben David. Shimon Keefa assumed he was witnessing the acharit hayamim since Y’shua had overtly fulfilled the prophecies of Mashiyach ben Yosef (the suffering servant), but he would have had no idea when Mashiyach would return as Mashiyach ben David to fulfill the many elements spoken of by Joel and the other Prophets of YHWH. Please see footnote on Acts 28:28

21 Joel 3:1-5 (2:28-32). See Salvation in Appendix.

23 Literally – “Give.”

24 “Khasaykh” has been mistranslated in Greek as “your Holy One.” The word more closely resembles the English “Pious, Pure, Innocent” – as does the Hebrew original of Psalm 16 which Shimon here quotes – the Hebrew word “Khesidakh” being the cognate of Aramaic in this verse. (PY).

25 Here “Khebla” means “corruption” – in contrast with verse 24. (PY). Furthermore, the double exploitation of a word’s meaning occurring in the same sentence is a sure sign of compositional Aramaic, something that is lost in translation. (AR).

26 Psalm 16:8-11

27 Literally – “With open eyes.” (PY). Please see footnote on Acts 28:31.

28 There is a wordplay between “Karsakh” (Your loins) and “Kursaykh” (Your throne). (PY).

29 Literally – “His corpse.” (PY).

30 Psalm 110:1

31 “Has made” meaning from Y’shua’s birth; one of the clearest statements in the NT that Y’shua had occurrences of human and divine natures co-existing within him. The human side’s total obedience to YHWH contributed to Y’shua qualifying as haMashiyach; the fact that the Ruach haKodesh (another name for YHWH), dwelled inside Y’shua, also establishes Y’shua as the image of YHWH.

38. Shimon said to them, “Repent and be immersed<sup>32</sup> each of you in the name of Master YHWH-Y’shua<sup>33</sup> for the forgiveness of sins, that you may receive the gift of the Ruach haKodesh. 39. For to you was the promise, and to your children, and to all those who are far away whom Elohim will call. 40. And with many other words he would witness to them and he would beseech them while saying, Save (yourselves) from this perverse generation.” 41. And some of them readily received his word and believed and were immersed. And there were added in that day about three thousand souls. 42. And they were steadfast in their teaching of the Shlichim and they were fellowshiping in prayer<sup>34</sup> and in the breaking of bread. 43. And fear came to every soul, and signs and many mighty deeds occurred by the hands of the Shlichim in Urishlim. 44. And all those who had believed as one, and everything that they had were held in common. 45. And those who had a possession would sell it and divide it to each one according to whatever was in need. 46. And everyday they were steadfast in the temple<sup>35</sup> with one soul. And at home they were breaking loaves of bread. And while they were receiving food, and rejoicing in the simplicity of their hearts, 47. they were praising Elohim while finding favor<sup>36</sup> before all the people. And everyday our Master (Y’shua) would add to those who lived among the congregation.

Chapter 3

1. And it happened that while Shimon Keefa and Yochanan were going up to the temple together at the time of prayer, of the ninth hour,<sup>37</sup> 2. and behold a certain man who (was) lame from the womb (of) his mother these men were carrying who were accustomed to bringing and placing him at the gate of the temple, which was called Beautiful, that he might request alms from those who were entering the temple. 3. When this man saw Shimon and Yochanan entering the temple, he was pleading with them to give him alms. 4. Shimon and Yochanan stared at him and they said to him, “Stare at us!” 5. And he stared at them while he was expecting to receive something from them. 6. Shimon said to him, “Gold and silver I have not, but that which I have I will give to you in the name of Y’shua the Mashiyach the Nazarene.<sup>38</sup> Rise up and walk!” 7. And he took him by his right hand and raised him up. And at that moment his feet and his ankles were established. 8. And he leaped up (and) stood and walked and entered with them into the temple while walking and leaping and praising Elohim.<sup>39</sup> 9. And all the people saw him (while) walking and praising Elohim. 10. And they recognized that he was that vagrant who would sit all day and ask for alms at the gate that was called Beautiful. And they were filled with amazement and wonder concerning the thing that happened. 11. And while he was holding Shimon and Yochanan, all the people ran while marveling to them to the porch, which was called Solomon’s.

32 Shimon was preaching from the steps of the Temple in Jerusalem. Just below him were hundreds of mikveh (immersion) baths. Both the steps he spoke from and the baths are visible today outside the Western Wall. In Peter’s day baptism wasn’t an act of conversion from one religion to another, but an act of purification from sin. A person repented of their sin, prayed, and then entered into the waters of the mikveh to symbolize atonement.

33 MarYah and Y’shua appear next to one another! Therefore, Keefa is saying that the divine part of Y’shua and YHWH are one and the same; he is referring to Him in both ways. It is an example of how the Name of the Father and the Son is one and the same, or they could not possibly be combined in this matter. Please see the footnote in Yochanan 17:11.

34 See Divine Communication in Appendix.

35 Please see footnote for Luke 24:53.

36 Favor is one of many words that conveys the spiritual elegance and beauty that we share among ourselves and between our Heavenly Father and His Mashiyach. In the Hebrew Scriptures, chen (grace and favor), techinna (grace and supplication), chanan (grace and mercy), ratsown (favor and acceptance), tov (goodness and favor), yatab (wellness and favor), chesed (mercy, kindness and favor), shalom (peace, wellness, favor), racham (mercy, compassion, favor) and chamal (pity and favor) are some of the ways this favor is conveyed. Finding favor before all people refers to the inner spirituality of relationship. When the Good News came to Israel it was a relationship. When it went to Greece it was a philosophy. It was an organization in Rome and in Europe, it became a culture. Finally, when it went to America it became a business. Through the Ruach haKodesh we can take the focus off ourselves and material things and return to a Faith based relationship with YHWH. “They shall be My people, and I will be their Elohim, in truth and in righteousness” Zechariah 8:8.

37 Ninth hour, 3 PM or the time of the evening sacrifice. This is the same hour that Y’shua died (Matt 27:46).

38 In the First Century there were many who made claims of being Mashiach, and Y'shua was also a common name. By adding the name of the small village "Nazraya" from where he resided, there was no confusion or doubt as to who was being referenced. Y'shua taught his followers that they were kept by the power of the Name of YHWH, not his own name (John 17:11). The name of Y'shua functions as an affirmation of faith that "YHWH is Salvation," and that he is YHWH's Mashiach, and "from Nazraya" provides concise identity.

39 Notice praise goes to Elohim (YHWH), because prayer and thanks is offered to YHWH through the vessel whom He chose to bring salvation. But salvation is ultimately from YHWH. No one believes they start the engine of their vehicle and it drives them to their destination; no one confuses whether a car or engine can do everything on its own merits. It is YHWH who provides Salvation, but it is Y'shua who is the "vehicle" whereby this is accomplished.

12. And when Shimon saw (it), he answered and said to them, “Men,<sup>40</sup> sons of Israel, why are you in wonder at this (man) or at us? Why do you stare at us, as if it is by our own strength or by our authority we did this that this (man) might walk? 13. The Elohim of Awraham and of Yitz’chak and of Ya’akov, the Elohim of our forefathers<sup>41</sup> has glorified His Son. He, Y’shua, whom you delivered up and denied before the face of Peelatos after he saw it fitting to let him go. 14. But you denied the Set Apart and Just, and you requested for yourselves a murderous man to be given to you. 15. And that Prince of Life you killed<sup>42</sup> whom Elohim raised from the dead, and we are all of us his witnesses. 16. And in the faith of His name,<sup>43</sup> this man that you see and know you, He has strengthened and healed. And the faith that is in him has given him this wholeness before all of you. 17. But now our Brothers I know that you did this in ignorance, as did your leaders.<sup>44</sup> 18. And Elohim, according to that which beforehand He preached by the mouths of all the prophets, that His Mashiyach would suffer has fulfilled (it) in this manner. 19. Repent, therefore, and be turned so that your sins be blotted out and times of rest come to you from before the presence of Master YHWH. 20. And He sent to you that which He had prepared for you, the Mashiyach Y’shua, 21. Whom it is necessary for Heaven to receive until the fullness of the times of all these (things) that Elohim spoke by the mouth of His Set Apart prophets of old.<sup>45</sup> 22. For Moshe said (that) a prophet will raise up for you from Master YHWH from your brothers. Hear him like me in everything that he speaks to you, 23. and it will be (that) every soul which does not hear that prophet, that soul will perish from his people.<sup>46</sup> 24. And the prophets, all of them, Shmuel and those who were after him, spoke and preached concerning those days. 25. You are the sons of the prophets and of the covenant, that which Elohim placed on our forefathers when He said to Awraham (that), in your seed all the tribes of the earth will be blessed.<sup>47</sup> 26. First appointed to you, Elohim sent His Son blessing you if you turn and repent from your evils.”

Chapter 4

1. And while they were speaking these words to the people, the priests and the Sadducees and the leaders of the temple rose against them. 2. (While) they were being furious at them, because they taught the people concerning the resurrection by the Mashiyach, (that is) from the dead. 3. And they laid hands upon them and they watched over them till the next day, because evening (it) was drawing near. 4. And many who were hearing the words were believing them, and they were about five thousand men in number. 5. And on the next day, the leaders and the elders and the scribes assembled, 6. and also Khanan the High Priest and Qayapa and Yochanan and Alexandros and those who were from the line<sup>48</sup> of chief priests. 7. And after they had placed them in the midst, they were asking them, “By which power or by what name have you done this?”

---

40 The word gowra can also mean “guardians” or “protectors,” which would be appropriate given the context of this passage. There are other Aramaic terms that could have been used that mean “men” if this were intended. By using “gowra, sons of Israel” there comes a double phraseology; “protectors of the country, sons of Israel.”

41 Exodus 3:6, 15

42 This quote points to the human being side of Mashiyach, although the mark of him being Mashiyach is the indwelling of the Spirit of YHWH. The human side of Mashiyach or Mari/Maran refers to the human side of Y’shua that voluntarily submits to YHWH.

43 The faith of His name is the spiritual empowerment that lives within the Name of YHWH. Isaiah 26:2 says, “Open ye the gates, that the righteous nation that keeps (shamar) the faithfulness (emunim) may enter in.” We enter into the faith of His name by loving YHWH our Elohim with all our heart, soul, and might. Our love is poured out to Him in obedience by keeping Covenant with Him and trusting what He has done for us in sending His Mashiyach. Y’shua said, “I have come in the Name of my Father” (Yochanan 5:43). Y’shua imparted the “faith of His name” into his disciples so we could also go forth and disciple others accordingly. Just saying the name of YHWH, or Y’shua or Jesus over someone is nothing but a religious incantation unless there are faith actions (Torah written on the heart) and relationship with YHWH behind it. His Name is a Universe. A Righteous and Wonderful and Just and Perfect Kingdom that lives inside His people.

45 A continuum of Justice from the very beginning of time (of old) through the Tanakh; Jeremiah 28:8; Ezekiel 38:17 and into the Ketuvim Netzarim is the prophetic authority of YHWH revealed to all who enter the Malchut (Kingdom of) Elohim (Luke 1:70; 1 Peter 1:10-12; Revelation 10:7). The office of Mashiach has always been predominate in the Malchut Elohim and the prophets of YHWH hold the keys to understanding and discerning this very fact.

8. Then Shimon Keefa was filled with the Ruach haKodesh and he said to them, “Leaders of the people and elders of the house of Israel, listen. 9. If we are judged today by you concerning the good thing that happened to the sick man, (that) by what means this (man) was healed, 10. let this be known to you and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Y’shua the Mashiyach, the Nazarene, he whom (you), executed on the stake, he whom Elohim raised from the dead, by him, by the same one, behold this (man) stands before you being whole! 11. This is the stone that you builders have rejected, and has become the head of the corner.<sup>49</sup> 12. And there is not salvation by another man<sup>50</sup> for there is not another name under heaven which is given to men by which it is proper to have life!”<sup>51</sup> 13. And when they heard the words of Shimon and of Yochanan, which they spoke boldly, they perceived that they knew not the books<sup>52</sup> and they were ignorant, and they marveled at them. And they recognized them that they were associated with Y’shua. 14. And they saw the lame man standing with them, he who had been healed, and they were not able to say anything against them. 15. Then they commanded that they remove them from their assembly, and were saying one-to-another, 16. What should we do to them, to these men? For behold that a visible sign has happened by their hands is known to all the dwellers of Urishlim, and we are not able to deny it! 17. But so that news does not spread among the people anymore, let us threaten them that they should not speak in this name again to anyone among the sons of men. 18. And they called them and commanded them that they should absolutely not speak or teach in the name of Y’shua. 19. Shimon Keefa and Yochanan answered and said to them, “If it is right before Elohim that we obey you more than Elohim, you judge! 20. For we are not able to not speak about that which we have seen and heard.” 21. And they threatened them and freed them for they found not a cause against them to place on their head,<sup>53</sup> because of the people. For everyone was glorifying Elohim for the thing that happened, 22. for that man in whom this sign of healing happened was more than forty years old! 23. And when they were freed, they went to their Brothers and related to them everything that the priests and elders had said. 24. And when they heard they raised their voice as one to Elohim. And they said, “Master YHWH you are Elohim, He who made heaven and earth and the seas and everything that is in them.<sup>54</sup> 25. And You are He who spoke through the Ruach haKodesh by the mouth of Dawid your servant: Why do the nations rage and the peoples plan worthless (things), 26. The kings of the earth have risen and rulers have deliberated as one against Master YHWH and against His Mashiyach.<sup>55</sup> 27. For truly in this city were gathered Herodus and Peelatos<sup>56</sup> with the Gentiles and the assembly of Israel against the Set Apart One, Your Son Y’shua, he whom You have anointed,

50 In other words, no other human can claim the title of Mashiyach, and only the true Mashiyach can assume the name of YHWH in Whom there is total power. The only man who was pierced with the Spirit of YHWH inside him (Zechariah 12:10) is the one who was conceived by the Ruach haKodesh. Without these vital qualifications other candidates must not be considered. The ONE Name under heaven is YHWH; Y’shua’s name points to YHWH. Not only did Greek-based Christianity choose to replace the authority of the Name of YHWH with that of “the son” but it also imparted a division within deity and coined a Grecianized name, thereby making void the Word of YHWH, and the office of Mashiyach that is sealed according to the Name of YHWH.

51 “Life-Giver” in Aramaic is how we would render “Savior” in English. John 5:26 reveals that the Father YHWH gives life from His Qnoma (occurrence of His one nature) to the Son, who is Mashiyach. Y’shua in turn, gives that Life to those who are drawn to him. Y’shua would be powerless to give Eternal Life without His Father YHWH first providing it to him, but it still falls to the Son and no other man to pass that gift on to the rest of us. Y’shua decries the Pharisees on this issue, pointing out that according to Scripture, Life comes from Mashiyach, but they won’t come to him as haMashiyach for that Life! This is a radically different perspective from those who call on “the name of Jesus” as a substitute for this YHWH-ordained precious gift of salvation because, without One, the other cannot perform his function.

52 “Knew not the books” whereas Greek says “unschooled.” Perhaps not that Shimon and Yochanan were unschooled, but that they did not know the scribes “official” rulings against Y’shua. The phrase la yadiyn sepra could also mean “they knew not the scribes.” Perhaps they were uninformed of the scribes’ rank/respect hierarchy, or did not have an “in” with the scribes’ inner circle. If the latter case, they would be following their Master’s example in the Sermon, where the narrative records that Y’shua taught with authority (meaning just his own) and not as the teachers of Torah (who referred to their Masters of the past to justify their opinions).

28. to do everything that Your hand and Your will foreordained<sup>57</sup> to be. 29. And even now Master YHWH, look and see their threats and give to Your servants, that they be boldly preaching Your Word, 30. while You extend Your hand for healings and mighty works and signs to be in the name of Your Son, the Set Apart One, Y'shua.” 31. And after they had pleaded and they had made supplication, the place in which they were assembled was shaken and all of them were filled with the Ruach haKodesh, and they were speaking the Word of Elohim<sup>58</sup> boldly. 32. The assembly of those men who were believing had but one soul and one mind, and no man among them concerning the possessions that he possessed would say that they were his. Rather, everything that they had was in common. 33. And they were testifying with great power (they the Shlichim) concerning the resurrection of Y'shua the Mashiyach. And great grace was with all of them. 34. And there was no man among them who was lacking, for those who had possessed fields and houses would sell (them) and brought the price of whatever was sold 35. and placed it at the feet of the Shlichim, and it was given to each man according to whatever that he would need. 36. Now Yosip, he who was named Bar-Naba by the Shlichim (which is interpreted son of comfort), a Levite from the region of Cyprus 37. had a field and he sold it and brought its price and placed (it) before the feet of the Shlichim.

1. And a certain man whose name was Khanan-Yah,<sup>59</sup> with his wife whose name was Shapeera,<sup>60</sup> sold his field. 2. And he took from its sale price and hid it while his wife knew of it. And he brought some of the money<sup>61</sup> and placed it before the feet of the Shlichim. 3. And Shimon said to him, “Khanan-Yah, why is it that the Adversary<sup>62</sup> has filled your heart thus that you should lie in (the presence of) the Ruach haKodesh, and that you should hide that sum of the money of the proceeds of the field? 4. Was it not yours before it was sold? And after it was sold, again you were in control over its proceeds. Why have you placed in your heart<sup>63</sup> to do this spectacle? You have not lied (in the presence of) men, but in (the presence of) Elohim.” 5. And after Khanan-Yah heard these words, he fell down and died. And there was a great fear among all those who heard. 6. And those who were young among them rose up and they gathered him together and took him outside and buried him. 7. And after three hours had passed, his wife also entered while not knowing what happened. 8. Shimon said to her, “Tell me whether you sold the field for this amount (of money),” and she said that yes, (it was) for these proceeds. 9. Shimon said to her, “because you have deliberated to tempt the Spirit of Master YHWH, behold the feet of the grave diggers of your husband (are) at the door, and they will take you out.” 10. And at that moment, she fell before their feet and died. And those young men entered and found her dead, and they gathered (her) up, took her away, and buried her next to her husband. 11. And there was a great fear in all the assembly, and in all those who heard.<sup>64</sup> 12. And signs and many mighty deeds occurred by the hands of the Shlichim among the people. And they were all assembled together in the Porch of Shleemon.

<sup>63</sup> “Placed in your heart” – Semitic idiom meaning “decided.” In ancient Semitic thought the heart, not the brain, was the seat of intelligence. (PY).

<sup>64</sup> This chapter is often used to put the “Fear of God” in people about giving their tithes and offerings, and some folks think this story is just about giving. There are plenty of creative excuses out there about not tithing or giving like; “I’m not sure where to give my tithes and offerings,” or “it’s an Old Testament Commandment,” or “I don’t have anything left at the end of the month to give,” or “I give as the Spirit leads” etc.. No. Giving back to YHWH is a Commandment not a multiple choice question. Khanan-Yah (Ananias) and his wife Shapeera (Sapphira) very effectively demonstrate how not to be seduced by demons. The details of this case reveal elements of envy, jealousy, pride and covetousness, laziness, stealing, lying, and breaking vows which are the underlying reasons why people refuse to give back to YHWH. Giving back to YHWH binds us to His Will and Work and reveals the stewardship of our time, money and our hearts. We are Commanded and required to give, and give with wisdom; not giving tithes and offerings is spiritual death and unbelief.

13. And not one of (the) other men dared to touch<sup>65</sup> them, rather the people magnified them.<sup>66</sup> 14. And more were added, those who believed in Master YHWH an assembly of men and women. 15. They brought out the sick (that while lying on pallets) into the markets so that when Shimon should come, at least his shadow might rest on them. 16. Now many came to them from other cities that were around Urishlim while bringing the sick and those who had unclean spirits. And all of them were healed. 17. The High Priest and all those who were with him who were of the doctrine of the Sadducees<sup>67</sup> were filled with envy. 18. And they placed hands on the Shlichim, and seized (and) bound them in prison. 19. Then during the night, a Messenger of Master YHWH opened the door of the prison and took them out and said to them, 20. "Go stand at the temple and speak to all the people all these Words of Life." 21. And they went out at dawn and entered the temple and were teaching. Now the High Priest, and those who were with him, called for their companions and for the elders of Israel, and sent to the prison to bring out the Shlichim. 22. And when those who were sent by them did not find them (in) prison, they returned 23. saying, "We found the prison which was locked securely, and also the guards who stood at the door. And we opened and we did not find a man there!" 24. And when the chief priests and leaders of the temple heard these words, they were astonished at them and were thinking, What is this? 25. And a man came and informed them that, "Those men that you confined (in) prison, behold they are standing in the temple and teaching the people!" 26. Then the leaders departed with the guards to bring them, not by violence for they were afraid or else the people would stone them. 27. And when they brought them (and) raised them all before the assembly, and (then) began the High Priest to say to them, 28. "Did we not indeed command you that you should not teach anyone in this name? But behold you have filled Urishlim with your doctrine. And you desire to bring the blood of this man upon us!" 29. Shimon answered with the Shlichim and said to them, "It is proper to be persuaded towards Elohim than towards men. 30. The Elohim of our forefathers<sup>68</sup> raised Y'shua, He Whom (you) killed when you hung him on the tree.<sup>69</sup> 31. (Him) this one Elohim has established a Prince and a Savior, and He has exalted Him by His right hand<sup>70</sup> so that He might give of forgiveness to Israel by repentance of sins. 32. And we are witnesses of these words and the Ruach haKodesh; He Who Elohim gives to those who obey Him." 33. And after they heard these words, they were enraged with anger and they were contemplating to kill them. 34. And a certain (man) arose of the Pharisees whose name was Gamaliel,<sup>71</sup> a teacher of Torah and honored by all the people. And he commanded that they take the Shlichim outside for a short time. 35. And he said to them, "Men and sons of Israel take heed to yourselves and determine what is right to you to do about these men.

65 qarab (touch) and yarab (magnify). (PY).

66 This word can mean "join/commune" but also "touch"; the latter is undoubtedly the correct reading. Greek versions mistranslated this word as "join." There is also a wordplay between the roots. (PY).

67 Technically speaking, the High Priest was himself a Sadducee as were many members of the Sanhedrin or Jewish High Council. However, it was the Pharisees who ruled over both because of their wider held Pharisaic traditions. Josephus says: However, this prosperous state of affairs moved the Jews to envy Hyrcanus; but they that were the worst disposed to him were the Pharisees, who were one of the sects of the Jews, as we have informed you already. These have so great a power over the multitude, that when they say anything against the king, or against the high priest, they are presently believed. (Antiquities 13:288) And: What I would now explain is this, that the Pharisees have delivered to the people a great many observances by succession from their fathers, which are not written in the laws of Moses; and for that reason it is that the Sadducees reject them, and say that we are to esteem those observances to be obligatory which are in the written word, but are not to observe what are derived from the tradition of our forefathers. <sup>298</sup> And concerning these things it is that great disputes and differences have arisen among them, while the Sadducees are able to persuade none but the rich, and have not the populace favorable to them, but the Pharisees have the multitude on their side. But about these two sects, and that of the Essenes, I have treated accurately in the second book of Jewish affairs. (Antiquities, 13:297-298) Talmud also tells us that the High Priest was shadowed by a Pharisaic second in command named a segan who enforced Pharisaic procedures. It is this political power sharing arrangement that is behind the comment that the High Priest and his entourage were Sadducees.

71 Gamaliel himself is well-known in the Talmud as the grandson of the great Rabbi Hillel the First, the architect of Oral Law. This is the same Gamaliel who was the Apostle Paul's teacher. He authored a sophisticated parody of the Gospel of Matthew before his death in the year 73 CE. The Kansas City Star, January 7, 2004, columnist Neil Altman reports: "In an essay written for the book Passover and Easter: Origin and History to Modern Times, Israel J. Yuval of Jerusalem's Hebrew University reported a find in the Talmud that appears to show Matthew could have been written earlier than some scholars contend. Yuval wrote that a leading rabbinical scholar of the time was "considered to have authored a sophisticated parody of the Gospel according to Matthew." The parody, written by a rabbi known as Gamaliel, is believed by some well-respected liberal Christian scholars to have been written about A.D. 73 or earlier." The Mishnah (Sotah 15:18) states: "Since Rabban Gamaliel the Elder died, there has been no more reverence for the law, and purity and piety died out at the same time."

36. From before this age, Tawda rose up and (he) said concerning himself that he was something great, and about four hundred men followed after him. And he was killed, and those who followed after him were scattered and became like nothing.<sup>72</sup> 37. And after him arose the Galilean Yehuda (in the days that men were registered for the poll tax) and caused to turn many people after him, and (he) died and all those who were following after him were scattered. 38. And now I say to you, keep yourselves from these men and leave them alone, for if this and this thinking is from men, they will disintegrate and pass away.<sup>73</sup> 39. But if from Elohim, (it) is not attainable to halt it with your hands, or else you find yourselves standing against Elohim.” 40. And they listened to him and they called the Shlichim, and they scourged them and commanded them that they not speak in the name of Y’shua, and they released them. 41. And they departed from before them rejoicing that they were worthy because of The Name to be despised. 42. And they would not cease all day to teach in the temple and at home and to preach about our Master Y’shua the Mashiyach.

1. And in those days as the disciples increased, the Hellenistic disciples were arguing against the Hebrews that their widows were neglected during the daily distribution. 2. And the twelve Shlichim called the whole assembly of disciples and they said to them, “It is not good that we should neglect the Word of Elohim and serve tables. 3. Examine therefore my brothers and pick seven men among you that have witness<sup>74</sup> and who are full of the Spirit of Master YHWH and wisdom, and we will set them over this issue. 4. And we will be steadfast in prayer<sup>75</sup> and in the ministering of the Word.” 5. And this saying was pleasing before all the people. And they chose Astapanos,<sup>76</sup> a man who was full of faith and the Ruach haKodesh, and Pileepos, and Prachros, and Niqanor, and Temon, and Parmena, and Neqlaos a proselyte Antiochene (that is, from Antioch). 6. These stood before the Shlichim, and after they prayed they laid hands upon them. 7. And the Word of Elohim spread and increased the number of disciples in Urishlim greatly, and many people of the Yehudeans<sup>77</sup> were obedient to the faith. 8. Now Astapanos was full of grace and power and would perform signs and wonders among the people. 9. And men from the assembly which is called the Libertines,<sup>78</sup> and the Cyrenians and Alexandrians and those from Cilicia and from Asia rose up and were disputing with Astapanos. 10. And they were not able to stand against the wisdom and the Spirit which spoke by him. 11. Then they sent men and instructed them to say that, “We have heard him speak words of blasphemy against Moshe and against Elohim!” 12. And they stirred up the people and the elders and the scribes and came and stood against him and seized him (and) brought him into the midst of the assembly.

---

72 While Tawda’s revolt is not mentioned in other sources, Josephus does confirm Luke’s account here about the tax revolt of Yehuda Galilean, which was crushed in Sepphoris in 6 CE, only 4 miles from Y’shua’s childhood home in Nazareth.

73 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the words “you” (plural) and “from.”

74 Idiom “have witness” means “of good reputation.”

75 See Divine Communication in Appendix.

76 Astaphanos in Greek or “Stephen” in English is a translation of the Hebrew Tzeephania, the name of the prophet Zephaniah in Tanakh. Tzeephania means “Yah has treasured”, a very appropriate designation for a man of his importance and righteousness. Stephen shows his righteousness through his mastery of both Scriptural and rabbinic halakha, however he is not ethnically Greek. There is a reluctance among Jewish authorities to permit Gentiles to instruct them on matters of Torah, nor would they be compelled to stone Stephen if he were a proselyte to Judaism. Stephen was able to do miracles and effectively persuade Jews from Tanakh—posing serious challenges to rabbinical authority—that made him a target for execution by stoning. Stephen addresses the Jewish ruling elite as “Men, our brothers and fathers” (Acts 7:2) and “Ya’akov fathered our twelve fathers” (Acts 7:8), which indicates his own Jewish heritage. The Aramaic transliterates his Greek name here, even though it is more likely that he was referred to by his Hebrew name, Tzeephania.

77 See Josephus the Netzari in Appendix. Also note that throughout the diglot of Acts, I have opted for “Yehudeans” rather than the generic “the Jews” in places where it is clear that the elite from Jerusalem is meant, as opposed to all Jewry throughout the world. In many cases a distinction is made that Jews who live outside of the Yehudean area are joining with Mashiyach and also serving Rav Shaul.

78 Libertines. Derived from a Roman mythological hero named "Liber", the Libertines were a group of pagans who emphasized promiscuity and drunkenness, among many other depravities. They proclaimed themselves "free" from all moral considerations and were considered wicked even by the standards of their fellow pagans. It is of course from the word liber that we get the English word "liberty" and this stands to show us the true difference between Abba YHWH's freedom to a prosperous life through righteous behavior leading to divine favor and the pale humanistic substitute that is often put in its place. This is why Y'shua said, "If the Son of Man makes you free, you are free indeed" (Yochanan 8:36).

13. And they set up false witnesses who said, “This man does not cease to speak words contrary to Torah and against this, this Set Apart place! 14. For (we), we have heard him say that this Y’shua the Nazarene, he will destroy this place and will change the customs that Moshe delivered to you.”<sup>79</sup> 15. And all those who were sitting in the assembly stared at him, and they saw his face as the face of a Messenger.

Chapter 7

1. And the High Priest asked him if these things were so. 2. And he said, “Men, our brothers and our fathers, listen. The Elohim of glory appeared to our father Awraham when he was in Beth-Nahrain<sup>80</sup> before he came to dwell in Kharran, 3. And He said to him, ‘Depart from your land and from among the sons of your nationality,<sup>81</sup> and come into the land that which I will show you.’<sup>82</sup> 4. And then Awraham departed from the land of the Chaldeans and came (and) dwelt in Kharran. And after his father had died Elohim moved him from there to this land in which you dwell today. 5. And He did not give him an inheritance in it, not even a foot step,<sup>83</sup> yet He promised that He would give it to him as an heirloom to him and to his seed<sup>84</sup> while he had no son. 6. And Elohim spoke with him saying to him that, ‘Your seed will be a sojourner in a foreign land, and He will subject to it (for) four hundred years, and they will treat them wickedly. 7. And the people whom they will serve (in) bondage, I will judge them.’ Elohim said, ‘And after these things they will depart and serve Me in this land.’<sup>85</sup> 8. And He gave the covenant of circumcision to him. And then he fathered Yitz’chak and circumcised him on the eighth day. And Yitz’chak fathered Ya’akov and Ya’akov fathered our twelve fathers. 9. And our fathers were jealous of Yosip and sold him in Misrayin.<sup>86</sup> But Elohim was with him,<sup>87</sup> 10. and He delivered him from all his oppression. And He gave grace and wisdom to him before Pharaoh king of Misrayin, and appointed him ruler over all Misrayin and his house.<sup>88</sup> 11. And there was a famine and great affliction in all Misrayin and in the land of Canaan, and our fathers had nothing to sustain (them).<sup>89</sup> 12. And after Ya’akov heard that there was sustenance in Misrayin, he sent our fathers first, 13. and when they went the second time, Yosip made himself known to his brothers<sup>90</sup> and the nationality of Yosip was made known to Pharaoh. 14. And Yosip sent for his father and brought Ya’akov and all his family. And they were seventy and five souls in number. 15. And Ya’akov went down to Misrayin and died there, he and our fathers. 16. And he was moved to Shechem and was placed in the tomb that Awraham had purchased with money from the sons of Khamor. 17. And when the time arrived for the things that Elohim had promised by oaths to Awraham, the people increased and grew strong in Misrayin 18. until another king rose up over Misrayin who did not know Yosip.<sup>91</sup> 19. And he plotted against our kindred and dealt wickedly with our fathers, and commanded that their infant males be cast out so that they might not live. 20. In that same time Moshe was born. And he was pleasing to Elohim and he was reared three months in his father’s house.

<sup>79</sup> Obviously an overly simplistic view. Torah enjoined that two priestly systems would alternate, one of Malki Tzedek in Genesis and the other of Aaron in Exodus. It was foretold by YHWH’s Word to many of the prophets (Hosea 6:6, Isaiah 1 and Jeremiah 31) that the Aaronic line would become a remnant without power and hence the return of the Righteous King, whom we know to be Y’shua. Jewish “customs” (religious halakha and tradition) needed a renovation, but never against Moshe, because Moshe wrote of these matters. Y’shua stated that the Pharisees “make void Torah by their traditions”; it remains that Rabbinical authorities evoke the name of Moshe as an endorsement of their tradition, even when their tradition is contrary to Torah. They also misunderstood, as John 2 indicates, that Y’shua referred to his own body being destroyed, not the Temple.

<sup>84</sup> Abraham received the promise that his seed would sojourn four meah (four hundred years). This refers to his son Isaac, not Abraham himself. If we tally the years of the prophecy from when Abraham first heard it at age 75, it comes to 430 years (Exodus 12:40), but the 400 year clock began from when Isaac was weaned at age 5. 91 Exodus 1:7, 8

21. And when he was cast out from his mother, the daughter of Pharaoh reared him as a son for herself. 22. Moshe was trained in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and he was prepared in his words and also in his deeds. 23. And when he was forty years old, it entered into his heart to visit his Brothers, the sons of Israel. 24. And he saw one of the sons of his tribe persecuted, and passed judgment for him and he avenged him and he killed the Egyptian, he who had wronged<sup>92</sup> him. 25. And he hoped his brothers, the sons of Israel, would understand that Elohim would give salvation to them by his hand, but they did not understand. 26. And on another day he was seen by them while they quarreled with one another. And he was persuading them to reconcile, saying, 'Men you are brothers. Because of what (reason) do you wrong one another?' 27. But he who was wronging his fellow pushed him away from his presence and said to him, 'Who has set you over us as a ruler and judge? 28. What? Do you seek to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?'<sup>93</sup> 29. And Moshe fled at this word and was a sojourner in the land of Midian, and he had two sons. 30. And after forty years were completed, there appeared to him a Messenger of Master YHWH in a fire that burned in a bush.<sup>94</sup> 31. And when Moshe saw (it), he was amazed at the vision, and as he drew near (it), Master YHWH said to him in a voice, 32. 'I am the Elohim of your fathers, the Elohim of Awraham, and of Yitz'chak, and of Ya'akov.' And while he was trembling, Moshe did not dare to stare at the vision. 33. Then Master YHWH said to him, 'Loose your sandals from your feet, for the ground that you stand upon is Set Apart. 34. Indeed, I have seen the affliction of my people who are in Egypt. And I have heard its groans, and I have come down to deliver them. And now come, I will send you to Egypt.'<sup>95</sup> 35. This is Moshe whom they denied, saying, 'Who set you over us as a ruler and judge? Him, this one Elohim sent to them a ruler and deliverer by the hands of a Messenger, he who appeared to him in a bush. 36. This is he who brought them out after he did signs and wonders and mighty acts in the land of Egypt and in Yama-Suph<sup>96</sup> and in the wilderness (for) forty years. 37. This is Moshe, he who said to the sons of Israel (that), Master YHWH will raise up a prophet for you from your brothers like me to listen (to) him.'<sup>97</sup> 38. This is he who was in the assembly in the wilderness with the Messenger, he who spoke with them and with our forefathers on the mount of Sinai, and is the one who received the Living Words,<sup>98</sup> that he might give (them) to us. 39. And our forefathers did not desire to obey him, rather, they left him and in their hearts they returned to Egypt. 40. Saying to Ahron, 'Make deities for us to go before us,' because this Moshe who brought us out from the land of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him.'<sup>99</sup> 41. And they made a calf for themselves in those days, and they sacrificed sacrifices to the images, and they were rejoicing in the work of their hands.<sup>100</sup> 42. And Elohim turned away and delivered them to serve the powers of heaven as it is written in the books of the prophets, (Why) for forty years in the wilderness did you sons of Israel offer me a slain animal or a sacrifice? 43. But you have taken the tabernacle of Moloch and the star of the deity of Rephan that you made images to be worshipped. I will remove you beyond Bavel.<sup>101</sup>

92 In verses 24-27, Stephen uses four times, the dual meaning of the root sekal ("wrong, understand"). (PY).

97 Deuteronomy 18:15; see A Prophet Like Moshe in Appendix.

98 Torah is the Living Words of YHWH received by Moshe. The Spirit of Y'shua Mashiyach is the Living Word; therefore, the Word/Spirit that is in Mashiyach is the same Word of YHWH that gave Torah to Moshe and who has come to write Torah upon our hearts!

99 Exodus 32:1, 23

100 Rejoicing in the work of their hands. This is the identical rebuke YHWH gave to the Israelites when they were in the Wilderness. One would expect Stephen to say this to a bunch of Pharisees, but what often gets overlooked is that Stephen is also the first Nazarene martyr, and later on he is called a "Christian." Therefore, it is extremely important for Christians today to understand that Stephen would be appalled at "the works of their hands" that pervades Catholic and many Orthodox and Protestant churches today. He would most certainly detest marble pagan style statues of Y'shua, Mary and the other disciples.

44. Behold the tabernacle of the testimony of our fathers in the wilderness was as He commanded who spoke with Moshe to make it in the likeness that he showed him. 45. And this same tabernacle also indeed brought our fathers with Y'shua into the land that Elohim gave them (as) an inheritance from those nations that He cast out from before them. And it was carried until the days of Dawid, 46. he who found mercy before Elohim and asked that he find a tabernacle for the Elohim of Ya'akov. 47. But Shleemon built the House. 48. And the most High does not dwell in the work of hands, as the prophet said, 49. 'Heaven (is) my throne and the earth a footstool that is under my feet. What is the House that you build for me? Says YHWH, or what is the place of my rest. 50. Behold, did not my hand make all these (things)?'<sup>102</sup> 51. O stiff of neck<sup>103</sup> and without circumcision in their heart!<sup>104</sup> And in their hearing you always stand against the Ruach haKodesh<sup>105</sup> as your forefathers (were), you (are). 52. For which of the prophets have you not persecuted? And your forefathers have killed those who foretold about the coming of the Righteous One, He whom you delivered up and whom you killed! 53. And you have received Torah by way of the command of Messengers and you have not kept it!"<sup>106</sup> 54. And when they had heard these (things), they were filled with anger within themselves and they were gnashing their teeth against him. 55. And while he was full of faith and the Ruach haKodesh, stared into heaven and saw the glory of Elohim and Y'shua standing at the right hand of Elohim. 56. And he said, "Behold, I see heaven opened and the Son of man standing at the right hand of Elohim."<sup>107</sup> 57. Then they cried out in a loud voice and covered their ears and all of them rushed upon him. 58. And they seized (him and) took him outside of the city and they were stoning him, and those who testified against him laid their garments at the feet of a certain young man who was called Shaul. 59. And they were stoning Stephen while he prayed, and he said, "Our Master Y'shua receive my spirit." 60. And after he kneeled down, he cried out in a loud voice and said, "Our Master do not cause this sin to stand against them!" And after he had said this, he lied down.

Chapter 8

1. Now Shaul consented and participated in his murder.<sup>108</sup> And there was a great persecution of the congregation that was in Urishlim in that day. And all of them except the alone Shlichim were scattered in the villages of Yehud and also among the Samaritans. 2. And they (men, believers) gathered Astaphanos up (and) buried (him). And they were mourning greatly over him. 3. Now Shaul persecuted the congregation of Elohim while he entered homes and dragged away men and women. And he delivered (them) to prison. 4. And they who scattered traveled and preached the Word of Elohim. 5. Now Pelepos went down to a city of the Samaritans and he preached to them concerning Mashiyach. 6. And men, who when they heard his word there, heeded him and were persuaded by all that he said because they saw the signs that he did.

105 Isaiah 63:10

106 This same rebuke is levied in Matthew 15:2-3 and Yochanan 7:19. Both Y'shua and Tzeephania (Stephen) admonish the Pharisees for elevating their Oral Traditions over the Written Torah of Moshe. Believing their own Oral Traditions to be equal to or of higher value than the Word of YHWH, anyone who suggests otherwise undermines their authority and enrages them to commit murder. The message in all cases is clear: Mess with the Oral Traditions and we may kill you. The irony is that while the religious authorities accuse Y'shua of making himself equal with Elohim (Yochanan 5:18), they make themselves out to be equal to Elohim by nullifying the Word of YHWH by their own man made customs and traditions. (Matt 15:6)

108 Paul being transformed from a man of hateful murderous religiosity into a servant of Mashiyach is one of the greatest testimonies to the transforming power of the Ruach haKodesh. Later Paul says, "I am the least of the Shlichim; and am not worthy to be called a Shaliach; because I persecuted the assembly of Elohim" (1 Cor 15:9). But let's not talk about Paul, (say) what about me? Isn't it so easy to do the religion thing and be part of the religious division, rather than cross man-made religious lines in the power of love and forgiveness? This is what empowered Paul and what empowers every Christian, Messianic, Believer, Disciple or Follower of Y'shua Mashiyach. It's the power to love that he releases in us, to overcome our weak carnal flesh. We often use religion to cover up the deep not-so-good things inside of us, until the power of love shines a light into our dark places. We are growing and on that journey of returning to the Faith of His Name. (Say) Let me be the change! Let me dance with the Joy of my King inside of me. Let me bless those that curse me. Let me love my enemies. Let me sing the songs of victory and overcome my religious pride, my discrimination and my hatred. Let me serve my King of Love and bring Glory to His Wonderful Name.

7. For many who seized unclean spirits, cried out in a loud voice, and they went out from them. And others, paralytics and lame were healed. 8. And a great joy was there in that city. 9. Now there was a certain man there whose name (was) Simon who lived in that city a long time. And deceived the people of Samaria by his sorcery while magnifying himself and saying, "I am great!" 10. And they were praying<sup>109</sup> towards him, all of them great and small. And they said, "This is the great power of Elohim." 11. And they persuaded<sup>110</sup> him, all of them, because a long time ago he had persuaded them with his sorceries. 12. But when they believed Pileepos who had preached the Kingdom of Elohim in the name of our Master Y'shua haMashiyach, they immersed, men and women. 13. And even Simon, he believed and was immersed and adhered to Pileepos. And when he saw the great signs and miracles that occurred by his hand, he was amazed and he marveled. 14. And when the Shlichim who were in Urishlim heard that the people of Samaria had received the Word of Elohim, they sent Shimon Keefa and Yochanan to them. 15. And they went down and prayed over them that they might receive the Ruach haKodesh. 16. For it was not upon one of them yet. They were only immersed now in the name of our Master Y'shua.<sup>111</sup> 17. Then they placed a hand upon them and they received the Ruach haKodesh. 18. And when Simon saw that by the placing of a hand of the Shlichim the Ruach haKodesh was given, he offered silver to them, 19. Saying, "Give to me also this authority that whomever (that) I place a hand upon, he will receive the Ruach haKodesh." 20. Shimon Keefa said to him, "Your silver will go with you to destruction because you thought that the gift of Elohim could be obtained<sup>112</sup> with the goods of the world. 21. You have no part or portion in this faith because your heart is not straight before Elohim. 22. But repent of this your evil and beseech (from) Elohim. Perhaps you will be forgiven the deceit of your heart. 23. For I see that you are in bitter anger<sup>113</sup> and in the bonds of iniquity." 24. Simon answered and said, "You plead for my sake (from) Elohim that not anything of these things that you have spoken come upon me." 25. Now when Shimon and Yochanan had testified, and they taught the Word of Elohim, and preached in many villages of the Samaritans, returned to Urishlim. 26. And a Messenger of Master YHWH spoke with Pileepos and said to him, "Rise up! Go to the South on the desert road that goes down from Urishlim to Gaza." 27. And he arose and went and met a certain believer<sup>114</sup> who had come from Cush, an official of Qandeq, the queen of the Cushites, and he was an authority over all her treasures. And he had come to worship in Urishlim. 28. And while he traveled to go, he sat in a chariot and was reading Yesha'yahu the prophet. 29. And the Spirit said<sup>115</sup> to Pileepos, "Draw near and follow the chariot." 30. And when he had drawn near, he heard that he was reading Yesha'yahu the prophet, and he said to him, "Do you understand what you read?" 31. And he said, "How am I able to comprehend unless someone instructs me?" And he pleaded with Pileepos that he come up and sit with him.

109 The root "TsLA" literally means "to prostrate oneself towards" in the sense of worship. It can also mean "heed" as Greek translators understood it, but in this context the root is more properly translated "prostrate." The same root is present in verse 15. (PY).

110 They persuaded him that he was the "power of Elohim." (PY).

111 Y'shua teaches immersion in the Name (singular) of the Father, Son and the Ruach haKodesh as he taught according to Matthew 28:19. The Son carries the name of the Father (Yochanan 17:11). Y'shua's name means "YHWH is salvation" (Matthew 1:21). The Ruach haKodesh (Set-Apart Spirit) is another title for the Father (Psalm 51:1-11, Isaiah 63:1-11). Therefore One Set Apart Name covers all three "branches" of the One Elohim. However, common religious practices of the time led many people to be immersed in the names of their rabbis or teachers. Yochanan taught that his immersion was symbolic towards repentance and that Y'shua would immerse them in the Ruach haKodesh and with fire (Matthew 3:11).

112 There is a play on the root "QNA" (goods/obtain) here. (PY).

113 The Aramaic word "Kabda" can mean "gall/liver/anger." Greek versions mistranslate this as "gall of bitterness" instead of the more contextually proper "bitter anger." (PY).

114 The Aramaic word "mhymna" can mean either "believer" or "eunuch." Greek versions mistranslate this as "eunuch" instead of the more contextually correct "believer." (PY). This is also important because Ethiopian Jewry has the oldest continuous form of the religion on the planet and even in the days of the apostles they had a high reputation for piety. The verse also makes no sense as "eunuch" because such men were not allowed to worship in Jerusalem as this man surely did. See Deuteronomy 23:1 and Isaiah 56:3-5. (AR).

115 The verb here is in the feminine. (PY).

32. Now the section of the Scripture in which he was reading was this: He was led as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a ewe before the shearer is silent, even thus he did not open his mouth. 33. He was led in his humiliation from his confinement and from judgment. And his generation, who will declare it, because his life has been taken from the earth?<sup>116</sup> 34. And that believer said to Pileepos, "I plead with you concerning whom did this prophet speak, concerning himself or concerning another man?" 35. Then Pileepos opened his mouth and began to preach from this Scripture concerning our Master Y'shua. 36. And when they went on the road they arrived at a certain place that had water in it. And that believer said, "Behold water! What is the obstacle so that I may be immersed?" 37. Verse 37 is nonexistent in the Peshitta.<sup>117</sup> 38. And he commanded that the chariot stop. And they went down, both of them, to the water. And Pileepos immersed that believer. 39. And after they got up from the water, the Spirit of Master YHWH caught Pileepos up, and that believer did not see him again, but he departed on his way rejoicing. 40. And Pileepos was found at Azotus, and from there was traveling around and preaching in all the cities until he came to Caesarea.

Chapter 9

1. Now Shaul was yet full of intimidation and the fury of murder towards the disciples of our Master. 2. And he asked for letters from the chief priests to give to Damascus to the assemblies that if he should find men or women who follow in this path he might arrest (them and) bring them to Urishlim. 3. And as he traveled and approached Damascus, suddenly a light from heaven shone upon him. 4. And he was thrown upon the ground, and he heard a voice that said to him, "Shaul! Shaul! Why do you persecute me? It is hard for you to kick the stakes." 5. And he answered and said, "Who are you my Master?" And our Master said, "I am Y'shua the Nasraya, He whom you persecute! 6. But rise up (and) enter into the city, and there will be spoken to you concerning what you should do." 7. Now the men who were traveling with him on the road were amazed because they heard only a sound, but a man was not visible to them. 8. Shaul got up from the ground and he was not able to see anything though his eyes were open. They brought him by his hands to Damascus. 9. And he was not able to see (for) three days. And he did not eat and he did not drink. 10. Now there was a certain disciple in Damascus whose name was Khanan-Yah. And Master YHWH said to him in a vision, "Khanan-Yah!" And he said, "Behold, (it is) I!"<sup>118</sup> my Master." 11. And our Master (Y'shua) said to him, "Arise. Go to the street that is called Straight and inquire at the house of Yehuda for Shaul who is from the city of Tarsus. For behold while he was praying 12. he saw a man in a vision whose name (was) Khanan-Yah<sup>119</sup> who entered and placed a hand upon him so that his eyes might be opened."

116 Isaiah 53:7, 8

117 Like other instances, the Peshitta omits a phrase that is also lacking in the earliest Greek texts. In this case verse 37 is also missing from Aleph, A, B, C, and the Vulgate. The words in the later manuscripts are: "And Phillip said, If you believe with all your heart, you may. And he answered, I believe that Y'shua the Mashiyach is the Son of Elohim." This insertion appears to be: 1) artificial, as is demonstrated by how well the original thoughts flow without it and 2) it is easy to imagine how a later Gentile editor would have felt the need to make an outright declaration of faith that is so specific. In its original Semitic context, however, it is enough to show that the Ethiopian asked the question and Phillip answered according to the Scriptures.

118 Ha ana is the Aramaic equivalent of hineni, the famous Hebrew phrase uttered by Awraham when called by YHWH, "behold it is I" or "here am I". Awraham responds to YHWH during a time of testing, similarly Khanan-Yah is being tested when asked to give aid to someone who could imprison him or even kill him for his faith. Being asked to go to the street called "Straight" is a major Hebraic idiom, as we are to walk the straight street when we live according to YHWH's Torah.

119 The name "Khanan-Yah" means "Yah is merciful." The play on his name demonstrates the mercy about to be shown to Shaul through the restoration of his eyesight. This is only apparent in Aramaic. (PY).

13. And Khanan-Yah said, "My Master (Y'shua), I have heard from many concerning this man how much evil he has inflicted on your Set Apart ones in Urishlim. 14. And behold even here he has authority from the high priests to arrest all those who call (upon) your Name!" 15. Then Master YHWH<sup>120</sup> said to him, "Arise! Go because he (is) a vessel to me, chosen to carry my Name among the Gentiles<sup>121</sup> and among kings and among the sons of Israel. 16. For I will reveal to him how much he will suffer because of my Name."<sup>122</sup> 17. Then Khanan-Yah went to the house to him and placed a hand upon him<sup>123</sup> and said to him, "Shaul, my brother, our Master Y'shua has sent me. He who appeared to you on the road while you were coming, that your eyes might be opened and that you might be filled with the Ruach haKodesh." 18. And at once something that resembled scales fell from his eyes, and his eyes were opened. And he arose and (became) immersed. 19. And he received nourishment and was strengthened and was with the disciples, those who were in Damascus. 20. And immediately he was in the assembly of the Yehudeans preaching about Y'shua, that he was the Son of Elohim. 21. And all those who were hearing him were amazed, and they were saying, "Was not this he who was persecuting all those who were calling on this name in Urishlim? He was sent even here for this same (reason) to bind and take them away to the chief priests!" 22. Now Shaul was more so strengthened and was confounding those Yehudeans who were dwelling in Damascus while he was revealing that this is the Mashiyach. 23. And after (many) days increased to him there, the Yehudeans made treachery against him to kill him. 24. But the plot was shown to him, to Shaul, that they were seeking to do to him. And they were keeping watch (of) the gates of the city day and night to kill him. 25. Then the disciples placed him in a basket and let him down from the wall during the night. 26. And he went to Urishlim and desired to join the disciples, but all of them were afraid of him. And they did not believe that he (was) a disciple. 27. But Bar-Naba took him and brought him to the Shlichim and explained to them how on the road he had seen Master YHWH, and how he spoke with them, and how boldly he spoke in Damascus in the name of Y'shua. 28. And he went in with them and he went out into Urishlim. 29. And he (Rav Shaul) was boldly speaking in the name of Y'shua and disputing with those Yehudeans who knew Greek,<sup>124</sup> but those desired to kill him. 30. And when the brothers knew, they brought him to Caesarea by night, and from there they sent him to Tarsus. 31. Nevertheless, the assembly that was in all Yehud and in Galeela and Shamrin now had peace in it. It grew, being built up and instructed in the fear of Elohim and in the comfort of the Ruach haKodesh.<sup>125</sup> 32. And it happened that while Shimon was traveling in the cities, he came down also to the Set Apart believers who dwelled in the city (of) Lud.

120 Notice how Khanan-Yah is reproved not by Y'shua, but by YHWH Himself, as indicated by the Aramaic MarYah. This represents a profound dichotomy because Khanan-Yah himself may not even be aware that the Father is responding to him. Khanan-Yah's point is that those who proclaim YHWH's Mashiyach are being persecuted because they "call upon your Name." But YHWH points out that it is His Name, in Mashiyach that is being rejected, so when all is said and done, Shaul is preaching YHWH's Torah (instructions) to the Gentiles.

121 See Gentiles and Ger Toshav in Appendix.

122 Aramaic here presents a critical distinction lacking in Greek, once again due to the bifurcation of MarYah (YHWH) and Maran/Mari (Y'shua). Notice that a few lines above Y'shua gives a command that is questioned. This act then prompts the speaker to switch from Y'shua to YHWH; therefore, it is YHWH's name that Paul will suffer for. It is also important to note that while Y'shua was on earth, any teaching about Y'shua being YHWH refers to the divine nature within Him. Y'shua was both conceived through the Ruach haKodesh and He breathed the Set-Apart Ruach into His disciples. Here, the resurrected Y'shua speaks to Paul in the vision. Y'shua's human nefesh reanimated with his Ruach in a spiritual resurrection body, as described by Paul in 1 Corinthians 15.

123 The origin of smicha (laying hands) is with Moshe who laid his hands on, and passed his mantle of leadership onto Yehoshua. The laying on of hands is not only for healings and miracles but also to "receive the Ruach haKodesh" for understanding and instruction (Acts 6:6, 7:41, 8:17-19). It is only through the work of the Ruach haKodesh that we understand YHWH is Y'shua the Mashiyach (Matt. 16:17; 1 Corinthians 12:3). See YHWH is Y'shua the Mashiyach in Appendix.

124 Notice that Rav Shaul brings a Greek interpreter Bar-Naba. Rav Shaul obviously doesn't have the strong command of Greek necessary to address the more advanced and complex concepts of the Malchut Elohim. At other times Paul travels with interpreters Silas and Timothy who help him compose letters (1 Thessalonians 1:1, 2 Thessalonians 1:1), or he is with Mark who joins him on a missionary journey, or Paul is with his traveling companion Luke, who is by far the most talented bilingual interpreter in the NT.

125 Those who fear YHWH receive the comfort of the Ruach haKodesh that brings peace and contentment into the soul. "Hear the Word of YHWH, you that tremble at His Word" (Isaiah 66:5). The Fear of YHWH is truth; the fear of man brings confusion.

33. And he found a certain man named Anis who was laying on a pallet and was a paralytic eight years. 34. And Shimon said to him, Anya,<sup>126</sup> Y'shua the Mashiach heals you! Arise and make your bed! And immediately he arose. 35. And all who saw him who dwelt in Lud and in Saron turned to Elohim. 36. Now there was a certain disciple in the city of Yoppa whose name was Tabitha.<sup>127</sup> This (one) was rich in good deeds<sup>128</sup> and in the alms that she did. 37. Now she became ill in those days and she died. And they washed her and laid her in an upper room. 38. And the disciples heard that Shimon was in the city of Lud, that which is on the side of Yoppa. And they sent to him two men to request of him that he not delay to come with them. 39. And Shimon arose (and) went with them. And when he came, they brought him up to the upper room and gathered. (And) all the widows stood around him weeping and showing to him the coats and cloaks, those that Tabitha had given to them while she lived. 40. But Shimon put all the people out and bowed down upon his knees. And prayed and he turned to the corpse and said, "Tabitha get up!" And she opened her eyes, and when she saw Shimon she sat up.<sup>129</sup> 41. And he stretched out his hand and raised her up and called to the Set Apart believers and to the widows and presented her to them alive. 42. And this thing was known in all the city, and many believed in our Master. 43. And he was in Yoppa not a few days lodging in the house of Shimon the tanner.

Chapter 10

1. Now there was a certain man in Caesarea, a centurion, whose name was Qurnelius, from that band of soldiers which is called Italiqa. 2. And he was righteous and feared Elohim, he and all his household. And he did many alms among the people, and he beseeched Elohim at all times. 3. This (man) clearly saw a Messenger of Elohim in a vision (at) nine hours into the day, who came towards him and said to him, "Qurnelia!" 4. And he was afraid and stared at him and he said, "What, my Master?" And the Messenger said to him, "Your prayers and your alms have come up before Elohim for a remembrance. 5. And now send men to the city Yoppa and bring Shimon, who is called Keefa. 6. Behold he lodges in the house, that which is on the shore of the sea, of Shimon the tanner." 7. And when the Messenger who spoke with him had departed, he called two of the sons of his household and a certain servant who feared<sup>130</sup> Elohim, one who obeyed him. 8. and he told them everything that he saw and he sent them to Yoppa. 9. And on the next day while they traveled on the road and drew near to the city, Shimon went up to the roof to pray in the sixth hour. 10. And he hungered and desired to eat. And while they prepared for him, a stupor fell over him. 11. And he saw heaven being opened and a certain garment being held by four corners. And it resembled a great linen cloth. And it was descending from heaven to earth. 12. And there were in it all creatures of four legs, and creeping things of the earth, and birds of heaven.

126 "Afflicted One." (PY).

127 Aramaic name meaning "Gazelle." (PY).

128 "Good deeds" or "works" is derived from the Hebrew avodah. This denotes the empowerment and righteous works of Mashiach being poured through his followers, as Torah is being written upon the heart. Please see footnote Romans 12:1.

129 Many religious communities expect their leaders to produce the kinds of miracles that are recorded here in Scripture. Even after being shown evidence of "miracle" hoaxes, false testimonies, witnessing teams of co-conspirators, many choose to believe in lies. Regrettably, many people put their trust in false miracles and use them to validate lifestyles, religion and teachings that are not of Mashiach. For many, miracles and the supernatural are their main spiritual focus rather than "testing the spirits" and walking in Truth and Righteousness. Y'shua teaches that "when He (the Ruach haKodesh) comes, He will convict the world concerning sin and concerning righteousness and concerning judgment" (Yochanan 16:8). This is the acid test of True faith. First we are convicted of sin, all sin is the transgression of Torah (1 Yochanan 3:4). By Faith we repent of our sins. Secondly, by Faith we choose to be obedient to the Word of YHWH (Torah). Concerning righteousness Paul writes, "For when you were the slaves of sin, you were emancipated from righteousness" (Romans 6:20). If we can't stop sinning we have become slaves to sin, therefore righteousness and Mashiach cannot live within us, only sin. Thirdly, the Ruach haKodesh convicts us of Judgment, not only of Mashiach coming to Judge the world and each of us, but that we daily seek YHWH's Judgments in all things that we think, say and do.

130 The term "feared Elohim" is used throughout the Book of Acts, it is an extremely important for all Believers to understand and walk in. This is the Fear of YHWH (Isaiah 11:2). This means we put YHWH and His Word on the "high place" in our lives. We do this by inviting His Spirit into our private daily thoughts, words, deeds and relationships. We become radically obedient to the Word of YHWH, as little children. If for a season, we must walk alone in Him, so be it, then we must.

13. And a voice came to him that said, “Shimon! Rise up. Slaughter, and eat!” 14. And Shimon said, “(Elohim) forbid, my Master, because I have not ever eaten anything that is defiled and unclean!” 15. And again a second time a voice came to him that (said), “That which Elohim has cleansed, you should not consider defiled!”<sup>131</sup> 16. And this happened three times, and the garment was taken up to heaven. 17. And while Shimon marveled in himself what was the vision that he had seen, those men who were sent from Qurnelius they came and stood at the gate of the courtyard and inquired concerning the house that Shimon lodged in. 18. And they called there and asked, “Is Shimon who is called Keefa lodged here?” 19. And while Shimon thought about the vision, the Spirit said to him: “Behold! Three men seek you. 20. Arise, go down and go with them (while) not letting your mind be divided<sup>132</sup> because I (am) he (who) sent them.” 21. Then Shimon went down to those men and said to them, I (am) whom you seek. “What is the reason for which you have come?” 22. A certain man said to him, “A centurion whose name is Qurnelius, a just (man) who fears Elohim and about whom all the people of the Yehudeans give testimony, was told in a vision by a Set Apart Messenger to send (and) bring you to his house and to hear the word from you.” 23. Shimon brought them in and received them where he was lodging. And at the end of the day he arose and he departed (and) went with them and some of the brothers of Yoppa went with him. 24. And on the next day, he entered Caesarea and Qurnelius was waiting for them while being assembled with him all his kin and also the beloved friends that he had. 25. and while Shimon was entering, Qurnelius met him and fell down and worshipped at his feet. 26. Shimon raised him up and said to him, “Stand up! I am also a man.” 27. And while he talked with him, he entered and found many who had come there. 28. And he said to them, “You know that it is not Lawful for a Yehudean man to associate with a foreign man who is not a son of his tribe, but Elohim showed to me concerning a man not to say that (he is) unclean or defiled. 29. Because of this I came promptly when you sent for me, but I ask you for what reason did you send for me?” 30. Qurnelius said to him, “Four days have been now since I was fasting. And in the ninth hour while I prayed in my house, a certain man wearing white stood before me. 31. And he said to me, Qurnelia! Your prayer has been heard and of your alms there is remembrance before Elohim. 32. But send to the city of Yoppa and bring Shimon who is called Keefa. Behold he lodges in the house of Shimon the tanner on the shore of the sea. And he will come and speak to you. 33. And I sent (towards you) at once, and you did well to come. And behold, we all of us are before you and desire to hear everything that was commanded to you from Elohim.” 34. And Shimon opened his mouth and said, “In truth I perceive that Elohim is not hypocritical, 35. but among all people, he who fears Him and works righteousness is acceptable to him. 36. (This is) the Word that he sent for to the sons of Yisrael to give hope and peace and tranquility to them through Y’shua the Mashiyach. He is Master YHWH of all!

131 Gentiles are called to enter into the Malchut Elohim to follow Mashiyach and observe Torah; this is not about the consumption of unclean food. Y’shua casts demons into a herd of swine (Matthew 8, Mark 5, Luke 8). Swine meat is unclean, demons are unclean; Y’shua destroys both. Peter never ate unclean animals before or after this vision; followers of Y’shua don’t eat unclean foods. The Hellenized Christian church endorsed eating unclean foods, because non-Jews have always eaten it as a cultural normative. It is a continuum of pagan culture. Isaiah 66:17-24 clearly prophecies of a rebellious people who dine on swine’s flesh, eat mice and choose to defy the Word of YHWH and His Mashiyach. Gentiles must not assume that these teachings single them out as unclean; Yehudeans are equally as unclean when choosing to defy YHWH and His Mashiyach (see Haggai 2:14; Ezekiel 44:22; Ezra 9:10-10:1; Isaiah 30:6-12; 65:2, 3; Jeremiah 5:22-31). It is very important to differentiate between that which is Kosher according to YHWH, and religious “tradition.” If unclean food is prohibited for Jewish followers of Y’shua, it is also prohibited for non-Jewish followers; the Kingdom of Elohim is not divided. If unclean food has been proven unhealthy, then it is unhealthy for Jewish and non-Jewish bodies alike; there is One Mashiyach and One Torah.

132 Aramaic idiom meaning “do not doubt.” (PY).

37. And also (you) know you about the word that was in all of Yehud that went out from Galeela after the immersion that Yochanan preached 38. concerning Y'shua who was from Nasrath, that Elohim anointed with the Ruach haKodesh and with power. And this is he who traveled around and healed those who were oppressed by evil, because Elohim was with him. 39. And we (are) his witnesses concerning everything that he did in all the land of Yehud and of Urishlim. Him, this same one the Yehudeans hung<sup>133</sup> upon wood and killed him. 40. And Elohim raised him on the third day and allowed him to be seen openly. 41. But not to all people, but to us, those who were chosen by Elohim to be witnesses for him. For we ate and drank with him after his resurrection from the dead. 42. And he commanded us to preach and to witness to people that this is he who was ordained by Elohim (to be) the judge of the living and of the dead. 43. And all the prophets testified concerning him that whoever believes in his name will receive forgiveness of sins." 44. And while Shimon was speaking these words, the Ruach haKodesh rested on all of them who were hearing the Word. 45. And the brothers, those circumcised, who came with him, were amazed and astonished that the gift of the Spirit was even poured out upon Gentiles. 46. For they were hearing them speaking in different tongues and they were magnifying Elohim. And Shimon was saying, 47. "(Why) can any man forbid water that those should not be immersed, who behold have received the Ruach haKodesh as we (have)." 48. Then he commanded them to be immersed in the name of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach.<sup>134</sup> And they beseeched (from) him so as to stay with them (a few) days.

Chapter 11

1. And it was heard by the Shlichim and the brothers who were in Yehud that even Gentiles received the Word of Elohim. 2. And while Shimon went up to Urishlim, those who were from circumcision were contending with him, 3. While they were saying that he enters with and dines with them. 4. And Shimon was expounding to them saying repeatedly that: 5. "While I was praying in Yoppa, I saw in a dream a certain garment that was descending which resembled a linen cloth. And it was fastened by four (of) its corners and it was drawn out. And it came all the way from heaven towards me. 6. And I looked at it and I saw that there was in it four-footed animals and insects of the earth, and even birds of the sky. 7. And I heard a voice that said to me, 'Shimon! Rise up, slaughter, and eat.' 8. And I said, 'Elohim forbid my Master! For the unclean and the defiled has not ever entered upon my mouth.' 9. And again a voice from heaven said to me, 'That which Elohim has cleansed you should not regard as defiled.'<sup>135</sup> 10. This occurred three times<sup>136</sup> and everything was taken up to heaven. 11. And at that moment men who were sent to me from Qurnelius from Caesarea came and stood at the gate of the courtyard that I had lodged in. 12. And the Ruach said to me to go with them without doubt and those six brothers came with me also. And we entered the house of the man.

<sup>135</sup> The Ruach haKodesh (Set Apart Spirit) is confirmed in Gentile converts who were turning to YHWH; new converts were not to be viewed as unclean. Gentiles entering into the Kingdom of Elohim are instructed to NOT eat things sacrificed to idols, nor blood, nor things strangled (Acts 15:29). This is Torah directed by the Ruach haKodesh, not just as Jews as is popular Christian ideology, but also at the Gentiles who sought to worship YHWH. Sadly, the false church teaches all manner of lawlessness and anti-Torah doctrines, but Y'shua teaches in Matthew 5:19, that they who break the least of the Commandments will also be least in the Kingdom of Heaven. The Kedoshim (Set Apart) people in Mashiyach do not dine on swine, or any other unclean things according to Leviticus 11 and Deuteronomy 14. The Renewed Covenant, in Jeremiah 31, writes Torah upon the heart. See Matthew 5:17.

<sup>136</sup> Three times is not random, this fulfills an explicit requirement in Deuteronomy 17:6 that "at the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death." YHWH Himself is bearing witness to His own instructions; He will not break His own Torah so He provides three utterances to ensure that everyone understands that the fullest extent of the requirement has been met. There is no more critical place for the witnesses rule than in matters of capital crimes that require the death penalty. These (halakhic) principles through Mashiyach apply equally to Jews and all Goyim (nations, or Gentiles) who enter into Life in Y'shua.

13. And he reported to us how he saw a Messenger who stood in his house and said to him (to) send him to the city of Yoppa and bring Shimon who is called Keefa. 14. And he will speak with you words by which you will live, you and all your house. 15. And as I went out there to speak, the Ruach haKodesh rested upon them, as (how it did) upon us from before. 16. And I remembered the word of our Master when he said that, ‘Yochanan immersed with water, but you will immerse with the Ruach haKodesh.’ 17. If therefore Elohim gives in an equal way the gift to Gentiles, those who believe in our Master Y’shua the Mashiyach, as also to us, who was I that I should be able to hinder Elohim.” 18. And when they heard these words they became silent and they praised Elohim. And they were saying that, “Perhaps Elohim has given the Gentiles repentance to life.” 19. And those who were scattered by the persecution that happened on account of Stephen were reaching all the way to Poniqa, and even to the country of Qupros and to Antioch while they were not speaking with anyone, except only a word with the Jews. 20. Now there were men among them from Qupros and from Qorene. They were entering Antiochi and were speaking with Greeks and were preaching concerning our Master Y’shua. 21. And there was the hand of the Master among them, and many believed and turned face towards the Master. 22. And this was heard by the ears of the sons of the congregation in Urishlim. And they sent Bar-Naba to Antiochi. 23. And when he arrived there and saw the grace of Elohim, he rejoiced and was beseeching from them that they should be followers to our Master with all their heart. 24. Because he was a good man and he was filled with the Ruach haKodesh and with faith, many people were added to our Master. 25. And he was departing to Tarsus to seek Shaul. 26. When he found him, he brought him with him to Antioch. And they gathered as one, a whole year, and they taught many people in the congregation. From that time the disciples in Antiochi were first called Kristianay.<sup>137</sup> 27. And in those days prophets came from Urishlim to there. 28. And one from them arose whose name was Agabus, and informed them by the Spirit that a great famine would occur in all the area. And this famine happened in the days of Claudius Caesar. 29. And moreover, the disciples determined each one of them to send according to what he had to the service of the brothers, those who were dwelling in Yehud. 30. And they sent by way of Bar-Naba and Shaul to the elders who were there.

1. And at that time some were laying on hands to those who were in the congregation. But then, (in order to) harm them, (there was) Herodus the king, also known as Agripus.<sup>138</sup> 2. And he killed Ya’akov the brother of Yochanan with a sword. 3. And when he saw this pleased the Yehudeans he was proceeding to capture Shimon Keefa also. And these were the days of Unleavened Bread. 4. And he seized him and placed him in prison, and delivered him (to) sixteen soldiers to watch him so that after the Paskha (Passover)<sup>139</sup> he might deliver him to the people of the Yehudeans.

137 The Shlichim/Apostles do not call themselves “Kristyane” (Christians). The Shlichim are members of the Way, referred to as Netzarim (Acts 24:5, 12-14). Gentiles in Antioch coined the word “Kristyane,” a Greek term for “Messianics.” This Greek term was transliterated back into Aramaic for the benefit of the Jewish followers of Mashiyach.

138 Herodus the king, also known as Agripus. Herod the Great, the king who tried to murder the infant Y’shua, had three sons who followed after his death in late March of 4 BCE. According to the historian Josephus, Archelaus tried to seize power over all of his late father’s territory. However, the two other brothers pleaded with the Emperor Augustus, insisting the ascension of Archelaus was never intended by their father and in response Augustus divided Herod the Great’s territory into three portions. Archelaus got the area of Bethlehem, Jerusalem and Samaria, causing Y’shua’s earthly father to avoid his territory. Antipas was the son of Herod the Great who got much of Galilee and beheaded Yochanan the Immerser. Antipas also married Herodias while her husband and his brother Herod Phillip were still alive. This ruler however, also known as Agrippa I, was the son of Aristobulus IV, another son of Herod the Great who was assassinated by the king in 7 BCE. Agrippa died in 44 CE, shortly after Peter was released from prison and both Luke and Josephus broadly agree on the details of his death, that he was stricken by worms (Acts 12:21).

139 Passover, Aramaic Paskha or Hebrew Pesach was originally observed by Jewish and Elohim fearing Gentiles who followed Y’shua as one body. According to letters by Jerome, Polycarp a disciple of Shaliach Yochanan went to Rome in 147 CE to plead with "the church" to NOT bring Ishtar (Easter) into Christianity. Polycarp was burned at the stake for his efforts. Christians inserted the word "Easter" (KJV) here and the vast majority of Christians celebrate Easter rather than Pesach. Most Christians also paint "Easter eggs" which contributes to the advancement of Paganism within the church, not to mention that most folks already know that bunnies don't lay eggs. See Easter or Pesach in Appendix.

5. And after he, Shimon, was watched in prison, a constant prayer was offered by the congregation to Elohim for his sake. 6. And toward the dawn in that very night he was preparing to deliver him, as Shimon was bound by two chains sleeping among two soldiers and others were guarding the gate of the prison. 7. A Messenger of Master YHWH stood above him. And a light shined (from) him in all the building. And he struck him on his side and woke him and said to him, "Arise quickly!" And the chains fell quickly from his hands. 8. And the Messenger said to him, "Gird up your loins<sup>140</sup> and put on your sandals!" And he did so, and again he said to him, "Wrap (yourself with) your garment and come after me." 9. And he went out and he was following after him not realizing that it was true that happening was by the Messenger, for he was thinking that he was seeing a vision. 10. And after they passed the first watch, they came all the way to the gate of iron. And it was opened to them of its own will. And after they went out and passed one street the Messenger departed from his presence. 11. Then Shimon realized and said, "Now I know in truth that Master YHWH sent His Messenger and freed me from the hand of the king Herodus and from the thing which the Yehudeans had planned against me." 12. And after he understood he came to the house of Maryam, the mother of Yochanan, he who was named Marqus, because many brothers were gathered and praying there. 13. And he knocked on the gate of the courtyard and a girl whose name (was) Roda came out to answer him. 14. And she recognized the voice of Shimon, and in her joy she did not open the gate to him. Rather, she turned back quickly and said to them, "Behold Shimon stands at the gate of the courtyard." 15. They said to her, "You are very confused!" And she was contending that this was so. They said to her, "Perhaps it is his Messenger!" 16. And Shimon was knocking at the gate and they went out (and) saw him and they were amazed. 17. And he was waving his hand to them so as that he might silence them. And he entered and related to them how Master YHWH had brought him out from prison. And he said to them, "Proclaim these things to Ya'akov and to our Brothers!" And he went out (and) departed to another place. 18. And after it became morning there was a great uproar among the soldiers concerning Shimon - about what had happened to him. 19. Now after Herodus sought him and could not find him, he judged the guards and commanded them that they should die and he departed from Yehud and was in Caesarea. 20. And because he was angry at the Tyrians and at the Sidonians, they gathered and came to him as one and persuaded Blastus, the chamberlain of the king, and asked of him that they might have cultivated land,<sup>141</sup> because the provision of their country was from the kingdom of Herodus.<sup>142</sup> 21. Now on a notable day, Herodus was dressed in the clothing of the kingdom. And he sat upon the judgment seat and was speaking with the crowds. 22. And all the people were crying out and saying, "These sayings are of Elohim and are not of the sons of men!" 23. And because he did not give glory to Elohim, at that moment the Messenger of Master YHWH struck him, and he swarmed with worms and died! 24. And the Good News of Elohim was preached and it grew. 25. Now Bar-Naba and Shaul returned from Urishlim to Antiochi after they had finished their service. And they took with them Yochanan, he who was named Marqus.<sup>143</sup>

140 Gird up your loins. In this case these words are left intact rather than translate the idiom. This is the original usage of the term, and how it was used at the first Passover (Exodus 12:11), it means we must be dressed and ready to do the job.

141 Greek versions mistranslate this word as "peace"; a possible secondary meaning of this Aramaic word is "cultivated land" (c.f., Ya'akov 3:18 also mistranslated) - this reading makes far more sense contextually in a time of famine (c.f., Acts 11:28). (PY).

142 Herodus (Agrippa the First), is not to be confused with Herod Antipas who according to Josephus died in exile in Spain, or Herod Agrippa (the Second) who presided over Rav Shaul's trial in Acts 25. Josephus the historian writes: "He therefore looked upon his friends, and said, 'I, whom you call a god, am commanded presently to depart this life; while Providence thus reproves the lying words you just now said to me; and I, who was by you called immortal, am immediately to be hurried away by death.'" (Antiquities 19:343-350)

143 This is the same person who wrote the Gospel of Mark, probably at the direction and dictation of Peter, as the most ancient and reliable eastern and western traditions record. His Jewish name was Yochanan (John) whereas Marcus was a Roman name. It is Mark who will later abandon the Apostle Paul, and this apparently also leads to Rav Shaul not taking him on a later journey. However, all was forgiven towards the end of Rav Shaul's life when Mark and Paul were fully restored together in ministry (2 Timothy 4:11).

1. Now there were prophets and teachers in the congregation of Antioch; Bar-Naba, and Shimon who was called Niger, and Luquius who was from the city Qorena, and Manuel (a son of the rearers of the tetrarch Herodus), and Shaul. 2. And while they were fasting and supplicating to Elohim, the Ruach haKodesh said to them, "Set apart Shaul and Bar-Naba to me to do that which I have called them." 3. And after they had fasted and they had prayed, they laid hands upon them and they sent them. 4. And while they were being sent by the Ruach haKodesh (they) went down to Seluqya. And from there they traveled by sea up to Qupros. 5. And after they went in the city of Salamna (where) they were preaching the Instruction of our Master in the congregation of the Jews. And Yochanan was ministering to them. 6. And after they had traveled the entire island up to the city of Papos, they found a certain sorcerer prophet whose name was Bar-Shuma, a Jew who was a false. 7. A wise man (who was following this man) who was the proconsul and was called Sargius-Paul. And the proconsul called to Shaul and to Bar-Naba and was seeking to hear the Word of Elohim from them. 8. Now he was standing against them, this sorcerer Bar-Shuma, his name which is interpreted Alumas<sup>144</sup> because he was desiring to turn the proconsul from the faith. 9. Shaul who was called Paul was filled by the Ruach haKodesh and stared at him. 10. And he said, "O son of the accuser, full of deceits and all evils and enemy of all righteousness, you will not cease to pervert the straight paths of Master YHWH?<sup>145</sup> 11. And now the hand of the Master YHWH is upon you and you will be blind, and you will not see the sun for a time." And at that moment obscurity and darkness fell upon him and he was wandering about and seeking someone who would take (him) by his hand. 12. And after the proconsul saw the thing which had happened, he marveled and he believed in the teaching of Master YHWH. 13. Now Paul and Bar-Naba<sup>146</sup> journeyed from the city Papos by sea and they came to Perga, a city of Pamphylia. And Yochanan<sup>147</sup> separated from them and he went to Urishlim. 14. But they departed from Perga and came to Antioch, a city of Pisidia. And they entered into the congregation and they sat down on the day of the Shabbat.<sup>148</sup> 15. And after Torah and the prophets were read, the elders of the congregation sent for them and they said, Men, our brothers, if you have a word of comfort, speak with the people. 16. And Paul stood and waved his hand and said, "Men, the sons of Israel and those who fear Elohim, hear! 17. The Elohim of this people chose our forefathers and exalted and magnified them while they were sojourners in the land of Misrayin.<sup>149</sup> And with a high arm, He brought them out from it.<sup>150</sup> 18. And He nourished them forty years<sup>151</sup> in the wilderness. 19. And he destroyed seven nations<sup>152</sup> in the land of Canaan. And He gave their land to them (as) an inheritance. 20. And He gave judges to them four hundred and fifty years until Shmuel the prophet.<sup>153</sup>

145 Proverbs 10:9

146 This is Bar-Naba the Levite from Cyprus (Acts 4:36) who is attending congregations on Shabbat along with Rav Shaul, who must not be confused with Barnabus of Alexandria (a Christo-Pagan heretic) who wrote his own self styled anti-Semitic "Epistle of Barnabus" where he claimed to have heard the voice of Elohim who said: "I will make the beginning of the eighth day which is the beginning of another world." The Barnabus of Alexandria epistle became part of "the Gospel" for the Christian observance of Sunday as the "Lord's Day." Origen referred to his letter as "the Catholic epistle." The majority of Christians have been falsely led to believe that Bar-Naba wrote the anti-Torah, anti-Shabbat and anti-Semitic letter when in fact the letter was written by a Greek theologian in Alexandria, and is first referred to by Clement of Alexandria (150-216 AD) and then by Origen of Alexandria (185-254 AD). The Catholic Encyclopedia states, "The Epistle of Barnabas contains no clue to its author nor to those for whom it was intended." See Shabbat in Appendix.

147 That is, Yochanan-Marqos, a.k.a. Mark.

148 Shabbat is the 4th Commandment (of the Aseret HaDibrot - Ten Words/Commandments) which YHWH spoke to Israel; this is notable if one believes Y'shua to be the Word of the Living Elohim. The fourth letter of the Hebrew alef-bet is DALET, the door. The Shabbat is also a door into the Malchut Elohim, and not for Jews only; it's not a "Jewish Shabbat" but for all who follow Mashiyach. On the merits of the Word of YHWH and Mashiyach, the Shabbat is eternal. All true talmidim of Y'shua are diligent to enter into YHWH's Shabbat as the "Bride" of Mashiyach from Friday at sunset to Saturday at sunset, according to Revelation 21:9; Hosea 2; Jeremiah 17; Isaiah 56; 58; 62; 66; Ezekiel 46; Psalm 92, etc 149 Attendees at the congregation are addressed as “sons of Israel” and “those who fear Elohim”; the latter being a title given to Gentile believers as with Cornelius in Acts 10. This passage states that Gentiles who fear Elohim are included in the inheritance of the Hebrew forefathers who sojourned and then were liberated from Egypt.

151 Exodus 16:35; Numbers 14:34

153 Please see Judges 2:16 and The 450 Years of Acts 13:20 on page 793.

21. And then they requested a king, and forty years Elohim gave them Shaul, the son of Qish, a man from the tribe of Benjamin. 22. And He took him and raised Dawid the king for them. And He testified concerning him and said, 'I have found Dawid the son of Ayshe a man according to my heart; And he will do all of my will.'<sup>154</sup> 23. From the seed of this (man) Elohim raised Y'shua the Savior for Israel as was promised. 24. And He sent Yochanan before his coming to preach the immersion of repentance to all the people of Israel. 25. And after Yochanan completed his service, he said, 'Whom you do suppose that I am, I am not! But behold he (who) comes after me, I am not worthy to loosen the straps of his sandals!' 26. Men our brothers the sons of the tribe of Awraham and those who fear Elohim<sup>155</sup> among you, the Word of salvation, it is sent to you. 27. For those dwellers of Urishlim and their leaders understood him not, nor the books of the prophets which are read every week. Rather they condemned him and fulfilled everything that is written. 28. And while they could not find a cause for death whatsoever, they sought from Peelatos that they might kill him. 29. And after everything was fulfilled that was written concerning him, they took him down from the stake and placed him in the grave. 30. But Elohim raised him from the grave. 31. And he was seen many days by those who came down from Galeela with him to Urishlim. And they are now his witnesses to the people. 32. And also behold, we preach to you that the promise that which was to our forefathers, 33. behold Elohim has completed it to their children, to us, that He raised Y'shua. It is written in the second Psalm that, 'You are my Son. Today I have begotten you.' 34. And thus Elohim raised him from the grave so that he will not return again (and) see corruption as he said that, 'I will give the grace of Dawid the faithful to you.' 35. And again he said in another place that, 'You did not give your pure (one) to see corruption.' 36. For Dawid served the will of Elohim in his generation, and slept and was added to his fathers and saw corruption. 37. But this (man) whom Elohim raised did not see corruption. 38. Realize therefore my brothers that by him, this (man), the forgiveness (of) sins is announced to you. 39. And from all that which you were not able to be made righteous<sup>156</sup> by the Torah of Moshe, by this (man), everyone who believes is justified! 40. Beware therefore or else the thing which is written in the prophets should come upon you. 41. That: See you despisers and be astonished and be destroyed for a work I will work in your days, that which you will not believe (even) if someone tells (it) to you.' 42. And while they were departing from their midst, they beseeched from them that they might speak on another Shabbat these words to them. 43. And after the congregation was dismissed, many Jews went after them, and even proselytes who feared Elohim. And they were speaking and persuading them to be adherents of the grace of Elohim. 44. And on another Shabbat all the city gathered to hear the Word of Elohim. 45. And when the Jews saw the large gathering they were filled with envy and they were standing against the words that Paul was speaking. And they were blaspheming.

<sup>155</sup> Those who "Fear Elohim" refers to the "ger toshav" or "sojourner" (often mis-translated as "stranger") who join with Israel and enter into the Malchut Elohim. The Kingdom of Elohim is clearly open to all who are called, and who choose to enter in. These who "fear Elohim" is a term that specifically recognizes and honors those who are not Jewish by birth, although this is an attribute of all YHWH's people. These souls are likened to Avraham's 318 trained servants who have put their faith in YHWH. The faithful, "keep the Commandments of Elohim, and have the testimony of Y'shua." (Revelation 12:17).

<sup>156</sup> If a person would diligently observe all the Torah of Moshe, on their own strength, they could still never be "made righteous" because it is YHWH who makes righteous, not the act of observance itself. All observance of Torah must be based on Faith; we must recognize that our observance is according to the will of YHWH, and is done in a manner that is pleasing unto Him. The Torah of Moshe not only reveals Mashiach, but Mashiach is the fullness of Torah. It is Torah which establishes the criterion for Mashiach's righteousness. Sacrifice for sin and atonement are all established by Faith towards or "in" YHWH, and all Faith in YHWH points to Mashiach. YHWH's "own arm" via Mashiach brought Salvation. Therefore, it is impossible to be "justified" by Torah without faith in Mashiach. Belief in Mashiach goes to the heart of Faith. Torah cannot be negated or else Mashiach would be as well, because they are One!

46. But Paul and Bar-Naba spoke boldly to them, “Firstly, it was right that the Word of Elohim be spoken to them, but because you have pushed it away from yourselves and have determined among yourselves that you are not worthy of eternal life, behold we turn ourselves to the Gentiles. 47. For thus our Master commands us as it is written that, ‘I have prepared you (to be) a light to the Gentiles that you might be for life to the limits of the earth.’” 48. And while the Gentiles<sup>157</sup> were hearing, they were rejoicing and were glorifying Elohim. And those who believed were ordained to life that is everlasting. 49. And the Word of Master YHWH was spoken<sup>158</sup> in all that country. 50. But the Jews incited the rulers and with them, the wealthy women of the city, those who were fearing Elohim, and they raised a persecution against Paul and against Bar-Naba, and they drove them out from their borders. 51. And while they went out, they shook off the dust of their feet against them. And they came to the city Ieqanon. 52. And the disciples were filled with joy and the Ruach haKodesh.

Chapter 14

1. And they came and entered into the congregation of the Jews and thus they spoke among them so that many of the Jews and of the Greeks believed. 2. But those Jews, they who were not convinced, incited the Gentiles to ill-treat (them) the Brothers.<sup>159</sup> 3. And those days many were there and were openly preaching about Master YHWH. And He was witnessing concerning the Word of His Grace with miracles and with wonders that he was accomplishing by their hands. 4. And the entire people of the city were divided. Some of them were with the Jews and some were adhering to the Shlichim. 5. Now a threat came upon them from the Gentiles and from the Jews and their rulers that they might torment them and they might stone them with rocks. 6. And after they found out, they departed and sought refuge in Lostra and Derbe the cities of Logania. 7. And they were preaching there. 8. And a certain man was sitting in the city Lostra who never did walk, who was afflicted lame in his legs from the womb of his mother. 9. This (man) listened to Paul as he spoke, and after Paul saw him and realized that there is faith in him that he might live, 10. He said to him in a loud voice, “I say to you in the name of our Master Y’shua haMashiyach, rise up upon your legs!” And he rose leaping and walked! 11. And after the crowd of people saw the thing that Paul did, they lifted up their voices in the language of the land and said: The (false) deities do resemble the sons of men, and they have come down to us. 12. And they named Bar-Naba the Master of Deities and Paul they named Hermes because he began in speech. 13. And the priest of the Master of Deities, one who was outside of the city, brought bulls and wreaths to the gate of the courtyard where they stayed, and desired to offer a sacrifice to them. 14. But Bar-Naba and Paul, after they heard, they tore their garments and leaped and went out among the multitude and cried out.

157 Gentile followers of Yeshua originally met with Jewish followers in synagogues and were rightfully welcomed as equals into Netzari Judaism, the original Faith taught by Y’shua and his followers. Isaiah 11:10 states; “And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious.” This “root of Jesse” points to Mashiyach Y’shua. Isaiah 42:1-4 states; “Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delights; I have put My spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles. He shall not cry, nor lift up, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street. A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: he shall bring forth judgment unto truth. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he has set judgment in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his Torah.” Verse 6 continues; I YHWH have called you in righteousness, and will hold your hand, and will keep you, and give you for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles.” Isaiah 60:1-3 “Arise, shine; for your light is come, and the glory of YHWH is risen upon you. For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but YHWH shall arise upon you, and His glory shall be seen upon you. And the Gentiles shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising.” See also Isaiah 2:2; 34:1-2; 43:9-13; 52:14-53:12; 62:1-5; Jer. 4:1-2; Micah 4:1-3; Malachi 1:11; Psalm 86:9. However early Rabbinical traditions neglected Y’shua as Mashiyach and the importance for Gentiles to also have Torah written upon their hearts.

158 The original Word of YHWH (Torah) is being preached by the followers of Mashiyach unto the Gentiles; see 1 Peter 1:25. We must always remember that the foundation of Torah is “spirit”; the letter serves to awaken the spiritual need within us.

159 The same dynamics are played out today, brothers ill-treating brothers over religion. Religion is destroying marriages, breaking up families, wiping out businesses and livelihoods. Religion justifies lies, steals and cheats; "religious spirits" use anger, fear, intimidation, threats, violence and ill treatment to those who don't come under religious authority. Believers are being persecuted and rejected by their synagogues, churches, family and friends because they want to pursue the Kingdom of Heaven in Spirit and in Truth. The Kingdom of Heaven is not of this world. Y'shua brought a Government that is not of this world. The sufferings of this life are nothing when the Kingdom of Heaven lives within us. We Bless those who curse us, we do good to those who hate us, this is the substance of the Kingdom of Heaven within us.

15. And they said, “Men, what are you doing? We are also sons of men, passionate like yourselves who are preaching to you that you should turn from these useless things towards the living Elohim who made the heavens and the earth and the seas and all there that is in them. 16. He who in previous times allowed all those from the nations, to go in their own ways. 17. While He did not allow Himself without a testimony in that He did much<sup>160</sup> for them. And He caused rain to descend from heaven. And He caused fruit to grow in their seasons. And He filled their hearts with cheer<sup>161</sup> and gladness.” 18. And while they had spoken these things, they barely restrained the people so that a man did not offer a sacrifice to them. 19. Now there came Jews from Ieqanon and from Antioch and incited the people against them. And they stoned Paul and dragged him away from the city, because they thought that he had died. 20. The disciples gathered around him and he rose up (and) entered the city. And on another day, he departed from there with Bar-Naba and came to the city Derbe. 21. And as they were preaching to the sons of that city they made many disciples. And they returned (and) came to the city Lostra and to Ieqanon and to Antioch. 22. After they had strengthened the souls of the disciples and had beseeched from them to remain in the faith, and had said to them that, It is right by much tribulation to enter into the Kingdom of Elohim. 23. And they raised up elders<sup>162</sup> in every congregation for them after they had fasted and prayed with them and they had committed them to our Master, he in whom they believed. 24. And while they traveled in the country of Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia. 25. And after they spoke the Instruction<sup>163</sup> of Master YHWH<sup>164</sup> in the city Perge, they went down to Attalia. 26. And from there they journeyed by sea and they came to Antioch, because from there they committed the work that which they completed to the grace of Master YHWH. 27. And after they gathered all the congregation, they conveyed everything that Elohim did among them. And that He opened the gate of faith to the Gentiles. 28. And they remained there much time with the disciples.

Chapter 15

1. Now men came down from Yehud teaching the brothers that unless you are circumcised in the manner of Torah, you are not able to live.<sup>165</sup> 2. And there was a great commotion and a debate between (them and) Paul and Bar-Naba. And it happened with them on account of this debate that Paul and Bar-Naba and the others with them went up to the Shlichim and the elders who were in Urishlim. 3. The congregation conducted (and) sent them. And they journeyed in all Phonicia and also Samaria as they related about the reconciliation of the Gentiles. And they caused great joy to all the Brothers. 4. And when they came to Urishlim, they were received by the congregation and by the Shlichim and by the elders. And they narrated to them every thing that Elohim did among them.

---

160 Greeks mistranslated this word as “good.” (PY).

161 This word was mistranslated as “food.” (PY).

162 Elders are qualified based on Shemot/Exodus 18:21 (1) chayil (valiant/competent); (2) Elohim Fearing (not man pleasers); (3) men of Truth (don’t bend to the status quo); and (4) hate covetousness. Elders are on the Beit Din and/or subject to a beit din. Their authority is not structured like a hierarchial pyramid, but as servants and equals. Christianity adopted a hierarchical pyramid authority of men with the top man being “infallible”; this pattern is of Nimrod, not of Mashiach. See Matthew 23:9-11 and Beit Din in Appendix.

163 Torah is defined as “instruction in righteousness.” Shaul and all other Shlichim/Apostles of Y’shua give instruction according to the Torah of YHWH. The Way of Netzari and Elohim Fearers who follow Y’shua is Torah. By incorrectly defining Torah as “the Law” Christianity has failed to recognize that Torah is a Faith component (terms and conditions) within the Covenant of Love between YHWH and His people. Our “Heavenly Father” YHWH gives and maintains instruction in righteousness for all His children.

164 Here again, the fact that Aramaic clearly distinguishes YHWH from Y’shua is of extreme help. In this instance, the Gentiles are hearing not the words of the talmidim or even Y’shua, but the Instruction – Torah – of YHWH Himself! This is also why Y’shua often said that his teaching was not his own but is from his Father YHWH.

165 This is the teaching of those who later became known as the Ebionites, or “Messianic Pharisees” (see footnote on Titus 3:9). Also note that the "life" being mentioned by these proto-Ebionites is, in fact, Eternal Life; hence a very serious allegation! "Torah" is often confused with the religion of Judaism or the Pharisees or Orthodox Jews yet throughout Y'shua's ministry he showed how Torah is being grossly misinterpreted. Y'shua teaches, "Why also do you transgress against the Commandments of Elohaim because of your traditions?" Distinctly oral law, the Talmud, and the religious traditions of the Pharisees is making the Torah void. Just before Stephen was stoned to death he cried out, "You have received Torah by way of the command of Messengers and you have not kept it!" (Acts 7:53) Apostle Paul teaches both Jews and Christians, "Do, we then nullify Torah by faith? May it never be! On the contrary, we establish Torah." (Romans 3:31). It is vitally important that we do not view Torah through the religious eyes of Judaism or Christianity, but through Mashiych.

5. Now some stood up, those who believed from the teaching of the Pharisees. And they said that, It is necessary for you to circumcise them and you should command them to guard<sup>166</sup> the Torah of Moshe. 6. The Shlichim and elders gathered together to look into this matter. 7. And after a great debate occurred, Shimon arose and said to them, “Men, brothers, you know that from prior days from my mouth (mine) Elohim chose that the Gentiles would hear the words of the Good News and they would believe. 8. And Elohim who knows what is in the hearts testified concerning them and gave to them the Ruach haKodesh as (he did) to us. 9. And He differentiates nothing between them and us because He cleansed their hearts by faith. 10. And now, why do you test Elohim so as to place a yoke<sup>167</sup> upon the neck of the disciples that which not even our forefathers nor us were able to carry? 11. But by the grace of our Master Y’shua the Mashiyach, we believe that we are saved as are they.” 12. And all the crowd became quiet and they were listening to Paul and to Bar-Naba as they were relating everything that Elohim did by their hands - miracles and wonders among the Gentiles. 13. And after they became quiet, Ya’akov arose and said, “Men, brothers, listen to me. 14. Shimon related to you how Elohim began to choose from the Gentiles a people for his name. 15. And to this end the words of the prophets are fulfilled as it is written: 16. ‘That after these (things), I will return and raise up the tabernacle of Dawid, that which fell. And I will build the thing that fell off from it and I will raise it up. 17. So that the remainder of mankind and all the Gentiles will seek YHWH, those who My Name is called over them, said Master YHWH who made all these things.’ 18. The works of Elohim are known from eternity. 19. Because of this (I) say that you should not be oppressors to them from the Gentiles who are turning to Elohim. 20. But we will send (word) to them that they should abstain from uncleanness of sacrifices (to idols) and from adultery and from things that are strangled and from blood.<sup>168</sup> 21. For from ancient generations in all cities Moshe had preachers in the synagogues that on every Shabbat they read him.”<sup>169</sup> 22. Then the Shlichim and the elders with all the congregation chose men from among them and sent (them) to Antiochi with Paul and Bar-Naba and also Yehuda who is called Bar-Shaba and Shila and men leaders who were among them, among the Brothers. 23. And they wrote an epistle by their hands thus: The Shlichim and the Elders and the Brothers to those who are in Antiochi and in Syria and in Cilicia. Brothers who are from the Gentiles, peace. 24. We have heard that some men from us went out and confused you with words and have agitated your souls, saying that, You should be circumcised and guard the religious customs,<sup>170</sup> something that we did not command them.

166 “Guard” in this case refers to putting up of fences (Pirkei Avot 1:1) around Torah, not simply obeying the written Word. Part of this “fence” known as religious halakha, minhagim or tradition, requires a person to be circumcised before learning about having a relationship with YHWH, and why Torah must be applied to our lives. This tradition overturns the peshat (plain) meaning of many Torah requirements. The context is shown earlier in the passage where it reads, “those who believed from the teachings of the Pharisees,” as opposed to the teachings of Torah. In other cases, however, “guarding” is considered a noble endeavor, provided it neither contradicts, adds, nor takes away from Torah in favor of man made traditions.

167 This yoke is referring to the Oral Law, not the Written Torah of Moshe. The Oral Torah (Talmud) has put many additional burdens on Jews, and greatly limited the ability of Gentiles to join with Israel. See Judaizers in Appendix.

168 That which is “sacrificed” unto other gods according to YHWH’s Word in D’varim/Deuteronomy 32:17 is sacrificed unto devils. Vayikra/Leviticus 17:12-16 commands that Jew and Ger (foreigner) NOT eat blood, or any animals that die of themselves. The prohibition against fornication is wide spectrum, against all manner of physical perversion and spiritual whoredom. These Torah directives are eternally binding on all who follow Y’shua Mashiyach and who seek the Malchut (Kingdom) of Elohim. Also, Khabouris has an isolated qoph here, between the words “we” and “send.”

169 A very clear fulfillment of Isaiah 56:1-9. Gentile converts are observing Shabbat and learning Torah as one body along with Jews. Shortly thereafter, Marcion, whom Polycarp referred to as “the firstborn of the devil” built the first all-Gentile church to promote Christo-Paganism. Marcion held his services on Sunday which blended with Zeus (the sun god) culture and projected a hybrid Je-Zeus identity in opposition to the Jewish Mashiyach. The modern theologies of Je-zeus Christos are based more on Hellenism than on original fundamental Hebraic values. Marcion coined the words “Old - New Testament” and did his very best to warn Gentiles away from Torah and “the God of the Old Testament.” Marcion invented theologies known as replacement, dispensational, supercessionism, etc., which are very popular among Christianity today. See Y’shua to Zeus in Appendix.

170 The word namusa generally means “Torah” but by context of usage may also mean “custom.” When namusa stands alone in a sentence it usually means Torah. Jeremiah 9 specifically says that circumcision in the flesh (because it is a local custom in Edom, Moab, Egypt) does not satisfy Covenantal obligation with YHWH; moreover, circumcision in the flesh alone profits nothing. Unless a person plans to live an upright life to establish his circumcision, it is an effort in futility. Awaraham was circumcised at age 99 after receiving the commandment directly from YHWH; therefore, each adult also must first be called and agree to enter into Covenant with YHWH. The Shlichim/Apostles did not require or demand circumcision for new converts without first the study-faith context and intent of the heart. To be circumcised before having FAITH in YHWH was contrary to the halakha (way to walk) of Y'shua and the Netzarim, but not contrary to the Oral Law and customs of the Pharisees. New converts to Y'shua from the sect of the Pharisees were attempting to bring their customs into the Body of Mashiach, which was and is unacceptable. While Torah commanded that all infants be circumcised at eight days of age, it also requires adult men coming into the faith to become circumcised themselves first, as was done with Abraham at the ripe old age of 99. The point was though that the Gentiles from the beginning were expected to progressively grow and apply Torah more thoroughly as time went on, not simply stop at a few basic commandments.

25. Because of this, we deliberated, all of us, after we gathered together and we chose men and sent them to you with our beloved Paul and Bar-Naba, 26. men who have committed their souls for the sake of the Name of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 27. And we sent Yehuda and Shila with them who by their words they will tell you these things. 28. For there was a determination upon the Ruach haKodesh and also upon us that a greater burden should not be placed upon you except those things that are necessary. 29. That you should stay away from that which is sacrificed (to idols)<sup>171</sup> and from blood and from a strangled thing<sup>172</sup> and from fornication<sup>173</sup> that as you keep your souls from these things you will be well. Be true in our Master (Y'shua). 30. Now those who were sent came to Antikia and gathered all the people and they delivered the epistle. 31. And after they read they were encouraged and they rejoiced. 32. And with an abundant word strengthened the Brothers and established those of the household of Yehuda and Shila, for they were also prophets. 33. And after they were there a while, the Brothers released them in peace to the Shlichim. 34. Verse 34 is nonexistent in the Eastern Peshitta<sup>174</sup> 35. Now Paul and Bar-Naba remained in Antiochi and were teaching and preaching the Word of Elohim with many others. 36. And after a few days Paul said to Bar-Naba, Let us return and visit the Brothers in every city that we have preached the Word of Elohim in it. And let us see what they are doing. 37. Now Bar-Naba was desiring to take Yochanan, he who was called Marqus. 38. Now Paul did not desire to take him with them because he did leave them while they (were) in Pampolia, and he did not go with them. 39. Because of this dispute they separated from one the other and Bar-Naba took Marqus and traveled by sea and they went to Qupros. 40. Paul now chose Shila and departed while being entrusted by the Brothers to the grace of Elohim.<sup>175</sup> 41. And he was traveling in Syria and in Cilicia and establishing assemblies.<sup>176</sup>

1. And he came to the city Derbe, and to Lystra. And there was a certain disciple there, whose name was Timothy, the son of a believing Jewish lady, but his father was a Gentile. 2. And all the disciples of Lystra and Iconium gave good testimony of him. 3. Paul was inclined to take him with him: and he took him, and circumcised him,<sup>177</sup> because of the Jews that were in that region; for they all knew that his father was a Gentile. 4. And as they went among the cities, they preached and taught them, that they should observe those instructions which the Shlichim and Elders at Urishlim had written. 5. And so were the assemblies established in the faith, and were increased in number daily. 6. And they traveled through the regions of Phrygia and Galatia; and the Ruach haKodesh forbade them to speak the Word of Elohim in Asia. 7. When they came into the region of Mysia, they were disposed to go from there into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Y'shua did not permit them. 8. And when they departed from Mysia, they came down to the region of Troas. 9. And in a night vision, there appeared to Paul, a man of Macedonia, who stood and pleaded with him, saying: Come to Macedonia and help us.

<sup>171</sup> Ex 20:4; Lev 17:7; 19:4; 26:1; Deut 4:16-25

<sup>172</sup> "Strangled thing" specifically refers to animals that have not been ritually slaughtered and therefore still have blood in them. See Lev 7:26-27; Lev 17:13-14; Deut 12:16, 23; 15:23.

<sup>173</sup> Lev 18:19-30; Lev 20:10-21; Deut 22:13-30

<sup>176</sup> At this point Paul Younan's notes cease, and so I trust that the notes preserved thus far speak volumes to Paul Younan's Aramaic expertise and scholarship. (AR).

<sup>177</sup> Paul's extensive training under Rabbi Gamliel were preparing him to serve the Jewish people as an itinerant rabbi and teacher, and he would have learned the skills of a mohel to perform brit milah (the covenant of circumcision). Paul performed the circumcision for Timothy so Timothy would be recognized and honored as shomer mitzvot (observe the Commandments). Circumcision is an act of obedience, although used as a religious symbol of "ownership and identity" in rabbinical Judaism (much like baptism in Christianity), it does not negate what YHWH originally intended. The act of circumcision requires the removal of flesh, symbolizing a man leaving his old fleshy, carnal nature behind and taking on the new spiritual nature of Mashiyach, the one new man. Both brit mila (circumcision) and mikveh (baptism) are Faith actions of allegiance to YHWH and His Mashiyach according to Torah. Regrettably, many Christians have come to resist and even detest circumcision as a "Jewish thing" rather than a Kingdom thing. Please see footnote on Galatians 5:2.

10. And when Paul had seen this vision, immediately we<sup>178</sup> were desirous to depart for Macedonia; because we inferred, that our Master called us to preach to them. 11. And we sailed from Troas, and came direct to Samothrace; and from there, on the following day, we came to the city Neapolis. 12. And from there to Philippi, which is the chief (city) of Macedonia, and is a colony. And we remained in that city certain days. 13. And on the Shabbat day, we went without the gate of the city to the side of a river, because a house of prayer<sup>179</sup> was seen there. And when we were seated, we conversed with the women who there assembled. 14. And a certain woman who feared Elohim, a seller of purple, whose name was Lydia, from the city of Thyatira, (was there). Her heart our Master opened, and she listened to what Paul spoke. 15. Then she was immersed, and her household. And she begged us, saying: If you are really persuaded that I have believed in our Master (Y'shua), come and take lodging in my house. And she urged us greatly. 16. And it occurred that, as we were going to the house of prayer, a certain maid met us, who had a spirit of divination, and who procured for her lords great gain by the divination which she performed.<sup>180</sup> 17. Then she followed after Paul and us, and cried, saying: "These men are the servants of the Most High Elohim, and they announce to you the path of life." 18. And this she did many days. And Paul was indignant; and he said to that spirit, "I command you, in the name of Y'shua Mashiach, that you come out of her." And it came out the same hour. 19. And when her masters saw that the prospect of their gain from her was gone, they seized Paul and Silas, and dragging them along brought them to the market-place, 20. and set them before the soldiers and the chiefs of the city, and said: "These men disturb our city; for they are Jews,<sup>181</sup> 21. and they preach to us customs, which it is not Lawful<sup>182</sup> for us to receive and to practice, because we are Romans." 22. And a great company was collected against them. Then the soldiers stripped them of their garments, and commanded to scourge them. 23. And when they had scourged them a great deal, they cast them into the prison, and commanded the warden of the prison to keep them with care. 24. And he, having received this command, carried and placed them in the inner part of the prison, and confined their feet in the stocks. 25. Then at midnight Paul and Silas were praying and glorifying Elohim: and the prisoners heard them. 26. And suddenly there was a great earthquake, and the foundations of the prison were shaken; and at once all the doors opened, and the bands of all were loosed. 27. When the warden of the prison awoke, and saw that the doors of the prison were open, he took a sword and sought to kill himself; because he supposed the prisoners had escaped. 28. But Paul called to him, in a loud voice, and said: "Do yourself no harm, for we are all here." 29. And he lighted for himself a lamp, and sprang and came in, trembling, and fell at the feet of Paul and Silas. 30. And he brought them out, and said to them: "My masters, what must I do, that I may have life?"

178 The use of the term "they" in verse 8 followed by "we" in verse 10 may indicate that Luke signed on with the others at this point in the journey, and is now including himself in the narrative. Because of this, I have long held that Acts began as Luke's travel journal from this moment and then he filled in the introduction to Theophilus/Tawpeela, and the material from Acts 1:1-16:7 at a later time.

179 Prayer is the central focus of our spirituality in the Kingdom of Heaven. Prayer on Shabbat is a time to draw close to our Father and reaffirm our Master YHWH's Creation and His Kadosh Torah; it is time of restoration and healing. YHWH never made Shabbat prayer exclusive to Jews any more than He allowed His creation to make and worship other gods, to murder, commit adultery, steal, lie or covet. Shabbat existed 2,500 years before Yehudim (the Jewish people); it was reestablished on Mount Sinai along with a "mixed multitude" of souls from every culture and religion on earth. YHWH gave His Shabbat to all human life, and He regulates Shabbat observance by the Ruach haKodesh within each of us to bring Joy, Beauty, and Delight to our spirits. Shabbat is a universal celebration of Creation and Life. This Shabbat "house of prayer" is a place where the Ruach haKodesh visits and ministers to those who come for prayer and hear from the Spirit of YHWH. Shabbat is a Set Time, and weekly appointed time that YHWH gave for all His people to be in fellowship with Him.

180 Under the direction of the divining spirit, the maid was making great financial gain for her masters. The same divining spirits assist key leaders in business, religion, government, the entertainment industry etc., to make great profits. Unclean spirits specialize in the exploitation of emotion, fear, sensuality, anger, covetousness, pride and all form of human insecurity to make great financial gain for its executives, producers, directors, investors, and "talent." Better is a little, with righteousness.

181 In 42 CE Greek followers of Y'shua were first called Kristyane (Christians), while this other event happened 8 years later in 50 CE. At this time Judaism and Christianity could be punishable by death under Roman law. Paul and Silas are referred to to as Jews, not Christians. Jewish followers of Y'shua were referred to as Jews because they lived as Jews, worshipped as Jews and in fact are Jews, not Christians. For many years Goy (Gentiles) who were turning to Y'shua and Torah never knew such thing as a Christian identity, they knew Y'shua, Torah and the Kingdom of Heaven. See Gentiles and Ger Toshav in Appendix. 182 And much of what is "lawful" according to Roman Christianity is unlawful and against Y'shua Mashiach, Apostle Paul and Torah. Greek philosophy, Hellenism and paganism are not the Faith of Mashiach Y'shua. Mashiach did not die to make Atonement for us so that we could establish churches of lawlessness and institutions of Hellenistic learning.

31. And they said to him: “Believe on the name of our Master Y’shua Mashiyach, and you will have life, you and your house.” 32. And they spoke the Word of Master YHWH<sup>183</sup> to him, and to all the members of his house. 33. And the same hour of the night, he took and washed them from their stripes; and he was immersed immediately, he and all the members of his house. 34. Then he took them and brought them into his house, and set a table for them; and he rejoiced in the faith of Elohim, he and all the members of his house. 35. And when it was morning, the soldiers sent rod-bearers to say to the warden of the prison: Let those men loose. 36. And when the warden of the prison heard (it), he went in, and said the same thing to Paul; (namely), that the soldiers have sent (word) that you be set free. And now, (said he), “Go out, and depart in peace.” 37. But Paul said to him: “They have scourged us, unoffending men, and Romans, before all the world, and have cast us into prison; and now, do they secretly let us out? No, surely: but let them come themselves and bring us out.” 38. And the rod-bearers went and told to the prefects the words which were told to them: and when they heard that they were Romans, they were afraid, 39. and came to them, and entreated of them that they would come out, and that they would leave the city. 40. When they came out from the prison, they entered the house of Lydia; and there they saw the Brothers, and comforted them, and departed.

Chapter 17

1. And they passed through the cities of Amphipolis and Apollonia, and came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews. 2. And Paul, as was his custom, went in to them; and during three Shabbats<sup>184</sup> he spoke with them from the Scriptures; 3. expounding and showing, that the Mashiyach was to suffer, and to arise from the dead, and that this Y’shua whom I announce to you is the Mashiyach. 4. And some of them believed, and adhered to Paul and Silas; and of those Greeks who feared Elohim, a great many; and also of noted women, not a few. 5. But the Jews were indignant, and gathered to themselves evil men from the marketplace of the city, and formed a great mob; and they alarmed the city, and came and assaulted the house of Jason, and sought to draw them from it, and to deliver them up to the mob. 6. And when they found them not there, they drew Jason and the Brothers who were there, and brought them before the chiefs of the city, crying out: “These are they who have terrified all the country; and lo, they have come hither also: 7. and this Jason is their entertainer: and they all resist the commands of Caesar, saying that there is another king, one Y’shua.” 8. And the chiefs of the city and all the people, were alarmed when they heard these things. 9. And they took bail from Jason, and also from the Brothers, and then released them. 10. And the Brothers immediately, on the same night, sent away Paul and Silas to the city of Berea. And when they came there, they entered into the synagogue of the Jews.

183 True Faith is all about believing on the name of Y’shua, and learning and living according to the Word of YHWH. Notice that Paul preaches Mashiyach and teaches Torah to the Gentiles, unlike mainstream Christianity which teaches a different “Paul” who did away with Torah.

184 From the time Paul first began his ministry (circa 37 CE) until he was beheaded in 67 CE, it is Apostle Paul’s custom to attend synagogues wherever he travelled. Many came to know Y’shua and enter into the Kingdom of Heaven because of his boldness. Each synagogue has a Torah scroll, and the Prophets and Writings; it is from these scrolls that Paul taught and that every follower of Y’shua trusts in the Covenant that YHWH has given. YHWH raised up the Jewish people and a remnant of righteousness within Judaism that has benefitted every follower of Y’shua, regardless if many Jews have chosen to make themselves enemies of the Good News and the Kingdom of Heaven. Y’shua and Paul based their teachings on YHWH’s Torah, not on rabbinical Judaism, Greek philosophies or Hellenism. As devastating as it is that many Jews reject Y’shua as Mashiyach, it is equally devastating that many Christians have rejected the lifestyle of Y’shua and Paul. Y’shua, Paul and the Shlichim all sanctified the Shabbat of YHWH and Torah. Throughout their lives they sanctified Torah along with the Jews who were also shomer mitzvot. The Apostles loved and lived and died for their Jewish people and those who would come after them and seek the Ancient Paths of Torah and the Kingdom of Heaven. To the same degree that Jews don’t understand Mashiyach; Christians don’t understand Torah. Jews listen and believe in anti-Y’shua teachers and Christians listen and believe in anti-Torah teachers. The time is now dear brethren to go to YHWH in prayer through the Ruach haKodesh and ask YHWH to open our hearts to the beauty of Y’shua and His Torah. Now is the time to examine our hearts and purge out any “religious spirit” that is not of YHWH. It is time to make a bold move and put away religious pride, walk in humility and thirst for the Word of YHWH to live inside of us. None of us have come through life unscathed by religious spirits; we’ve had to carefully wend our way through the land mines of false teaching, religious pride and our own self-sufficiency. The book of Acts is alive here and now, this is not old Bible history, the spiritual elements we are reading are up close and personal for us today. However, being embedded in a religious community (Jewish or Christian) can shelter us from the daily interfaces between these two Faiths. Regardless of what rabbis or Christian religious leaders say about Torah, it is what YHWH says that matters. It is YHWH through His Mashiyach that we trust for our salvation, not the religions of men. True followers of Y’shua are radical seekers of Truth, this is our only reasonable response to Mashiyach for what he has done for each of us.

11. For the Jews there were nobler than the Jews of Thessalonica; and they gladly heard the word from them daily, and searched from the Scriptures whether these things were so. 12. And many of them believed; and so likewise of the Greeks, many men, and women of note. 13. And when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the Word of Elohim was preached by Paul in the city of Berea, they came there also, and they did not cease to excite and alarm the people. 14. And the Brothers sent away Paul, that he might go down to the sea. But Silas and Timothy abode in that city. 15. And they who accompanied Paul, went with him to the city of Athens. And when they departed from him, they received an epistle from him to Silas and Timothy, that they should come to him speedily. 16. And while Paul was waiting (for them) at Athens, he was pained in his spirit; because he saw that the whole city was full of idols. 17. Then, when in the synagogue, he spoke with the Jews, and with those that feared Elohim,<sup>185</sup> and in the market-place with them who daily assembled there. 18. And also philosophers of the sect of Epicureans, and others who were called Stoics, disputed with him. And one and another of them said: What does this babblers or words mean? Others said: He preaches foreign deities; because he preached to them Y'shua and his resurrection. 19. And they took him and brought him to the place of judgments called Areopagus, and said to him: May we know what this new doctrine which you preach about is? 20. For you scatter in our ears strange words; and we wish to know what they are. 21. For all the Athenians and the foreigners residing there, cared for nothing else but to tell or to hear something new. 22. And as Paul stood in the Areopagus,<sup>186</sup> he said: "Men, Athenians, I perceive that in all things you are excessive in the worship of demons."<sup>187</sup> 23. For, as I was rambling about, and viewing the temples of your worship, I met with an altar, on which was inscribed, TO THE HIDDEN DEITY.<sup>188</sup> Therefore, (the Deity) whom you worship without knowing Him, the very same I announce to you. 24. For the Deity who made the world and all that is in it, and who is Master of heaven and of earth, dwells not in temples made with hands. 25. Nor is he ministered to by human hands, neither has he any wants; for it is He who gives life and breath to every man. 26. And of one blood has he made the whole world of men, that they might dwell on the face of all the earth: and he has by his command separated the seasons; and has set bounds to the lifespan of mankind: 27. that they might inquire and search after Elohim, and, by means of his creations, might find him; because he is not distant from each one of us: 28. for in him it is we who live, and move, and exist: as one of your own wise men has said: From him is our family. 29. Therefore we, whose lineage is from Elohim, should not suppose that Elohim has the likeness of gold, or silver, or stone, sculptured by the art and skill of men."<sup>189</sup>

185 "Elohim Fearers" are non-Jewish followers of Y'shua who worshipped in synagogues along with Jews.

186 Areopagus (meaning "Rock of Ares") was the location of a high court that ruled over criminal and civil matters in Athens Greece, located a stone's throw from the Acropolis. An ancient proverb says there were "more gods in Athens than men." The Romans later renamed it "Mars Hill" after "Mars" their name for this same deity of war. It is now a popular destination for Christian tourists. Vacation brochures say that Athens now has churches on "every corner of every street." Mars Hill, although a pagan term, is now being used for the names of churches and institutions of Christian learning.

187 Etheridge and Murdock render shaida, as demons. Lamsa didn't believe in demons so he inserted "idols", from a technical standpoint in verse 16 shaida is best rendered as "idols" and here as "demons". Later on Rav Shaul (Apostle Paul) will make the point that to worship idols is to worship demons.

188 Western theologians characterize Apostle Paul as a theological mensch with a backbone of steel in doctrinal matters, whereas the Eastern mind sees a man of prayer and spirituality. Paul is "pained in his spirit" with the idolatry in Athens. On Shabbat he shares his grief with fellow worshippers in the synagogue. He goes to the market daily and teaches about Y'shua and his resurrection to philosophers and idol worshippers (Acts 17:16-18). Paul's message about Y'shua and the resurrection is hard for their ears so they take him to the judges. Paul teaches that YHWH gives life and breath to all. We are all of one blood. He is not distant. He commands all men everywhere to repent. He will judge the earth with righteousness. Paul speaks to their hearts and spiritual needs, to the imperative need of having a relationship with YHWH. Wherever Paul travels he attends synagogue on Shabbat, he is a man of prayer, teaching us to "pray unceasingly" and often asks for prayer. It is through his prayer centered spiritual heart that his love for the souls of idol worshippers is born. Y'shua didn't birth a new "doctrine" in Paul, he birthed a new spirit, the new spiritual man that blesses those who curse us, prays for those who spitefully use us.

189 Religion is simply a collection of beliefs. Any idea, theory or thing that is given honor or glorification, that requires belief or faith has godlike "high place" status. The 19th Century theory of Evolution is a "high place" for its believers. The 20th Century New Age belief in spiritual relativism, pluralism and humanism is another "high place." Whether bowing down to an idol of gold or the religious ideas of a guru, rabbi, pastor, priest, professor, textbook on evolutionary biology, or Master YHWH, the fact is; you have to serve somebody. Just as Paul is calling people out of paganism, so is the Ruach haKodesh calling YHWH's people out of all false religion that does not honor YHWH, His Mashiych Y'shua and Torah.

30. And the times of this error Elohim has made to pass away; and at the present time, he commands all men, that each individual, in every place, should repent. 31. Because He has appointed a day, in which He will judge all the earth, with righteousness, by the man whom he has designated: and he turns every man to faith in him, in that he raised him from the dead.” 32. And when they heard of the resurrection from the dead, some of them ridiculed, and others of them said: At another time, we will hear you on this matter. 33. And so Paul departed from among them. 34. And some of them adhered to him, and believed; one of these was Dionysius<sup>190</sup> from among the judges of Areopagus, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

1. And when Paul departed from Athens, he went to Corinth. 2. And he found there a Jewish man from the region of Pontus whose name was Aquila. (And Aquila) had just then arrived from the country of Italy, (with) his wife Priscilla, because Claudius Caesar had commanded that all Jews should depart from Rome. And he went to them 3. and, because he was of their trade, he took lodgings with them, and worked with them; for by their trade they were saddle-makers.<sup>191</sup> 4. And he spoke in the synagogue every Shabbat, and persuaded the Jews and Gentiles.<sup>192</sup> 5. And when Silas and Timothy had come from Macedonia, Paul was impeded in discourse, because the Jews stood up against him, and reviled, as he testified to them that Y’shua is the Mashiyach. 6. And he shook his garments, and said to them: “From now on I am clean; I take myself to the Gentiles.” 7. And he went away, and entered into the house of a certain man named Titus, one who feared Elohim, and whose house adjoined the synagogue. 8. And Crispus, the president of the synagogue, believed on our Master, he and all the members of his house. And many Corinthians gave ear, and believed in Elohim and were immersed. 9. And Master YHWH said to Paul in a vision: “Fear not, but speak and do not be quiet: 10. for I am with you, and no one is able to harm you; and I have many people in this city.” 11. And he resided in Corinth a year and six months,<sup>193</sup> and taught them the Word of Elohim. 12. And when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews assembled together against Paul;<sup>194</sup> and they brought him before the judgment-seat, 13. saying: “This man persuades the people to worship Elohim contrary to Torah.” 14. And when Paul requested that he might open his mouth and speak, Gallio said to the Jews: “If your accusation, O Jews, related to any legal offense done, or any fraud, or base act, I would listen to you in proper fashion. 15. But if the discussions are concerning words,<sup>195</sup> and about names,<sup>196</sup> and with respect to your Torah,<sup>197</sup> you must see to it among yourselves, for I am not disposed to be a judge of such matters.”

190 Not to be confused with 6th century Christian monk Dionysius the Areopagite who introduced Neoplatonism into Christianity. Neoplatonism is a 3rd Century philosophy based on Plato that integrates ideas from Judaism and Egyptian mysticism. It is also ironic that in Greco-Roman paganism the one true Elohim of YHWH was linked to the Greek god of wine, also known as Dionysius.

191 This Aramaic word has long been mistranslated as “tent maker” in the Greek versions. The Lamsa project, The Concordance To The Peshitta Version of the Aramaic New Testament, defines this word as “a worker of rough cloth.” However, the truth is that Rav Shaul was a saddle maker instead. The Lexicon To The Syriac New Testament (Peshitta) by William Jennings, Ulric Gantillon reads “Saddlemaker” and “a saddle-or harness-maker does not make curtains or tent cloth.”

192 See Shabbat in Appendix.

193 A year and six months. Acts 18:4 establishes that Paul is teaching in the synagogues of Corinth every Shabbat. So by staying this long in Corinth, this means Paul kept Shabbat in Corinth about 80 times.

194 Roman proconsul Gallio and antagonist Jews help Paul. So the president of the synagogue and all his family received Y’shua, but those who didn’t could not convince their president to remove Paul. The matter goes to Gallio the proconsul who is not “disposed” to judge Jewish stuff, end of story? No. About 1,850 years later archeologists dig up an inscription with a decree to L. Iunius Gallio, dated April - July 52 CE. The inscription provides critical information that establishes Paul at Corinth in 51 CE. It seems as the Master of the Universe will use anyone He wishes to tell the story of Apostle Paul. Special thanks to Gallio and those assembled against Paul for helping to provide such an amazing historical link. Todah Rabbah.

195 “Words” refers to discussion about Tradition/Oral Law.

196 “Names” because the names of YHWH and Y’shua judges the religious traditions of men. YHWH brings the Salvation of YHWH in the name of Y'shua. Ya'akov HaTsaddiq was martyred for upholding the Name of YHWH and Y'shua Mashiach. 197 "Torah" becomes a point of contention only when man's traditions are judged by the Word of YHWH. Religion upholds tradition as equal to or more binding than Torah. Many claim that their tradition ranks above Torah, but Rav Shaul and all the Shlichim are discernibly waging war against all manner of false religious tradition on these three fronts: WORDS, NAMES and TORAH.

16. And he repelled them from his judgment-seat. 17. And all the Gentiles laid hold of Sosthenes an Elder of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment-seat. And Gallio disregarded these things.<sup>198</sup> 18. And when Paul had been there many days, he bid farewell to the Brothers, and departed by sea to go to Syria. And with him went Priscilla and Aquila, when he had shaved<sup>199</sup> his head at Cenchrea, because he had vowed a vow. 19. And they came to Ephesus; and Paul entered the synagogue, and discoursed with the Jews. 20. And they requested him to stay with them: but he could not be persuaded. 21. For he said: I must certainly keep the approaching feast<sup>200</sup> at Urishlim. But, if it is Elohim's will, I will come again to you. 22. And Aquila and Priscilla he left at Ephesus, and he himself went by sea and came to Caesarea. And he went up and gave encouragement to the members of the assembly, and went on to Antioch. 23. And when he had been there some days, he departed, and traveled from place to place in the regions of Phrygia and Galatia, establishing all the disciples.<sup>201</sup> 24. And a certain Jewish man from Alexandria named Apollos, who was trained to eloquence, and well taught in the Scriptures, came to Ephesus. 25. He had been instructed in the ways of Master YHWH, and was fervent in spirit; and he discoursed and taught fully respecting Y'shua, while yet he knew nothing except the immersion of Yochanan. 26. And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. And when Aquila and Priscilla heard him, they took him to their house, and fully showed him the way of Master YHWH. 27. And when he was disposed to go to Achaia, the Brothers anticipated him, and wrote to the disciples to receive him. And, by going, through grace, he greatly assisted all them that believed. 28. For he reasoned powerfully against the Jews, before the congregation; and showed from the Scriptures, respecting Y'shua, that he is the Mashiych.

Chapter 19

1. And while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul traveled over the upper countries to Ephesus. And he inquired of the disciples whom he found there,<sup>202</sup> 2. "Have you received the Ruach haKodesh, since you believed?" They answered and said to him: "If there be a Ruach haKodesh, it has not come to our hearing." 3. He said to them: "Into what then were you immersed?" They say: "Into the immersion of Yochanan." 4. Paul said to them: "Yochanan immersed the people with the immersion of repentance, while he told them to believe in him who was to come after him, that is, in Y'shua the Mashiych." 5. And when they heard these things, they were immersed in the name of our Master Y'shua Mashiych. 6. And Paul laid (his) hand on them; and the Ruach haKodesh came upon them, and they spoke in various tongues, and prophesied. 7. And all the persons were twelve. 8. Then Paul entered into the synagogue, and spoke boldly three months, persuading in regard to the Kingdom of Elohim.<sup>203</sup>

198 Roman proconsul Gallio sends message about Torah. Paul is teaching Y'shua and Torah to all the Goy in Corinth, and, they were sort of getting it. Nevertheless, dear Sosthenes, an elder of the synagogue was a bit meshugas (inappropriate) when it comes to Torah. So the Goy, with a little help from proconsul Gallio demonstrate Torah according to "Jewish halakha" from Deuteronomy 25:1-3. Thus helping Sosthenes better understand that Torah is a leap of action, not a leap of thought. The text says Gallio "disregarded these things" as if to say, "well done boys...I like it, this is truly Torah." This phenomenon is also reflected in Jewish literature. In Rabbinic legend, one of the writers of the Targums was supposedly the nephew of the Roman Emperor who got circumcised and converted to Judaism. It was said that the Emperor became so furious that he sent a cohort of soldiers to bring him back. However, when the soldiers did not return, the Emperor sent other representatives to find out why, only to be told that his nephew converted all the soldiers into Torah observance as well.

199 Rav Shaul makes a vow; his shaved head serves as a public declaration of his devotion to and love for YHWH (see also Acts 21:23-24). A Nazarite vow may be based on an offering of thanksgiving, a show of allegiance to YHWH and His Torah, a person's renewed commitment to live a Set-Apart life unto YHWH, or for many other personal reasons. In Rav Shaul's day, Rabbinical Judaism had already begun to veto the Nazarite vow as being a not so necessary part of Torah.

200 See Feasts in Appendix.

201 Transposition of words and waw proclitics between Khabouris and 1905 has no affect on meaning.

202 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words "Apollos" and "by/through Corinth".

203 Not only does Paul attend this synagogue every Shabbat for three months, Paul is embedded in this community seven days a week. At sun rise every morning Paul is in prayer with the men of this synagogue. Throughout the day they work together. During the heat of the day they stop to pray, study Torah and he teaches Mashiach. Unlike modern Christian culture where people often meet together once or twice a week, Jewish culture focuses on prayer three times daily and the community is tightly interwoven. The Temple in Jerusalem was also in operation, providing a place to pray, learn and grow together as a people. The nature of the Kingdom of Elohim is neither "religious" nor centered upon "Jewish identity" or "Christian identity" but rather on spirituality and relationship to Master YHWH through His Mashiach. The message of the Kingdom is contrary to Jewish and Christian religious pride. It is a big step for a Jew or Christian to come out of the comforts of religious identity and focus on the Kingdom of Heaven, yet this is what Mashiach requires of each of us.

9. But some of them were hardened, and argumentative, and cursed<sup>204</sup> the Way of Elohim before the assembly of the people. Then Paul withdrew himself, and separated the disciples from them. And he spoke with them daily in the school of a man named Tyrannus. 10. And this continued for two years, until all who resided in (Proconsular) Asia, both Jews and Gentiles, heard the Word of Master YHWH. 11. And Elohim created very great miracles by the hand of Paul: 12. so that, from the clothes on his body, napkins and rags were carried and laid upon the sick, and the diseases left them, and demons also went out. 13. Moreover certain Jews, who went about exorcising demons, were disposed to exorcise in the name of our Master Y'shua over those who had unclean spirits, by saying: "We command you, in the name of that Y'shua whom Paul preaches." 14. And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew, and chief of the priests, who did this. 15. And the evil demon answered and said to them: "Y'shua I well know, and Paul I know, but as for you, who are you?"<sup>205</sup> 16. And the man in whom was the evil demon leaped upon them, and overpowered them, and threw them down: and they fled out of the house beaten and bruised. 17. And this became known to all the Jews and Gentiles, who resided at Ephesus. And fear fell on them all, and the name of our Master Y'shua Mashiyach was exalted. 18. And many of them that believed, came and narrated their faults, and confessed what they had done. 19. Additionally, many magicians collected their books, and brought and burned them before every body: and they computed the cost of them, and it amounted to fifty thousand (pieces) of silver. 20. And thus with great power was the faith of Elohim strengthened and increased. 21. And when these things had been accomplished, Paul purposed in his mind to make the circuit of all Macedonia and Achaia, and (then) go to Urishlim. And he said: After I have gone there, I must also see Rome. 22. And he sent two persons, of those that ministered to him, Timothy and Erastus, into Macedonia; but he himself remained for a time in Asia. 23. And at that time there was great commotion respecting the way of Elohim. 24. For a certain silversmith was there, named Demetrius, who made silver shrines for Diana, and afforded great profits to the artisans of his trade. 25. He assembled all the artisans of his trade, and those who labored with them, and said to them: "Gentlemen, you know that our gains are all from this manufacture. 26. And you also know and see, that not only the citizens of Ephesus, but also the mass of all Asia, this Paul has persuaded and enticed away, by saying, that 'those are not deities, which are made by the hands of men.' 27. And not only is this occupation slandered and impeded, but also the temple of the great female deity Diana is accounted as nothing; and likewise the female deity herself of all Asia, and whom all nations worship, is reviled."<sup>206</sup>

204 Many Jews and Christians have unknowingly adopted religious traditions that curse the Way of Elohim. Religious Jews curse Y'shua when they refer to him as "Yeshu" which is an acronym for "Y'mach Sh'mo V'Zichro," it means "may his name and memory be obliterated." When Christians speak evil of Torah and the Jewish people they curse the Way of Elohim and the people that YHWH used to bring Mashiyach into this world. When religious Jews or Christians speak evil of Y'shua's followers for observing Torah or following Y'shua they curse the Way of Elohim. Many religious people curse the Way of Elohim out of ignorance, lacking knowledge and experience in the Ruach haKodesh and in the Kingdom of Heaven. The Kingdom of Heaven has One King, it takes very little logic and reason, or imagination to realize that there cannot be two or more spiritual Kingdoms, and that we cannot serve two masters. The Kingdom of Heaven was offered to the Jewish people through the Covenant of Torah and Y'shua, and then offered to all the Goyim (nations or Gentiles) through the Jewish followers of Mashiyach who upheld Torah. There is nothing more destructive than when YHWH's people fall into the trap of using a religion, or a theology to curse the Way of Elohim if it doesn't suit a religious tradition. "Bless and curse not." Rom 12:14

205 Spiritual worlds operate within the boundary of ownership set by YHWH. When we properly surrender to Y'shua we are surrendering to YHWH's ownership, the correct answer is: "I belong to Y'shua," that is who I am. For Y'shua to claim me (this is where religion and truth are divided), I must serve Him, be obedient to Him, live a life pleasing to Him, surrender to Him and love Him. If we refuse these elements of His boundaries he will say, "I have not known you. Depart from me, you workers of iniquity!" (Matthew 7:23) Y'shua is casting out unclean spirits on a daily basis for those with Faith and discerning of spirits (1 Cor 12:10). If you've tried to cast out unclean spirits and weren't successful, next time try repentance and obedience to YHWH. We have no authority in Him unless we are a kedoshim (Set Apart people), and our vessels are being made clean and free of sin. If demons aren't being cast out in your local community that doesn't mean it isn't happening in others, consider visiting a Faith based Torah observant community that believes in YHWH and being obedient to His Word.

206 The pressure against Rav Shaul does not let up. Because Shaul doesn't yield to the traditions of the Pharisees he is attacked by charges that he abandoned YHWH to preach a false god. They are especially vicious against him because he was once one of them, and are apparently feeling betrayed because he is exposing their false religious ideas that elevate tradition above Torah. Some Pagans – the friendly ones – are saying that Shaul's teachings are too difficult for them to grasp; others are angry that he is destroying their profitable idol worship enterprises.

28. And when they heard these things they were filled with wrath; and they cried out, and said: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."<sup>207</sup> 29. And the whole city was in commotion; and they ran together, and entered the theatre. And they caught, and bore along with them, Gaius and Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, and associates of Paul. 30. And Paul was disposed to go into the theatre: but the disciples restrained him. 31. And likewise the chiefs of Asia, because they were his friends, sent and requested of him, that he would not expose himself by going into the theatre. 32. And the multitudes that were in the theatre were in great confusion, and cried, some one thing, and some another: and many of them did not know for what cause they had come together. 33. Then the Jewish people who were there, brought forward one of their men, a Jew, named Alexander. And he, rising up, waved his hand, and wished to make a defense before the people. 34. But they knowing him to be a Jew, all cried out with one voice, about two hours: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."<sup>208</sup> 35. But the chief of the city pacified them, by saying: "Men of Ephesus, What person is there, among men, who does not know the city of the Ephesians to be devoted to the worship of the great Diana, and of her image that descended from heaven? 36. Since therefore no one can deny this, you should be peaceful, and to not act recklessly. 37. For you have brought forward these men, when they have robbed no temples, and have not reviled our female deity. 38. But if Demetrius and the men of his trade have an argument with anyone, behold, there is a proconsul in the city, let the craftsmen approach and settle with one another in court."<sup>209</sup> 39. Or if you desire any other thing, it may be determined in the place assigned by Torah for an assembly. 40. Because we also are now in danger of being accused as being seditious, since we cannot give a reason for the meeting of this day, because we have assembled needlessly, and been in uproar without a just reason." And having said these things, he dismissed the assembly.

Chapter 20

1. And after the uproar had calmed down, Paul called the disciples to him, and comforted them, and kissed them, and departed, and went into Macedonia. 2. And when he had traveled over those regions, and had comforted them with many discussions, he went forward then to the country of Greece. 3. And he was there three months. And the Jews formed a plot against him, when he was about to go to Syria: and he thought about returning to Macedonia. 4. And there departed with him, as far as Asia, Sopater of the city Berea, and Aristarchus and Secundus who were of Thessalonica, and Gaius who was of the city of Derbe, and Timothy of Lystra, and of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. 5. These proceeded on before us, and waited for us at Troas. 6. And we departed from Philippi, a city of the Macedonians, after the days of unleavened bread; and proceeded by water and arrived at Troas in five days, and remained there seven days.

207 Khabouris has an isolated meem here, between the words "to" and "despise."

208 Great is Diana among the Ephesians, also known as Artemis in Greek, Diana who was the moon goddess as well as the mistress of the hunt was so popular that an ancient temple in Ephesus that was built to her, made the list of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

209 There's not much difference between these silversmiths living in luxury off their goddess Diana, or religious leaders using Jesus or Torah to mine for gold. It's the same greed and the same god when it comes to exploiting people for money. The same god inspires men and women to live in luxury homes like bankers, industrialists and rock stars, buy luxury jets, lavishly wine and dine themselves and their friends at the expense of YHWH's people. Christians with big loving hearts are desperate for people to get saved and avoid hell; they give hundreds of billions of dollars each year to "evangelists" who take extremely large service fees. American evangelists sell motivational talks "in the name of Jesus" for billions of dollars each year, telling the flesh what it wants to hear, inspiring YHWH's people to think Jesus and grow rich, and live the American dream. The Jewish and Christian worlds have been infiltrated by the god of materialism; it's a wicked god who has little or no mercy on the poor, and which sees no need for monetary equality among YHWH's people nor has it compassion on those who have not nurtured the disciplines of Mashiach spirituality. The aggressive pursuit of money is causing hatred, division and competition in the Jewish and Christian world and between Brethren. Religion can be a big and wicked business, and YHWH's people would do very well to stop feeding the beast of materialism.

7. And on the first day of the week, when we assembled to break bread, Paul spoke with them, because he was to depart the next day; and he continued his discussion till midnight.<sup>210</sup> 8. And there were many lamps burning in the chamber where we were assembled. 9. And a young man named Eutychus was sitting in a window and listening. And while Paul prolonged his discussion, he fell into a deep sleep; and, in his sleep, he fell from the third loft, and was taken up as dead. 10. And Paul went down, and bent over him and embraced him, and said: "Do not worry, for his soul is in him." 11. And when he had gone up, he broke the bread and tasted (it), and discoursed until the morning dawned. And then he departed to go by land. 12. And they brought the young man alive, and rejoiced over him greatly. 13. And we went on board the ship, and sailed to the port of Thesos; because, there we were to take in Paul: for so had he bidden us, when he continued on by land. 14. And when we had received him at Thesos, we took him on board ship and proceeded to Mitylene. 15. And from there, the next day, we sailed over against the island Chios; and again, the next day we arrived at Samos, and stopped at Trogyllium; and on the following day we arrived at Miletus. 16. For Paul had determined with himself to pass by Ephesus, or else fearing he might be delayed, because he was hurrying, if possible, to keep the day of Pentecost (Shavuot) in Urishlim. 17. And from Miletus, he sent and called the Elders of the assembly at Ephesus. 18. And when they had come to him, he said to them: "You yourselves know, how, at all times, since the first day that I entered Asia, I have been with you; 19. laboring for Elohim, in great humility, and with tears, amid the trials which have followed after me from the plottings of Jews: 20. and I did not forsake that which was beneficial to your souls, that I might preach to you, and teach in the streets and in houses, 21. while I testified to Jews and to Gentiles, as to repentance towards Elohim and faith in our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 22. And now I am bound in spirit, and I go to Urishlim; and I do not know what will happen to me there; 23. except that the Ruach haKodesh in every city, testifies to me and says: Bonds and afflictions await you. 24. But my life is accounted by me as nothing, so that I may but finish my course, and the ministration which I have received from our Master Y'shua, to bear testimony to the Good News of the grace of Elohim."<sup>211</sup> 25. And now, I know that you will see my face no more, all of you among whom I have traveled and preached the Kingdom of Elohim. 26. I therefore protest to you, this day, that I am pure from the blood of you all. 27. For I have never turned away from teaching you with all the will of Elohim. 28. Take great care of yourselves, and of all the flock over which the Ruach haKodesh has established you as overseers for;<sup>212</sup> that you feed the assembly of Mashiyach,<sup>213</sup> which he has acquired by his blood.

210 After the seventh day Shabbat there is a traditional Jewish ceremony known as havdilah, which makes a separation between Shabbat and the first day of the week. Although the Shabbat is officially over at sunset, the sweet fellowship enjoyed during Shabbat often extends far into the night, and sometimes until morning of the next day. Paul's fellowshiping until midnight has absolutely nothing to do with why Christians go to church on Sunday morning. In verses such as this, Rav Shaul is falsely accused by Christians of changing the day of worship from the seventh day Shabbat to Sunday. This is an erroneous but convenient cultural theology for anyone who is not Jewish. The syncretism of Hellenism into Christianity merged pagan values into Greek versions of the Bible. Paul is credited as the one who instituted the Sun-day ritual, but he observed the seventh day Shabbat along with fellow Jews and Elohim fearing Gentiles. Shabbat is mentioned 84 times in the writings of the Netzarim (the Renewed Covenant writings), and the Shlichim and all followers of Mashiyach, including non-Jewish Elohim fearers, rested on Shabbat. "Replacement theology" or "supercessionism" of Christianity provides theological regression to pagan rituals like Sun worship whose origins at one time included child sacrifice to their sun gods, as well as many other extremely anti-Torah traditions. See Shabbat in Appendix.

211 Isolated beyt in Khabouris, between the word "course" and "ministration/service."

212 According to Murdock, this is the only place in the NT where "Bishop" occurs. In terms of the Greek loan word apiscopa appearing in the Peshitta, Murdock is partially correct. However, an Aramaic synonym appears in 1 Peter 2:25. The word episcopos is derived from the words "to see/watch over"; neither in Greek nor Aramaic does it say "bishop" but "overseer" is more literal and more accurate in both languages.

213 Here is one of the two places where the original Eastern reading was replaced in the Western Peshitto. The Western reads assembly of "Elohim" which is problematic because the context then would be Elohim's physical blood and not Y'shua's! Y'shua poured out his blood to make atonement for his people, and there would be no need to get a refill of new blood before ascending to His Father. Likewise "Elohim" does not have or need blood.

29. For I know, that after I am gone, fierce wolves<sup>214</sup> will come in among you, and will have no mercy on the flock.<sup>215</sup> 30. And also, from among yourselves, there will rise up men speaking perverse things, that they may turn away the disciples to go after them. 31. Therefore be vigilant; and remember, that for three years I ceased not to admonish each one of you, by day and by night, with tears. 32. And now I commend you to Elohim, and to the Word of His Grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all the Set Apart believers.<sup>216</sup> 33. Silver, or gold, or garments, I have not coveted. 34. And you yourselves, know, that these hands ministered to my wants, and to them that were with me. 35. And I have showed you all things; that thus it is a duty to labor, and to care for those that are ill, and to remember the words of our Master Y'shua; for he has said, That 'he is more blessed who gives, than he who receives.'<sup>217</sup> 36. And when he had said these things, he fell on his knees and prayed, and all the people with him. 37. And there was great weeping among them all. And they embraced him, and kissed him. 38. And they had the most anguish, because of the word he uttered, that they would see his face no more. And they accompanied him to the ship.

Chapter 21

1. And we separated from them, and proceeded in a straight course to the island of Coos; and the next day, we reached Rhodes, and from there Patara. 2. And we found there a ship going to Phoenicia; and we entered it, and went further on. 3. And we came up with the island of Cyprus, and leaving it on the left we came to Syria; and from there we went to Tzur, for there the ship was to discharge her cargo. 4. And, as we found disciples there, we stayed with them seven days; and they, by the Spirit, told Paul not to go to Urishlim. 5. And after those days, we departed and went on (our) way; and they all clung to us, they and their wives and their children, until (we were) without the city; and they fell on their knees by the seaside, and prayed. 6. And we kissed one another: and we embarked in the ship, and they returned to their homes. 7. And we sailed from Tyre, and arrived at the city Acco; and we gave encouragement<sup>218</sup> to the Brothers there, and stopped with them one day. 8. And the next day, we departed and came to Caesarea; and we went in and put up in the house of Philip the Proclaimer, who was one of the seven. 9. He had four virgin daughters, who were prophetesses.<sup>219</sup> 10. And as we were there many days, a certain prophet came down from Yehud, whose name was Agabus. 11. And he came in to us, and took the belt around Paul's loins, and bound his own feet and hands, and said: "Thus says the Ruach haKodesh, So will the Yehudeans in Urishlim bind the man, who owns this belt; and they will deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles." 12. And when we heard these words, we and the residents of the place begged of him, that he would not go to Urishlim.

---

214 See Priesthood in Appendix.

215 Khabouris has "For (gyr) I know" whereas 1905 has "I know," 1905 reading is retained.

216 Qadisha, is derived from the root meaning to be "Set Apart"; the literal meaning is "Set Apart believers." Lamsa and Murdock tend to render qadisha as "saint," a term heavily laden with Catholic (or Christo-Pagan) baggage.

217 "He is more blessed who gives than he who receives." This not a direct quote of these words as recorded in the Gospels, but a parallel to Matthew 10:8 which says; "freely you have received, now freely give." Rav Shaul is often quoting from or alluding to Matthew, at this time it was the only Gospel in written form and in circulation.

218 "W'yahban shlama" literally translates as "and we gave them peace."

219 The prophetic gift was never confined to men. These prophetesses join Khanna and also Y'shua's mother Maryam and Elisheva in revealing the Ruach haKodesh speaking through women. Deborah, Isaiah's wife and Huldah, the wife of Shallum are also women whom YHWH raised up as prophetesses. Phillip's daughters may have been rewarded with this gift because of their purity and virginity, although this does not mean that a married women or mother cannot also have this gift. The daughters noted here are of YHWH's Spirit and are honored for their contribution, in all likelihood a very great help to the early believers. However, in contrast to YHWH's righteous daughters there are the wayward that specialize in making up prophecies according to their imaginations. The prophet Ezekiel writes: "Also, son of man, turn to the women of your people who make up prophecies out of their own heads; prophesy against them. Say, 'Master YHWH says this: Disaster is in store for women who sew ribbons round each wrist and make head-cloths for people of all sizes, in their hunt for souls! Are you to hunt the souls of my people and keep your own souls safe? You dishonor me in front of my people for a few handfuls of barley, a few bits of bread, killing those who ought not to die and sparing those who ought not to live, lying to my people who love listening to lies.' Very well, the Master YHWH says this: 'Look, I am now against your ribbons, with which you hunt souls like birds, and I shall tear them off your arms and free those souls whom you hunt like birds. I shall tear your head-cloths to pieces and rescue my people from your clutches;'' Ezekiel 13:17-21.

13. Then Paul answered and said: “What are you doing, weeping and crushing my heart? For I am prepared, not only to be bound, but also to die at Urishlim, for the name of our Master Y’shua Mashiyach.”<sup>220</sup> 14. And as he was not to be persuaded by us, we desisted; and we said: “Let the will of our Master take place.” 15. And after those days, we prepared ourselves and went up to Urishlim. 16. And some disciples of Caesarea went along with us, taking with them a brother from among the earlier disciples, whose name was Mnason, and who was from Cyprus; that he might entertain us at his house. 17. And when we arrived at Urishlim, the Brothers received us with great happiness. 18. And the next day, with Paul, we went to Ya’akov, when all the Elders were with him. 19. And we gave them (wishes) of peace: and Paul narrated to them in great detail what Elohim had created among the Gentiles by his ministry. 20. And when they heard (it) they glorified Elohim. And they said to him: “Our brother, You see how many myriads<sup>221</sup> there are in Yehud<sup>222</sup> who have believed: and these are all zealous for Torah!”<sup>223</sup> 21. And it has been told them, of you, that you teach all the Jews that are among the Gentiles to depart from Moshe, by telling them not to circumcise their children, and not to observe the rites of Torah.<sup>224</sup> 22. Now, because they have heard that you have arrived here,<sup>225</sup> 23. do what we tell you. We have four men, who have vowed to purify themselves. 24. Take them, and go and purify yourself with them, and pay the expenses along with them, as they will shave their heads; that every one may know, that what is said against you is false, and that you fulfill and observe Torah. 25. As to those of the Gentiles who have believed, we have written, that they should keep themselves from (an idol’s) sacrifice, and from sexual sin, and from what is strangled, and from blood.” 26. Then Paul took those men, on the following day, and was purified with them; and he entered and went into the temple, explaining to them how to complete the days of the purification, up to the presentation of the offering<sup>226</sup> by each of them. 27. And when the seventh<sup>227</sup> day arrived, the Jews from Asia saw him in the temple: and they excited all the people against him, and laid hands on him, 28. crying out and saying: “Men, sons of Israel; help. This is the man, who teaches in every place, against our people, and against Torah, and against this place; and he has also brought Gentiles into the Temple, and has polluted this Set Apart place.” 29. For they had previously seen with him in the city Trophimus the Ephesian; and they supposed, that he had entered the Temple with Paul. 30. And the whole city was in commotion; and all the people assembled together, and laid hold of Paul, and dragged him out of the temple: and instantly the gates were closed.

221 Greek urias (myriads) refers to a minimum of 10,000 souls.

222 See Josephus the Netzari in Appendix.

223 Most translations read “zealous for the law”; it is a self-evident truth that myriads of Netzarim followers of Y’shua were also zealous for Torah! The work of the Ruach haKodesh (Set-Apart Spirit) is to write Torah (instructions in righteousness) upon the hearts of YHWH’s people, both Jew and Elohim Fearers.

224 Attacks against Rav Shaul by factions of rabbinical zealots were manifold. Shaul taught that faith and intent of the heart determines whether a person is ready to be circumcised and walk in Torah. At no time did Shaul teach against either circumcision or Torah; however, he opposed the “traditions of the Pharisees” who demanded blind observance to their religious traditions. Shaul required that Gentile converts be taught about covenant and have clear understanding of what they were doing, in relationship to YHWH and His Mashiyach. To be expected to know and observe complex halakha at early stages of belief is unacceptable. Both the Pharisees and Netzarim taught that a person must study to develop their understanding and establish the intent in their heart before circumcision, rather than blindly follow the wishes of others. Only a small group of zealots demanded immediate circumcision, which is something Rav Shaul opposes. It is very evident that Awraham received instruction before his circumcision, and he is the father of Faith for both Jews and Gentiles alike.

225 Khabouris has an isolated beyt here, between the words “therefore” and “hear.”

226 This event establishes Rav Shaul as a Torah observant Jew; however, mainstream Christians twist Paul into being a man pleaser – as though his offering was solely to please Jews, as some sort of political posturing. There is no conflict between atonement made by Y’shua’s blood and the giving of offerings in the Temple. Paul walks in the footsteps of Y’shua, King David, and all the Yisrael of Elohim, when he declares “I rejoice in the Torah of Elohim, in the inner man” (Romans 7:22). Each and every blood sacrifice and offering made in the Temple points to Mashiyach’s perfect blood. The Temple stood until 70 CE. The followers of Y’shua met daily in the Temple and gave offerings unto YHWH, but they also knew atonement was accomplished through the precious blood of Y’shua; there is no conflict here.

227 Rav Shaul has been seen in the Temple for sometime; here he is found celebrating Shabbat in the Temple. Rav Shaul is not posturing; his relationship with YHWH and Mashiyach requires observance of Shabbat. Paul is not mixing Pagan ideas with Y'shua, as most Christians suggest; rather, he interprets the observance of Torah through Mashiyach, rather than through Pharisaical tradition. This in no way diminishes but, rather, establishes Torah. See Rav Shaul (Apostle Paul) in Appendix.

31. And while the multitude was seeking to kill him, it was reported to the Chief Captain of the cohort, that the whole city was in uproar. 32. And immediately he took a centurion and many soldiers, and they ran upon them. And when they saw the Chief Captain and the soldiers, they ceased from beating Paul. 33. And the Chief Captain came up to him, and seized him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains: and he inquired respecting him, who he was, and what he had done. 34. And persons from the mob yelled against him this thing and that. And, because he could not, on account of their shouting, learn what the truth was, he commanded to conduct him to the castle.<sup>228</sup> 35. And when Paul came to the stairs, the soldiers bore him along, because of the violence of the people. 36. For a great many people followed after him, and cried out, saying: "Away with him." 37. And when he came near to entering the castle, Paul said to the Chief Captain: "Will you permit me to speak with you?" And he said to him: "Do you know Greek?"<sup>229</sup> 38. Aren't you that Egyptian who, before these days, made an insurrection, and led out into the desert four thousand (mighty) men,<sup>230</sup> doers of evil?" 39. Paul said to him: "I am a Jew, a man of Tarsus, a noted city in Cilicia, in which I was born: I beg you to allow me to speak to the people." 40. And when he permitted him, Paul stood upon the stairs, and waved to them his hand; and when they were quiet, he addressed them in Hebrew, and said to them:

Chapter 22

1. "Brothers, and fathers, listen to my defense before you." 2. And when they perceived that he addressed them in Hebrew,<sup>231</sup> they were the more quiet: and he said to them: 3. "I am a man who is a Jew; and I was born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but was brought up in this city, at the feet of Gamaliel, and instructed perfectly in the Torah of our fathers; and I was zealous for Elohim, as you also all are. 4. And I persecuted this way, even to death; for I bound, and delivered up to prison, (both) men and women. 5. As the high priest is my witness, and likewise all the Elders; from whom I received letters, that I might go to the Brothers in Damascus, and bring those who were there prisoners to Urishlim, to receive capital punishment. 6. And as I traveled and began to approach Damascus, at noonday, from complete serenity, a great light from heaven shone upon me. 7. And I fell to the earth: and I heard a voice, which said to me: 'Saul, Saul! Why do you persecute me?' 8. And I answered and said: 'Who are you, my Master?' And he said to me: 'I am Y'shua the Nazarene, whom you persecute.' 9. And the men who were with me, saw the light, but did not hear the voice that talked with me.

228 This castle is most likely the Antonia Fortress which housed the "Praetorium of Herod." See footnote Matthew 27:27.

229 Mainstream Christians twist this verse to make Shaul appear as a great Greek orator. The Chief Captain, they say, was very surprised that Shaul could speak Greek with such precision. There are many problems with this, one being that Paul had already become a well-known personality. The reality was that in Paul's day, a common saying among the Pharisees (Orthodox) was that it is better to feed swine to your children than allow them to learn the Greek language! Observant Jews were and still are vigilant against becoming Hellenized. Paul was speaking in Hebrew, but being asked to speak Greek, there is no evidence to suggest that he was fluent in Greek. It is not likely that Paul was as proficient in Greek as Yoseph ben Mattitياهو (Josephus) who wrote, "I have also taken a great deal of pains to obtain the learning of the Greeks, and understanding the elements of the Greek language although I have so long accustomed myself to speak our own language (Hebrew), that I cannot pronounce Greek with sufficient exactness: for our nation does not encourage those that learn the languages of many nations." A prohibition in Exodus 23:13 "make no mention of the name of other gods, neither let it be heard out of your mouth" is also a deterrent for Observant Jews to embrace Greek polytheistic language or culture. The Greek language esteems Pagan deities for days and months, etc. Romans as Greek speaking "occupiers" enslaved Israel, opposed monotheistic Torah principles and made war against Jews. Paul's background as a zealous Pharisee demanded that he not invest his time learning the Greek culture and language.

230 The word gowra here is better translated as "warrior" or "mighty men."

231 Hebrew is "Lashon haKodesh" (literally - "tongue the Set Apart") Paul has elevated the importance of what he is saying by speaking in Hebrew. Aramaic is the lingua franca vernacular that was spoken throughout the Middle East, Assyria and Babylon at that time. Greek was the vehicular language spoken by the not-so-welcome Roman occupiers. Therefore, by transferring from Aramaic into Hebrew Paul has now gained the undivided attention of his fellow Jews. See Aramaic or Greek Lingua Franca? and A Survey of Peshitta Primacist Scholarship in Appendix.

10. And I said: My Master, ‘what must I do?’ And our Master said to me: ‘Arise, go to Damascus; and there will be told you, all that it is commanded you to do.’ 11. And as I could see nothing, because of the glory of that light, those with me took me by the hand, and I entered Damascus. 12. And a certain man, Khanan-Yah, who was upright according to Torah, as all the Yehudeans there testified concerning him, came to me. 13. And he said to me: ‘My brother Saul! Open your eyes.’ And instantly my eyes were opened; and I looked upon him. 14. And he said to me: ‘The Elohim of our fathers has ordained you to know His will, and to behold the Just One, and to hear the voice of his mouth. 15. And you will be a witness for him before all men, concerning all that you have seen and heard. 16. And now, why do you delay? Arise, be immersed, and be cleansed from your sins, while you invoke His Name.’ 17. And I returned and came hither to Urishlim. And I prayed in the Temple. 18. And I saw him in a vision, when he said to me: ‘Make haste, and get out of Urishlim; for they will not receive your testimony concerning me.’ 19. And I said: ‘My Master, they well know that I have delivered up to prison, and have scourged in all synagogues, those who believed in you.’<sup>232</sup> 20. And when the blood of your martyr Astapanos was shed, I also was standing with them, and performed the pleasure of his slayers, and took charge of the garments of those that stoned him.’ 21. But he said to me: ‘Depart; for I send you afar, to preach to the Gentiles.’<sup>233</sup> 22. And when they had heard Paul as far as this sentence, they raised their voice, and cried out: “Away with such a man from the earth! For he should not live!” 23. And as they screamed, and cast off their garments, and threw dust into the air. 24. The Chief Captain gave orders, to carry him into the castle: and he commanded, that he should be examined with stripes; that he might know, for what cause they cried out against him. 25. And as they were stretching him with ropes, Paul said to the centurion who stood over him: “Is it Lawful for you to scourge a man, who is a Roman, and not yet found guilty?” 26. And when the centurion heard (it), he went to the Chief Captain, and said to him: “What are you doing? For this man is a Roman!” 27. And the Chief Captain came to him, and said to him: “Tell me; Aren’t you a Roman?” And he said to him: “Yes.” 28. The Chief Captain replied and said to him: “With much money I acquired Roman citizenship.” Paul said to him: “And I was born in it.”<sup>234</sup> 29. And immediately they who were intending to scourge him, fled from him: and the Chief Captain was afraid, when he learned that he was a Roman, because he had stretched him (for scourging).<sup>235</sup> 30. And the next day, he wished to know truly what the accusation was, which the Yehudeans brought against him: and he unbound him, and commanded the chief priests, and the whole company of their head-men, to assemble; and he took Paul, and brought him down, and placed him among them.

232 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between the phrases “who” and “prisoner.”

233 Khabouris has an isolated qoph here, between the words for “preach” and “nation.”

234 Shaul was born into a wealthy Jewish family. Tradition suggests that he was a very young child when he was sent to Jerusalem to be groomed for the potential position of Chief Rabbi of Israel.

235 Being a Roman citizen has saved Paul from being scourged, and in Acts 25:24-25 it saves him from being martyred by his own people. Throughout history “the state” has often demonstrated more powerful acts of righteousness than “the church.” An obvious example is when Catholic priests and other religious leaders are tried by the state for sexually abusing young children; court hearings have revealed that high ranking church officials knowingly allowed pedophiles to have access to vulnerable children. It was the state that acted righteously and brought wicked men to trial, but it was far too little and too late for the victims and for what Torah requires. Being a Roman citizen has saved Paul from an undeserved scourging; the religious status quo tried using the state against Paul, as they did against Y’shua. The irony is that Paul’s Roman citizenry has protected him against his religious brethren who refer to themselves with such flattering titles as Parushim (Pharisees) “the set apart ones”, and Tsedukim (Sadducees) “the righteous ones.” The greatest failing of both Judaism and Christianity is the lack of Righteous Judgment and Torah Justice. Jews and Christians are both forced into secular courts to find restitution and compensation for wrongs their “brethren” have committed against them. It is often the state that upholds Justice and Judgment, whereas somewhat like the mafia, religions protect their own.

1. And when Paul had looked on the assembly of them, he said: “Men, my Brothers; I have lived in all good conscience before Elohim up to this day.” 2. And Khanan-Yah, the priest,<sup>236</sup> commanded those who stood by his side, to hit Paul on the mouth. 3. And Paul said to him: “Elohim is from this moment to strike you down, (you) Whited Wall! For, you sit judging me according to Torah, while you transgress Torah and command to beat me?”<sup>237</sup> 4. And those standing by, said to him: “Do you reproach the priest of Elohim!” 5. Paul said to them: “I was not aware, my Brothers, that he was the priest: for it is written, You will not curse the ruler of your people.”<sup>238</sup> 6. And, as Paul knew that a part of the people were of the Sadducees, and a part of the Pharisees, he cried out, in the assembly: “Men, my Brothers; I am a Pharisee the son of a Pharisee; and for the hope of the resurrection of the dead, I am judged.”<sup>239</sup> 7. And when he had said this, the Pharisees and Sadducees fell upon one another, and the people were divided. 8. For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, nor Messengers, nor a spirit: but the Pharisees confess all these. 9. And there was great shouting. And some scribes of the party of the Pharisees rose up, and contended with them, and said, “We have found nothing evil in this man: For if a Spirit or a Messenger had conversed with him, what is there in that?” 10. And, as there was great commotion among them, the Chief Captain was afraid or else they should tear Paul in pieces. And he sent Romans to go and retrieve him from them, and bring him into the castle. 11. And when night came, our Master appeared to Paul, and said to him: Be strong; for as you have testified of me in Urishlim, so also you are to testify at Rome. 12. And when it was morning, several of the Yehudeans assembled together, and bound themselves by oaths that they would neither eat nor drink until they had slain Paul. 13. And they who had established this compact by oath, were more than forty persons. 14. And they went to the priests and Elders, and said: We have bound ourselves by oaths, that we will taste of nothing, until we have killed Paul. 15. And now, do you and the chiefs of the congregation request of the Chief Captain, that he would bring him to you, as if you were wanting to investigate truly his conduct: and we are prepared to slay him, when he will come to you. 16. Then the son of Paul’s sister heard of this plot: and he went into the castle, and informed Paul. 17. And Paul sent and called one of the centurions, and said to him: Conduct this youth to the Chief Captain; for he has something to tell him. 18. And the centurion took the young man, and introduced him to the Chief Captain, and said: “Paul the prisoner called me, and requested me to bring this youth to you, for he has something to tell you.” 19. And the Chief Captain took the young man by his hand, and led him aside, and asked him: “What have you to tell me?” 20. And the young man said to him: “The Yehudeans have projected to ask you to bring down Paul tomorrow to their assembly, as if wishing to learn something more from him.

236 Notice that Paul meets up with two men who are both named Khanan-Yah (Yah is our mercy/Yah is merciful). The first Khanan-Yah was fearful of Rav Shaul until the voice of YHWH set him straight; Acts 9:13. The second Khanan-Yah is the high priest who orders his servants to strike Rav Shaul! The irony is that this second Khanan-Yah believes YHWH’s mercy resides on his side of the debate against the Netzari/Nazarenes, whereas the first Khanan-Yah was a Netzari. This could also be a word-picture play showing the transferring of YHWH’s mercy from one system or group to another.

237 Herein is the nature of all religious spirits; using the authority of a “holy book” to execute short sighted personal religious agendas on others. The main reason why many people view Torah as an antiquated Jew-made “holy book,” is because religious Jews impose their own oral traditions “about” Torah upon themselves and others. Many who witness hypocrisy among the practitioners of Judaism, discrimination and hatred against Y’shua and Christians, point to Torah as the problem. Many look at how Christians live and act, how they speak about and treat Jews, and conclude that Christians made up their own god called Jesus, and also wrote their own “holy book” (especially since Y’shua comes from the line of Yehudah). Logic and reason tell us that man is what man does, and that a man’s morality determines his religion and how he chooses to conduct himself. If Jews and Christians truly believed in One Loving Heavenly Father, religion or “holy books” would not be used to condemn one another. The ironic thing is both Faiths believe in the Elohim of the Bible. One hundred percent of the NT is based on the Tanakh, without YHWH, Torah, the Covenant, the Prophecies and the physical bloodline of David that brought Mashiyach there would be no such thing as Christianity. Why the religious discrimination and hatred? Is it money or power? Is it religious pride or ego? Y’shua calls us to repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. Turn to YHWH, walk in humility and “be” His people is a far higher and more excellent calling than following a religion about Torah or Mashiyach.

239 Khabouris has an isolated samekh between the words "Sadducee" and "from."

21. But don't be persuaded by them: for, behold, more than forty persons of them watch for him in ambush, and have bound themselves by oaths, that they will neither eat nor drink until they will have slain him: and lo, they are prepared, and are waiting for your promise."<sup>240</sup> 22. And the Chief Captain dismissed the young man, after charging him: "Let no man know, that you have showed me these things." 23. Then he called two centurions, and said to them: Go and prepare two hundred Romans to go to Caesarea, and seventy horsemen, and shooters with the right hand two hundred; and let them set out at the third hour of the night. 24. And provide also a saddle beast, that they may set Paul on it, and carry him safely to Felix the governor." 25. And he wrote a letter and gave them, in which was thus: 26. Claudius Lysias to the excellent governor Felix; greeting. 27. The Yehudeans seized this man, in order to kill him; but I came with Romans, and rescued him, when I learned that he was a Roman.<sup>241</sup> 28. As I wished to know the offense, for which they incriminated him, I brought him to their assembly. 29. And I found, that it was about questions of their Torah they accused him, and that an offense worthy of bonds or of death, was not upon him. 30. And when the wiles of a plot formed by the Yehudeans against him came to my knowledge, I forthwith sent him to you. And I have directed his accusers to go and contend with him, before you. Farewell. 31. Then the Romans, as they had been commanded, took Paul by night, and brought him to the city of Antipatris. 32. The next day, the horsemen dismissed the footmen their associates, that they might return to the castle. 33. And they brought him to Caesarea: and they delivered the letter to the governor, and set Paul before him. 34. And when he had read the letter, he asked him of what province he was. And when he learned that he was of Cilicia, 35. he said to him: "I will give you audience, when your accusers arrive." And he ordered him to be kept in the Praetorium of Herod.

Chapter 24

1. And after five days, Khanan-Yah the high priest, with the Elders, and with Tertullus the orator, went down, and made a communication to the governor against Paul. 2. And when he had been called, Tertullus began to accuse him, and to say: 3. "Through you, we dwell in great peace; and many reforms have come to this nation under your care; and we all, in every place, receive your grace, excellent Felix. 4. But, not to exhaust you with lengthy argumentation, I pray will give attention to our brief and humble complaint. 5. For we have found this man to be an assassin, and one who does treasonous work among all Yehudeans in the whole land: for he is a ringleader of the sect of the Netzarim.<sup>242</sup> 6. And he was inclined to defile our Temple. And having seized him we wished to judge him according to our Torah. 7. But Lysias the Chief Captain came, and with great violence took him out of our hands, and sent him to you. 8. And he commanded his accusers to come before you. And if you will interrogate him, you can learn from him respecting all these things of which we accuse him." 9. And the Yehudeans also pleaded against him, saying that these things were so.

<sup>241</sup> If Paul was a Roman citizen well versed in Greek, why was it not so apparent to his contemporaries? It is clear that he was a Roman citizen, but if he was so well versed in Greek why did Claudius Lysias rescue him when he could have used his Greek speaking skills to save himself – unless he really wasn't well versed in Greek at all. In reality, Aramaic was the common language of the people, not Greek.

<sup>242</sup> Netzarim (Nazareans) specifically refers to the Netzer ("little shoot") of Isaiah 11:1 that depicts the sprouting of the Malchut Elohim in Mashiach. Netzarim is a sect within the broader category of Judaism, see Netzer in Appendix.

10. Then the governor made signs to Paul that he should speak. And Paul answered and said: “I know you to have been a judge of this nation for many years, and I therefore cheerfully enter upon a defense of myself. 11. Because you can understand, that there have been but twelve days, since I went up to Urishlim to worship. 12. And they did not find me talking with any person in the Temple, nor collecting any company, either in their synagogues, or in the city. 13. Nor have they the power to prove, before you, the things of which they now accuse me. 14. But this indeed I acknowledge, that in that same doctrine of which they speak, I do serve the Elohim of my fathers, believing all the things written in Torah and in the prophets. 15. And I have a hope in Elohim, which they also themselves expect, that there is to be a resurrection of the dead, both of the righteous and the wicked.<sup>243</sup> 16. And for this reason, I also labor to have always a pure conscience before Elohim, and before men. 17. And, after many years, I came to the people of my own nation, to give alms, and to present an offering. 18. And when I had purified myself, these men found me in the Temple; not with a crowd, nor with a riot. But certain Jews, who came from Asia, were unruly; 19. who should also along with myself stand before you, and make accusation of their own affair. 20. Or let these here present say, whether they found any offense in me, when I stood before their assembly; 21. except this one thing, that I cried, while standing in the midst of them: I am this very day on trial before you concerning the resurrection of the dead.”<sup>244</sup> 22. And Felix, because he understood that way fully, delayed them, saying: “When the Chief Captain will come, I will give hearing between you.” 23. And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul at rest; and that not one of his acquaintances should be forbidden to minister to him. 24. And after a few days, Felix, and Drusilla his Jewish wife, sent and called for Paul; and they heard him concerning faith in the Mashiyach. 25. And while he was speaking with them on righteousness, and on being Set Apart, and on the future judgment, Felix was filled with fear; and he said: For the present time, go; and when I have opportunity, I will send for you. 26. He hoped, moreover, that a present would be given him by Paul; (and) therefore, he often sent for him, and conversed with him.<sup>245</sup> 27. And when two years were fulfilled to him, another governor, whose name was Porcius Festus, came into his place. And Felix, that he might do the Yehudeans a favor, left Paul a prisoner.

Chapter 25

1. And when Festus arrived at Caesarea, he, after three days, went up to Urishlim. 2. And the chief priests and the head men of the Yehudeans made representations to him concerning Paul. 3. And they petitioned him, asking of him the favor, that he would send for him to come to Urishlim; they placing an ambush to slay him by the way.

243 Perhaps the most succinct and excellent expression of early faith in the NT, second only to John 3:16.

244 Rav Shaul was accomplishing several important things with this statement. First, he was accentuating the divisions between Pharisees and Sadducees because the former group believed in resurrection and the latter did not. Secondly, Rav Shaul was reminding his Pharisaic accusers that belief in the resurrection of the dead was a critical tenet of mainstream Judaic tradition at this point in history, and that perhaps he shouldn't be classified as such a radical against his own people for proclaiming that belief and applying it to Y'shua the Mashiyach. Third and finally, Rav Shaul was also suggesting to Felix that this was a spiritual debate amongst his Jewish subjects and therefore not worthy of his time as a civilian administrator. On this last point Rav Shaul is very respectful and thorough in his delivery to Felix, showing his transparency, humility and honor as he provides helpful testimony.

245 Khabouris has an isolated qoph here, between the words “send” and “two.”

4. But Festus made answer: "Paul is in custody at Caesarea, where I am also going. 5. Therefore, let those among you who are able go down with us, and make presentment of every offense there is in the man." 6. And when he had been there eight or ten days, he came down to Caesarea. And the next day, he sat on the tribunal, and commanded Paul to be brought. 7. And when he came, the Yehudeans who had come from Urishlim surrounded him, and preferred against him many and weighty charges, which they were unable to substantiate. 8. Meanwhile Paul maintained, that he had committed no offense, either against the Jewish Torah,<sup>246</sup> or against the Temple, or against Caesar. 9. But Festus, because he was disposed to conciliate the favor of the Yehudeans, said to Paul: "Will you go up to Urishlim, and there be tried before me for these things?" 10. Paul replied, and said: "I stand before Caesar's tribunal: here I should be tried. Against the Yehudeans I have committed no offense, as you also well know. 11. If I had committed any crime, or done any thing worthy of death, I would not refuse to die. But if none of the things of which they accuse me, is upon me, no one may sacrifice me to their will. I announce an appeal to Caesar." 12. Then Festus conferred with his counselors, and said: "Have you declared an appeal to Caesar? To Caesar will you go."<sup>247</sup> 13. And when (some) days had passed, Agrippa the king, and Bernice, came down to Caesarea to salute Festus. 14. And when they had been with him: (some) days, Festus related to the king the case of Paul, saying: "A certain man was left a prisoner by Felix: 15. And when I was at Urishlim the chief priests and the Elders of the Yehudeans informed me respecting him, and desired that I would pass judgment upon him in their favor. 16. And I told them, It is not the custom of the Romans, to give up a man gratuitously to be slain; until his accuser appears and charges him to his face, and opportunity is afforded him to make defense respecting what is charged upon him. 17. And: when I had come here, without delay, I the next day sat on the tribunal, and commanded the man to be brought before me. 18. And his accusers stood up with him; and they were not able to substantiate any criminal charge against him, as I had expected; 19. but they had certain controversies with him respecting their worship,<sup>248</sup> and respecting one Y'shua, who died, but who, as Paul said, was alive. 20. And because I was not well established in regard to these questions, I said to Paul: Do you ask to go to Urishlim, and there be judged concerning these matters? 21. But he requested to be reserved for a trial before Caesar: and I ordered him to be kept, till I could send him to Caesar." 22. And Agrippa<sup>249</sup> said: "I should like to hear that man." And Festus said: "Tomorrow you will hear him." 23. And the next day came Agrippa and Bernice, with great pomp, and entered the house of trials, with the Chief Captains and chiefs of the city: and Festus commanded, and Paul came. 24. And Festus said: "King Agrippa, and all persons present with us; concerning this man whom you see, all the people of the Yehudeans applied to me, at Urishlim and also here, crying out, that he ought no longer to live."<sup>250</sup>

246 "Jewish Torah" here is in contrast with Oral Law; Rav Shaul knew he was in violation of Oral Torah (Talmud). But according to the written instruction of Moshe he walked uprightly; even his accusers never denied this fact.

247 As a Roman citizen, Paul had certain extra protections under Roman law that others living under Roman rule did not. These extra protections are what made Roman citizenship so valuable, which is why earlier the Roman guard said he acquired his citizenship with much money (Acts 22:28). One of these privileges included the right for any Roman citizen to be heard before the Roman Senate and Caesar himself rather than be subject to the inconsistent applications of Roman law which were rife throughout the provinces. In this case, appealing to Caesar probably saved Paul's life at this juncture, as any court in Jerusalem would have tried to put him to death, as was the case here.

248 Whenever hearing matters regarding how others worship, or disputes between two or more parties, it is incumbent upon each of us to hear and understand both the charges levied, and the evidence presented by both parties. Oftentimes when religious people levy charges or accusation, defamation or gossip against each other, there are no significant acts of wrongdoing, only hearsay, controversies about religious traditions, doctrines, or opinions that are elevated to things like "salvational" or "heretical." Religious people tend to shower god-sized "entitlements" upon themselves and their communities and use religious judgments against others as though they've become "God" himself. Y'shua never teaches that we should not "judge" matters, but that we use righteous judgment. Please see Matthew 7:1-2 and footnotes.

249 Agrippa [the Second]. Agrippa the First had died after uttering blasphemy according to both Luke and the historian Josephus. Please see the footnote on Acts 12:20.

25. Yet on investigation, I found that he has done nothing deserving death. But, because he requested to be reserved for the hearing of Caesar, I have ordered him to be sent. 26. And I know not what I can write to Caesar, in regard to him: and therefore I wished to bring him before you, and especially before you, king Agrippa; that when his case will have been heard, I may find what to write. 27. For it is unsuitable, when we send up a prisoner, not to designate his offense.”

Chapter 26

1. And Agrippa said to Paul: “You are permitted to speak on your own behalf.” Then Paul extended his hand, and made defense, saying: 2. “In regard to all the things of which I am accused by the Yehudeans, king Agrippa, I consider myself highly favored, that I may this day make defense before you: 3. especially, as I know you to be expert in all the controversies and customs<sup>251</sup> of the Yehudeans. I therefore request you to hear me with indulgence. 4. The Yehudeans themselves, if they would testify, know well my course of life from my childhood, which from the beginning was among my nation and in Urishlim. 5. For they have long been persuaded of me, and have known that I lived in the princely doctrine of the Pharisees. 6. And now, for the hope<sup>252</sup> of the promise which was made by Elohim to our fathers, I stand and am judged. 7. To this hope, our twelve tribes hope to come, with earnest prayers by day and by night: and for this same hope, king Agrippa, I am accused by the Yehudeans. 8. How do you judge this matter? Are we not to believe, that Elohim will raise the dead? 9. For I myself, at first, resolved in my own mind, that I would perpetrate many adverse things against the name of Y’shua the Nazarene, 10. Which I also did at Urishlim; and by the authority I received from the chief priests, I cast many of the Set Apart believers into prison and when they were put to death by them, I took part with those that condemned them. 11. And in every synagogue I brought anguish to them, while I pressed them to become revilers of the name of Y’shua. And in the great wrath, with which I was filled against them, I also went to other cities to persecute them. 12. And, as I was going for this purpose to Damascus, with the authority and license of the chief priests, 13. at mid-day, on the road, I saw, O king, a light exceeding that of the sun, beaming from heaven upon me, and upon all those with me. 14. And we all fell to the ground; and I heard a voice, which said to me, in Hebrew: ‘Saul, Saul! why do you persecute me? It will be a hard thing for you to kick against the stakes.’<sup>253</sup> 15. And I said: My Master, who are you? And our Master said to me: ‘I am Y’shua the Nazarene, whom you persecute.’ 16. And he said to me: ‘Stand upon your feet; for I have appeared to you, for this purpose, to constitute you a minister and a witness of this your seeing me, and of your seeing me hereafter. 17. And I will deliver you from the people of the Yehudeans,<sup>254</sup> and from other nations; to whom I send you,

---

251 In this case namusa can refer to either man-made customs, to put a fence around Torah, or customs that arise from direct observance to the written Torah of Moshe.

252 Another multiple exploitation of the sebar root. In each instance, “hope” can be replaced with “Good News”; it is likely that both meanings were meant simultaneously.

253 Kick against the stakes. This metaphor relates to stakes or pricks that were used to guide animals like oxen. A metal stake was placed so if the ox went in the wrong direction it would get pricked. Rav Shaul then is being compared to a stubborn ox who is about to meet his real master and turn from his evil path to the path of righteousness. To prove that Y’shua is Paul’s Master, Y’shua makes the “ox” blind for three days.

254 Throughout the diglot of Acts “Yehudeans” is used in places where the elite from Jerusalem is meant, rather than the generic “Jews” which refers to all Jewry throughout the world. In many cases a distinction is made that Jews living outside of Yehudea are joining with Mashiyach and also serving along with Rav Shaul.

18. to open their eyes; that they may turn from darkness to the light, and from the dominion of Satan to Elohim; and may receive forgiveness of sins, and a portion with the Set Apart believers, by faith in me.’ 19. Consequently, King Agrippa, I did not disobey the heavenly vision: 20. but I preached from the first to them in Damascus, and to them in Urishlim and in all the villages of Yehud; and I preached also to the Gentiles, that they should repent, and should turn to Elohim, and should do the works suitable to repentance. 21. And on account of these things, the Yehudeans seized me in the Temple, and sought to kill me. 22. But to this day Elohim has helped me; and lo, I stand and bear testimony to the small and to the great; to you saying nothing aside from Moshe and the prophets, but the very things which they declared were to take place: 23. (namely), that Mashiyach would suffer, and would become the first fruits of the resurrection from the dead; and that he would proclaim light to the people and to the Gentiles.” 24. And when Paul had extended his defense thus far, Festus cried, with a loud voice: “Paul, you are deranged: much study has deranged you.” 25. Paul replied to him: “I am not deranged, excellent Festus; but speak words of truth and rectitude. 26. And king Agrippa is also well acquainted with these things; and I therefore speak confidently before him, because I suppose not one of these things has escaped his knowledge; for they were not done in secret. 27. King Agrippa, do you believe in the prophets? I know that you believe.” 28. King Agrippa said to him: “Almost, you persuade me to become a Kristianay.”<sup>255</sup> 29. And Paul said: “I would to Elohim, that not only you, but likewise all that hear me this day were almost and altogether, as I am, aside from these bonds.” 30. And the king rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and those who sat with them. 31. And when they had gone out, they conversed with one another, and said: “This man has done nothing worthy of death or of bonds.” 32. And Agrippa said to Festus: “The man might be set at liberty, if he had not announced an appeal to Caesar.”<sup>256</sup>

1. And Festus commanded, respecting him, that he should be sent to Italy, to Caesar. And he delivered Paul and other prisoners with him to a certain man, a centurion of the Augustan cohort, whose name was Julius. 2. And when we were to depart, we embarked in a ship which was from the city of Adramyttium, and was going to the country of Asia. And there embarked with us in the ship, Aristarchus, a Macedonian of the city of Thessalonica. 3. And the next day, we arrived at Zidon. And the centurion treated Paul with kindness, and permitted him to visit his friends and be refreshed. 4. And on sailing from there, because the winds were against us, we sailed around to Cyprus. 5. And we passed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, and arrived at Myra, a city of Lycia. 6. And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria, which was going to Italy; and he set us on board of it.

255 Kristianay (Christian) is the Gentile term for non-Jewish followers of Y’shua, sometimes also applied by pagans and others to the disciples but never used between one disciple to another. See the notes in Acts 11:26 and 1 Peter 4:16.

256 Had not appealed to Caesar. As a Roman citizen, Rav Shaul had the right to have his case heard by the emperor. From a local administrative perspective, Agrippa is correct. In most cases someone like Paul would have been set free. However, this would not have deterred his enemies from continuing to pursue and cause him harm, or try to imprison him on other matters. By making his appeal early, Rav Shaul avoids the legal or illegal connivances of his accusers. He will instead have the matter decided in the highest earthly court he can, trusting that when he is found to be innocent; his foes will have nothing further against him. In the end though, Paul will be beheaded by this same Roman “justice” system.

7. And as it was hard navigating, we had scarcely arrived after many days, over against the isle of Cnidos. And, because the wind would not allow us to pursue a straight course, we sailed around by Crete, (and came) opposite the city of Salmone. 8. And with difficulty, after sailing about it, we arrived at a place called the Fair Havens, near to which was the city called Lassa. 9. And we were there a long time, and till after the day of the Jewish Fast.<sup>257</sup> And it was hazardous (then) for any one to go by sea; and Paul counseled them, 10. and said: "Men, I perceive that our voyage will be (attended) with peril, and with much loss, not only of the cargo of our ship, but also of our lives." 11. But the centurion listened to the pilot, and to the owner of the ship, more than to the words of Paul. 12. And, because that harbor was not advantageous for wintering in, many of us were wanting to sail from it, and if possible, to reach and to winter in a certain harbor of Crete, which was called Phenice, and which opened towards the south. 13. And when the south wind breezed up, and they hoped to arrive as they desired, we began to sail around Crete. 14. And shortly after, a tempest of wind arose upon us, called Typhonic Euroclydon. 15. And the ship was whirled about by the wind, and could not keep head to it; and we resigned (the ship) to its power. 16. And when we had passed a certain island, called Cyra, we could hardly retain the boat. 17. And after hoisting it (on board), we girded the ship around (the waist), and made it strong. And, because we were afraid of running aground, we pulled down the sail; and so we drifted. 18. And as the storm raged violently upon us, the next day we threw goods into the sea. 19. And on the third day, with our own hands, we threw away the tackling of the ship. 20. And as the storm held on for many days, and as no sun was visible, nor moon, nor stars,<sup>258</sup> all hope of our surviving was entirely cut off. 21. And as no one had taken a meal of food, Paul now stood up in the midst of them, and said: "If you had given heed to me, O men, we should not have sailed from Crete, and we should have been exempt from this loss and peril. 22. And now, I counsel you to be without anxiety; for not a soul of you will be lost, but only the ship. 23. For there appeared to me this night, the Messenger of that Elohim to whom I belong and whom I serve. 24. and he said to me: 'Fear not, Paul; for you have not yet even stood before Caesar; and, behold, Elohim has made a gift to you of all them that sail with you.' 25. Therefore, men, be you courageous; for I confide in Elohim, that it will be as was told to me. 26. Yet we are to be cast upon a certain island." 27. And after the fourteen days of our roaming and tossing on the Adriatic sea, at midnight, the sailors conceived that they approached land. 28. And they cast the lead, and found twenty fathoms. And again they advanced a little, and they found fifteen fathoms. 29. And as we feared or else we should be caught in places where were rocks, they cast four anchors from the stern of the ship, and prayed for the morning.

<sup>258</sup> No sun was visible, nor moon nor stars. And yet in spite of these issues, Rav Shaul was able to effortlessly keep track of the number of days and knew how much time he had to get back to Jerusalem for Yom Kippur. This proves that the calendar he used at this time was not only based on observation of the sun and moon and stars but also had a calculated back up that was needed to kick in when observation became impractical. A similar issue faced Noah, who had to count 151 days over a period of exactly five months without having the sun, moon or stars available to consult in this extreme situation. The Sanhedrin would also use a wide variety of astronomical, mathematical and environmental data to maintain and declare the timing of the Hebrew month and her festivals. See Wheel of Stars in Appendix.

30. And the sailors sought to flee out of the ship. And from it they lowered down the boat into the sea, under pretence that they were going in it to make fast the ship to the land. 31. And when Paul saw (it), he said to the centurion and to the soldiers: "Unless these remain in the ship, you cannot be saved." 32. Then the soldiers cut the boat rope from the ship, and let the boat go adrift. 33. And while it was not yet morning, Paul advised them all to take food, saying to them: "In consequence of the peril, it is now the fourteenth day that you have tasted nothing. 34. Therefore I entreat you, to take food for the sustenance of your life; for not a hair from the head of any of you, will perish." 35. And having said these things, he took bread, and gave glory to Elohim before them all; and he broke (it), and began to eat. 36. And they were all comforted; and they took nourishment. 37. And there were of us in the ship<sup>259</sup> two hundred and seventy-six souls.<sup>260</sup> 38. And when they were satisfied with food, they lightened the ship, and took the wheat and cast it into the sea. 39. And when it was day, the sailors knew not what land it was: but they saw on the margin of the land an inlet of the sea; whither, if possible they intended to drive the ship. 40. And they cut away the anchors from the ship, and left them in the sea. And they loosened the bands of the rudder, and hoisted a small sail to the breeze, and made way towards the land. 41. And the ship struck upon a shoal between two channels of the sea, and stuck fast upon it. And the forward part rested upon it, and could not be moved; but the foreward part was shattered by the violence of the waves. 42. And the soldiers were inclined to kill the prisoners; or else they should resort to swimming, and escape from them. 43. But the centurion kept them from it, because he was wanting to preserve Paul. And those who were able to swim, he commanded to swim off first, and pass to the land. 44. And the rest, he made to transport themselves on planks, and on other timbers of the ship. And so they all escaped safe to land.

Chapter 28

1. And we afterwards learned, that the island was called Melita. 2. And the barbarians<sup>261</sup> who inhabited it showed us many kindnesses. And they kindled a fire, and called us all to warm ourselves, because of the great rain and cold at that time. 3. And Paul took up a bundle of sticks and laid them on the fire: and a viper, (driven) by the heat, came out of them, and bit his hand. 4. And when the barbarians saw it hanging on his hand, they said: "Certainly, this man is a murderer, although (he was) delivered from the sea, judgment will not allow him to live." 5. But Paul shook his hand, and threw the viper into the fire: and he received no harm. 6. And the barbarians expected, that he would suddenly swell, and fall dead on the ground. And when they had looked a long time, and saw that he received no harm; they changed their language, and said, that he was a deity.

<sup>260</sup> Two Hundred Seventy Six is also very special number with plenty of significance and application. It is reflected in the Priestly Calendar on earth which is mirrored in the heavens by a similar and inter-related heavenly calendar. The Heavenly and Priestly calendar mesh in 1469 BCE. This year reflects a dual-starting mechanism, a "Year Zero" (the Exodus 1447 BCE) and then Year 1. The priests of Aaron begin their ministry and set up the Tabernacle the following year as per Exodus 40. In order to "cover" the actual Exodus which happened the year before the priests started serving, we must establish the chronological baseline that the Priests served on; Shabbat to Shabbat each week, beginning on Friday at the start of spring, which usually corresponds to March 21st on our current calendar. All Priestly courses serve together during the Moedim (Great Feasts), although the service period only counts for the course that is scheduled on that particular week. There are therefore two 24 course cycles that happen over 48 weeks, and the remaining 4-5 weeks would be covered by the opening weeks of the next year. If we overlay the 24 week cycle over the course of the solar year, at the end of 23 years, the first course that started on the first Friday of spring will return to service. As more 23 year cycles follow, course 1 will continue to return on this same week, but the Vernal Equinox it is tied to will get earlier and earlier in that week. After 12 cycles of 23 years are completed (12 x 23 = 276) the course that was on duty that first spring week will recess to the week before (Friday, March 14th) and the next course will be on duty Friday, March 21st. These patterns are a mathematical certainty and have been confirmed with the latest computer and scientific precision, and are documented in the publication Wheel of Stars. How delightful that in this very same chapter that talks about navigation, seasons, sun, moon and stars, seas and people that we also find 276 souls

261 This was a term coined by Greeks who detested the sound of more eastern languages, which were harsh to their ears. In the Greek mind all they heard was gibberish that sounded like bar,bar, from where we get “barbarians”. Ironically though “bar, bar” was the opposite of barbarity in Aramaic, where it means “son, son”.

7. And there were lands in that quarter, belonging to a man named Publius, who was the chief man of the island: and he cheerfully received us at his house three days. 8. And the father of Publius was sick with a fever and diarrhea. And Paul went in to him, and prayed, and laid his hand on him, and healed him. 9. And after this event, others also in the island who were sick, came to him and were healed. 10. And they honored us with great honors: and when we left the place, they supplied us with necessities. 11. And after three months we departed, sailing in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the island, and which bore the signal of the Twins.<sup>262</sup> 12. And we came to the city of Syracuse; and remained there three days. 13. And from there we made a circle, and arrived at the city Rhegium. And, after one day, the south wind blew (favorably) for us, and in two days we came to Puteoli,<sup>263</sup> a city of Italy. 14. And there we found Brothers; and they invited us, and we remained with them seven days: and then we proceeded towards Rome. 15. And the Brothers there, hearing (of our approach), came out to meet us as far as the village called Appii Forum, and as far as the Three Taverns. And when Paul saw them, he gave thanks to Elohim, and was encouraged. 16. And we went on to Rome. And the centurion allowed Paul to reside where he pleased, with a soldier who guarded him. 17. And after three days, Paul sent and called for the principal Jews. And when they were assembled, he said to them: "Men, my Brothers, although I had in nothing risen up against the people or the Torah of my fathers,<sup>264</sup> I was at Urishlim delivered over in bonds to the Romans: 18. and they, when they had examined me, were disposed to release me, because they found in me no offense deserving death. 19. And, as the Yehudeans withstood me, I was compelled to utter an appeal to Caesar; but not because I had any thing of which to accuse the people of my nation. 20. For this reason I sent for you to come, that I might see you, and might state these things to you: for it is on account of the hope of Israel, that I am bound with this chain." 21. They said to him: "We have received no epistle from Yehud against you; and none of the Brothers who have come from Urishlim, have told us any evil thing of you. 22. But we are desirous to hear from you what you think; for this doctrine, we know, is not received by any one." 23. And they appointed him a day; and many assembled, and came to him at his lodgings. And he explained to them respecting the Kingdom of Elohim, testifying and persuading them concerning Y'shua, out of the Torah of Moshe, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening.<sup>265</sup> 24. And some of them listened to his explanation while others refused to do so. 25. And they went out from him, disagreeing among themselves. And Paul addressed to them this speech: "Well did the Ruach haKodesh, by the mouth of Yesha'yahu the prophet, speak concerning your fathers, 26. saying: 'Go to this people, and say to them, Hearing you will hear, and will not understand; and you will see, and will not comprehend.

262 While the Greek NT uses the term dioskuri, referring to Castor and Pollux (sons of the lord of the gods), the Aramaic simply says "the twins" because Luke does not want to even use the title by which these false gods went by, let alone their names.

263 This was a port on the bay of Naples, also known as Ostia. The Alexandrian grain ship that Paul was travelling on needed to dock here because at this time Rome's harbor was too shallow. Later Rome would expand their harbor to accommodate these maritime giants.

264 By his own confession the Apostle Paul never spoke or taught against the Jewish people or Torah, in direct contradiction to those who say he did. In Acts 23:6 he stated that he was "a Pharisee the son of a Pharisee." Then in Acts 26:5 he said "I lived in the princely doctrine of the Pharisees." Paul makes the distinction that, "my righteousness is not (now) that from Torah, but that which is from faith in the Mashiyach" (Phil 3:1-8). Paul differentiates between Torah written upon the heart (Jeremiah 31:33), by grace through faith, contrasted to following a traditional religion "about" Torah. Paul was emphatic: "Do we then nullify Torah by faith? May it never be! On the contrary, we establish Torah" (Romans 3:31). Faith opens our hearts so that Torah can live within our "inward parts" through faith in Mashiyach Yeshua, according to the one new man. To those who willfully violate Torah and "break the Law" Y'shua will say, "Depart from me, you workers of iniquity!" (Matthew 7:23)

265 The Kingdom of Heaven must be understood within the language and culture of its birth, and through the eyes of "the Torah of Moshe and the Prophets." As we set our bearings to the Kingdom of Heaven, Torah and the Prophets are two of the most trusted elements on our spiritual compass. The third of course is the Ruach haKodesh that confirms the Word of YHWH. The fourth is Mashiyach who demonstrates and provides the proper interpretation. If we can train our hearts and spirits to focus on how Y'shua, Apostle Paul and the Shlichim live and conduct themselves then we can understand how Torah is also to be written upon our hearts. Torah is the life of the spiritual man living within us; it is the nature of Mashiyach and the Ruach haKodesh. When Torah becomes a religious identity or a theology it loses its authority in our lives and eventually becomes inactive, passive and unexciting. Y'shua and the Shlichim taught Torah and the Prophets from morning til evening because this is how YHWH's people become inspired and empowered. Herein is the Ancient Path, the essential ingredient that YHWH says will be restored in the Acharit haYamim (latter days). "I will make a New Covenant...I will put my Torah in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their Elohim, and they shall be my people. And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, 'Know YHWH:' for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, says YHWH: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more." Jeremiah 31:31-34

27. For the heart of this people is hardened, and their hearing they have made tedious, and their eyes they have closed; or else they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and be converted to me, and I should forgive them.<sup>266</sup> 28. Therefore, be this known to you, that to the Gentiles is this redemption of Elohim sent: and, moreover, they will hear it."<sup>267</sup> 29. Verse 29 is nonexistent in the Peshitta.<sup>268</sup> 30. And Paul hired a house, at his own cost, and resided in it two years; and there he received all that came to him. 31. And he preached concerning the Kingdom of Elohim, and taught boldly<sup>269</sup> concerning our Master Y'shua Mashiyach, in complete freedom.

266 Quoting from Yesha'yahu/Isaiah 6:9-10. One of the greatest mysteries in Scripture is "the blindness" that has befallen the "natural branches." There is much speculation as to whether it is because of stiff necked religious identity Jewish pride, or because the Master of the Universe divinely orchestrated such blindness, or both. Regardless of our opinions, Apostle Paul treats Jew and Goyee (those of the nations) with equal weight when he says, "For if Elohim spared not the natural branches, perhaps he will not spare you. Behold now the goodness and the severity of Elohim: on them who fell, severity; but on you, goodness, if you continue in that goodness; and if not, you also will be plucked off. And they, if they do not continue in their poverty of faith, even they will be grafted in; for Elohim is able to graft them in again. For if you were plucked from the wild olive-tree which was natural to you, and were grafted, contrary to your nature, into a good olive-tree; how much more may they be grafted into their natural olive-tree? (For I want you to know this) mystery, that blindness of heart has in some measure befallen Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles will come in:" (Romans 11:21-25). The fullness of the Gentiles coming into the Kingdom of Elohim is a key element to the return of Mashiyach, however there are two vital components for this fullness. The promise was given to Avraham that, "In your seed (Mashiyach) shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." (Genesis 22:18). This follows through prophetically from Genesis 3:15, "between your seed and her seed; he will bruise your head, and you will bruise their heel" (Gen 3:15), referring to the seed of woman (Mashiyach) who would bruise the head of the Serpent (Deceiver). YHWH sent Mashiyach for all human life; "All the ends of the earth will remember and turn to YHWH, And all the families of the Goy (nations) will worship before you. For the kingdom is YHWH's, And He rules over the Goy (nations)." (Psalm 22:27-28). He also says, "Be still, and know that I am Elohim: I will be exalted among the Goy (nations), I will be exalted in the earth." (Psalm 46:10). Specifically, "And it shall come to pass in that day, that the root of Jesse will stand as an ensign of the peoples, unto him shall the Goy (nations) seek; and his resting-place shall be glorious." (Isa 11:10). The Gentiles or nations are part of His sheepfold, "And he said, It is a light thing that you should be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the natsar (preserved) of Israel: I will also give you for a light to the Goyee (nations), that you may be Yeshuati (My Salvation) unto the ends of the earth." (Isa 49:6) Again, "And Goyee (nations) will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising." (Isaiah 60:3). And again, "I permitted Myself to be sought by those who did not ask for Me; I permitted Myself to be found by those who did not seek Me. I said, 'Here am I, here am I,' to a Goyee (nation) which did not call on My name." (Isaiah 65:1). However, Yisrael also has a part in bringing in the fullness of the Gentiles as Jeremiah says, "If you will return, O Israel, says YHWH, yes, return to Me; and if you will put away your detestable things out of My sight, and will not waver; And will swear: 'As YHWH lives' in truth, in justice, and in righteousness; then shall the Goyee (nations) bless themselves by Him, and in Him shall they glory." (Jeremiah 4:1-2). Without a doubt Mashiyach will not return until he hears, "Baruch haba b'Shem YHWH" (Blessed is he who comes in the Name of YHWH) Psalm 118:6. When the nations receive Mashiyach according to the Kingdom of Elohim, then the fullness of the Gentiles will come in. The charter of Y'shua's Government is the Spirit and Truth of Torah written upon the heart.

267 "They will hear it," Christianity now has 2.2 billion adherents, about one third the population of the earth.

268 Verse 29 does not appear in Aramaic texts, nor in any early Greek manuscripts; later editions place this verse in the margin. (Murdock). The additional verse was as follows: And when he had thus said, the Jews retired; and there were great disputations among them. Old Latin (ca. 2nd Century) as well as the Vulgate (late 4th Century) have this and some additional words. How this chain developed between Old Latin and the Peshitta may never be fully known. This indicates that the Peshitta could not have been translated from a singular Greek text. Peshitta sometimes agrees with Greek versions (one or another) and sometimes disagrees; sometimes entire paragraphs have moved location, disproving the theory of a Greek primacy.

269 "Boldly" is derived from the Aramaic "glea" which literally means "with open eyes", the Hebrew equivalent is "galah". Psalm 98:2 reads, "YHWH has made known His salvation: His righteousness He (galah) openly revealed in the sight of the (Goyim) Nations." The Kingdom of Heaven is revealed and demonstrated by the empowerment of the Ruach haKodesh through those who receive the Ruach haKodesh. Throughout the Book of Acts the Power of the Ruach haKodesh is manifest in many ways such as:

1. In many ways and many forms, Elohim anciently conversed with our fathers by the prophets;<sup>1</sup> 2. But in these latter days,<sup>2</sup> He has conversed with us by His Son whom He has constituted heir of all things, and by whom He made the worlds;<sup>3</sup> 3. who is the splendor of His glory and the exact image of His nature, and upholds all by the power of His Word; and by his Qnoma<sup>4</sup> he made a purification of sins and sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high.<sup>5</sup> 4. And he is altogether superior to the Messengers, as he has also inherited a name which is superior to theirs.<sup>6</sup> 5. For to which of the Messengers did Elohim ever say, You are my Son, this day have I begotten you?<sup>7</sup> And again, I will be to him a Father, and he will be to me a Son? 6. And again, when bringing the first begotten into the world, He said: Let all the Messengers of Elohim worship him.<sup>8</sup> 7. But of the Messengers He thus said: Who made His Messengers a wind and His ministers a flaming fire.<sup>9</sup> 8. But of the Son He said: Your throne, O Elohim, is for ever and ever; a righteous scepter is the scepter of your Kingdom.<sup>10</sup> 9. You have loved righteousness and hated iniquity; therefore Elohim, your Elohim, has anointed you with the oil of rejoicing more than your associates.<sup>11</sup> 10. And again, You have from the beginning laid the foundations of the earth and the heavens are the work of your hands: 11. they will pass away, but you endure; and they all, like a robe, wax old; 12. and like a cloak, you will fold them up. They will be changed; but you will be as you are, and your years will not be finished. 13. And to which of the Messengers did He ever say: Sit you at My right hand until I will place your enemies a footstool under your feet? 14. Are they not all spirits of ministration who are sent to minister on account of them that are to inherit life?

Chapter 2

1. Therefore we should be exceedingly cautious in regard to what we have heard, or else we fall away. 2. For if the Word spoken by the medium of Messengers was confirmed, and every one who heard it and transgressed it received a just retribution; 3. how will we escape if we hate the things which are our life,<sup>12</sup> things which began to be spoken by our Master (Y'shua), and were confirmed to us by them who heard from him,<sup>13</sup>

2 Acharit-hayamim (latter days) is mentioned throughout Torah and the Prophets beginning in B'resheet/Genesis 49:1. See also James 5:3; 2 Peter 3:3. This era culminates with the Day of YHWH which is foreshadowed by Yom Kippur when all the earth shall be sanctified.

6 All the names of the messengers have EL in them, the shortened form of Elohim. Only Y'shua as a messenger (e.g. Exodus 23:20-22, Jeremiah 23:5-6) has the name of YHWH in him; YAH is salvation.

10 At first glance the Aramaic reveals a beautiful poetic flair in the opening chapter: Eal bra Deyn amar D'Korseayakh D'yelakh Alaha L'Ealam Ealmiyn Shawta P'shiyta Shawta D'Malkuthakh. This type of alternating matching rhyme is commonplace in Tanakh where patterns as such represent deliberate Semitic composition. Also notice that here is the word P'shiyta, which became the term used for the Aramaic Renewed Covenant: Peshitta. "Peshitta" means "simple, straight and true." This passage of Scripture has the meaning: scepter. While it is clear that Shaliach Paul could not have been alluding to this title which sprang up nearly a thousand years later, the fact remains that "scepter" as "p'shiyta" serves a special purpose with him. Specifically, the wordplay speaks well of the "simple, straight and true" message of the Malchut (Kingdom) Elohim as a scepter against all manner of false teaching and error. Considering the intended audience of this Letter, one can see that the word "p'shiyta" would carry great significance. Shaliach Paul knew the potential variations of meanings in this verse he is quoting from. Pronunciation: (Eastern) P'SHiYta meaning: upright, simple (1) JBA simple explanation (2) Syr. JBA extension (3) Syr simple version (4) JLaGal, CPA, Syr simple (5) Syr erect (6) Syr prose (7) Syr luxuriant (8) Syr adv generally (9) Paor elseinian (of a document) single sided (10) JBA it is obvious (from the Comprehensive Aramaic Lexicon).

11 More poetic cleverness: "You have loved rectitude and hated iniquity; therefore Elohim, your Elohim, has anointed you with the oil of gladness more than your associates." Two more poetic elements are coming together here. The first one has to do with exploiting the dual meaning of a single Aramaic root, meshkha (oil, to anoint). By contrast, the second part concerns the recognition of the sonic pattern Paul creates in the middle of the line with mashkhakh Alaha Alahakh meshkha, or almost a direct reversing of the first sound into the second.

12 By quoting D'varim/Deut 32:47; "For it (Torah) is no vain thing for you; because it is your life," Paul is emphatically teaching the Hebrews, that the Renewed Covenant of Torah is being written upon our hearts. Throughout this letter to the Hebrews he will provide dozens of Renewed Covenant teachings derived from Jeremiah 31:31-34.

13 "Confirmed to us by those who heard from him" – this writer was not an eyewitness to Y'shua's glory during his earthly ministry. This is perhaps one of the greatest clues given by the writer of Hebrews regarding his identity. While it is true that other writers, like Luke for example, collected accounts of Y'shua's life from eyewitnesses (Luke 1:1-5), Luke himself is counted as a Gentile (Colossians 4:11-14), making it unlikely that he would have enough apostolic weight to have his words encouraged in a Hebrew believing community. Rav Shaul himself makes a division between missions to both groups, while they contained the same message (Galatians 2:7). When we look at prominent Jewish leaders who were specifically enjoined to preach the Gospel to the Israelites who are scattered among the nations, it is a very short list of possible authors. Additionally, we can add to this criteria the fact that this same Jewish leader was important but not a direct eyewitness to Y'shua, and that he has sent the letter according to direct reference (13:24). Finally, very reliable Eastern and Western manuscript traditions from Italy (possibly Rome) mention the author, therefore it all points to one name: Rav Shaul. The emphasis also on the writer's encouragement to "remember those in prison as if you were bound with them; and recollect those in affliction as being yourselves clothed in flesh" (13:3 and 13:23) also fits very well with the other times that we know Rav Shaul was writing from his places of confinement. Please see footnote Hebrews 13:24.

4. while Elohim gave testimony concerning them, by signs and wonders and by various miracles and distributions of the Ruach haKodesh which were given according to his will? 5. For to the Messengers he has not subjected the world to come,<sup>14</sup> of which we speak. 6. But as the Scripture testifies, and says: What is man that you are mindful of him? and the Son of man, that you attend to him? 7. You have made him somewhat lower than the Messengers: glory and honor<sup>15</sup> have you put on his head; and you have invested him with authority over the work of your hand. 8. And all things have you subjected under his feet. And in this submitting of all things to him, he left out nothing which he did not submit him to. But now, we do not yet see all things subjected to him. 9. We see that he is Y'shua, who humbled himself to become a little lower than the Messengers through his suffering and death, but now he is crowned with honor and glory because he tasted death for the sake of everyone apart from Elohim.<sup>16</sup> 10. For it became him by whom are all things and on account of whom are all things and (who) brings many sons to his glory, to perfect the prince of their life by suffering. 11. For he that sanctifies, and they who are sanctified, are all of one type. Therefore he is not ashamed to call them Brothers; 12. as he says, I will announce your name to my Brothers; in the midst of the assembly, I will praise you.<sup>17</sup> 13. And again, I will confide in him.<sup>18</sup> And again, Behold me and the children whom you, Elohim, have given to me.<sup>19</sup> 14. For because the children participated in flesh and blood, he also, in like manner, took part in the same; that, by his death, he might bring to nothing him who held the kingdom of death, namely Satan; 15. and might release them who, through fear of death, are all their lives subject to bondage. 16. For he did not assume (an immortal manifestation) from Messengers, but he assumed (a mortal manifestation)<sup>20</sup> from the seed of Awraham.<sup>21</sup> 17. And so it was right that he should be in all respects like his Brothers; that he might be merciful and a high priest faithful in the things of Elohim, and might make expiation for the sins of the people. 18. For, in that he himself has suffered and been tempted, he is able to succor them who are tempted.

14 Olam Haba - the world to come refers to an age where time and space ceases to exist; all lifeforms will enter into new dimensions.

15 Fulfilling Messianic prophecy, "crowned him with glory and honor" (Psalm 8:4-6). About a third of the population of the earth also crowns him with glory and honor.

16 The most important phrase here is satar min Alaha: "apart from Elohim"; but the Greek translators removed it. This omission was likely due to a theological debate; the Monophysites were a powerful sect that sprung up in the middle of the Second Century in Alexandria, Egypt. Their core belief was that Mashiach only had the appearance of a human but was in reality, completely divine. Such theology ignored statements like "Not my will, but Your Will," along with many others; nevertheless, it gained popularity when the Imperial Byzantine "New Testament" text was emerging. Earlier versions were so violently suppressed in the West that only Aramaic believers in the Middle East had retained the original. In context, two facts become critical. First, we know this heresy arrived early; Origen (ca. 185-232) quotes the Peshitta-exclusive reading of this verse and further substantiates this view. Second, this reading also plays into extensive themes about Mashiach laying down his humanity, as well as showing that Elohim's divine nature neither bled nor died on the stake (Acts 20:28). This is one of the clearest examples where original Jewish understanding was almost completely obliterated by Roman and Byzantine cultures who preferred polytheistic theologies. Peshitta, in the rival Persian Empire, escaped all these revisions and kept its original Eastern (and Jewish) values intact. On this matter, Stephen Silver noted: It is understood by the use of the phrase, khaya b'qnomeh in John 5:26, that Y'shua "had the price of redemption," "Life in Himself" to redeem all that "call upon his Name." Clearly, this was and is the "will of the Father." In Hebrews 2:9, setar min Alaha "Life in Himself" represents both Elohim in him, as well as Y'shua's "humanity"; obviously it was his humanity that was laid down that he might take it again (John 10:17). This was the "will of the Father made manifest in the Son" by his life, death and resurrection. There is a "remez" (hint) here that refers to Genesis 44:30, "v'naf'sho k'shurah v'naf'sho," "and his soul is knot-tied in his soul." Additionally, substituting b'tibohte for min seta is another reflection of Pagan thinking that teaches Torah was to be replaced by "grace." However, "Life in Himself" eternally manifests the grace of the Father and truth of Torah (John 1:17, Exodus 34:6). Torah, without Y'shua Mashiach, is a "dead letter." Y'shua Mashiach without Torah, is "sloppy agape."

20 The words “immortal/mortal manifestation” do not appear here but are implied in this same discussion that begins in verse 6, Y’shua’s death is genuinely human as opposed to an appearance only. One could also render the implied concept as “nature” as Murdock has done, because heavenly Messengers do not die but Y’shua’s human nefesh did. The reference from Proverbs “he is made lower than the Messengers” appears in 2:7 and is confirmed again in 2:9 – “Y’shua humbled himself to become a little lower than the Messengers.” The “nature” context becomes more likely when we consider 2:11; Y’shua calls his followers “brothers” because he also has the same genuine humanity as they. The Western Peshitto however reads, “For death was not authorized over the Messengers, but over the seed of Awraham it was authorized.” While Murdock seems to largely prefer Western Peshitto readings he has preferred the Eastern here, probably because the latter is well attested to and also consistent with the most ancient Greek manuscripts.

21 Fulfilling Messianic prophecy, Isaiah 41:8-9

1. Therefore, my Set Apart Brothers who are called with a calling that is from heaven, consider this Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Y'shua the Mashiyach:<sup>22</sup> 2. who was faithful to him that made him, as was Moshe in all his house.<sup>23</sup> 3. For much greater is the glory of this man, than that of Moshe; just as the glory of the builder of a house, is greater than that of the structure. 4. For every house is built by some man; but he who builds all things is Elohim. 5. And Moshe, as a servant, was faithful in all the house, for an attestation to those things that were to be spoken by him: 6. but the Mashiyach as the Son, (is) over his own house; and we are his house, if we retain to the end confidence, and the victory of hope in him. 7. Because the Ruach haKodesh has said: Today, if you will hear<sup>24</sup> his voice, 8. and do not harden your hearts to bring him to wrath, like those who provoke, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness, 9. when your fathers tried my patience, and proved, (and) saw my works forty years. 10. Therefore I was disgusted with that generation, and said: This is a people, whose heart has strayed, and they have not known my ways: 11. so that I swore in my anger, that they should not enter into my rest.<sup>25</sup> 12. Beware, therefore, my Brothers, so that there will not be in any of you an evil heart that does not believe, and you depart from the living Elohim. 13. But look deeply into yourselves<sup>26</sup> all the days, during the day which is called today; and let none of you be hardened, through the deceitfulness of sin. 14. For we have part with the Mashiyach, if we endure in this firm confidence, from the beginning to the end: 15. as it is said, Today, if you will hear his voice, and do not harden your hearts, to anger him. 16. But who were they that heard, and angered him? It was not all they, who came out of Egypt under Moshe. 17. And with whom was he disgusted forty years, but with those who sinned, and whose corpses fell in the wilderness? 18. And of whom swore he, that they should not enter into his rest, but of those who did not believe? 19. So we see that they could not enter, because they did not obey.

Chapter 4

1. Let us fear, therefore, or else while there is a firm promise of entering into his rest, any among you should be found coming short of entering. 2. For to us also is the announcement,<sup>27</sup> as well as to them: but the Word they heard did not benefit them because it was not combined with the faith of those who heard it. 3. But we who have believed do enter into rest. But as he said, As I have sworn in my anger that they will not enter into my rest: for behold, the works of Elohim existed from the foundation of the world. 4. As he said of the Shabbat, Elohim rested on the seventh day from all his works.

22 This verse reflects an insight that is only found within Aramaic! Y'shua, because he was not from the tribe of Levi, is not being called cohen, but kumree, which is the designation for a non-Levitical priest like Jethro. This is vital, as it points to Mashiyach being "like a priest after Melchisedec" (Psalm 110) as a non-Aaron figure who in effect becomes the High Priest who intercedes for Israel. The Peshitta Tanakh consistently translates cohen/kahna into kumree with regards to these same men (Genesis 14:18, Exodus 2:16, 3:1 and 18:1). Another magnificent part of this verse is the phrase, "called with a calling." Yayikra "and he called," is the original Hebrew name of the third Book of Torah (named Leviticus--Greek for "book of Levites"). The Aramaic word qarya is derived from the exact same root. The "calling that is from heaven" to follow Mashiyach is to be "called to" service in YHWH as were the Leviim who were Cohanim along with Moshe. We know that, according to Acts 6:7, a large number of Cohanim (Priests) also entered into this High Calling to represent YHWH in Mashiyach Y'shua; this Priesthood in Mashiyach is what Avraham paid a tithe into. Consider how Kadosh (set-apart) this High Calling is according to YHWH! The importance of this word kumree in this letter cannot be overstated as it appears here nearly two dozen times, exactly the same way (4:14, 5:1, 5:5, 5:6, 6:20, 7:1, 7:11, 7:15, 7:17, 7:21, 7:23, 7:26, 7:27, 7:28, 8:1, 8:3, 8:4, 9:6, 9:25, 10:11, 10:21, 13:11). In some verses, kumree is used twice to cement the point Paul is making. Furthermore, this word is utterly unique to Hebrews because of its exclusive emphasis on Mashiyach, the true High Priest who gives eternal atonement. By contrast, in every other book of the Renewed Covenant, we are confined solely to the word kahna/cohen, as this refers to the regular kind of priest. However, perhaps the most remarkable aspect of all is that Peshitta Hebrews actually "out Judaizes" the Tanakh, since the Hebrew Bible makes no distinction between Levite priests like Aaron and righteous "Elohim Fearers" like Melchisedec and Jethro. Therefore, in this instance, we clearly see that Shaliach Paul is again demonstrating that he is very "zealous for Torah" as he always claimed.

24 To the secular mind "hear" means to listen, apprehend or catch the drift of, audibly or otherwise. Then question it, research it, debate it, and check it out on the internet. Scripture says, "Out of heaven he made you hear his voice, that he might instruct you" (D'varim/Deut 4:36). The Voice of the Ruach haKodesh is the Word of YHWH. Hear (Shema) His voice in Scripture means that in the very instant the Ruach haKodesh speaks, we obey. We study Scripture in "prayer mode," to receive instruction and guidance. The key, to "hearing" the Ruach haKodesh is obey in the moment. It is radical obedience. 25 Psalm 95:7-11

26 "Look deeply into yourselves" all the "days, during the day" which is called "today;" is Messianic spiritual presence. We are present and spiritually alive in Mashiach "in this moment," in conversation and obedience to the Ruach haKodesh. Our spiritual dialogue with our Father YHWH is our life, we "pray without ceasing" (1 Thess 5:17) observing His Word.

27 The announcement being the Good News (Gospel); see Appendix Good News.

5. And here again, he said, They will not enter into my rest. 6. Therefore, because there was a place where one and another might enter; and those persons from the first to whom the Good News was delivered did not enter, because they had no faith: 7. again he established another day, a long time afterwards; as above written, that Dawid said, Today, if you will hear his voice, and do not harden your hearts. 8. For if Yehoshua,<sup>28</sup> the son of Nun, had given them rest, he would not have spoken afterwards of another day. 9. For there remains a Shabbat<sup>29</sup> for the people of Elohim. 10. For he who had entered into his rest has also rested from his works as Elohim did from his.<sup>30</sup> 11. Let us, therefore, strive<sup>31</sup> to enter into that rest; or else we fall short, after the way of those who did not believe.<sup>32</sup> 12. For the Word of Elohim is living and all-efficient and sharper than a two-edged sword, and enters even to the deep penetration of the soul and the spirit, and of the joints and the marrow and the bones, and judges the thoughts and reasonings of the heart: 13. Neither is there any creature which is concealed from before him; but every thing is naked and laid bare before his eyes, to whom we are to give account. 14. Seeing then that we have a great High Priest, Y'shua the Mashiyach, the son of Elohim, who has ascended to heaven; let us persevere in professing him. 15. For we have not a high priest who cannot sympathize with our sickness; but (one) who was tempted in all respects like us, apart from sin. 16. Let us, therefore, approach with confidence to the throne of his grace, that we may obtain mercy, and may find grace for assistance in the time of affliction.

28 The name Joshua is derived from the Hebrew Yehoshua; the shortened form first appears in Nehemiah 8:17 as "Yeshua". Yehoshua did not usher in the Olam Haba "rest"; Yehoshua ben Nun is a "type" of Mashiyach ben David.

29 Lamsa also targums this more properly in terms of direct intention/meaning. "It is therefore the duty of the people of Elohim to keep the Sabbath!" The fact is, though, neither Aramaic nor Greek has "Shabbat rest"; the word "rest" was added by replacement theologians in a bid to twist the Seventh Day Shabbat into a futuristic fulfillment. Paul teaches that the Kedoshim (Set Apart people) who enter into Shabbat here and now, are entering into the work of the Ruach haKodesh, but also towards the eternal Shabbat of the Olam Haba (World/Age to Come). Paul is writing to a Jewish audience; he need not explain the joy of Shabbat, but he magnifies haMishchah (the anointing) received on Shabbat that is a taste of the Olam Haba. The Ruach haKodesh (Shabbat Bride) in the Spirit of Mashiyach makes Shabbat a very special time. Because a person goes to church on Saturday does not necessarily indicate that they automatically enter into Shabbat. For some, "Sabbath" is a denominational or doctrinal theology, rather than weekly Set Apart time to wait on YHWH and His Mashiyach. The Fourth Commandment, to remember the Shabbat, is from YHWH; the theology to not observe Shabbat originates with early Christo-Pagans who integrated Christian values into calendars that were based on sun worship.

Theological attempts to use this verse to abolish Shabbat are founded on both pagan and anti-Semitic rhetoric. Notice that in Greek Bibles the term sabbatismos is sandwiched between the katapauo (vs 8) and katapausis (vs 10) which is a common Greek term for "rest". In reality Greek speakers have clarified the meaning of sabbatismos as the observance of Shabbat. See Justin, Dialogue with Trypho 23:3; Epiphanius, Adversus Haereses 30:2:2; Martyrium Petri et Pauli 1; Apostolic Constitutions 2:36:2.

However, in an interesting response to these assertions, some have suggested that the Aramaic equivalent word in question, lmashbato, is in infinitive form as a verb. To their mind, that suggests a meaning closer to "rest" as opposed to "the Shabbat" as a formal time of the week, i.e., as a proper noun. However, even if this is granted, the root for the "rest" is still shbt, which brings us back to Shabbat as a seventh (also shbt) interval or (possibly) in the sense of an annual occasion that counts as "Shabbat" irrespective of the day of the week it falls on. Either way, though, we are still talking about continual moedim (sacred occasion) patterns derived from Tanakh and mentioned in a letter written to the Hebrew people! So, if it is "keep Shabbat" as in "keep the rest" it still brings us to that seventh/sacred interval and the sense of "keep (counting) the sevens (to) rest." The proof of this matter, however, resides in the fact that another verb for "rest" is used all over this passage. The word anikh/amikh, which is derived from the root nkh, and clearly connotes a generic "rest," appears in Hebrews 4:1, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10 and 11. It is only with the connection of the phrase "the people of Elohim" that Rav Shaul then deliberately brings in the root of seven, shbt, so either by pshat or more esoteric reckoning the seventh day is certainly intended. In fact, such a tactic can even be shown to be part of his writing style. Why else would he in verse 4 use the words "Shabbat", "seventh" and "rest" in one sentence, knowing these were derived from the exact same root?

Finally, it is worth noting how both Murdock and Etheridge have basically transposed the infinitive phrase so that it has the effect of a noun in a practical sense in English. Etheridge writes in his notes: "Lemashbothu. Inf. Aphel of shabath, Quiévit; celebravit diem sabbathi". He has translated it somewhat ambiguously, though not in a contradictory manner as, "Therefore, yet to enjoy a shabathism is confirmed to the people of Aloha (Eloah/Elohim)," even though the Latin he provides clearly reads as, "celebrate the Sabbath day." Please also note that he admits the word is in "inf. Aphel" (infinitive) form which again speaks to continuous/eternal celebration of the Shabbat. Etheridge also includes the "rest" meaning for completeness, but as a noun in English, even though he lists it as an Aphel verbal form which is technically correct from the Aramaic. This idea seems confirmed lastly with Murdock, who then has the interesting reading of, “Therefore it is established, that the people of Elohim are to have a sabbath.” Clearly Murdock then also thought that the infinitive form of lmashbato should be rendered in English as the noun “a Sabbath” and not as a generic verb meaning “to rest”; the former approach employed by Lamsa is also retained here.

30 While “rest” certainly has metaphoric attributes, it is clearly meant here as the very literal Seventh Day Shabbat. Paul says Shabbat was established from that Seventh Day of Creation when YHWH Himself rested (Genesis 2:2). Shabbat is extremely relevant to Netzari (Nazarenes) and “Elohim fearing Gentiles”; it could not possibly have changed during this period or any other period, as Christian theologians posture. It was not the followers of Y’shua who changed the day of rest from Shabbat to Sun-day, but Pagan philosophers skilled in syncretism who melded sun worship with early Roman based religio-political “Christianity.” Jewish and Gentile followers of Y’shua are well acquainted with Isaiah 56:1-8; (verse 3-5 relates to Gentiles); Isaiah 59:8-21; Isaiah 66:22-24; Ezekiel 46:1-4; Isaiah 42:1-4. Shabbat is a rehearsal of the 7th millennium; it is a sign between YHWH and all His people, both Jew and Gentile. Shabbat is a day which is commanded by YHWH that we cease from the mundane and enter into His rest in preparation for the Olam Haba. This letter from Rav Shaul was written for the benefit of Jewish followers of Mashiyach who were being enticed back into Rabbinical Judaism. Paul would most certainly not attempt to diminish the Seventh Day Shabbat to Jews who have Torah Consciousness. The Seventh Day Shabbat is the fourth of the Aseret HaDibrot, “the Ten Commandments” written by the finger of YHWH upon stone and transferred in Mashiyach to the hearts of His People! Please see Shabbat in Appendix.

31 “Strive to enter into that rest,” rather than Shabbat being done away with, Paul is saying Shabbat is an honor that is given in Mashiyach according to all righteousness. After laboring during the other six days of the week we enter into Mashiyach’s rest. In other words, we get to do Shabbat as part of our inheritance in the Kingdom of Heaven. This is a very clear and eternal element of Torah for all humanity—resting as and when Master YHWH rested. We must strive to come out of the world’s religions and the world’s ideas about the Kingdom of Heaven and enter into true Messianic rest.

32 “After the manner of them who did not believe.” According to Paul, there is no difference between those unbelievers who are spoken of in Psalm 95:7-11 and those who claim to be of Mashiyach, but don’t strive to enter His rest. In other words don’t be anti-Torah like “unbelievers,” and don’t follow “dispensationalist” or “replacement” theology like the “unbelievers.” But believe and enter into Mashiyach through obedience. Y’shua is Master of Shabbat therefore observe His Shabbat as he himself observed Shabbat along with his disciples. Y’shua and his Schlichim demonstrated the joy and elegance and delight of Shabbat without religious or cultural discrimination. Shabbat in Mashiyach is not a religious thing, or a Jewish identity thing, it is beautiful Kingdom of Heaven spirituality that is given in Mashiyach.

1. For every high priest who is from among men is established over the things of Elohim on behalf of men, that he may present the offering and the sacrifices for sin: 2. and he can humble himself and sympathize with the ignorant and the wrong-headed because he also is clothed with sickness.<sup>33</sup> 3. And, therefore, he is required for the people, as well as for himself, to present an offering for his sins. 4. And no one takes this honor on himself, but he who is called of Elohim, as Aaron (was). 5. So also the Mashiyach did not exalt himself to become a High Priest; but (it was) He (Master YHWH) who said to him, “You are my Son; this day have I begotten you.” 6. As he said also in another place: “You are a priest forever, after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek.” 7. Likewise, when he was clothed in flesh, he offered fervent prayers and pleadings with intense anxious tears, to him who was able to revive him from death; and he was heard. 8. And though he was a son, yet, from the fear and the sufferings he endured, he learned obedience. 9. And the result was that he was perfected and became the cause of eternal life to all them who obey him. 10. And he was named of Elohim, the High Priest after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek. 11. Now, concerning this person, Malki-Tzedek, we have much to discuss; but it is difficult to explain it because you are impeded<sup>34</sup> in your hearing. 12. For you should be teachers, seeing that you have been long in the doctrine. But now you need to learn again the first lines of the very beginning of the Word of Elohim:<sup>35</sup> and you have need of milk, and not of strong food. 13. For every one whose food is milk is unversed in the language of righteousness because he is a child. 14. But strong food belongs to the mature who, being investigators, have trained their faculties to discriminate good and evil.

1. Therefore let us leave the basics of the Word of the Mashiyach, and continue on to its perfection. Or will you again lay another foundation for the repentance which is from dead works and for the faith in Elohim 2. and for the doctrine of immersion, and for the laying on of a hand and for the resurrection from the dead, and for the eternal judgment? 3. We will do this, if Master YHWH permits. 4. But they who have once descended to immersion and have tasted the gift from heaven and have received the Ruach haKodesh 5. and have tasted the good Word of Elohim and the power of the world to come, 6. cannot again sin and a second time be renewed to repentance; or a second time execute him on a stake and insult the Son of Elohim.<sup>36</sup> 7. For the earth that drinks the rain which comes often upon it and produces the herb that is of use to those for whom it is cultivated, receives a blessing from Elohim. 8. But if it should put forth thorns and briers, it would be discarded and be approaching closely to a curse, and its end would be a conflagration. 9. But, concerning you, my Brothers, we are persuaded regarding better things about you, and things pertaining to life, although we speak in this way.

33 Compare the NIV reading “He is able to deal gently with those who are ignorant and going astray, since he himself is subject to weakness.” Hebrews 5:2. Notice that something very important is missing? Aramaic reads, “he can humble himself, and sympathize with the ignorant and the erring...” There is mercy in both readings but no “humility” in Greek, once again indicating that the Peshitta could not have been translated from Greek.

34 A close examination of Psalms 110:5 reveals an awesome Messianic component; however, this is one of 134 places where the Masoretic scribes willfully changed the original scrolls! Here is one of the places the scribes erased the name of YHWH and substituted “Adonai.” These changes are very deliberate and have been done in places where HaMashiyach is being revealed as “YHWH”. It is very clear that Mashiyach was to be presented as a physical corporal manifestation of YHWH Himself. Changing the text is very grievous; it is a transgression of several Commandments of YHWH, but these changes are being upheld by modern Rabbinical Judaism which continues to perpetrate the lie that, without these changes, Torah would be too difficult to understand! Although the “Sages” changed Torah to suit their own theology, the Spirit of YHWH continues to reveal the truth to those with a love for the truth.

35 See Psalms 107:11; John 3:34; Acts 7:38; Romans 3:2; 1 Peter 4:11; Revelation 17:17 and Alef Tav in Appendix.

36 Huge contrast between Aramaic and Greek. The Greek reads: “once having been enlightened...” This “enlightening” seems logical until we look at Aramaic: “But they who have once descended to immersion...” The difference is acute, since baptism is clearly a subject being introduced just two verses earlier. The reason for the Greek redaction to “enlightenment” may well have been due to early Gnostic influence that stressed Mashiych's knowledge over his actual power and incarnation of Deity. See also Hebrews 10:32.

10. For Elohim is not unrighteous to forget your works and your charity which you have shown in His Name, in that you have ministered and do minister to the Set Apart believers. 11. And we desire that each one of you may show this same activity for the completion of your hope, even to the end: 12. and that you do not faint; but that you be emulators of them who by faith and patience have become heirs of the promise. 13. For when Elohim made the promise to Awraham, because there was none greater than himself by whom he could swear, he swore by himself; 14. and said: Blessing, I will bless you, and multiplying I will multiply you. 15. And so he was patient and obtained the promise. 16. For men swear by one greater than themselves: and in every controversy that occurs among them, the sure termination of it is by an oath. 17. Therefore, Elohim, being abundantly willing to show to the heirs of the promise that his promising was irreversible, bound it up in an oath; 18. so that, by two things which cannot endure alteration, and in which Elohim cannot deceive, we, who have earnestly looked for refuge in him, might have great consolation and might hold fast the hope promised to us; 19. which is to us as an anchor that retains our soul so that it stays fixed; and it enters into that within the veil 20. where Y'shua has previously entered for us and has become a priest forever, after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek.

Chapter 7

1. Now this Malki-Tzedek was king of Salem,<sup>37</sup> a priest of the most high Elohim: and he met Awraham when returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him. 2. And to him Awraham set aside one-tenth portion of all that he had with him. And in addition, his name is interpreted king of righteousness; and again (he is called) King of Salem, that is, King of Peace.<sup>38</sup> 3. Of whom neither his father nor his mother are recorded in the genealogies; nor the origination of his days nor the closing of his life; but, after the likeness of the Son of Elohim, his priesthood remains for ever. 4. And consider how great he was to whom the patriarch Awraham gave tithes and first-fruits. 5. For they of the sons of Levi who received the priesthood, had a statute of Torah that they should take tithes from the people; they from their Brothers, because they also are of the seed of Awraham. 6. But this man who is not recorded in their genealogies, took one-tenth from Awraham; and blessed him who had received the promise. 7. And so it is beyond disputation that the lesser is blessed by the greater. 8. And here, men who die, receive the tithes; but there he of whom the Scripture testifies that he lives. 9. And through Awraham, as one may say, even Levi who receives tithes was himself tithed. 10. For he was yet in the loins of his father when he met Malki-Tzedek.<sup>39</sup> 11. If, therefore, perfection had been by means of the priesthood of the Levites in which Torah was imposed upon the people, why was another priest required who should stand up after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek? For it should have said, he will be after the likeness of Aaron. 12. But as there is a change in the priesthood, so also is there a change in the instruction (to the Levitical priests).<sup>40</sup>

<sup>39</sup> Here is the key that sets the context for Hebrews 8:13. Throughout chapter 7, it is the "instruction" (Torah) of the Levitical priests being discussed, pointing towards Awraham submitting his sons to be into the line of Melchisedec (Malki-Tzedek), by tithing to this man in advance. What happens is a switching of priestly modalities within Torah where the priestly model in Exodus gives way to its predecessor from Genesis, in accordance with all the prophecies in the Tanakh. Again, Pagan tradition uses this passage to teach that it is the "Law" that is passing away. Another vital component to understanding this priesthood is that the akeida (binding of Isaac) points to the Malki-Tzedek priesthood, not to the Levitical priesthood. The akeida is fully realized in Mashiyach ben Yoseph, the Suffering Servant who is Y'shua.

13. For he of whom these things were spoken was born of another tribe of which no one ever ministered at the altar. 14. For it is manifest that our Master (Y'shua) arose from Yehuda, from a tribe of which Moshe said nothing concerning a priesthood. 15. And moreover this is further manifest from his saying that another priest will stand up after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek, 16. who was not according to the Torah of physical requirements, but according to the power of an indestructible life. 17. For he testified of him: You are a priest forever, after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek. 18. And the change which was made in the first statute was on account of its powerlessness and because there was no usefulness in it. 19. For the instruction<sup>41</sup> (of the priests) made nothing perfect, but there has come in its place a better hope<sup>42</sup> by which we draw near to Elohim. 20. And he confirmed it to us by an oath. 21. For they became priests without an oath; but this man by an oath. As he said to him by Dawid: Master YHWH has sworn, and will not lie, You are a priest forever, after the likeness of Malki-Tzedek. 22. By all this, is that a superior covenant<sup>43</sup> of which Y'shua is the guaranteed provider. 23. And they as priests were numerous because they were mortal and were not permitted to continue: 24. but this man, because he stands up forever, his priesthood shall not pass away: 25. and he is able to resurrect forever them who come to Elohim by him; for he always lives and sends up prayers for them. 26. For a priest like to him was also suitable for us; one pure and without evil and without stain; one separated from sins and exalted higher than heaven; 27. and who is not required, every day, like the (Aaronic) high priest, to first offer sacrifices for his own sins and then for the people; for this he did once, by offering up himself. 28. For Torah appointed flawed men priests; but the word of the oath which was subsequent to Torah appointed the Son who is eternally perfect.

Chapter 8

1. Now the sum of the whole is this; we have a High Priest who is seated on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heaven: 2. And he is the minister of the sanctuary and of the true tabernacle which Elohim has pitched, and not man. 3. For every high priest is established to offer oblations and sacrifices; and therefore, it was proper that this one should also have something to offer.<sup>44</sup> 4. And if he were on earth, he would not be a priest because there are priests (there) who offer gifts<sup>45</sup> in accordance with Torah: 5. (namely) they who minister in the emblem and shadow of the things in heaven: as it was said to Moshe when he was about to build the tabernacle, See and make every thing according to the pattern which was showed you in the mount.

41 Namusa may refer to Torah proper, or instruction relating to a group or people. The line of thought begins in 7:17 which would demand that namusa/instruction relates to the Aaronic priestly order, not Torah as a whole. The toggling between the two priestly lines of Melchisedec (Bereshit/Genesis) and Aaron (Vayiqra/Leviticus) is a common theme in Tanakh, which predicts that the one must give way to the other. For those who are adamant that Paul can only be referring to Torah (the Law), then consider that Paul is writing to Jews! If Paul were writing to Christians he might have written, "for the Bible perfected nothing" because a "Holy Book" in itself cannot bring perfection even if the Book itself were Perfect. Only the Spirit of YHWH who wrote Torah or "the Bible" can bring perfection. All religions have a "Holy Book" (or two), but imagine how different the world would be if everyone actually followed what their Holy Books teach? Torah reveals Mashiyach who brought a better hope! Do we throw out the Book? That would be foolish theology! And this is not what Paul is teaching! The world is not lacking "holy books" but many souls are lacking in the motivation and desire to live Righteous and Sanctified lives unto YHWH.

42 Sebar could be "hope" but also "Good News/Gospel." More than any other author, Shaul routinely exploits this root word "sebar" in his writings, which is as strong a signature for his writing style as could be found in the NT.

43 Here is one of the many places where Christo-Pagans (Marcion) inserted the word "testament" rather than "covenant" in order to twist the values of the Renewed Covenant (Jeremiah 31) into a Hellenized theology that abolishes Torah and replaces Israel with their church systems. Testament does NOT equal covenant, nor does the "Testament" of Y'shua abolish the Covenant; rather it upholds Jeremiah 31:31-34.

44 Again the references relate to Torah (instruction) about the priestly services, not the Torah (Revelation at Sinai), even though both are referenced by the same word in both Hebrew and in Aramaic.

45 Present tense, clearly indicating the Temple in Jerusalem was standing when this Epistle was written.

6. But now, Y'shua the Mashiyach has received a ministry which is better than that: as also the covenant of which he is made the Mediator is better, and is given with better promises than the former. 7. For, if the first (covenant) had been faultless, there would have been no place for this second (one).<sup>46</sup> 8. For he rebukes them and says: Behold the days come, says Master YHWH, when I will complete with the family of the house of Israel and with the family of the house of Yehuda, a renewed covenant;<sup>47</sup> 9. not like the covenant which I gave to their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand and brought them out of the land of Egypt; (and) because they continued not in my covenant, I also rejected them, says Master YHWH. 10. But this is the covenant which I will give to the family of the house of Israel after those days, says Master YHWH: I will put my Torah in their minds and inscribe it on their hearts;<sup>48</sup> and I will be to them a Elohim, and they will be to me a people. 11. And one will not teach his son of the city<sup>49</sup> nor his brother, nor say: You shall know your Master YHWH: because they will all know me, from the youngest of them to the oldest. 12. And I will forgive them their iniquity; and their sins will I remember no more. 13. In that he said a Renewed (Covenant), he made the first old; and that which is old and decaying, is near to disappearing.<sup>50</sup>

Chapter 9

1. Now, under the first (covenant), there were ordinances of ministration and an earthly sanctuary. 2. For in the first tabernacle which was erected there was the menorah and the table and the bread of the presence; and this was called the Sanctuary. 3. But the inner tabernacle which was within the second veil was called the Kadosh Kadoshim.<sup>51</sup> 4. And there were in it the golden censer and the ark of the covenant<sup>52</sup> which was all overlaid with gold; and in it were the golden urn which contained the manna and the rod of Aaron which sprouted, and the tables of the covenant; 5. and over it were the cherubim of glory which overshadowed the mercy seat. But there is not time to speak particularly of each of the things which were so arranged. 6. And into the outer tabernacle the priests at all times entered and performed their ministration. 7. But into the inner tabernacle, once a year only, the high priest entered, with the blood which he offered for himself and for the sins of the people.

46 Most Christians seem to forget that without the first covenant, the second one is impossible! In very short order Rav Shaul will quote Jeremiah 31:31-34, indicating that the Renewed Covenant is a contingency triggered by, and deriving authority from, the first covenant. YHWH declared that the Ancient Covenant He made with Israel was good; it was to bring life, but the people of Israel chose to willfully break this Covenant and treat it as a vain thing. See Deuteronomy 32:46, 47.

48 See Judaizers and Legalism in Appendix.

49 The phrase in Aramaic is bar medinteh, which literally means "son of his city" but idiomatically carries the meaning of "fellow citizen, neighbor" and most definitely a metaphor Greek does not have. This fact puts Peshitta well before the end of the Second Century when the mistranslated Greek texts were done. It is also important to note that this is the last book of the Eastern canon. As a result, the entire collection must have circulated prior to this very early date.

50 The context is Jeremiah 31:31-34, what is "near to disappearing" is the sinful predisposition of man that breaks Torah, not the standard of Torah. Remember that we broke Torah, not YHWH. YHWH did not drop the standard of Torah because Israel chose disobedience; rather, He installed a Renewed Covenant to write Torah upon the heart through the work of the Ruach haKodesh, according to Mashiyach. The fact of the matter is that in Mashiyach, YHWH raised the bar; He magnified Torah; see Isaiah 42:21. Because mankind broke Covenant, YHWH requires complete renovation on our part, not YHWH's part of the Covenant. This verse in its twisted form, became one of the "crown jewels" of Torahless Christianity which teaches that Torah is decaying and is near to disappearing, but nothing could be farther from the truth. See 2 Peter 3:16 and Epistle to the Hebrews in Appendix. Also, the underlying foundation of Calvinism is that we all "have" a "sinful nature" however no such concept is found in Scripture, only a nature of man or "human nature." In Galatians 3:27, Ephesians 4:24, and Colossians 3:10 Rav Shaul exhorts followers of Mashiyach to "put on the new man" and "put on Mashiyach." We are called to reject all false religion and doctrine that makes void YHWH's Torah (instruction in righteousness) according to the old man (sinful predisposition) and live in the new man who has a "righteous predisposition" and delights in Torah and Mashiyach.

51 Kadosh Kadoshim (Set Apart of the Set Aparts) translated as “Holy of Holies”; however, it is important to note that many religions use “holy” as a term to denote what is sacred unto them. In the Malchut Elohim, the term Kadosh denotes the “nature” of YHWH. YHWH is the sole Creator and sustainer of Life; He has made distinct “boundaries” in Himself which He reveals according to His Word and through the Ruach haKodesh. The word holy is derived from heile which means to be warmed by the sun. It has a direct connection to sun worship; this is not a matter of semantics, but of understanding and applying what belongs unto YHWH and that which is not of Him. In Christianity being “holy” is often thought of as “being like Jesus” although most Christians wouldn’t dare to live like Y’shua and His Talmidim for fear of being “too Jewish,” or being labeled as legalists! Y’shua and His followers were Torah Observant; it is within Torah Observance that one can truly define what it means to be “Set Apart unto YHWH.” “But know that YHWH has Set Apart him that is Chasid (righteous) for Himself: YHWH will hear when I call unto him” (Psalm 4:3).

52 Some theologians posture that there was no censor in the inner sanctum for more information see Epistle to the Hebrews in Appendix.

8. And by this the Ruach haKodesh indicated that the way to the Set Apart (places) was not yet manifested so long as the first tabernacle was standing: 9. and it was a symbol for that time during which oblation and sacrifices were offered that could not make perfect the conscience of him who offered them: 10. but (they consisted) only in food and drink and in the ablutions of diverse things which were flesh ordinances, and were set up until the time of restoration. 11. But the Mashiyach who came was a High Priest of the good things which he created: and he entered into the great and perfect tabernacle which was not made with hands and was not of these created things. 12. And he did not enter with the blood of goats and calves; but with the blood of himself he entered once into the sanctuary and obtained eternal redemption. 13. For if the blood of goats and calves, with the ashes of a heifer, was sprinkled upon them that were defiled and sanctified them as to the purification of their flesh; 14. then how much more will the blood of the Mashiyach, who by the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to Elohim, purge our conscience from dead works so that we may serve the living Elohim? 15. And for this reason he became the Mediator of the renewed covenant,<sup>53</sup> that he might by his death be redemption to them who had transgressed the first covenant; so that they who are called to the eternal inheritance might receive the promise. 16. For where there is a testament, it indicates the death of him who made it. 17. For it is valid only of a deceased (person) because it has no use so long as the maker of it lives. 18. Therefore also the first (covenant) was not confirmed without blood. 19. For when the whole ordinance had been propounded by Moshe to all the people, according to Torah; Moshe took the blood of a heifer and water, with scarlet wool and hyssop,<sup>54</sup> and sprinkled upon the books and upon all the people;<sup>55</sup> 20. and said to them, This is the blood of the covenant which is enjoined by Elohim. 21. With that blood he also sprinkled upon the tabernacle and upon all the vessels of ministration: 22. because everything, according to Torah, is purified with blood: and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sin. 23. For it was necessary that these, the representations<sup>56</sup> of heavenly things, should be purified<sup>57</sup> with those things; but the heavenly things themselves, with a sacrifice<sup>58</sup> superior to them.

<sup>54</sup> Critics of Hebrews sometimes claim this statement is inaccurate because the sprinkling of the book is not mentioned in Exodus 24, nor the mixture stated therein. However, take a closer look: Leviticus 14:6 mentions scarlet yarn, referencing the color, not the material. Most experts assume "thread" is implied (Genesis 38:28), just like the Hebrew does not say "hand" directly when Benjamin is interpreted literally as "son of my right" but everyone knows it is "right hand." Wool is, of course, white in its natural state, but Torah commands it to be dyed scarlet, which is why Isaiah uses the metaphor in the first place. And where did Rav Shaul get the idea that the scarlet material was wool? Probably from Exodus 26:31, 36 which indicates the tentway is made of (a) "scarlet (insert material of choice here)" and (b) "fine twisted linen." In other words, the linen is not dyed and material (a) is clearly not linen. What's left if not wool? Scarlet goat hair? No! The fact is, specific material is not mentioned in Torah unless required, as is in Leviticus 13:47-48 and Deuteronomy 22:11 which forbids the making of garments from more than one material; but there are two issues. "You shall make a breastpiece of judgment, the work of a skillful workman; like the work of the ephod you shall make it: of gold, of blue and purple and scarlet (material) and fine twisted linen you shall make it" (Ex. 28:15). If it were all linen it would say so, and though it is possible to weave linen and wool into one yarn, this is clearly not being done here, either. Garment (A) 100% wool yarn, and garment (B) 100% fine twisted linen. The linen certainly does not have wool in its thread, or vice versa.

<sup>55</sup> There are two separate issues here. First, there is a clear telescoping of two events we know to be separated by the monthly timetable established by the Tanakh. Two events are being taught together at one time to establish a spiritual point; the seams are quite evident. Event #1 in Hebrews 9:19-20 teaches that the blood is for atonement. Event #2, the blood being sprinkled on the tabernacle later. This appears to suggest the blood from that day lasted eight to nine months and then was sprinkled on the tabernacle, but again, this is how events are combined to make a spiritual point. Clearly Paul knew, as did his audience, that additional blood prepared in the same manner was required in Exodus 40. Although the reading may appear as "this same blood" the meaning is more like "blood derived from this same manner." This becomes clear when we realize that Exodus 24:5 refers to burnt offerings and sacrificed bulls, whereas Exodus 40:29 refers to burnt offerings and meal offerings. We could be much more demanding and ask where is the specific reference to the sacrificed bull in Exodus 40, but that is hardly the smoking gun against Hebrews. Again, telescoping does not mean this is one flowing event; the details from both events are being used in a spiritual discussion, something sages and rabbis have done from the beginning. On the other hand, blood is still involved with the burnt offering: "The priest shall also put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of fragrant incense which is before YHWH in the tent of meeting; and all the blood of the bull he shall pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering which is at the doorway of the tent of meeting" (Leviticus 4:7). The second issue is that there are multiple references to the altar being sprinkled with blood, and the people having themselves sprinkled with blood from the same sacrifice. Therefore, it would not be inaccurate to conclude, given the book's placement by the altar, that it also received an amount of blood.

56 The word damota indicates a representation, not an exact reflection, of an object. Sometimes critics of Hebrews say that the comparison of the earthly Temple objects to the heavenly puts the epistle into error. However, if exact reflection/image was intended, another word, tzelma, would have been used. This word is used, for example, in Hebrews 1:3, where Y'shua is called the exact identical reflection/image of YHWH's nature.

57 The Aramaic word daka (purification) refers only to earthly representations of Temple objects, not the heavenly. The items in the Heavenly Temple need no such purification.

58 The word here, debkha, appears the same way in the singular and plural form. In this context, there is only one sacrifice superior to the earthly Temple, and that is Y'shua himself.

24. For the Mashiyach entered not into the sanctuary made with hands which is the emblem of the true (sanctuary): but he entered into heaven itself to appear in the presence of Elohim for us. 25. Neither (was it necessary) that he should offer himself many times as the high priest entered every year into the sanctuary with blood not his own: 26. otherwise, he must have suffered many times since the commencement of the world; but now in the end of the world, he has once offered himself in a self-sacrifice to abolish sin. 27. And, as it is appointed to men that they must once die, and after their death is the judgment; 28. so also the Mashiyach was once offered; and, by himself, he burned away the sins of many: and a second time, without sins, will he appear for the life of them who expect him.

Chapter 10

1. For in Torah there was a shadow of the good things to come; not the substance of the things themselves. Therefore, although the same sacrifices were every year offered, they could never make perfect those who offered them. 2. For, if they had perfected them, they would long ago have desisted from their offerings because their conscience could no more compel them who were once purified, on account of their sins. 3. But in those sacrifices, they every year recognized their sins. 4. For the blood of bulls and of goats cannot purge away sins. 5. Therefore, when entering the world, he said: In sacrifices and oblations you have not had pleasure; but you have clothed me with a body. 6. And whole burnt offerings on account of sins you have not asked. 7. Then I said: Behold I come, as it is written of me in the beginning<sup>59</sup> of the books, to do your will, O Elohim. 8. He first said: Sacrifices and oblations and whole burnt offerings for sins which were offered according to Torah, you did not desire; 9. and afterwards he said: Behold I come to do your will, O Elohim: hereby, he abolished the former that he might establish the latter. 10. For by this His will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Y'shua the Mashiyach a single time. 11. For every high priest who stood and ministered daily, offered again and again the same sacrifices which never were sufficient to purge away sins. 12. But this (Priest) offered one sacrifice for sins, and forever sat down at the right hand of Elohim; 13. and afterward waited until his foes should be placed as a footstool under his feet. 14. For by one offering he has perfected forever, them who are sanctified by him. 15. And the Ruach haKodesh also testifies to us by saying: 16. This is the covenant which I will give them after those days, says Master YHWH: I will put my Torah into their minds and inscribe it on their hearts; 17. and their iniquity and their sins I will not remember against them.<sup>60</sup> 18. Now, where there is a forgiveness of sins there is no offering for sin demanded. 19. We have therefore, my Brothers, assurance in entering into the sanctuary by the blood of Y'shua

20. and by a path of life which he has now consecrated for us through the veil that is his flesh.<sup>61</sup> 21. And we have a high priest over the house of Elohim. 22. Let us therefore draw near with a true heart and with the confidence of faith, being sprinkled as to our hearts and pure from an evil conscience, and our body being washed with pure water. 23. And let us persevere in the profession of our hope and not waver; for he is faithful who has made the promise to us. 24. And let us look on each other for the excitement of love and good works. 25. And let us not forsake our meetings as is the custom of some, but entreat one another and the more, as you see that day draw near. 26. For if a man sin voluntarily after he has received a knowledge of the truth, there is no longer a sacrifice which may be offered for sins: 27. but the fearful judgment impends, and the zeal of fire that consumes the adversaries. 28. For if he who transgressed the Torah of Moshe, died without mercies at the mouth of two or three witnesses; 29. how much more, do you think, will he receive capital punishment who has trodden upon the Son of Elohim and has accounted the blood of his covenant by which he is sanctified, as the blood of all men and has treated the Spirit of grace in an insulting manner?<sup>62</sup> 30. For we know him who has said, Retribution is mine and I will repay; and again, Master YHWH will judge his people. 31. It is very terrible to fall into the hands of the living Elohim.<sup>63</sup> 32. Therefore, recall the former days, those in which you received immersion<sup>64</sup> and endured a great conflict of sufferings with reproach and affliction; 33. and you were a gazing stock, and also were the associates of persons who endured these things: 34. and you were grieved for those who were imprisoned; and you cheerfully endured the plundering of your goods because you knew that you had a possession in heaven, superior and not transitory. 35. Therefore do not discard your confidence which is to have a great reward. 36. For you have need of patience that you may do the will of Elohim and may receive the promise. 37. Because, yet a little, and it is a very little time when he that comes, will come, and will not delay. 38. Now the just by my faith will live: but if he draw back, my soul will not have pleasure in him. 39. But we are not of that drawing-back, which leads to destruction, but of that faith which makes us possess our soul.

Chapter 11

1. Now faith is the assurance of the things that are in hope as if they were in actual reality. (Faith is also) the manifesting of the things that are (still) invisible.<sup>65</sup> 2. And for it the ancients are well testified of.<sup>66</sup> 3. For by faith we understand that the worlds were shaped by the Word of Elohim; and that things seen originated from those that are not seen. 4. By faith, Abel offered to Elohim a better sacrifice than that of Cain; and on account of it, he is testified of that he was righteous, and Elohim bore testimony to his offering; and in consequence of it, that although he is dead, yet he speaks.

61 And on the other side of that "veil" is the Ruach haKodesh, (Isaiah 11:1-2, Zechariah 12:10).

62 This admonition is perhaps a midrash about "blaspheming against the Ruach haKodesh" as mentioned by Y'shua in Matthew 12:32.

63 Perhaps this is a veiled reference to a disaster that befell King David: "Go and speak to David, 'YHWH says this: I offer you three things; choose which one of them I am to inflict on you.' So Gad went to David and said, 'Which do you prefer: to have three years of famine befall your country; to flee for three months before a pursuing army; or to have three days of epidemic in your country? Now think, and decide how I am to answer Him who sends me.'" David said to Gad, 'I am very apprehensive. Better to fall into YHWH's hands, since His mercies are great, than to fall into the hands of men!'" So David chose the epidemic. It was the time of the wheat harvest. So YHWH unleashed an epidemic on Israel from that morning until the time determined; plague ravaged the people and, of the people from Dan to Beersheba, seventy thousand died." (2 Samuel 24:12-15 NJB) If this is Rav Shaul's point it is sobering. David knew it was better to fall into YHWH's mercies, and yet 70,000 people died in 3 days. This would then suggest, "You know how David was righteous, and yet this happened to him. If you aren't as righteous as David was how much worse will your fate be when you fall into YHWH's hands?"

64 Notice the Greek: "...having been enlightened..." (The Greek-English Interlinear New Testament, UBS Ed.). The Greek redaction to "enlightenment" is likely due to Gnostic influences that postured gnosis (knowledge) as the prerequisite for salvation; see Hebrews 6:6.

65 The word sebara as noted previously, is a favorite of Paul's and means "hope." It is beautifully contrasted here with the near-homonym soarana (fact/evidence) as a narrative to Mashiach's teaching that even faith the size of a mustard seed can move mountains.

66 This faith speech is reminiscent of a similar one Mar Stephen gave in Acts 7, and Acts 8:1 tells us Rav Shaul was there giving approval to his death. Perhaps some of that occasion is being recalled here.

5. By faith Enoch was translated and did not taste death; and he was not found because Elohim had translated him: for, before he translated him, there was testimony of him that he pleased Elohim. 6. But, without faith, a man cannot please Elohim. For he that draws near to Elohim must believe His existence and that He will recompense those who seek Him. 7. By faith Noah, when he was told of things not seen, feared; and he made himself an ark for the life of his household, whereby he condemned the world and became an heir of the righteousness which is by faith. 8. By faith Awraham, when he was called, obeyed and departed to the place which he was to receive for an inheritance: and he departed while he had no idea where he was going. 9. By faith he became a resident in the land that was promised him as in a foreign land; and resided in tents with Yitz'chak and Ya'akov, the heirs with him of the same promise. 10. For he looked for the city that has a foundation of which the builder and maker is Elohim. 11. By faith Sarah also, who was barren, acquired the power to receive seed; and out of the time of her years, she brought forth because she firmly believed that he was faithful who had promised her. 12. Therefore, from one man failing through age, myriads were born, like the stars in the heavens and like the sand on the shore of the sea which is beyond all counting. 13. All these died in faith and did not receive their promise; but they saw it from a distance and rejoiced in it; and they confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth. 14. Now they who say thus show that they seek a city. 15. But if they had been seeking that city from which they came out, they had opportunity to return again and go to it. 16. But now it is manifest that they longed for a better (city) than that, (namely) for that which is in heaven. Therefore Elohim did not refuse to be called their Elohim; for he prepared for them the city. 17. By faith Awraham, in his trial, offered up Yitz'chak; and he laid on the altar his only son whom he had received by promise. 18. For it had been said to him, In Yitz'chak will your seed be called. 19. And he reasoned with himself that Elohim was able even to raise (him) from the dead: and therefore, in the representative type (of a resurrection), he was restored to him. 20. By faith in what was to be, Yitz'chak blessed Ya'akov and Esau. 21. By faith Ya'akov, when dying, blessed each of the sons of Yosip and bowed himself on the top of his staff. 22. By faith Yosip, when dying, was mindful of the departure of the children of Israel and gave direction concerning his bones. 23. By faith the parents of Moshe, after he was born, hid him three months because they saw he was a goodly child; and they were not impeded by the command of the king. 24. By faith Moshe, when he became a man, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter. 25. And he chose to be in suffering with the people of Elohim and not to live indulgently in sin for a short season: 26. And he considered the reproach of the Mashiyach a greater treasure than the hoarded riches of Egypt; for he looked towards the reward. 27. By faith he left Egypt and was not terrified by the wrath of the king; and he continued to hope, just as if he saw the invisible Elohim.

28. By faith, they kept the Paskha (Passover)<sup>67</sup> and the sprinkling of blood that he who destroyed the firstborn might not approach them. 29. By faith they passed the Sea of Reeds as on dry land; and in it the Egyptians were swallowed up when they dared to enter it. 30. By faith the walls of Jericho fell down when they had been circled for seven days. 31. By faith Rahab, the harlot did not die with them who did not believe, when she received the spies in peace. 32. What more will I say? For I have little time to tell of Gideon and of Barak, and of Samson and of Jephtha, and of Dawid and of Samuel, and of the other prophets: 33. who, by faith dominated kingdoms, and worked righteousness, and received promises and closed the mouths of lions 34. and quenched the force of fire and were rescued from the edge of the sword, and were healed of diseases, and became strong in battle, and routed the camps of enemies, 35. and restored to women their children by a resurrection from the dead. And some died under tortures and did not hope to escape that there might be for them a better resurrection; 36. and others endured mockings and scourgings; others were delivered up to bonds and prisons; 37. others were stoned; others were sawed; others died by the edge of the sword; others roamed about clothed in sheep skins and goat skins and were needy and afflicted and agitated 38. persons of whom the world was not worthy, and yet they were as wanderers in the desert and in mountains, and in caves and in caverns of the earth. 39. And all these, of whose faith there is testimony, did not receive the promise: 40. because Elohim had provided the aid for us so that without us they should not be perfected.

Chapter 12

1. Therefore let us also, who have all these witnesses surrounding us like clouds, cast from us all impediments and sin which is always prepared for us; and let us run with patience the race that is appointed for us. 2. And let us look on Y'shua who has become the beginning and the completion of our faith; who, on account of the joy there was for him, endured the stake and surrendered himself to shame; and is seated on the right hand of the throne of Elohim. 3. Behold, therefore, how much he suffered from sinners, for they were adversaries of their own soul, that you may not be discouraged nor your soul become remiss.<sup>68</sup> 4. You have not yet come to blood in the contest against sin. 5. And you have forgotten the encouragement which says to you, as to children, My son, disregard not the discipline of Master YHWH; nor let your soul faint when you are rebuked by him. 6. For whom Master YHWH loves He disciplines and He reproves those sons for whom He has kind regards. 7. Therefore endure the disciplining because Elohim is dealing with you as with sons. For what son is there whom his father does not discipline? 8. But if you are without that discipline with which everyone is disciplined, you have become strangers and not sons.

67 So, how does Rav Shaul praise these souls for keeping Pesach and then suddenly turn around and say not to observe it? Shaul kept the Feasts of YHWH and taught others to do the same. Pagan festivals can never replace the Set Apart Moedim.

68 Some of the biggest hurdles that Greek primacists face have to do with books that come after John. Many Greek scholars admit that the differences between the Greek families of texts and the Peshitta prove that Aramaic was original and not translated from Greek. However, in the case of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, these same scholars had the Old Syriac Group that they manipulated to act as a buffer between Greek and the Peshitta. They argue that the Peshitta was revised from the Old Syriac and that the Old Syriac, in turn, was translated from Greek. It is impossible that the "Gospels" were first recorded in Aramaic from the Old Syriac; scholarly adherence to such a fallacy is wanting. The same diversity of readings occurs in books which the Old Syriac does not cover! When a major divergence is found, it is much more astute to conclude that the Peshitta was never dependent on Greek; here is a powerful case in point. Not only has Greek lost volumes of magnificent poetry, but here the Greek redactor dropped an entire phrase! Greek reads: "Consider him who endured such hostility against himself from sinners, so that you may not grow weary or lose heart" (Hebrews 12:3 The Greek-English Interlinear New Testament, UBS 4th Edition, Nestle-Aland 26th Edition). Aramaic reads: "Behold, therefore, how much he suffered from sinners, for they were adversaries of their own soul, that you may not be discouraged, nor your soul become remiss." Obviously NOT just some small omission here! Consider also the poetry that was lost in Greek. Here are the original sounds: (1) kma saybar min khatayeh hanun (2) d'hanun hawu saqubleh l'naphshayhun (3) d'la teman l'khun (4) w'la tethrapa naphshkhun: A beautiful message lost in all Greek versions, Y'shua states "they" were adversaries of their own soul. Furthermore, perhaps if the original text had retained the entire verse, there would have been much less impetus for the Crusades against Jews!

9. And if our fathers of the flesh disciplined us and we revered them, how much more should we be submissive to our spiritual fathers<sup>69</sup> and live? 10. For they disciplined us for a short time according to their pleasure; but Elohim, for our advantage that we may become partakers of his Set Apart (Spirit).<sup>70</sup> 11. Now all discipline in the time of it, is not accounted a matter of joy but of grief: yet, afterwards, it yields the fruits of peace and righteousness to them who are exercised by it. 12. And so, strengthen your relaxed hands and your quaking knees: 13. and make straight paths for your feet that the limb which is lame may not be disjoined but may be healed. 14. Follow after peace with every man; and after being Set Apart, without which a man will not see our Master (Y'shua). 15. And be careful or else any be found among you destitute of the grace of Elohim; or else some root of bitterness shoot forth germs and trouble you, and thereby many be defiled: 16. or else anyone be found among you a fornicator or a reckless one like Esau who for one mess of food sold his birthright. 17. For you know that, afterwards when he wished to inherit the blessing, he was rejected; for he found not a place for repentance although he sought it with tears. 18. For you have not come to the fire that burned and the tangible (mount); nor to the darkness and obscurity and raging storm; 19. nor to the sound of the shofar and the voice of words which they who heard entreated that it might no more be spoken to them; 20. for they could not endure what was commanded. And even a beast, if it approached the mountain, was to be stoned. 21. And so terrible was the sight that Moshe said, I fear and tremble. 22. But you have come to Mount Tsiyon and to the city of the living Elohim, the Urishlim that is in heaven; and to the assemblies of myriads of Messengers; 23. and to the assembly of the first-born who are enrolled in heaven and to Elohim the judge of all; and to the spirits of the just who are perfected; 24. And to Y'shua, the Mediator of the renewed covenant; and to the sprinkling of his blood which speaks better than that of Abel. 25. Beware, therefore, or else you refuse (to hear) him who speaks with you. For if they did not escape who refused (to hear) him who spoke with them on the earth, how much more will we not if we refuse (to hear) him who speaks with us from heaven? 26. Whose voice (then) shook the earth; but now he has promised and said yet again once more, I will shake not the earth only but also heaven. 27. And these words, once more, indicates the transformation of the things that are shaken because they are fabricated; that the things which will not be shaken may remain. 28. Since, therefore, we have received a Kingdom that is unshaken, let us grasp the grace from which we may serve and please Elohim with reverence and fear. 29. For our Elohim is a consuming fire.

69 The KJV reads, "Furthermore we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the 'Father of spirits', and live?" This "Father of Spirits" from Greek is spurious at best as it has no second mention in Scripture to witness its authenticity. Even the title: Epistle to the Hebrews, provides some insight about returning to our Hebrew "Spiritual Fathers." The "Spiritual Fathers" have been discussed extensively throughout this Epistle, especially in these last two chapters, which also provides another clue. Compare Luke 1:17,72; Acts 7:38; 22:3; 28:17; Romans 15:8; Hebrews 8:9. Malachi 4:6 "And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, or else I come and smite the earth with a curse." (Also compare 1 Peter 1:10-12.) The many levels of evidence for Aramaic primacy is so extensive, that to simply compare Peshitta with Greek text is only a very humble beginning; we must note the core values behind Hebrew and Greek cultures which also "translate" into the text. The original text provides conclusive evidence that the Malchut (Kingdom of) Elohim is the continuum of Faith, the Ancient Path of YHWH (Jeremiah 6:16) whose central goal then, now and in the future, is the Torah Mashiach.

70 The beauty of the Set Apart Spirit is realized when we become partakers of the Spirit of Mashiach (Y'shua), when he is brought into our neschama (spirit) and we become co-laborers with him. The Spirit of Mashiach leads us away from sin, we observe Torah and put trust in YHWH through Y'shua for our salvation, see Psalm 29:2; 96:9; 110:3-4.

1. Let love for the Brothers dwell among you. 2. And do not forget kindness to strangers; for by this some have been privileged to entertain Messengers without even knowing! 3. And remember those in prison as if you were bound with them: and recollect those in affliction as being yourselves clothed in flesh. 4. Marriage is honorable in all and their bed undefiled: but prostitute partners and adulterers, Elohim will judge. 5. Let not your mind love money, but let what you have, satisfy you. For Master YHWH Himself has said, I will never leave you nor loosen the hand towards you. 6. And it belongs to us to say confidently, My Master (Y'shua) is my helper, I will not fear. What can man do to me? 7. Remember your guides<sup>71</sup> who have spoken to you Elohim-inspired concepts; observe the perfection of their works and imitate their faith. 8. Y'shua the Mashiyach is the same yesterday, today, and forever.<sup>72</sup> 9. Be not led away by strange and variable doctrines. For it is a good thing that we strengthen our hearts with grace and not with meats, for those have not benefited who walked in them. 10. And we have an altar of which they who minister in the tabernacle have no right to eat. 11. For the flesh of those animals whose blood the high priest brought into the sanctuary for sins, was burned without the camp. 12. For this reason Y'shua also, that he might sanctify his people with his blood, suffered without the city. 13. Therefore, let us also go forth to him, without the camp, clothed with his reproach: 14. (for we have here no abiding city; but we expect one that is future): 15. and through him, let us at all times offer to Elohim the sacrifices of praise, that is, the fruits of lips which give thanks to His Name. 16. And do not forget to do good and share with the poor; for with such sacrifices a man is pleasing to Elohim. 17. Confide in your guides and listen to them; for they watch for your souls as men who must give an account of you that they may do this with joy and not with anguish; for that would not be profitable to you. 18. Pray for us; for we trust we have a good conscience (before you), that in all things we desire to behave honestly. 19. Especially do I request you to do this, that I may return to you speedily. 20. May the Elohim of peace who brought up from the dead the great Shepherd of the flock, by the blood of the everlasting covenant, namely Y'shua the Mashiyach, our Master (Y'shua), 21. make you perfect in every good work that you may do his will; and himself operate in you that which is pleasing in his sight through Y'shua the Mashiyach to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen. 22. And I beseech you, my Brothers, that you be patient under this word of encouragement because it is only briefly that I have written to you. 23. And know you that our brother Timothy is set at liberty: and if he come soon I, with him, will see you. 24. Send peace to all your guides and all the Set Apart believers. All they of Italy<sup>73</sup> greet you. 25. Grace be with you all. Amen.

End of the Letter to the Hebrews which was written from Italy of Rome and was sent by the hands of Timothy.

71 The Aramaic midebrana is more of a "ruler" or "leader," who leads as a "guide" rather than in a passive theoretical sense like a "hit and miss guide" whose advice could be construed as optional. Paul offers many beautiful characteristics of righteous living and leadership qualities. In verse 1, let love for the Brothers dwell in you. Verse 2, kindness to strangers. Verse 4, honorable marriages. Verse 5, mind not on love of money, live a modest lifestyle in servitude to YHWH. Verse 7, provide Elohim-inspired concepts and witness the perfection of their works. Verse 9, not led by strange and variable doctrines but strengthens hearts with grace. Verse 15, offers sacrifices of praise to Elohim. Verse 16, does good and shares with poor. Verse 16, accountable to YHWH and serves with joy. Verse 18, behaves honestly. Paul ministers with a wonderful and elegant love towards "my set Apart Brothers who are called with a calling that is from heaven" Hebrews 3:1, as in Phil 3:14 he says, "the call of Elohim from on high" revealing a grateful and humble leadership spirit. Paul appeals for us to "consider this Schlich (Apostle) and High Priest of our profession, Y'shua the Mashiyach" (Hebrews 3:1) framing his words in such spiritual eloquence and servitude that we can envision him coming alongside his Brothers and Sisters and lifting us up to Mashiyach. This is the beauty of holiness working in our precious Rav Shaul, it is Mashiyach in him that inspires us.

72 Rav Shaul knows Y'shua as the Word of YHWH who is Mashiyach, as the same yesterday, today, and forever, and all things were created by the Word of YHWH from the beginning of time. It was Mashiyach who spoke with Noah and Abraham and gave the Torah to Moshe, which is why it is very wicked for Christians to speak evil of Torah and suggest that Israel could not keep the Torah which was given them, when YHWH Himself says, "But the word is very nigh unto you, in your mouth, and in your heart, that you may do it" (D'varim/Deut. 30:14).

73 Although it is very apparent that Rav Shaul (Paul) wrote the book of Hebrews; the church founder Origen stated that "only God knows who wrote this.” In the Middle East, there are no doubts. Clement, Eusebius and Jerome state that Hebrews was originally written in Hebrew. However, since Paul was the main scapegoat for the establishment of the Hellenized Christian religion, it only stands to reason that Hellenic theologians preferred to paint Paul as a Grecian Academic, rather than Hebrew Jew or Messianic Pharisee. All of his earliest Aramaic manuscripts end with “written from Italy... sent by the hands of Timothy.” Timothy was imprisoned along with Rav Shaul in Rome, but released beforehand to deliver Paul’s letters (see Romans 16:21; Philippians 1:1; 1 Thessalonians 3:2; 1 Timothy 1:18; 2 Timothy 1:2; Philemon 1:10, 13). The Margaritha, an ancient Aramaic source, states that there are “Fourteen epistles of the Great Apostle Paul” which includes Hebrews.

1. YA'AKOV, a servant of Elohim, and of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach; to the twelve tribes<sup>1</sup> dispersed<sup>2</sup> among the peoples; greeting (peace). 2. Let it be all joy to you, my Brothers, when you enter into many and various trials. 3. For you know that the trial of (your) faith, makes you possess patience. 4. And let patience have its perfect work so that you may be complete and perfect<sup>3</sup> and may lack nothing. 5. And if any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask (it) of Elohim who gives to all freely and reproaches no one; and it will be given him. 6. But let him ask in faith, and without hesitation. He who hesitates is like the waves of the sea which the wind overturns. 7. And let not that man expect to receive anything of Master YHWH, 8. who is hesitating in his mind and unstable in all his ways. 9. And let the depressed brother rejoice in his elevation; 10. and the rich, in his depression; because, like the flower of an herb, so he passes away. 11. For the sun rises in its heat, and dries up the herb; and its flower falls, and the beauty of its appearance perishes: so also the rich man withers in his ways. 12. Blessed is the man who endures temptations so that when he is proved he may receive a crown of life which Elohim has promised to them that love Him. 13. Let no one when he is tempted, say: "I am tempted of Elohim," for Elohim is not tempted with evils, nor does He tempt any man. 14. But every man is tempted by his own lust; and he lusts and is drawn away. 15. And this (his) lust conceives and brings forth sin; and sin when mature, brings forth death. 16. Do not mistake this, my beloved Brothers. 17. Every good and perfect gift comes down from above, from the Father of (Heavenly) Lights<sup>4</sup> with whom is no changing, not even the shadow of change. 18. He saw fit, and gave new birth to us by the Word of Truth, that we might be the first-fruits of His creatures. 19. And you all be, my beloved Brothers, quick to hear and slow to speak, and slow to anger: 20. for the anger of man does not result in the righteousness of Elohim. 21. And so, throw all that is defiled and the myriads of evil things far away from yourselves and with meekness, receive the Word that is implanted in our nature which is able to resurrect your souls. 22. But be doers of the Word, and not hearers only; and do not deceive yourselves. 23. For if any man will be a hearer of the Word and not a doer of it, he will be like one who sees his face in a mirror: 24. for he sees himself and passes on and forgets what a man he was. 25. But everyone that looks upon the perfect Torah of liberty and lives fully in it, is not a hearer of something to be forgotten, but a doer<sup>5</sup> of the things; and he will be blessed in his work. 26. And if any one thinks that he worships Elohim and does not subdue his tongue, but his heart deceives him; his worship is desolate. 27. For the worship that is pure and Set Apart before Elohim the Father, is this: to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction; and: that one keep himself without blemish from the world.

5 While there are two different Aramaic words for "hear" and "do" the word for "hear" in Aramaic also means "to do"; the Hebrew equivalent, shema, means the same. Ya'akov's Hebraic thought and intention are clearly represented in this verse.

1. My Brothers, do not hold to the faith of the glory of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach with double-minded hypocrisy. 2. For if there come into your assembly a man with rings of gold or splendid garments and there come in a poor man in ragged and stained garments; 3. and respect is shown to him who is clothed in splendid garments, and you say to him, "Be honorably seated;" while to the poor man, say, "Stand way over there," or "sit here (in low prostration) before my footstool;" 4. are you not showing double mindedness among yourselves and becoming advocates of evil thoughts? 5. Hear, my beloved Brothers; has not Elohim chosen the poor of the world, the rich in faith, to be heirs in the Kingdom which Elohim has promised to them that love him? 6. But you have despised the poor man. Do not rich men exalt themselves over you and drag you before the tribunals? 7. Do they not hate that worthy Name,<sup>6</sup> which is invoked upon you? 8. And if in this you fulfill the Torah of Elohim, as it is written, "You will love your neighbor as yourself," you will do well: 9. but if you have partiality towards persons, you commit sin; and you are convicted by Torah as breakers of Torah. 10. For he that will keep the whole Torah and yet fail in one aspect of it, is an enemy to the whole Torah. 11. For he who said, "You will not commit adultery," said also, "You will not kill." If then you commit no adultery, but you do murder, you have become a defiler of Torah. 12. So speak and so act as persons that are to be judged by the Torah of perfect freedom. 13. For judgment without mercy will be on him who has practiced no mercy: by mercy, you will be raised above judgment. 14. What is the use, my Brothers, if a man say, "I have faith," and he has no works? Can his "faith" resurrect him?<sup>7</sup> 15. Or if a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, 16. and one of you say to them, "Go in peace, warm yourselves, and be full;" and you do not give them the necessities of the body, what is the use? 17. So also faith alone, without works, is dead. 18. For a man may say, you have faith and I have works; show to me your faith that is without works and I will show to you my faith by my works. 19. You believe that there is one Elohim; you do well; the demons also believe and tremble. 20. Would you know, O weak man, that faith without works is dead? 21. Awraham our father, was not he justified by works<sup>8</sup> in offering his son Yitz'chak<sup>9</sup> upon the altar? 22. Do you realize that his faith aided his works, and that by the works his faith was rendered complete? 23. And the Scripture was fulfilled which says: "Awraham believed in Elohim,<sup>10</sup> and it was credited to him for righteousness"<sup>11</sup> and he was called the Friend of Elohim. 24. You see that by works a man is justified<sup>12</sup> and not by faith alone. 25. So also Rahab the harlot, was she not justified by works when she entertained the spies and sent them forth by another way? 26. As the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

6 The Name invoked upon you is YHWH.

7 Literally "restore life", not "save" as often translated.

8 Some theologians allege this teaching to be opposite of the Pauline Epistles, such as Galatians. The reality is that Paul was grossly misquoted whereas Ya'akov was not. Rav Shaul did not accept empty ritual devoid of proper spiritual focus. He was Torah Observant; he kept the Moedim (feast days), the Shabbat, and took one or more Nazirite vows; he fasted on Yom Kippur, ate "clean" food and lived a Set Apart life in Mashiyach Y'shua. The fact is that Romans 7:12 totally harmonizes Galatians with, and complements, Galatians and Ya'akov.

9 A very clear wordplay exists here, with the phrase asiq l'Aisakq, or "offering Yitzchak". Asiq is a very rare word used for "offering"; the only reason to do so is to show a clever association between the Aramaic spelling and sound of these two words.

11 Genesis 15:6

12 The Hebrew word for a righteous soul = tsadiq; righteousness = tsedeq; justified = tsadaq; notice they are the same word. A soul without righteousness can never be "justified" regardless of what theologians claim. The original root word for justified relates to righteous action. However, mainstream Christianity teaches that a person is "justified" solely on the merits of belief in Y'shua, and that observing Torah is impossible. Even in Ya'akov's day, some individuals wanted cerebral belief to "justify" themselves, which is impossible. Y'shua's person (example) and Spirit is meant to literally be imparted into us; this must be evidenced by our actions, otherwise we do not belong to him. Theological, or cerebral "belief" without works, is dead religion; but active literal Faith comes to life in Mashiyach. Torah Observance/obedience is clear evidence that we have passed from death to life. See John 5:29, Matthew 7:23.

1. Let there not be many teachers among you, my Brothers; knowing that as such we will receive a more severe judgment. 2. For we all offend in many things. Whoever does not offend in discourse is a perfect man who can also keep his whole body in servitude. 3. Behold, we put bridles into the mouth of horses that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body. 4. Huge ships also, when strong winds drive them, are piloted by a small rudder, to whatever place the pilot looks to. 5. So likewise the tongue is a small member and it uplifts itself. Also a little fire inflames large forests. 6. Now the tongue is a fire, and the world of sin is like a forest. And this tongue, which is one among our members, corrupts our whole body; and it inflames the series of our generations that roll on like a wheel; and it is itself on fire.<sup>13</sup> 7. For all natures of beasts and birds and reptiles of the sea or land are dominated by the nature of man. 8. But the tongue has no one been able to tame: it is an evil thing, unruly and full of deadly poison. 9. For with it, we bless Master YHWH and Father; and with it we curse men who were made in the image of Elohim: 10. and from the same mouth issues forth curses and blessings. My Brothers, these things should not be. 11. Can there flow from the same fountain, sweet and bitter waters?<sup>14</sup> 12. Or can the fig-tree, my Brothers, bear olives?<sup>15</sup> or the vine, figs? So also salt waters cannot be made sweet. 13. Who is wise and instructed among you? Let him show his works in praiseworthy actions, with modest wisdom. 14. But if bitter envy be in you, or contention in your hearts, do not exalt yourselves against the truth and do not lie. 15. For this wisdom comes not down from above; but is earthly, and from the devices of the soul, and from demons. 16. For where envy and disputation are, there also is confusion and everything wrong. 17. But the wisdom which is from above is perfect<sup>16</sup> and full of peace, and mild and submissive, and full of compassion and of good fruits, and without partiality and without respect of persons. 18. And the fruits of righteousness are sown in fertile land<sup>17</sup> by them who make peace.<sup>18</sup>

13 James uses two words that can mean "fire"; the first and most common is nohra in the first portion of the verse. However, in the latter part of the verse James chooses a rare word, yaqad, which has a very interesting dual meaning in its root according to the Comprehensive Aramaic Lexicon: yqd N yqd 1 Syr fire: 2 Syr holocaust: LS2 306: LS2 V: yaqdA) yqd V: 011 BibArDan, Paor elseinian, CPA, Sam, Syr to burn: 012 Paor elseinian, Syr to be burned: 013 JLA, Syr to be ardent: 014 Syr to be frozen: 051 Syr to be burned: 052 Syr to suffer: 031 Paor elseinian, Syr to burn: 032 Syr to bake: 033 JLAGal to inflame with love: 061 Syr to be kindled: 062 Paor elseinian, Syr to be burned: LS2 306. Figuratively, yaqad also means "to boast", and it is in this manner that James draws a direct parallel from both meanings as if to say, "If you yaqad (boast) too much, then you will yaqad (burn)." This was not the only time the dual meaning of this root was exploited by a Renewed Covenant writer.

14 A midrash on Yiremyahu (Jeremiah): "Who will find me a wayfarer's shelter in the desert, for me to quit my people, and leave them far behind? For all of them are adulterers, a conspiracy of traitors. They bend their tongues like a bow; not truth but falsehood holds sway in the land; yes, they go from crime to crime, but me they do not know, YHWH declares. Let each be on his guard against his friend; do not trust a brother, for every brother aims but to supplant, and every friend is a peddler of slander. Each one cheats his friend, never telling the truth; they have trained their tongues to lie and devote all their energies to doing wrong. You live in a world of bad faith! Out of bad faith, they refuse to know me, YHWH declares. And, so, YHWH Sabaoth declares, now I shall purge them and test them, no other way to treat the daughter of my people! Their tongue is a deadly arrow; their words are in bad faith; with his mouth each wishes his neighbour peace, while in his heart plotting a trap for him. Shall I fail to punish them for this, YHWH demands, or on such a nation fail to exact vengeance?" (Jeremiah 9:1-8). Also see Psalm 120:1-4.

15 Olives were representative of the sacred line of Israel, as the oil that was used to light the lamps in the Tabernacle by Aaron and his sons (Leviticus 24:2-3). Figs on the other hand, while not always negative, were sometimes symbolic of a wider and more general spiritual prosperity: "YHWH, Elohim of Israel, says this, 'As these figs are good, so I mean to concern myself with the welfare of the exiles of Judah whom I have sent from this place to the country of the Chaldeans. My eyes will watch over them for their good, to bring them back to this country, to build them up and not to break them down, to plant them and not to uproot them. I shall give them a heart to acknowledge that I am YHWH. They will be my people and I shall be their Elohim, for they will return to me with all their heart.'" (Jeremiah 24:5-7).

16 Lamsa and many others translate shalma as "pure"; however, a better way to translate this, according to Dr. George A. Kiraz, is "perfect". The rest of the phrase, mikika w' meshtmanya literally means "complete compliance." Ya'akov being fluent in the Hebrew Scriptures extends the power of this statement from a verse in the Tanakh which states: "The mind (imagination) that is stayed on You, Thou will keep in perfect peace" (Isaiah 26:3). It is this "double shalom" that James is referencing but in a very clever and subtle way. Consider this entry from the Comprehensive Aramaic Lexicon on all potential meanings for the root of shalma, the Aramaic cognate of shalom: shalma 1 passim peace: 2 passim welfare: 3 passim safety: 4 passim greeting: 5 JLATg contentment: 011 passim to be whole: 012 passim to be complete: 013 Syr to be full: 014 Syr to be perfect: 015 Syr to finish: 0312 JLAGal to fill up. These are the meanings from this root word that Ya'akov is exploiting; perhaps he holds a degree of mirth with anticipation of someone getting the pun?

17 While the Greek eyrene appears as "peace" in almost every translation, the Aramaic here uses two different words; shlama is the phrase at the end of the passage and clearly must read "by those who make peace." However, the first "peace" occurrence is the word shayna, which can mean peace/stillness but also has an extremely interesting secondary meaning of "cultivated land." The sowing imagery validates and reinforces this to be the original meaning as intended by the writer. It dovetails perfectly with Y'shua's Sower Parable outlined in three Good News accounts and implied in the fourth (Matthew 13:3-23, Mark 4:3-20, Luke 8:5-17, John 12:24-26); it also presages the more detailed spiritual sowing discussion of Rav Shaul in 1 Corinthians 15.

18 Another midrash, this time on Yeshayahu (Isaiah): "For the work of righteousness shall be peace, And the effect of righteousness, calm and confidence forever. Then my people shall dwell in peaceful homes, in secure dwellings, in untroubled places of rest." (Isaiah 32:17-18 JPS 1985).

1. From where is it, that there are among you arguments and conflicts? Is it not from the lusts which war in your members? 2. You covet but do not possess; and you kill and envy, and effect nothing: and you fight and make attacks; and you do not have, because you do not ask. 3. You ask, and do not receive because you ask wickedly, that you may feed your lusts. 4. You adulterers, don't you know that the love of the world is hatred towards Elohim? He therefore who chooses to be a lover of this world is the enemy of Elohim. 5. Or do you think that the Scripture has vainly said: The spirit dwelling in us lusts with envy? 6. But our Master (Y'shua) has given us more grace. Therefore he said: Master YHWH brings low the arrogant, and gives grace to the humble. 7. Subject yourselves therefore to Elohim; and stand firm against the Accuser and he will flee from you. 8. Draw near to Elohim and He will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, you sinners: sanctify your hearts, you who are divided in mind.<sup>19</sup> 9. Humble yourselves and mourn: let your laughter be turned into mourning, and your joy into grief. 10. Humble yourselves before Master YHWH and He will exalt you. 11. Speak not against each other, my Brothers; for he that speaks against his brother, or judges his brother speaks against Torah and judges Torah. And if you judge Torah, you are not a doer of Torah, but its judge.<sup>20</sup> 12. There is one Torah-giver<sup>21</sup> and Judge who can make alive and (can) destroy: but who are you that you judge your neighbor? 13. But what will we say of those who say: "Today or tomorrow we will go to such or such a city and will abide there a year; and we will traffic and get gain?" 14. And they do not know what will be tomorrow: for what is our life but an exhalation that is seen a little while and then vanishes and is gone? 15. Whereas they should say: "If Master YHWH wills it, and we live, we will do this or that." 16. They glory in their arrogance. All such glorying is evil. 17. He that knows the good and does it not, to him is sin.

Chapter 5

1. O you rich ones, wail and weep on account of the miseries that are coming upon you. 2. For your wealth is spoiled and rotten; and your garments are moth-eaten: 3. and your gold and your silver have rusted through; and the rust of them will be testimony against you; and it will devour your flesh. You have heaped up a fire to you against the latter days. 4. Behold, the wages of the laborers who have reaped your ground, which you have criminally withheld, shouts out; and the shouting of the reapers has entered the ears of Master YHWH Tzva'ot. 5. For you have lived in pleasure on the earth, and reveled and feasted your bodies as in a day of slaughter. 6. You have condemned and murdered the just, and none prevented you.

---

<sup>20</sup> If you add your own judgments to those already established in the Torah of YHWH, then you have judged Torah as insufficient, and are not allowing it to be your judge.

<sup>21</sup> One Torah Giver who gives One Torah. The halakha (way to observe Torah) is revealed by the Ruach haKodesh, and demonstrated in Mashiyach. The concept of "two torahs" - one oral and one written - is the basis of authority on which the Rabbinate operates. "The Rabbis" wrote their own "oral Torah" and give themselves the authority to interpret it; unfortunately, their oral Torah often speaks against both the Written Torah and haMashiyach. On the other hand, Christian theologians have made up their own "New Testament" based on their own non-Torah cultural value systems which makes void Torah and diminishes the true goal of Mashiyach.

7. But, my Brothers, be patient until the coming of Master YHWH; like the farmer who waits for the precious fruits of his ground and is patient as to them until he receives the early and the latter rain.<sup>22</sup> 8. So also be you patient and build up your hearts, for the coming of our Master (Y'shua) draws near. 9. Have no quarrel one against another, my Brothers, or else you be judged: for behold, the judgment stands before the door. 10. For patience in your great sufferings, my Brothers, take hold of the example of the prophets who spoke in the name of Master YHWH. 11. For behold, we ascribe blessedness to them who have persevered. You have heard of the patience of Job; and you have seen the result which Master YHWH created for him: for Master YHWH is merciful and compassionate. 12. But above all things, my Brothers, do not swear; neither "by heaven" nor "by the earth" nor by any other oath: but let your language be "yes, yes," and "no, no," or else you become subject to judgment. 13. And if any of you will be in affliction, let him pray; or if he be joyous, let him sing psalms. 14. And if one is sick, let him call for the elders of the assembly; and let them pray for him and anoint him with oil in the name of our Master Y'shua: 15. and the prayer of faith will heal him who is sick, and our Master (Y'shua) will raise him up; and if sins have been committed by him, they will be forgiven him. 16. And confess your faults<sup>23</sup> one to another, and pray one for another that you may be healed; for great is the power of the prayer which a righteous man prays. 17. Elijah also was a man of sensations like us, and he prayed that rain might not descend upon the earth; and it did not descend for three years and six months. 18. And again he prayed, and the heavens gave rain and the earth gave forth its fruits. 19. My Brothers, if one of you stray from the path of truth, and any one convert him from his error; 20. let him know that he who turns the sinner from the error of his way, will restore his soul from death and will cover<sup>24</sup> the multitude of his sins.

End of the Letter of Ya'akov, the Shaliach

22 Hosea 6:1-3 reveals Mashiach will come as the former and latter rain. See also Deuteronomy 11:14; Jeremiah 5:24; Joel 2:23.

23 Manifold Aramaic root meanings have resulted in a variety of Greek words, beginning with the phrase, "Confess your faults one to another." The Aramaic word for "faults, sins" is sakhlouthkhon. Greek, however, uses several words to try to make its point. In the case of the Textus Receptus of Stephens 1550 and Scrivener 1894, as well as the Byzantine Majority text, the word of choice is παράπτωμα (paraptoma). The Alexandrian text has ἁμαρτία (hamartia). According to Strong's, paraptoma is defined as a "side-slip, lapse or deviation, unintentional error or willful transgression," or a very good equivalent to sakhlouthkhon. However, that the same can be said for the word used in the Alexandrian text, as Thayer's entry for hamartia clearly shows:

(1) equivalent to G264: (1a) to be without a share in: (1b) to miss the mark: (1c) to err, be mistaken: (1d) to miss or wander from the path of uprightness and honor, to do or go wrong: (1e) to wander from the law of God, violate God's law, sin:

(2) that which is done wrong, sin, an offense, a violation of the divine law in thought or in act:

(3) collectively, the complex or aggregate of sins committed either by a single person or by many.

The "miss the mark" definition is also particularly interesting since it dovetails with a very deep Semitic idiom. As was discussed earlier in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, the word "Torah" in Hebrew shares the root "to shoot straight" with its Aramaic counterpart of auraya. Conversely then, someone who is considered evil does not shoot straight, but literally "misses the mark" when he sins!

24 "Cover the multitude of his sin" is a Hebraic way of expressing kippur (atonement). Those who were once on the path of truth, but break Covenant with YHWH are no longer under His covering or atonement, they are headed for death unless they make teshuvah (repentance) and turn from the error of their way. The person who turns the sinner from the error of his way is not the one who receives the covering of his sins (contrary to some theological models), only the person who makes teshuvah (repentance) receives YHWH's covering or atonement. Please see Yochanan 8:13 and Ezekiel 18:21. There are various levels of kavanah (intent) of the heart by which YHWH judges each soul. Those who take pleasure in iniquity and refuse to receive the love of the truth, risk being given a spirit of deception from Elohim (2 Thess 2:10-12). According to Hebrews 6:4-6, "they who have once descended to immersion and have tasted the gift from heaven and have received the Ruach haKodesh and have tasted the good Word of Elohim and the power of the world to come, cannot again sin and a second time be renewed to repentance; or a second time execute him on a stake and insult the Son of Elohim." Without any doubt, the blood of the everlasting covenant is given to "make you perfect in every good work that you may do his will; and himself operate in you that which is pleasing in his sight through Y'shua the Mashiyach" (Hebrews 13:20-21). The New Covenant is given by YHWH (Covenantor) unto those who will turn from transgression against the Word of YHWH (Torah) and produce the fruits of genuine Covenantees. The Covenant YHWH made through His Son Y'shua Mashiyach is spoken of in Jeremiah which states, "Behold, the days come, says YHWH, that I will make a New Covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; which My covenant they broke, although I was an husband unto them, says YHWH: But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, says YHWH, I will put my Torah in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their Elohim, and they shall be My people. And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know YHWH: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, says YHWH: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more. Thus says YHWH, which gives the sun for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night, which divides the sea when the waves thereof roar; YHWH of Hosts is His Name: If those ordinances depart from before me, says YHWH, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before me for ever" (Jeremiah 31:31-36). Our souls are restored from death when we make true repentance that is acceptable to our Covenant Giver, we must thoroughly reject any religious or doctrinal model that is not based on all the elements of YHWH's Covenant. Please see They Repented Not in Appendix.

1. YEHUDAH, a servant of Y'shua the Mashiyach, and the brother of Ya'akov, to the called out people, (who are) the beloved of Elohim the Father, (and) the protected by Y'shua the Mashiyach: 2. Mercy and peace in love be multiplied to you. 3. My beloved, while I take all pains to write to you of our common life, it is needful for me to write to you, encouraging you to maintain a conflict<sup>1</sup> for the faith which was once delivered to the Set Apart believers. 4. For some have obtained entrance who from the beginning were registered beforehand under this condemnation: wicked men who pervert the grace of Elohim to impurity and deny him who is the only Lord<sup>2</sup> Elohim and our Master, Y'shua the Mashiyach. 5. And I wish to remind you, though you all know it, that Elohim, after once rescuing the people from Egypt, again destroyed them who did not believe. 6. And the Messengers that did not keep their first estate but left their station, he has reserved in chains unknown, under darkness, to the judgment of the great day. 7. As Sodom and Amorrhah and the surrounding cities which in like manner followed sexual sin and went after strange flesh are placed beneath eternal fire, being doomed to judgment. 8. In the same manner, too, these sensual dreamers defile the flesh and despise authority and despise excellence. 9. But Michael the chief Messenger who, in debate with the Accuser contended about the body of Moshe,<sup>3</sup> did not venture to bring against him a reviling declaration; but said, Master YHWH rebuke you.<sup>4</sup> 10. But these (men) blaspheme things which they do not understand; and in the things of which they have a natural persuasion as animal beings, in these they corrupt themselves. 11. Woe to them; for they have gone in the way of Cain; and after the error of Balaam, they have lusted for gain; and in the rebellion of Korah, they have perished.

1 Maintain a "conflict" for the faith. Maintain the elements of Faith that cause the clash between the two opposing forces. If there is truth to the proverb that the opposite of love is not hate, but indifference: then the opposite of the Truth is not lies, but relativism. Relativism is the doctrine (thinking) that nothing is universally true; everything is relative to circumstances, application, feelings, or emotions. When Yehudah writes, "maintain a conflict" we are compelled to understand that the conflict is: "for the faith which was once delivered to the Set Apart believers." The enemy has substituted Faith with socially acceptable religions as it is said; "YHWH created Faith, but the Devil made a religion out of it."

2 The Aramaic Mara "Lord" is defined in terms of human kings or false deities, not YHWH. It may appear as if this rule is being broken here but this is not the case. This is referred to as metaphoric transference, where two differing concepts are linked by metaphor. Consider the Pagan court of Belshazzar, which does not call upon the Name of YHWH. However, they use the Aramaic dialect to address their deities by the title Mara. Along comes Daniel who employs the word Mara to introduce them to YHWH, and he points out that there is only one real Master - Mara of Heaven. In later times, Jews who remained in Babylon would simply take off the alap and strip the word to its root level, using it for YHWH by adding on the simplified form of the name as YAH, which is the same Name (Psalm 68:4); hence MarYah. MarYah grew out of the usage of Daniel's writings, although it was not used during his time. Daniel was the pivot point for two reasons: (1) Daniel writes in Babylonian Aramaic, a close form to what the Peshitta Tanakh would later be translated into. Daniel is also the only writer in Tanakh to use Mara. (2) The use of Mara in Daniel is effectively split between human (4:19, 23) and divine (2:47, 5:23) applications, which reveals how the root Mara would become attached to Yah at a later time. Although the metaphoric usage refers to YHWH, it is not equivalent to the Name of YHWH in definition or usage. Compare: "YHWH is a man of war: YHWH is His name" (Exodus 15:3 JPS). "Now I will scream like a woman in labor, gasping breathlessly" (Isaiah 42:13-14 JPS). With: "(YHWH) is not a man that He should be capricious; nor a Son of man that He should change His mind" (Numbers 23:19 JPS). The first states that "YHWH is a man of war"; the second that YHWH wails "like a woman in labor" - but YHWH is neither mortal man, nor woman, it is metaphoric. There is also a Persian connection in Nehemiah: "all who know enough to understand, join with their noble brothers and take an oath with sanctions to follow the Teaching of Elohim, given through Moses the servant of Elohim, and to observe carefully all the Commandments of YHWH Adonenu/ MarYah Maran, His rules and Laws" (Nehemiah 10:29-30 MT/Peshitta Tanakh). Persia and Babylon are neighboring countries. Persians speak a similar but not identical Aramaic dialect whose influence is apparent even in Hebrew, here the Hebrew Adonenu was translated into the Aramaic Maran. Understanding these matters is important since YHWH Commands that we do not take His Name in vain, (Ex 20:7). That we honor and revere His Set Apart Name (Malachi 1:6). That we sanctify His Name (Isa 29:23). That, "My name is great among the nations" (Mal 1:11). Hundreds of verses tell of His Great Name. His Name and identity is in Y'shua who said, "I have come in the name of my Father" Yochanan 5:43.

3 Scholars suggest that this phrase “Accuser contended about the body of Moshe” was part of an oral tradition that was later weaved into an apocryphal pseudepigraphical work called The Assumption of Moshe. The tradition may have arisen because of the two men named Joshua: Joshua the son of Nun and Joshua the son of Yehozadak, that connect Moshe’s death scene in Deut 34, with the quotation in Zechariah.

4 “YHWH rebuke you” is the proper way to cast out demons, speaking our own words risks engaging demons and giving them permissions. “YHWH rebuke you” is quoted from Zechariah 3:1. The Hebrew ga’ar (rebuke) is also used this way in Malachi 3:11 where YHWH says, “I will ga’ar (rebuke) the devourer for your sakes.” The Hebrew Scriptures mention several classes of demons such as “se’irim” and “shedim.” In Lev 17:7 the Israelites sacrificed to se’irim (hairy beings or satyrs) also found in Isaiah 13:21; 34:14 and 2 Chron 11:15. The Israelites sacrificed to shedim (demons) Deut 32:17 and Psalm 106:37. Some Bible translations obscure the meaning of se’irim and shedim leading many Jews and Christians to believe that demons are not mentioned in the Hebrew Tanakh. Jewish and Christian traditions also obscure vital Scriptural elements of understanding the spiritual realm and knowing how to deal with demons. Rabbinical Judaism tries to defeat demons by religious traditions, prayer and keeping Torah, but not understanding the Kingdom of Heaven or knowing Mashiyach has left many souls exposed and vulnerable. The lower worlds (demons) created religious pride, elitism, discrimination, ego, sectarianism, and the pride of cultural identity to entrap souls in religious identity strongholds. The Christian world thinks along the lines of Dualism which comes from paganism. Dualism views YHWH as a Good God and the Devil as an evil “god,” and the two are at war with each other. In reality, YHWH is Echad (One), Master over all good and evil. YHWH sends the “angel of death” or “the destroyer” or “slaughterer” in Exodus 12:23 killing the firstborn sons. Scripture shows YHWH over all and in control of the demonic realm, “And it came to pass on the morrow, that the evil spirit from Elohim” (1 Sam 18:10). “YHWH has put a lying spirit in the mouth of all of your prophets” (1 Kings 22:23). “YHWH has mingled a perverse spirit in the midst thereof” (Isa 19:14). The story of Job sheds insight, “And YHWH said to Satan, he is in your power; but save his life” (Job 2:6). YHWH permits haSatan to only go so far. YHWH is the Lifegiver to the spirit realm. Paul writes, “Elohim will send upon them the strength of a deception that they may believe a lie” (2 Thess 2:11). Y’shua says “Many will say to me in that day, ‘My master, my master! By your name, have we not prophesied? And by your name have we cast out demons? And by your name have we done many miracles? And then I will profess to them that from everlasting, I have not known you. Depart from me, you workers of iniquity’” (Matt 7:22-23). Demons don’t prefer one religion over another, whether Judaism, Christianity, New Age, Evolutionism etc., what they want is control and authority over YHWH’s people.

12. These are they who, in their feastings<sup>5</sup> riot while polluting themselves, feeding themselves without fear; clouds without rain moved about by the winds; trees whose fruit has failed and they are without fruit, twice dead, and uplifted from their root; 13. raging waves of the sea which, by their foam, manifest their confusion; shooting stars for which is reserved the blackness of darkness forever. 14. And of them also prophesied Enoch who was the seventh from Adam when he said: "Behold, Master YHWH comes with myriads of his Set Apart believers;"<sup>6</sup> 15. to execute judgment upon all and to convict all the wicked because of all the deeds they have wickedly committed; and because of all the hard speeches which they, sinners without Elohim, have uttered." 16. These are they who argue and complain of everything while they walk according to their lusts; and their mouth speaks shocking things; and they flatter people for the sake of gain. 17. But do you, my beloved, remember the words which were spoken before by the Shlichim of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach; 18. because they told you that in the end of the times there would be scoffers going after wickedness according to their lusts. 19. These are they that separate (themselves), sensual persons, not having the Spirit. 20. But, my beloved, you be newly strengthened in your Set Apart faith through the Ruach haKodesh, while you pray. 21. And let us keep ourselves in the love of Elohim while we wait for the mercy of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach to our eternal life. 22. And some of them snatch you from the fire. 23. And when they repent, have compassion on them with fear, hating even the garment that is blemished by the flesh. 24. And to him who is able to preserve you faultless and spotless, and to establish you without a blemish 25. before his majesty with joy (namely), the only Elohim, our Deliverer, by means of Y'shua the Mashiyach our Master, be praise, and dominion and honor and majesty, both now and in all ages. Amen.

<sup>6</sup> We have witnessed an early influence of this Epistle, and we know that Jude was fully accepted on the Roman lists by the year 170, but an alleged problem shows itself when this Epistle is discussed. Specifically that Jude references two apocryphal books: "But Michael, the chief messenger; when he disputed with the devil and argued about the body of Moses, did not dare pronounce against him but said, 'YHWH rebuke you'" (Jude 1:9). "And about these also Enoch, in the seventh generation from Adam, prophesied, saying, 'Behold YHWH came with many thousands of His Set Apart ones'" (Jude 1:14). The books quoted from were in circulation during the First Century; therefore, Jude could have also written his letter during this time. The quotation lends credence to that time period as it would have preceded rabbinic rulings of the late First Century that fixed the Jewish canon. Also, the Dead Sea Scrolls reveal a wide variety of books not officially canonized by Jews that nevertheless found strong adherents. Therefore, Jude was merely referring to stories he knew his audience would be familiar with. However, the final nail in the coffin comes with the help of Shaliach Paul: "For in him it is we live and move and exist: as one of your own wise men has said: From him is our descent" (Acts 17:28). "Be not deceived; Evil stories corrupt well-disposed minds" (1 Corinthians 15:33). One of them, a prophet of their own, said, 'The Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, idle bellies'" (Titus 1:12). Each of these passages quotes a Pagan poet! 1 Corinthians is drawing straight out of a play by Menander; Titus is a verbatim phrase lifted out of the poems of Epimenides, and the quote from Acts was so frequently used by Greek poets as to make a listing of them cumbersome and unnecessary! Has anyone then said Acts, Titus or 1 Corinthians should be excluded because they draw from sources that were not themselves ultimately canonized? Certainly not! Obviously both Jude and Paul knew something about the contemporary culture of those whom they were addressing, and they simply used this knowledge to make a point. Perhaps this indicates why the writings of Jude were rejected by some communities, while simultaneously enjoying widespread acceptance and influence by others from a very early date.

7 Yehudah 1:1 states that he is "the brother of Ya'akov," a more humble designation than saying "the brother of Y'shua," which he is. As he is signing off, Yehudah confirms his identification by also mentioning that he is "the brother of Yosef," who is another brother of Y'shua. Matthew and Mark agree these are the two eldest brothers, and they are in the order of their birth after Y'shua. Of the four brothers of Y'shua mentioned in the Gospels, at least two of them were actively plotting against him, trying to expose him and have him arrested during Sukkot. Both Ya'akov and Yehudah repented of their bad behavior and became followers. Perhaps Yosef also repented or at least became less hostile to merit his mention here, which leaves Shimon. Historical records do not mention whether Shimon recanted of his unbelief or his anger against Y'shua, we assume that he did later in life. Both Aramaic and Greek are very specific regarding Y'shua having many siblings. "And he did not know her until she had given birth to her first-born son, and she called his name Y'shua" Matt 1:25. Y'shua is unequivocally Maryam's firstborn son here, and the text clearly says Joseph and Mary did not start having sexual intercourse until she had given birth. In Matthew 13:55, "Is this not the son of the carpenter, his mother is called Maryam, and his brothers Ya'akov and Yoseh and Shimon and Yehuda? And his sisters, behold, are they not all with us?" Some scholars suggest Y'shua had at least three sisters as the text says, "all" rather than "both" sisters. Mark 6:3 gives concurring testimony. Yochanan 2:12 states, "After this he went down to Capurnakhum, he and his mother and his brothers and his disciples, and they stayed there a few days" which differentiates his blood brothers from his spiritual brothers. Sadly, Catholicism asserts the false teaching that Maryam is an "eternal virgin" and in so doing has discredited the Truth of Scripture and the testimony of witnesses.

Chapter 1

1. PETER, a Shaliach of Y'shua the Mashiyach, to the elect and sojourners who are dispersed in Pontus and in Galatia and in Cappadocia and in Asia and in Bithynia, 2. to them who have been chosen, by the foreknowledge of Elohim the Father through sanctification of the Spirit, to the obedience<sup>1</sup> and the sprinkling of the blood of Y'shua the Mashiyach: May grace and peace abound towards you. 3. Blessed be Elohim, the Father of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach who in his great mercy have begotten us anew, by the resurrection of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach, to the hope of life 4. and to an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled and unfading, which is prepared for you in heaven; 5. while you are kept, by the power of Elohim and by faith, for the life that is prepared and will be revealed in the last times; 6. In which you will rejoice forever, notwithstanding you at the present time are under some pressure by the various trials that pass over you; 7. so that the proof of your faith may appear more precious than refined gold that is tested by fire, to glory and honor and praise at the manifestation of Y'shua the Mashiyach: 8. whom having not seen, you love; and in the faith of whom you rejoice with joy that is glorious and beyond expression, 9. that you may receive the reward of your faith, the life of your souls; 10. that life (namely) about which the prophets inquired when they were prophesying of the grace which was to be given to you. 11. And they searched for the time which the Spirit of the Mashiyach<sup>2</sup> dwelling in them did show and testify when the sufferings of the Mashiyach were to occur, and his subsequent glory. 12. And it was revealed to them with respect to all they were searching that, not for themselves were they inquiring, but for us<sup>3</sup> they were prophesying of those things which are now manifested to you by means of the things we have announced to you by the Ruach haKodesh sent from heaven; which things the Messengers also desire to look into. 13. Therefore, yourselves for action in your minds<sup>4</sup> and be awake perfectly and wait for the joy which will come to you at the revelation of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach 14. as obedient children: and do not be participants again with those former lusts with which you lusted when without knowledge. 15. But you be Set Apart in all your conduct, as he is Set Apart who has called you. 16. Because it is written: "Be you Kadosh even as I am Kadosh." 17. And you are thus, you call on the Father<sup>5</sup> with whom is no respect of persons and who judges everyone according to his deeds,<sup>6</sup> pass the time of your stay with fear;<sup>7</sup> 18. since you know that neither with perishable silver nor with gold you were redeemed from your vain doings which you had by tradition from your fathers; 19. but with the precious blood of that Lamb, in which is no spot nor blemish, namely, the Mashiyach: 20. who was known beforehand to this, before the foundation of the world; and was manifested at the termination of the times for your sakes; 21. Who, by means of him, have believed in Elohim who raised him from the dead and conferred glory on him; that your faith and hope might be in Elohim.

1 Being "elect" is also dependent upon whether a soul chooses and maintains obedience to YHWH, or not.

2 The "Spirit of Mashiyach" is the Ruach haKodesh (Set-Apart Spirit) which is YHWH. The revelation of Mashiyach was shown to Adam, Noah, Avraham, Yitzkhak, Ya'akov, Moshe, King David, Daniel and through all the Prophets of YHWH. Malachi 4:5, 6: "Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of YHWH: And he shall turn the heart (inner man) of the fathers to the children, and the heart (inner man) of the children to their fathers, or else I come and smite the earth with a curse." The heart, inner man, or spiritual man, if it be according to Mashiyach, has a common heritage or "family ties" with the forefathers of Torah.

3 "Us" includes everyone who is in Mashiyach and who lives according to Mashiyach and Torah.

4 Literally, "gird up your loins."

5 Peter teaches that prayer is to be directed to the Father, not to Mashiyach; see Acts 1:24; Prayer and Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #13: Praying in the Name of Y'shua in Appendix.

6 Our Father "judges everyone according to his deeds" here is where we find the biggest disconnect between true Faith and religious works. The religious worlds are notorious for excusing the wicked anti-Torah deeds of their patrons, things commonly required and expected of all human souls, as long as their adherents confess religious "belief." All religious people and institutions believe themselves to be operating on a God-given mandate, many see their "ministry" as a corporate entity "of God" making themselves believe they can bend rules, because it's all for "God's work." In reality, our "deeds" include our individual work ethic and stewardship of all our time and all of our money that we've earned or control. YHWH's judgment overrules the religious status quo. YHWH has "no respect of persons." Many who believe they are serving YHWH are working in direct opposition to the Kingdom of Heaven and are using the name of Jesus to beg for money, to these Y'shua promises to say, "I have not known you. Depart from me, you workers of iniquity!" (Matthew 7:23).

7 That is your life on Earth. Peter is treating the human life's short time as a sojourn, or nothing, compared to the times of eternal life in our home in the world to come.

22. While your minds became sanctified by obedience to the truth; and you be full of love, without respect of persons, so that you love one another out of a pure and perfect heart; 23. like persons born anew, not of seed that perishes but of that which does not perish, by the Living Word of Elohim who abides forever. 24. Because all flesh is as grass and all its beauty like the flower of the field. The grass dries up and the flower withers away; 25. but the Word of our Elohim abides forever: and this is the Word<sup>8</sup> that is announced to you.

Chapter 2

1. Therefore, cease all evil and all deceit and hypocrisy and jealousy and backbiting. 2. And be like very small children; and crave the Word, as being the pure spiritual milk by which you are nourished up to life; 3. if you have tasted and seen that Master YHWH is good: 4. to whom you have come because he is a living stone, rejected indeed by men, but with Elohim elect and precious. 5. And you also, as living stones, are built and become spiritual temples and Set Apart priests for the offering of Spiritual Sacrifices,<sup>9</sup> acceptable before Elohim through Y'shua the Mashiyach. 6. For it is said in the Scripture, "Behold, in Tsiyon I lay a chosen and precious stone for the head of the corner; and whoever believes in him will not be ashamed." 7. On you therefore who believe is this honor conferred: but to them who do not believe 8. "he is a stone of stumbling and a rock of offense." And they stumble at it because they believe not the Word from where they were appointed. 9. But you are an elect race,<sup>10</sup> officiating as priests of the Kingdom; a Set Apart people, a redeemed congregation; that you should proclaim the praises of him who called you out of darkness to his precious light: 10. who formerly were not counted as a people but now are the people of Elohim; and also, there were (once) no mercies on you but now mercies are poured out upon you. 11. My beloved, I entreat you as strangers and pilgrims, separate yourselves from all lusts of the body, for they war against the soul. 12. And let your behavior be honorable before all men; so that they who utter evil speeches against you, may see your good actions and may praise Elohim in the day of trial. 13. And be submissive to all the sons of men, for Elohim's sake; to kings, on account of their authority; 14. and to judges because they are sent by him for the punishment of offenders, and for the praise of them that do well.<sup>11</sup> 15. For so is the will of Elohim, that by your good deeds you may stop the mouth of the foolish who do not know Elohim: 16. As free men, you are not like men who make their freedom a cloak for their wickedness, but as the servants of Elohim. 17. Honor all men; love your Brothers; fear Elohim; and honor kings.

8 Quoting Isaiah 40:6-8 indicating the Word of YHWH is Y'shua Mashiyach, and Mashiyach is the Word of YHWH - which is very opposite to the Christian teaching that the Word of YHWH, or Torah, was done away with by Jesus! Y'shua's followers, Jewish or not, are Torah observant because they recognize this very important fact, that the Word of our Elohim abides forever!

9 The spiritual component of sacrifice is much more important than what is being "sacrificed"; otherwise it would have no more significance than a backyard barbecue. A sacrifice is evaluated by spiritual content that is elucidated in Torah, the Prophets and through Mashiyach. The surrender of one's will, peace offerings, bountiful offerings, thanksgiving offerings, mercy offerings, or sacrifices to establish resolve or new direction, congregational sacrifices, national sacrifices, sacrifices towards becoming Set Apart, or sacrifices to aid purity of thought and attitude are all potential "spiritual sacrifices." "Spiritual sacrifices" unto YHWH are Set Apart by the intent of the heart and are distinct from the sacrifices towards the physical gods of materialism, relativism or religious identity. All authentic spiritual sacrifices have components of Righteousness, Judgment, Justice, Mercy and Faith; they are not cerebral, but spiritual, neither are they done in word only but in deed (visible), and they demonstrate the spiritual intent within the heart. See Sacrifice in Appendix.

11 Peter's use of parallelisms is a hallmark of original Hebrew and Aramaic composition. See Parallelisms in Appendix.

18. And those among you who are servants, be subject to your masters with reverence; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the harsh and morose. 19. For there is favor before Elohim for them who, for the sake of a good conscience, endure sorrows that come upon them unjustly. 20. But they who endure suffering due to their sins, what praise have they? But if, when you do well, they vex you and you endure it; then great is your praise with Elohim. 21. For to this were you called; because the Mashiyach also died for us and left us this pattern that you should walk in his steps. 22. He did no sin; neither was any deceit found in his mouth. 23. When he was reviled, he did not revile; and he suffered but didn't threaten, but committed his cause to the Righteous Judge. 24. And he took away all our sins and, in his body, lifted them to the stake; that we, when dead to sin, might live by his righteousness: for by his wounds you are healed. 25. For you had gone astray like sheep; but you have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer of your souls.

Chapter 3

1. So also you wives, be subject to your husbands; that by your pleasing behavior you may gain over without difficulty those who are disobedient to the Word, 2. when they see that you conduct yourselves with reverence and chastity. 3. And don't adorn yourselves with the external ornaments of curls of the hair, or of golden trinkets or of costly garments. 4. But adorn yourselves in the hidden person of the heart with a mild and pure spirit, an ornament that is precious before Elohim. 5. For so also the Set Apart women of old who trusted in Elohim, adorned themselves and were subject to their husbands: 6. Just as Sarah was subject to Awraham and called him, "My lord";<sup>12</sup> whose daughters you are, by good works,<sup>13</sup> while you are not terrified by any fear. 7. And you husbands, likewise, dwell with your wives according to knowledge and hold them in honor as the weaker vessels; because they also will inherit with you the gift of eternal life: and let not your prayers be hindered. 8. The summing up is that you all be in harmony, that you be sympathetic with them who suffer and affectionate to one another, and be merciful and kind. 9. And that you repay to no one evil for evil, neither cursing for cursing; but, in opposition to these, that you bless: for to this were you called that you might inherit a blessing. 10. Therefore, whoever chooses life and desires to see good days, let him keep his tongue from evil and his lips that they speak no deceit; 11. let him turn away from evil and do good; let him seek peace and follow after it. 12. Because the eyes of Master YHWH are upon the righteous, and his ears (await) to hear them: but the face of Master YHWH is against the wicked. 13. And who will do you harm if you are zealous of good works?<sup>14</sup>

12 Borrowing from Peshitta Tanakh, Aramaic here has Awraham being referred to as "Mari," or my human Master. The Hebrew version has Adon which has been argued to refer to either a Master or to YHWH.

13 Good works and observance of Torah are signs that a person belongs to YHWH, and therefore the opposite is also true. "When dead to sin," we "might live by his righteousness" (2:24) to produce good (tov) works (avodah) and have Torah written upon our hearts. Please see footnotes on Acts 9:39 and Romans 12:1.

14 Compare these two translations: "And who is there to harm you if you prove zealous for what is good?" (1 Peter 3:13 NASB), "And who is he that will harm you if you become followers of that which is good?" (1 Peter 3:13 KJV) Once again, we see strands of various Greek textual traditions showing up in English translations. Some manuscripts use the word mimetai (imitators/followers) while others have zelotai (zealous). However, the Aramaic word is tanana; its root has the following meanings according to Comprehensive Aramaic Lexicon: Tnn N Tnn (1) Syr zeal: (2) Syr envy Tnn V: 021 JLAGal to moisten Tnn#2 V: 011 Syr to be aroused: 012 Syr to be zealous: 013 Syr b to envy: 014 Syr b to imitate: 041 Syr to come to envy: 021 Syr to arouse someone's zeal: 051 Syr to suffer from zeal: 031 Syr to arouse someone's envy: 032 Syr to make to emulate: Tnn A: (1) Syr zealous: (2) Syr champion: (3) Syr emulator: (4) Syr envious The texts that have mimetai (followers/imitators) are the 1550 Stephens Textus Receptus, the 1894 Scrivener Textus Receptus and the Byzantine Majority Text. By contrast, the Alexandrian Text, L, T, Tr, A, Q, WH, N and NA read zelotai (zealous).

14. But if it should occur that you suffer on account of righteousness, happy are you. And be not terrified by those who would terrify you, nor be in uproar: 15. but sanctify Master YHWH<sup>15</sup> the Mashiyach, in your hearts.<sup>16</sup> And be you ready for a vindication before everyone who demands of you an account of the hope of your faith, 16. in meekness and respect, as having a good conscience; so that they who speak against you as bad men may be ashamed for having maligned your good conduct in the Mashiyach. 17. For it is profitable to you that you suffer evil while you do good deeds, if this should be the pleasure of Elohim; and not, while you do evil deeds. 18. For the Mashiyach also once died for our sins, the righteous for sinners; that he might bring you to Elohim. And he died in body but lived in spirit. 19. And he preached to those souls which were detained in Sheol (Hades) 20. which were formerly disobedient in the days of Noah when the long suffering of Elohim commanded an ark to be made, in hope of their repentance; and eight souls only entered into it and were kept alive in the waters.<sup>17</sup> 21. And you also, by a like figure, are made alive by immersion (not when you wash your bodies from filth, but when you confess Elohim with a pure conscience) and by the resurrection of Y'shua the Mashiyach 22. who is taken up to heaven and is on the right hand of Elohim and Messengers and authorities, and powers are subject to him.

1. If then the Mashiyach has suffered for you in the flesh, you (should) also arm yourselves with the same mind: for everyone that is dead in his body has ceased from all sins 2. that he may no longer be alive to the lusts of men while he is in the body, but (only) to do the will of Elohim. 3. For the time that is past was enough when you pursued the way of sensuality, lusts, drunkenness, and in sexual sin,<sup>18</sup> and in drunken parties, and in the worship of demons. 4. And lo, they now wonder and reproach you, because you do not run with them in the same former drunkenness; 5. who must give account to Elohim who is to judge the living and the dead. 6. For on this account the announcement is made also to the dead that they may be judged as persons in the flesh, and may live according to Elohim in the spirit. 7. But the end of all things approaches: therefore be sober and be wakeful for prayer. 8. And above all things, have fervent love one towards another; for love covers a multitude of sins. 9. And be compassionate to strangers, without arguing. 10. And let each of you minister to his associates the gift which he have received from Elohim; as being good stewards of the manifold grace of Elohim.

<sup>16</sup> Mashiyach, though a human office, is intimately connected with YHWH through sharing in the One divine nature and Spirit of YHWH, the occurrence of which is called qnoma (nature) in Aramaic as seen elsewhere in the NT. Mashiyach shares the divine nature of YHWH in such a way that is unique to the office of Mashiyach. Mashiyach has YHWH's attributes dwell bodily inside yet separate (Isaiah 11:1-2) from his human nefesh (soul). The main issue for the first generation of Y'shua's Jewish followers was to understand that not only had they to accept YHWH's salvific ability but also YHWH's choice through whom His salvation was delivered. As a result, both the names YHWH and Yehoshua (Y'shua) Mashiyach are used as confirmation of this choice that YHWH provided. We are called to "sanctify YHWH" in our hearts by accepting what He has done through Mashiyach, in so doing we also begin to receive the nature (Spirit) of YHWH in our own hearts. <sup>17</sup> "Alive in the waters" points to the waters of the Mikveh, the complete immersion (baptism) into living waters after a soul has repented of sin and agreed to walk in the newness of life (the Kingdom) as offered through Mashiyach; see Immerse in Appendix. It is also worth noting that the words "in hope of their repentance" do not appear in the Greek traditions.

<sup>18</sup> Religion is not only powerless against sexual sin it has become one of the greatest tools of the enemy to entrap people in their sexual sin. Religion offers formulas and theologies to cope with unclean sexual addictions and sensuality, monastic models, confessionals that do nothing but stir up guilt and shame, and liberal permissiveness that offer grace and forgiveness for habitual moral failures. When Pagan Christian philosophers removed Torah from the Church they also removed access to Righteous spirituality that overcomes the carnal desires of the flesh. Torah is the Covenant of belonging to YHWH that provides empowerment to the spiritual man. The Torah of YHWH is Spiritual. The Kedoshim (Set Apart people) is a community of souls who provide access to spiritual resources, to the unfailing Word of YHWH, and to the Power of the Ruach haKodesh. Dead religion is led by men and woman who cannot overcome their sensuality, lusts, or sexual sins, rather they use the guilt and shame of sexual addiction for religious monetary profit. When we ask Mashiach to write Torah upon our hearts we receive individual and collective empowerment to overcome the devices of the enemy according to the Beauty of Separateness in Mashiach.

11. Whoever will speak, let him speak as the Word of Elohim: and whoever will minister, as of the ability that Elohim have given him: so that in all you do, Elohim may be glorified through Y'shua the Mashiyach to whom belongs glory and honor forever and ever. Amen. 12. My beloved, be not dismayed at the trials that befall you as if some strange thing had come upon you; for these things are for your probation. 13. But rejoice that you participate in the sufferings of the Mashiyach that so you may also rejoice and exult at the revelation of his glory. 14. And if you are reproached on account of the name of the Mashiyach,<sup>19</sup> happy are you: for the glorious Spirit of Elohim rests upon you. 15. Only let none of you suffer as a murderer or as a thief or as an evil-doer. 16. But if he suffer as a Kristianay,<sup>20</sup> let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify Elohim on account of this name. 17. For it is the time when judgment will commence with the house of Elohim: and if it commence with us, what will be the end of those who obey not the Good News of Elohim? 18. And if the righteous scarcely lives, where will those who are against Elohim and the sinner be found! 19. Therefore, let them who suffer according to the pleasure of Elohim commend their souls to him in well doing as to a faithful Creator.

1. And I, an Elder,<sup>21</sup> your associate and a witness of the sufferings of the Mashiyach, and a participant in his glory which is to be revealed, plead with the Elders who are among you: 2. Feed the flock of Elohim which is committed to you: have care (for it) spiritually; not from compulsion but voluntarily; not for base gain but with all your heart; 3. not as masters<sup>22</sup> of the flock but so as to be a good example<sup>23</sup> for them: 4. That when the Master Shepherd will be revealed you may receive from him a crown of glory that does not fade. 5. And you juniors submit yourselves to your seniors; and clothe yourselves, stringently, with lowliness of mind one towards another; because Elohim resists them who exalt themselves, and gives grace to the humble. 6. Humble yourselves, therefore, under the powerful hand of Elohim: and He will exalt you in due time. 7. And cast all your anxiety upon Elohim; for He cares for you. 8. Be sober and guarded because haSatan, like a lion, roars and goes about and seeks whom he may devour. 9. Therefore resist him, being steadfast in the Faith: and know that the same sufferings befall your Brothers that are in the world.

19 The meaning of the name of Mashiyach that, through Y'shua, YHWH is salvation. The name of Mashiyach stands for universal perfection of Righteousness, Justice, Goodness and Equality which, by its very nature, exposes even the smallest grains of sin. Which is why YHWH offers an exchange of forgiveness and redemption to those souls who accept the Name of Mashiyach, and who also repent and discontinue their sin.

20 Kristianay was the label given by Gentiles for Gentile followers of Mashiyach. Although in one place Gentiles in Antioch referred to the Shlichim as Kristianay, the Shlichim/Apostles themselves never adopted this label. This contrasts the title that Netzari (Nazarenes) adopted (Acts 24:5). Like the citation in Acts, Peter also employs the term used by and for Greek followers, rather than the Aramaic Mishkhanee, indicating that he is specifically encouraging the Greek followers of Y'shua. Nowadays as many Believers are having Torah written on their hearts they often find themselves alienated by former church friends, they yearn to find a title that expresses their true Faith-walk. Unfortunately a plethora of teachers, steeped in identity/blood line deceptions, are eager to provide this "service". Religious leaders offer religious titles and labels knowing that it gives influence over those who subscribe to their new identity. This is not an isolated phenomenon within the Church or the Hebrew Roots movement, but a very common and unfortunate malady of the mind that invalidates the authority of YHWH's Word. In the first century there were two groups that needed spiritual re-training, each unique from the other. For Jews like Paul, he had to die to Oral and other rabbinic traditions that placed greater emphasis on the authority of past scholars and teachers than on YHWH's Written Word. Gentiles, they had to flee paganism and embrace monotheism, learn of YHWH, learn the Scriptures beginning to end and surrender to Y'shua Mashiyach as King of Kings. In both cases the challenges required unique training, just as academia classifies various unique areas of study. Jews referred to themselves as "Nazarenes" or those of "the Way" (Acts 24:1-14), which meant they had surrendered to Y'shua as King. Gentile souls were referred to as "Kristianay" (Christians) but this definition has been radically altered since its original intended use. It was Constantine who turned Kristianay into an anti-nomian and anti-Semitic formulation that rejected Torah and anything remotely "Jewish" by outlawing Shabbat and YHWH's feasts throughout the Roman Empire according to the Edict of Milan. Christians of the first three centuries of the faith—like Cornelius in Acts 10—attended synagogue, observed Shabbat alongside their fellow Hebrew believers and did so for centuries, otherwise Constantine would have had no need to ban such "Jewish" things from out of his Empire. The question then for many is why call yourself a Christian if it doesn't reflect your true Faith-walk? There are clearly two kinds of Christians: First Century and Post-Constantinian Christians, and the two kinds could not be more different. In the end then, rather than adopting questionable titles, why not consider the original designations that Scripture offers because: "if he suffer as a Kristianay, let him not be ashamed!" Rav Shaul says, "And likewise all who choose to live in the Fear of Elohim, in Y'shua the Mashiach, will be persecuted." (2 Tim 3:12). Welcome home Christians. 21 This usage by Peter proves that Shlichim/Apostles can also be elders, eliminating the argument that Shaliach John (Good News John, 1 John) is somehow different from John the Elder (2 & 3 John, Revelation).

22 "Masters" refers to taking elevated positions above other souls in the flock. This is evidenced by the receiving of flattering titles, wearing long robes, and employing all manner of lofty religious accoutrements which is clearly an abomination unto YHWH and His Mashiach.

23 "Good example" refers to being a servant, an equal and a partner together on equal ground, not above or beneath, but alongside others.

10. Now it is the Elohim of Grace<sup>24</sup> Who has called us to His eternal glory by Y'shua the Mashiyach that have given us while we sustain these light afflictions, to be strengthened and confirmed and established by him forever: 11. to whom be glory and power and honor, forever and ever. Amen. 12. These as I account (them) few (things), I have written to you by Sylvanus, a faithful brother. And I would persuade and would testify that this is the true Grace of Elohim, this in which you stand. 13. The elect assembly which is in Babylon,<sup>25</sup> sends peace to you; also Mark, my son. 14. Send peace to one another with a Set Apart kiss. Peace be with you all who are in the Mashiyach. Amen.

End of the First Letter of Peter the Shaliach

24 Grace, Mercy, and deep loving Compassion are attributes of YHWH that are mentioned nearly 500 times in the Tanakh! The NT records Grace and Mercy about 175 times. However, the beauty of the Father YHWH was undermined by the early founders of the Greek-based Christian church and Calvinistic doctrines like "irresistible grace" which only sees Grace as given to them who follow Christian theology. As sad as this may be, the reality is that Grace is really the Favor of YHWH given His people to empower them to live Sanctified lives, observe Torah and refrain from sin. Grace enables a relationship with YHWH through His Mashiyach based on righteousness, not on theology or by belonging to a church or religious organization.

25 A literal reference to the assembly in Babylon which existed then; this is not a coded reference for Rome. Peter was ministering in the Middle East decades before he allegedly visited Italy. In fact, the entire claim that Peter died in Rome has been called into question by archaeologists who may have found his tomb in Jerusalem. In 1958 a first century Jewish tomb was found on the Mount of Olives, on the grounds of a Franciscan monastery called Dominus Flevit. The Aramaic text is consistent with other ossuaries of the period, including the one found in 1990 bearing the name of High Priest Caiaphas. The charcoal inscription reads Shimon bar Yonah (precisely as in Yochanan 21:15). For more information please see the book, Gli Scavi del Dominus Flevit, by Bellarmino Baggatti and Josef Tadeuz Malik, available in English at <http://www.aloha.net/~mikesch/peters-jerusalem-tomb.htm>. Even if however Peter did visit Rome as Catholic tradition states, that tradition also tells us he was imprisoned, crucified upside down and buried under the stairs so Roman soldiers wouldn't fear Peter's vengeful spirit. All this more than 25 years after Peter was known to have ministered first and foremost in the Middle East, in Babylon and elsewhere, preaching to the circumcised (Galatians 2:9). As important as his later ministry may be viewed, perhaps having resulted in Peter's death, there is a far greater importance to his earlier and much more extended ministry in the Middle East.

In addition to all these factors, the true overriding concern has to do with how these spiritual politics affected the translations of the Tanakh and New Testament. It is well known that, with the alleged "endorsement" of Peter as their first pope, the Roman church altered their own versions of Scripture. More than that, they attempted to codify their changes and force their "authoritative" revisions on others. This was the Christian equivalent of the Rabbinic maxim lo bashmayim hi, that the Torah is not in heaven and therefore must be on earth for "leaders" to change. One Eastern scribe wrote this rebuke in the margins of a later Aramaic manuscript that had been changed to suit western readings:

Foolish knave! Can you not just leave the text alone?

This is a telling question with very serious ramifications. To suit its own religious culture, the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church removed the 2nd Commandment against graven images (Exodus 20:4) and split the 10th Commandment against covetousness (Exodus 20:17) into two sections. Western religious authorities changed and inserted their own readings into the NT at will, and enforced their version of "unity" at the point of a sword. The fact that remains constant throughout all the religious power grabs whether Catholic, Protestant or Rabbinic is this: Peter ministered in the Middle East, in the Aramaic language, and founded dozens of assemblies that were more prominent and more ancient than the See of Rome many years before the Gospel made it to Rome. Those early assemblies were responsible for preserving the Aramaic NT text and are still fulfilling that charge today, without interruption for almost 2,000 years. On April 5, 1957, Mar Eshai Shimun the former Patriarch of the Church of the East said the following:

"With reference to...the originality of the Peshitta text, as the Patriarch and Head of the Holy Apostolic and Catholic ("catholic" meaning "universal", not aligned with Rome—AGR) Church of the East, we wish to state, that the Church of the East received the scriptures from the hands of the blessed Apostles themselves in the Aramaic original, the language spoken by our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and that the Peshitta is the text of the Church of the East which has come down from the Biblical times without any change or revision."

1. SHIMON PETER,<sup>1</sup> a servant and Shaliach of Y'shua the Mashiyach, to those who have obtained equally precious faith with us through the righteousness of Our Master and Redeemer, Y'shua the Mashiyach; 2. May grace and peace abound to you through the recognition of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach<sup>2</sup> 3. as the giver to us of all things that be of the power of Elohim to life and the fear of Elohim, through the recognition of him who has called us to his own glory and moral excellence: 4. wherein he has given you very great and precious promises; that by them you might become partakers of the nature of Elohim while you flee from the corruptions of the lusts that are in the world. 5. And, while you apply all diligence in the matter, add to your faith moral excellence; and to moral excellence, knowledge; 6. and to knowledge, perseverance; and to perseverance, patience; and to patience, the Fear of Elohim;<sup>3</sup> 7. and to the Fear of Elohim, sympathy with the brotherhood; and to sympathy with the brotherhood, love. 8. For, while these are found in you and abounding, they render you not lazy and not unfruitful in the recognition of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 9. For he in whom these things are not found, is blind and does not see, and has forgotten the purification of his former sins.<sup>4</sup> 10. And therefore, my Brothers, you be exceedingly diligent to make your calling and election certain by your good actions: for, by so doing, you will never fall away. 11. For thus will entrance be given you abundantly into the everlasting Kingdom of our Master and Redeemer Y'shua the Mashiyach. 12. And for this reason I am not wearied in reminding you continually of these things, although you know them well and are established in this truth. 13. And it seems right to me, so long as I am in this body, to excite you by imparting to you a remembrance; 14. since I know that the demise of my body is speedy, as also my Master Y'shua the Mashiyach has showed me. 15. And I am anxious that, after my departure, you too may have it always with you to make mention of these things. 16. For we have not gone after fables cleverly crafted<sup>5</sup> in making known to you the power and advent of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach; but (it was) after we had been spectators of his majesty. 17. For, when he received from Elohim the Father honor and glory and, after the splendid glory of his majesty a voice came to him thus: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased;" 18. we also heard this identical voice from heaven which came to him while we were with him in the Set Apart mount. 19. And we have furthermore a certain Word of Prophecy; and you will do well if you look to it as to a light that shines in a dark place until the day will dawn and the sun<sup>6</sup> will arise in your hearts; 20. you having the previous knowledge that no prophecy is an exposition of its own text. 21. For at no time was it by the will of man that the prophecy came; but Set Apart men of Elohim spoke as they were moved by the Ruach haKodesh.

1 Intriguing that this Second Letter, which is at times disputed, has the proper full name of "Shimon Peter" whereas the previous letter simply has "Peter". It is worth noting that the first name is not the Greek adaptation of "Simon" but in Aramaic is clearly "Shimon". We should also bear in mind that Keefa is a nickname, not his real name; but he is recorded on occasion as Keefa because Y'shua gave him that title, a double meaning of "steady as a rock" and perhaps also suggesting "thick-headed as a rock".

2 Aramaic speech pattern reflected also in 1 Peter 1:2 and Acts 15:11.

3 Aramaic speech pattern reflected also in 1 Peter 1:6, 2:6 and Acts 2:28.

4 Aramaic speech pattern reflected also in 1 Peter 1:21 and Acts 3:19.

5 The disciples faced huge opposition to their message—especially about the truth of Y'shua rising from the dead, which is the cornerstone of our faith. Matthew 28:16 records that even before the resurrection, fables about Y'shua were circulating among the Yehudim. These fables would be reworked by various rabbis—perhaps as early as Paul's teacher Gamaliel—until they were finally edited into full blown rabbinical polemics about 500 years later. Roman historians such as Tacitus and Suetonius were equally frosty to the Gospel message and complained of the "monstrous superstition... shameful" fact of the resurrection of Y'shua spreading all over Rome as well. Between religious Jews and skeptical Romans almost all believers, Jewish or Gentile, became targets for persecution. The reality of course was that Y'shua had predicted such disasters would come, but it wasn't the obvious external opponents who crafted the most destructive of fables, it was they who confessed faith in Y'shua who morphed pagan spirituality and/or Gnosticism or rabbinical Judaism into their own religions about Y'shua. Returning to the Faith Once Delivered today requires as much persistence and courage as when the New Testament was first written.

6 Malachi 4:2. Some English translations insert "day star" here which is a reference to Lucifer (Isaiah 14:12-17) as the light bearer or day star. Lucifer or "light bearer" is "heylel" in Hebrew. Helel refers to the King of Babylon which is what haSatan installed as a counterfeit hierarchical religio-political system; albeit, this is what traditional religions such as Catholicism and Rabbinical Judaism are modeled after. See Unity versus Hierarchy in Appendix.

1. But in the world there have been also false prophets, as there will likewise be false teachers among you who will bring in destructive heresies denying Master YHWH that bought them; thus bringing on themselves swift destruction. 2. And many will go after their profaneness on account of whom the way of truth will be reproached. 3. And in the greediness of raving words they will make merchandise of you: whose judgment of a long time is not idle; and their destruction never sleeps. 4. For if Elohim did not spare the Messengers that sinned but cast them down into fiery regions<sup>7</sup> in chains of darkness,<sup>8</sup> and delivered them up to be kept to the judgment of anguish;<sup>9</sup> 5. And (if Elohim) did not spare the former world<sup>10</sup> but preserved Noah the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, when he brought a flood on the world of the wicked, 6. (and) burned up the cities of Sodom and Amorrhah and condemned them by an overthrow, making them a demonstration to the wicked who should come after them; 7. and also delivered righteous Lot who was tormented with the filthy conduct of the Torahless; 8. For that upright man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing from day to day, was distressed in his righteous soul by their Torahless deeds; 9. Master YHWH knows how to rescue from afflictions those who fear him, and he will reserve the wicked for the day of judgment to be anguished, 10. and especially them who go after the flesh in the lusts of pollution, and despise government. Daring and boasting without cause they do not quake with awe while they blaspheme; 11. as opposed to the Messengers, greater than they in might and valor, do not bring against them a reproachful judgment. 12. But these, like nasty beasts that by nature are for slaughter and corruption, while engaging in evil speech regarding things they don't know, will perish in their own corruption; 13. they being persons with whom iniquity is the reward of iniquity, and by them rioting in the daytime is accounted delightful; defiled and full of blemishes (are they), indulging themselves at their ease while they give themselves up to pleasure; 14. having eyes that are full of adultery and sins that never end; seducing unstable souls; and having a heart exercised in greed; children of cursing: 15. And, having left the correct path, they have wandered and gone in the way of Balaam the son of Beor<sup>11</sup> who loved the wages of iniquity, 16. and who had for the corrector of his transgression a mute mule which, speaking with the speech of men, rebuked the madness of the prophet. 17. These are wells without water, clouds driven by a storm, persons for whom is reserved the blackness of darkness. 18. For, while they utter astonishing vanity, they seduce with obscene lusts of the flesh, them who have almost abandoned these that walk in error. 19. And they promise them liberty while they themselves are the slaves of corruption: for, by whatever thing a man is vanquished, to that is he enslaved. 20. For if, when they have escaped the pollutions of the world by the knowledge of our Master and Redeemer Y'shua the Mashiach, they become again involved in the same and are vanquished, their latter state is worse than the former.

7 This verse speaks of judgment on fallen angels, the Aramaic has them in "fiery regions," the Greek inserts "tartaroo," derived from Tartarus. In 400 BC Plato wrote that souls were judged after death and those who received punishment were sent to Tartarus, a mythical, deep, dark, underworld pit or abyss, a gloomy place and dungeon of torment, where god-sized suffering awaits "sinners." A Greek deity called Zeus was known to toss nasty villains into Tartarus. Calling Y'shua by a name that sounds very close to calling on Zeus (Jesus) helped morph mythological ideas about hell into Christian culture. Many Christian theologians literally believe that "Tartarus answers to Gehenna of the Jews" which is far from the truth. Please see footnote Mark 9:47.

8 B'shishlata d'amtana (chains of darkness) is carried in Greek and English translations. Chains is a metaphor for captivity, they were used to bind captives and manage slaves, and therefore used to express judgment, "all her great men were put in chains" (Nah 3:10). This kind of "darkness" is a metaphor for being low, troubled, afflicted or anguished. Psalm 88:6 "You have laid me in the lowest pit, in darkness, in the deep." Hebrew Scripture uses chains and darkness to express doom and gloom, separation for YHWH's love and joy. However, mythology, Tartarus and Hades is "spiritual darkness," dark and demonic teachings. YHWH says, "For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but YHWH shall arise upon you, and His glory shall be seen upon you" (Isa 60:2). This is expressly talking about calling the nations (Gentiles) out of worldly paganism, "And the Gentiles shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising" (Isa 60:3). Mashiach brings people out of spiritual darkness, yet mythology is rampant in Christian Bibles and culture. Many Christians believe that "when Jesus taught on earth He taught more about Hell than Heaven." See footnote Luke 12:5.

9 Anguish or "chiyi" in Aramaic and Hebrew, not "torture" as some translations use. YHWH does not torture either these fallen angels or "fallen people." He brings "chiyi" (anguish, sorrow) upon unrighteousness. Please see Jer 50:43; Mic 4:9.

SECOND PETER 2

21. For it would have been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than after having known (it), to turn back<sup>12</sup> from the Set Apart Commandment that was delivered to them. 22. But the true proverb has happened to them: the dog returns to his vomit and the pig that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire.

Chapter 3

1. This second letter, my beloved,<sup>13</sup> I now write to you; in (both of) which I stir up your honest mind by admonition: 2. that you may be mindful of the words which were formerly spoken by the Set Apart prophets, and of the commandment of our Master and Redeemer by the hand of the Shlichim: 3. knowing this previously, that there will come in the last days scoffers who will scoff, walking according to their own lusts 4. and saying, “Where is the promise of his coming? for, since our fathers fell asleep, everything remains just as from the beginning of the creation.” 5. For this they willingly forget, that the heavens were of old; and the earth rose up from the waters, and by means of water, by the Word of Elohim. 6. (And) by means of these (waters), the world which then was (being submerged), again perished in the waters. 7. And the heavens that now are, and the earth, are by His Word stored up, being reserved for the fire at the day of judgment and the destruction of wicked men. 8. And of this one thing, my beloved, be not forgetful: That one day to Master YHWH, is as a thousand years; and a thousand years, as one day. 9. Master YHWH does not delay His promises as some estimate delay; but He is long suffering for your sakes, being not willing that any should perish, but that everyone should come to repentance. 10. And the day of Master YHWH will come like a thief; in which the heavens will suddenly pass away; and the elements, being ignited, will be dissolved; and the earth and the works in it will not be found. 11. As therefore all these things are to be dissolved, what persons should you be, in Set Apart conduct and in the Fear of Elohim, 12. expecting and desiring the coming of the day of Elohim in which the heavens being tried by fire will be dissolved and the elements being ignited will melt?<sup>14</sup> 13. But we, according to his promise, expect new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells. 14. Therefore, my beloved, as you expect these things, strive that you may be found by him in peace, without spot and without blemish. 15. And account the long suffering of Master YHWH to be redemption; as also our beloved brother Paul, according to the wisdom conferred on him, wrote to you; 16. as also in all his letters speaking in them of these things in which there is something difficult to be understood; (and) which they who are ignorant and unstable pervert, as they do also the rest of the Scriptures,<sup>15</sup> to their own destruction. 17. You therefore, my beloved, as you know (these things) beforehand, guard yourselves or else, by going after the error of the Torahless, you fall from your steadfastness. 18. But be you growing in grace<sup>16</sup> and in the knowledge of our Master and Redeemer Y’shua the Mashiyach and of Elohim the Father: whose is the glory now and always and to the days of eternity. Amen.<sup>17</sup>

End of the Second Letter of Peter the Shaliach

12 To have “known the way of righteousness” means that the Set Apart Commandment was once living inside but the person turned away from Mashiyach and went back to worldly living where transgression and rebellion is an acceptable lifestyle. Please see footnote on Romans 11:29.

13 While the beginning of this Epistle is not addressed to particular groups of people, the notation here indicates that Peter has sent it to the same groups that he mentioned in the previous letter, Galatia, Cappadocia and peoples in Asia.

14 Complement to Matthew 5:17-20; the followers of Y’shua will continue to observe Torah as this great event transpires.

15 It’s rather shocking that Peter writes of how Paul’s letters had already been turned into a Torahless fiasco, even in Peter’s day. Certainly it was not the Pharisees who were renouncing Torah Observance, but the humanist, pagan and materialist, “modernists” who operated under Christian labels.

16 Grace is the opposite of torahlessness. The Renewed Covenant prescribes Torah written upon the hearts of YHWH’s people; therefore, when we allow Him to write Torah upon our hearts, we are receiving Torah by His Grace and entering into the Renewed Covenant.

Chapter 1

1. PAUL, a servant of Y'shua the Mashiyach, called and sent and separated<sup>1</sup> to the Good News of Elohim.<sup>2</sup> 2. (That) He (Elohim) had before promised, by His prophets, in the Set Apart Scriptures,<sup>3</sup> 3. Concerning his Son who was born in the flesh, of seed of the house of Dawid,<sup>4</sup> 4. And was made known as the Son of Elohim by power, and by the Ruach haKodesh, who arose from the dead, Y'shua the Mashiyach, our Master, 5. By whom we have received grace and a mission among all the Gentiles<sup>5</sup> to the end that they may obey the faith in His Name;<sup>6</sup> 6. Among whom, you also are called by Y'shua the Mashiyach; 7. To all those who are at Rome, beloved of Elohim, called and sanctified: Peace and grace be with you, from Elohim our Father, and from our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach.<sup>7</sup> 8. In the first place, I give thanks to Elohim by Y'shua the Mashiyach on account of you all; because your faith is heard of in all the world. 9. And Elohim, whom in spirit I serve in the Good News of His Son, is my witness that I continually make mention of you at all times in my prayers. 10. And I also pray that afterwards a door may be opened to me, by the good pleasure<sup>8</sup> of Elohim, to come to you. 11. For I yearn greatly to see you; and to give to you the gift of the Spirit, through which you may be established; 12. And that we may have comfort together in the faith of both yourselves and me. 13. And I wish you to know, my brothers, that I have many times wanted to come to you, but was prevented up until now, that I might bear some fruit among you also; even as among other Gentiles, 14. Greeks and barbarians, the wise and the unwise: for to every man I am required to preach. 15. And so, I am eager to preach to you also who are at Rome. 16. For I am not ashamed of the Good News; for it is the power of Elohim to life, to all who believe in it; whether first they are of the Jews, or whether they are of the Arameans. 17. For in it is revealed the righteousness of Elohim, from faith to faith; as it is written, The righteous by faith, will live. 18. For the wrath of Elohim from heaven is revealed against all the iniquity and wickedness of men who hold the truth in iniquity 19. Because a knowledge of Elohim is manifest in them; for Elohim has manifested it in them. 20. For, from the foundations of the world, the hidden things of Elohim are seen by the mind in the things he created even his eternal power and divinity, so that they might be without excuse 21. Because they knew Elohim and did not glorify him and give thanks to him as Elohim, but became vain in their imaginings and their unwise heart was darkened. 22. And, while they thought within themselves that they were wise, they became fools. 23. And they changed the glory of the incorruptible Elohim into a likeness to the image of a corruptible man,<sup>9</sup> and into the likeness of birds and four-legged animals and reptiles on the earth.<sup>10</sup>

1 Perysh, the word used here for "separated" is also the root from which we get "Pharisee," an obvious wordplay, raising the cutting remark that Rav Shaul's opponents separated themselves to the wrong place.

2 Noting also that this is YHWH's Good News about His Son.

3 Paul quotes the Hebrew Tanakh over 80 times in this Letter to the Romans. Without understanding the original context of Torah (first 5 books of the Bible), Neviim (Prophets) and Ketuvim (writings) which he quotes from, it will be impossible to thoroughly comprehend his teachings. Paul never heard the words "Old Testament" in his lifetime, nor would he ever permit such a dishonoring title be given to the Word of YHWH which is Mashiyach preincarnate.

4 At times, almost being read like a corporate memo, except instead of the familiar: "TO: FROM: REGARDING: pattern, the order here is FROM (Paul) REGARDING (Y'shua the Mashiyach) and TO (the assembly in Rome). Paul is either dictating the words to Tertius, see 16:22, or Tertius is translating the letter from the original.

5 Aimneh= Gentiles or Nations is an appropriate translation here. Elsewhere, Murdock also translates as "Gentiles" the word Armaya which refers specifically to the Arameans (or Syrians), who were kinsman to the tribes of Israel. Ya'akov the Patriarch was related to Arameans by marriage and is called "a wandering Aramean" himself (Deuteronomy 26:5). The Hebrews and the Arameans are closely connected peoples separated by a river. In fact, the word Hebrew, is derived from Eber, meaning "those from across (the other side of the river)". See Gentiles and Ger Toshav in Appendix.

6 YHWH is being referenced: "YHWH is salvation" which is also the name of His Son. This context is established in the next verse: "among whom you are also called by Y'shua," meaning that Y'shua is not intended as the subject of this passage as it relates to Name.

7 Up until now, this has been one long opening sentence! Common in both Greek and Aramaic languages, this creates a balancing act between English syntax and clarity while also remaining faithful to the order of thought.

8 Or "will".

9 Rav Shaul rejects the idea of making a deity out of a human being, something he himself is often being wrongly accused of. The key is the phrase "corruptible man" which is put in contradistinction of Y'shua who fulfilled prophecy by virtue of having the Ruach haKodesh, the Spirit of YHWH, inside him. If Rav Shaul did not approve of others turning images of men into false deities, he would certainly not approve of what Christendom has done today. The Son did the Father YHWH's will; his human side submitted to the divine. This is what opened the door for repentance for all of us; therefore, all who follow Y'shua must also yield unto YHWH rather than follow a deity who lessens the Name of YHWH and abolishes Torah.

10 Khabouris has an isolated taw-sheen, perhaps a scribal error as these are the first two letters of the next line.

24. For this cause, Elohim gave them up to the fill your lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies with them. 25. And they changed the truth of Elohim into a lie; and worshipped and served the created things,<sup>11</sup> much more than the Creator of them, to whom belong glory and blessing, forever and ever: Amen. 26. For this cause, Elohim gave them up to vile passions: for their females changed the use of their natures<sup>12</sup> and employed that which is unnatural. 27. And so also their males set aside the use of females, which is natural, and burned with lust toward one another; and, male with male, they did what is shameful, and received in their core substance<sup>13</sup> the just recompense of their error. 28. And as they did not determine with themselves to know Elohim, Elohim gave them over to a vain mind; that they might do what they should not. 29. Being full of all iniquity and lewdness, and bitterness and malice, and covetousness and envy, and slaughter and strife, and deceit and evil machinations. 30. And backbiting and slander; and being haters of Elohim, scoffers, proud, vain-glorious, devisers of evil things, destitute of reason, disregarding of parents. 31. And to whom a covenant is nothing, neither affection, nor peace, and in whom is no compassion. 32. These, while they know the judgment of Elohim, that he condemns those to death who perpetrate such things, are not only doers of them, but the companions of such as do them.

Chapter 2

1. There is therefore no excuse for you, O man, who judges your neighbor; for by judging your neighbor, you condemn yourself; for you that judge do practice the same things. 2. And we know that the judgment of Elohim is in accordance with truth, in regard to those who practice these things. 3. And what thinks you, O man, who judges those who practice these things, while practicing them yourself, that you will escape the judgment of Elohim? 4. Or will you abuse the riches of his benevolence, and his long suffering, and the opportunity which he gives you? And do you not know that the benevolence of Elohim should bring you to repentance? 5. But, because of the hardness of your un-repenting heart, you are treasuring up a store of wrath against the day of wrath, and against the revelation of the righteous judgment of Elohim: 6. Who will recompense to every man, according to his deeds. 7. To them who, by perseverance in good works, seek for glory and honor and immortality, to them he will give life eternal. 8. But to them who are obstinate and obey not the truth, but obey iniquity, to them he will return with wrath and fire. 9. And tribulation and anguish (will be) to every man that does evil; to the Jews first, and also to the Arameans. 10. But glory and honor and peace to every one that does good; to the Jews first, and also to the Arameans.<sup>14</sup> 11. For there is no respect of persons with Elohim. 12. For those without Torah, who sin, will also perish without Torah; and those under Torah, who sin, will be judged by Torah.

---

11 See Humanism in Appendix.

12 The Image of Elohim is both male and female (B'reshet/Gen. 1:27). To deny the distinctions of male/female gender is to spurn the One who created male and female according to His own Image. See Feminine Attributes in Appendix.

13 The word translated as "themselves" by Murdock is much better rendered as "core substance" - one of several important meanings for qnomā, which also refers to an occurrence (not a separated "person") of a nature. This verse states that punishment for sexual sin is not in the external body, but in a foundational place where the very essence of humanity resides. Our spirituality is that essence of our humanity that establishes the values and conduct of our individual sexuality. Righteous spirituality in Mashiyach produces righteous sexuality, fruit of the Set Apart Spirit, and reveals intimate wisdom and knowledge of both masculine and feminine attributes of YHWH. However, when spirituality is based on intellectualism, religiosity, religious identity, or components of the lower nature that are outside of the Kingdom of Heaven, the fruit of that carnal sexuality are evidenced by pride, ego, lust, anger, sensuality and lack of compassion. See footnote 1 Peter 4:3.

14 Arameans, as opposed to "Gentiles" who have no ancestral ties to Israel. Rav Shaul is extremely clear throughout this epistle to make proper distinction between these two, although the point of the message is clear that YHWH is no respecter of persons.

13. For not the hearers of Torah are righteous before Elohim; but the doers of Torah are being made righteous.<sup>15</sup> 14. For if Gentiles who have not Torah will, by their nature, do the things of Torah; they, while without Torah, become a Torah to themselves.<sup>16</sup> 15. Additionally, they show the work of Torah as it is inscribed on their hearts; and their conscience bears testimony to them, their own reflections rebuking or vindicating one another. 16. (And that vindication is for) in the day in which Elohim will judge the secret (actions) of men, as my tidings (teaches), by Y'shua the Mashiyach. 17. But if you who are called a Jew, and rely yourself on Torah and glory in Elohim, 18. (And further that you think) that you know His good pleasure and discern obligations because you are instructed in Torah; 19. And (that Elohim) has confidence in yourself, that you are a guide to the blind, and a light to them who are in darkness, 20. And an instructor of those lacking knowledge and a teacher to the young (and immature believers). And you have the appearance of the knowledge and truthfulness of Torah. 21. But then (behold)! You, who teach others! Do you teach yourself (as well)? And you who teach that men must not steal, do you steal? 22. And you who say, "Men must not commit adultery," do you commit adultery? And you who condemn idols, do you plunder the sanctuary? 23. And you who glory in Torah, don't you, by acting contrary to Torah, insult Elohim himself?<sup>17</sup> 24. "For, the name of Elohim," as it is written,<sup>18</sup> "is reviled among the Gentiles on your account." 25. For circumcision profits indeed if you fulfill<sup>19</sup> Torah: but if you depart from Torah, your circumcision becomes uncircumcision.<sup>20</sup> 26. And if uncircumcision should keep the precepts of Torah, would not that uncircumcision be accounted as circumcision?<sup>21</sup> 27. And the uncircumcision, which from its nature fulfills Torah, will judge you; who, with the Scripture and with circumcision, transgresses against Torah.<sup>22</sup> 28. For he is not a Jew who is so in what is external (alone): nor is that (only physical) circumcision, which is visible in the flesh.<sup>23</sup> 29. But he is a Jew who is so in what is hidden: and circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter, whose praise is not from men, but from Elohim.

15 Notice how those "under Torah" and those "doers of Torah" are put in opposition to one another; therefore, both cannot simultaneously be in error. This is clarified with the phrase "for doers of Torah will be made righteous." So, if Torah-doers are made righteous, it stands to reason Torah itself is not passing away! The fact that such deep pro-Torah statements are being sent to Gentiles in Rome speaks volumes of how mainstream Christianity is perverting Rav Shaul's teachings. "Under Torah" means to look to its rituals as a form of magic; a power that needs no purity of intent to bring about blessing, but merely fixed repetition. Torah in itself provides no authority of magic. Rather, Torah has authority because it is YHWH's instruction to man! So "under Torah" is a false teaching that has never been true according to the Tanakh: YHWH blesses man for Torah observance, which is obedience to His Commandments. Notice in Matthew 15 how Y'shua rebukes the Pharisees on this very issue, how they set aside YHWH's Torah (instructions) in favor of their traditions.

16 Rav Shaul does not suggest that Gentiles are spontaneously Mastering Torah. The point is they should learn the written Torah without distraction from Pharisaic traditions which are not rooted in the plain understanding of Torah.

17 Torah is the standard for righteousness that Rav Shaul applies to both himself and his readers; violation of Torah, Paul states, is an insult to Elohim; therefore, Paul never teaches against Torah as modern translations suggest.

18 Rav Shaul here also shows that he expects the name of Elohim to be a singular, fixed "sacred" vessel. He is quoting (as it is written) from Ezekiel 36:20 and alluding to the next verse after it, viz: "But when they came to those nations, they caused My Set Apart Name to be profaned in that it was said of them: These are the people of YHWH, but they had to leave His land. Therefore, I am concerned for My Set Apart Name which the House of Israel have caused to be profaned among the nations." One way to profane the Name is by substituting the Name of YHWH for Pagan names that YHWH Himself has not ordained. This, of course, was done at the hand of many translators and theologians who imposed their own ideas into the text. Another common way of profaning The Name is to proclaim His Name, but not do the things He commands.

19 Fulfill means to properly understand and manifest that understanding of Torah through accurate practice. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #1: Fulfill, in Appendix.

20 If someone is circumcised because of their culture but not taught that it is a sign of the covenant with Awraham and to walk in that covenant, then his circumcision is irrelevant for purposes of the Malchut (Kingdom of) Elohim. A person must enter into Covenant with YHWH to claim any legitimacy (or credit) for his circumcision. See Circumcision in Appendix.

21 Yes, because the action of keeping the precepts of Torah, the obedience and the knowledge of YHWH must first precede the act of circumcision. Awraham was counted righteous before he was circumcised because he had Faith to observe all that YHWH commanded.

22 Those who are not as yet circumcised in the flesh but who fulfill and observe Torah, will judge those who are circumcised and know the scriptures well, but who transgress against Torah. Torah has equal weight; no one can observe some precepts and ignore others, yet hold themselves to be qualified enough to judge others.

23 Because a person could be physically circumcised and be a thief, liar, murderer, etc.

1. What then is the superiority of the Jew? Or what is the advantage of circumcision? 2. Much in every way. And first, because to them were entrusted the words of Elohim. 3. For if some of them have not believed, have they, by their not believing, made the faith of Elohim inefficient? 4. Far be it;<sup>24</sup> for Elohim is truthful, and every man false: as it is written: "That you might be upright, in your declarations; and be found pure when they judge you." 5. But if our iniquity establishes the righteousness of Elohim, what will we say? Is Elohim unrighteous when he inflicts wrath? (I speak as a man.) 6. May it never be! Otherwise, how will Elohim judge the world? 7. But if the truth of Elohim has been furthered by my falsehood to his glory, why am I then condemned as a sinner? 8. Or will we say as some have slanderously reported us to say: "We will do evil things, that good (results) may come?" The condemnation of such is reserved for judgment. 9. What then, have we the superiority when we have before decided as to both Jews and Gentiles,<sup>25</sup> that all of them are under sin? 10. As it is written: "There is none righteous; no, not one: 11. And none that understands, nor that seeks after Elohim. 12. They have all turned aside together and become reprobates. There is none that does good; no, not one. 13. Their throats are open tombs and their tongues treacherous; and the venom of the asp is under their lips. 14. Their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness; 15. And their feet are swift to shed blood. 16. Destruction and anguish are in their paths: 17. And the path of peacefulness they have not known: 18. And the Fear of Elohim is not before their eyes." 19. Now we know, that whatever Torah says, it says to them who are under Torah; that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world be guilty before Elohim. 20. And so it must be that, by the deeds of Torah, no flesh is justified before him: for, by Torah, sin is known.<sup>26</sup> 21. But now, the righteousness of Elohim without Torah, is manifested; and Torah<sup>27</sup> and the prophets testify of it. 22. Even the righteousness of Elohim, which is by faith in Y'shua the Mashiyach for every one and on every one that believes in him: for there is no distinction; 23. For they have all sinned, and failed of the glory of Elohim. 24. And they are granted the status of being righteous by grace and by the redemption which is in Y'shua the Mashiyach 25. Whom Elohim has ordained in advance an atonement by faith in his blood, because of our previous sins. 26. In the space which Elohim in his long suffering gave to us for the manifestation of his righteousness at the present time, that he might be righteous, and might with righteousness make him righteous who is in the faith of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 27. Where then is glorying? It is completely unmade. By what Torah? By that of works? No! But by the Torah of faith. 28. We therefore conclude, that it is by faith a man is being made righteous, and not by the works<sup>28</sup> of Torah. 29. For, is he the Elohim of the Jews only and not of the Gentiles? No, but of the Gentiles also. Because there is one Elohim who makes righteous the circumcision by faith, and the uncircumcision by 30. the same faith. 31. Do we then nullify Torah by faith? May it never be! On the contrary, we establish Torah.

24 Far be it, or, as it appears two lines later, May it never be! = khas, is the strongest negative that exists in Aramaic. It is close to the idea of "Elohim forbid!"

25 See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #14: Israel and the Church in Appendix.

26 Torah sets YHWH's boundaries as to what is good or evil behavior; therefore, this cannot and does not make Torah a bad thing, but a very good thing! Rav Shaul returns to this precise point again in the seventh chapter.

27 Y'shua qualified as Mashiyach because he fulfilled all Torah and Prophetic requirements, and he became Torah. Torah is written upon the heart by the Ruach haKodesh; the Spirit of Mashiyach is Torah which is the Spirit of Mashiyach, or the Manifestation (Word) of YHWH which became flesh and dwelt among us. Therefore, if we live "in" Y'shua we also become Torah. It is evil to posture that Rav Shaul brought Torah down, when in fact Y'shua and Paul restored and elevated Torah to be the foundation of a spiritual dialogue with Heaven.

28 The terms "works of Torah" and "under Torah" predate Paul by hundreds of years. These terms were discovered in the Dead Sea Scrolls (A Sectarian Manifesto 4QMMT:4Q394-399); while originally referring to the ultra religious halakha of the Essenes, the same principles apply to the Pharisees' halakha. These two phrases are also mentioned in Romans 6:14, 15; 9:32; 1 Corinthians 9:20; 21; Galatians 2:16; 3:2, 5, 10, 23; 4:4, 5, 21; 5:18. "Under Torah" refers to the orthodox/traditional interpretation and observance of Torah. Religious halakha is clearly NOT what Y'shua or Paul followed in their observance of Torah. The Renewed Covenant promise in Jeremiah 31:33 is to write the Torah of YHWH upon the hearts of His people, not the "Torah of men." The idiomatic expression "works of Torah" provides insight to those of a "traditional" Jewish upbringing. Paul references Jews at the beginning of this chapter; in verse 19 he states "Now we know" referring to those who understand Torah and halakha.

1. What then will we say concerning Awraham the patriarch, that by the flesh he obtained? 2. But if Awraham was being made righteous by works, he had good reason for his pride; but not before Elohim. 3. For what says the Scripture? That Awraham believed Elohim, and it was credited to him for righteousness. 4. But to him that works, the reward is not reckoned as of grace but as a debt to him. 5. By contrast, to him who does not work, but only believes in him that justifies sinners, his faith is credited to him for righteousness. 6. As Dawid also speaks of the blessedness of the man to whom Elohim proclaimed as righteous without works, 7. saying: "Blessed are they whose sin is forgiven and whose sins are covered"<sup>29</sup> up: 8. And, Blessed is the man to whom Elohim will not account his sin." 9. This blessedness, therefore, is it on the circumcision or on the uncircumcision? For we say that Awraham's faith was credited to him for righteousness. 10. How then was it credited to him? In circumcision or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.<sup>30</sup> 11. For he received circumcision as the sign and the seal of the righteousness of his faith while in uncircumcision: that he might become the father of all them of the uncircumcision who believe; and that it might be reckoned to them also for righteousness: 12. And the father of the circumcision; not to them only who are of the circumcision, but to them also who fulfill the steps of the faith of our father Awraham in (his) uncircumcision.<sup>31</sup> 13. For the promise to Awraham and to his seed, that he should become the heir of the world, was not by Torah, but by the righteousness of his faith. 14. For if they who are of Torah were heirs, faith would be made void, and the promise of no force. 15. For Torah is a worker of wrath; because where no instruction is, there is no transgression of Torah.<sup>32</sup> 16. Wherefore, it is by the faith which is by grace, that we are being made righteous: so that the promise may be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of Torah, but also to that which is of the faith of Awraham who is the father of us all:<sup>33</sup> 17. As it is written: "I have constituted you a father to a multitude of nations;" (namely) before Elohim, in whom you have believed; who quickens the dead and calls those things which are not, as if they were. 18. And without hope, he confided in the hope of becoming the father of a multitude of nations; (as it is written: "So will your seed be.") 19. And he was not sickly in his faith while contemplating his aged body (for he was a hundred years old) and (as well) the dormancy of Sarah's womb. 20. And he did not hesitate at the promise of Elohim as one without faith; but he was strong in faith and gave glory to Elohim; 21. And felt assured, that what Elohim had promised to him, he was able to fulfill. 22. And therefore it was credited to him for righteousness. 23. And not for his sake alone was it written that his faith was credited for righteousness; 24. But for our sakes also; because it is to be credited also to us, who believe in him who raised our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach from the dead; 25. Who was delivered up on account of our sins and arose, that he might make us righteous.

29 Quoting Psalm 32:1 the Aramaic kasiyo (covered) here is the cognate kacah in Hebrew, referring to the work of atonement and redemption.

30 Awraham confirmed his understanding and righteousness-credit by obeying YHWH and getting physically circumcised. This is evident in the very next line, that while righteousness was credited to him in uncircumcision, he "received circumcision as the sign and seal of the righteousness of his faith."

31 Rav Shaul is teaching that Awraham's physical circumcision came after he believed, after he had faith, after his heart was circumcised, in opposition to a contemporary false teaching that circumcision should come first before belief or faith. At no time does Rav Shaul ever discount physical circumcision; he simply rejects false religious traditions that turned circumcision into a device to control new converts. This principle also applies to those who would hurriedly baptize new converts in an effort to show strong numbers, or practicing "forced conversions."

32 Like the Hebrew word "Torah", the Aramaic namusa can refer to the entire corpus of work or to an individual instruction for a person or group ("torah" with a small "t"). This verse literally reads, "where there is no Torah provision against an action, there is no transgression." The KJV reads "Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression." Mainstream Christianity translates this to mean that Torah is done away with, but Rav Shaul is teaching the very opposite. Wherever Torah is NOT being taught, people will do what is right in their own eyes, thus bringing the wrath of YHWH upon themselves.

33 Having Awraham as a father brings the responsibility of being honorable children, worthy of his legacy! Contrary to Christian theology; faith, while credited to Awraham as righteousness, was not the only component of his total righteousness.

It is what Avraham did with his faith that brings him near to YHWH. As YHWH Himself declares: "I swore to your father Avraham. I will make your descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky and will give them all these lands, and through your offspring all nations on earth will be blessed, because Avraham obeyed Me and kept My requirements, My commands, My decrees and My laws" (Genesis 26:4-5).

1. Therefore, because we are being made righteous by faith, we will have peace with Elohim through our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 2. By whom we are brought by faith into this grace, in which we stand and rejoice in the hope of the glory of Elohim. 3. And not only so, but we also rejoice in afflictions because we know that affliction perfects in us patience; 4. and patience, experience; and experience, hope: 5. And hope makes us not ashamed because the love of Elohim is diffused in our hearts by the Ruach haKodesh who is given to us. 6. And if at this time, on account of our weakness, Mashiyach died for the sinners: 7. For almost never would someone die for a wicked man,<sup>34</sup> but for an upright man some might die. 8. Elohim has here manifested his love towards us. Because, if when we were sinners, Mashiyach died for us, 9. How much more will we now be made righteous by his blood and be rescued from wrath by him? 10. For if, when we were enemies, Elohim was reconciled with us by the death of his Son, how much more will we, in his reconciliation, live by his life? 11. And not only so, but we also rejoice in Elohim by means of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach through whom we have now received the reconciliation.<sup>35</sup> 12. As by means of one man, sin entered into the world; and, by means of sin, death; and so death passed upon all the sons of men inasmuch as they all have sinned:<sup>36</sup> 13. For until Torah, sin, although it was in the world, was not accounted sin because there was no Torah. 14. Your death reigned from Adam until Moshe, even over those who had not sinned after the likeness of the transgression of the command by Adam who was the type of him that was to come. 15. But not, as the fault, so also the free gift. For if, on account of the fault of one many died, how much more will the grace of Elohim and his free gift, on account of one man, Y'shua the Mashiyach, abound to many? 16. And not, as the offense of one, so also the free gift. For the judgment, which was of one (offense), was to condemnation; but the free gift was, of many sins, to righteousness. 17. For if, on account of the offense of one, death reigned; still more, they who receive the abundance of the grace and the free gift and the righteousness, will reign in life by means of one: Y'shua the Mashiyach. 18. Therefore, as on account of the offense of one, condemnation was to all men; so on account of the righteousness of one, will the victory to life be to all men. 19. For as, on account of the disobedience of one man many became sinners, so also, on account of the obedience of one, many become righteous. 20. And the entrance given to Torah was that sin might increase: and where sin increased, there grace abounded. 21. So that, as sin had reigned in death, so grace might reign in righteousness to life eternal, by means of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach.

34 The fact that Mashiyach died for sinners, speaks to his endless compassion for all human life. George Lamsa, in his book, "New Testament Commentary" (A.J. Holman Company, Philadelphia, 1945), page 192 wrote: "Aramaic word rashiaa, which means 'wicked,' has been confused with the Aramaic word zadika 'righteous'. The Eastern text more correctly reads, 'Hardly would any man die for the sake of the wicked, but for the sake of the good one might be willing to die.' The Aramaic here is very clear that 'wicked' is the intended reading, and such is also confirmed in the translations of James Murdock and J.W. Etheridge.

35 The key Hebrew word for "reconciliation" is kaphar which is the root word for kippur (atonement), in Romans 3:25 Paul states, "Whom Elohim has ordained in advance an atonement by faith in his blood, because of our previous sins," Paul then explains how the "faith" element works through grace to establish reconciliation for the Believer. Following through to Romans 6 Paul teaches that if we continue in sin, after receiving grace, then we have violated grace by not having "died to sin" (stopped sinning) and there remains no reconciliation for those who have not received the grace that is required to be emancipated (freed) from sin. 1 Yochanan 2:2-3 reads, "For he is himself the atonement for our sins; and not for ours only but also for all the world. And by this we will be sensible that we know him, if we keep his Commandments." Reconciliation (or atonement) is a daily need, not something that happens once in a Believer's life. Each and every day we come before the throne of grace to obtain mercy and grace for our prayers, and our response to His grace is to do the things that are pleasing to our Father YHWH. Titus 2:14 reads, "who gave himself for us that he might recover us from all iniquity and purify for himself a new people who are zealous in good works." From Genesis to Revelation we read and learn of the supreme cost that was paid on our behalf by our Father YHWH, "to finish the transgression, and to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness," (Dan 9:24). YHWH demonstrated extravagant love toward all human life through His Son Y'shua, He has shown us in Mashiyach's life, sufferings and resurrection, that we also are called to Covenant obedience, gratitude and worship according to the atonement provision of Mashiyach. Please see footnote James 5:20.

36 The theology of "total depravity" uses this verse to whip up the condemnation. John Calvin, of Catholic background, used this verse to laden souls with condemnation and guilt in order to blackmail them into becoming his followers. A strategy of the religious is to create copious amounts of guilt, then sell religious solutions and pardons. Mashiach brought the knowledge of YHWH's Love, Compassion, Mercy and Forgiveness to mankind; he didn't minister condemnation, but he teaches the nature of the carnal man versus the spiritual man. False religion keeps people in perpetual guilt, in order to sell their theological solutions. YHWH's Torah provides instruction in righteousness; when a person realizes that sin brings death they want to become free of sin. If and when YHWH's people "miss the mark" it's because they have not been properly trained up. Not everyone is born into the world as evil, nasty and wicked people; perhaps "church founders" were simply projecting their own natures upon others.

1. What will we then say? Will we continue in sin that grace may abound? 2. May it never be! For if we are persons that have died to sin, how can we again live in it? 3. Or do you not know that we who are immersed into Y'shua the Mashiyach are immersed into his death? 4. For we are buried with him in immersion to death; that as Y'shua the Mashiyach arose from the dead into the glory of his Father, so also we, to walk in a new life. 5. For if we have been planted together with him into the likeness of his death, so will we be also into his resurrection. 6. For we know that our old man is put on the execution stake with him; that the body of sin might be abolished and we be no more servants to sin: 7. For he that is dead (to it), is emancipated from sin. 8. If then we are dead with Mashiyach, let us believe that we will live with the same Mashiyach. 9. For we know that Mashiyach rose from the dead, and no more dies; death has no dominion over him. 10. For in dying, he died for sin once; and in living, he lives to Elohim. 11. So also do you account yourselves as being dead to sin and alive to Elohim through our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 12. Therefore do not allow sin to rule in your dead body so that you obey its lusts. 13. And also give not up your members as instruments of evil to sin, but give up yourselves to Elohim as those who have been resuscitated from the dead; and let your members be<sup>37</sup> instruments for the righteousness of Elohim. 14. And sin will not have dominion over you; for you are not under Torah<sup>38</sup> but under grace. 15. What then? Will we sin, because we are not under Torah but under grace? May it never be! 16. Know you not, that to whomsoever you give up yourselves to serve in bondage, his servants you are, whom you serve; whether it be to sin, or whether it be to righteousness, that you give ear? 17. But thanks be to Elohim, that you were (once) the servants of sin but have (now) from the heart obeyed that form of doctrine to which you are devoted. 18. And when you were emancipated from sin, you became servants to righteousness. 19. I speak as among men because of the infirmity of your flesh. As you (once) gave up your members to the enslavement of defilement and sin, so also now give you up your members to the servitude of righteousness and sanctity. 20. For when you were the slaves of sin, you were emancipated from righteousness.<sup>39</sup> 21. And what harvest had you then in that of which you are now ashamed? For the result of this is death. 22. And now, as you have been emancipated from sin and have become servants to Elohim, your fruits are Set Apart; and the result thereof is life everlasting. 23. For the wages of sin is death;<sup>40</sup> but the free gift of Elohim is life eternal, through our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach.

37 Khabouris has an isolated beyt between "be" and "righteousness."

38 Rav Shaul is juxtaposing the observance of former religious halakha with the grace that is available in Mashiyach, see 3:19.

39 The Christian "Doctrine of Justification" has provided the greatest religious "emancipation from righteousness" the world will ever know. Ironically, the first mention in the KJV of "justify" is Job saying, "Should not the multitude of words be answered? And should a man full of talk be justified?" (Job 11:2). Compare this with the NJB that reads, "Is babbling to go without an answer? Is wordiness a proof of uprightness?" And the JPS reads, "Should not the multitude of words be answered? And should a man full of talk be accounted right?" Very stark contrasts between these translations, but, clear evidence of the Greek philosophical mind regarding "justification." The irony is that Job is referring to babble, big talk, the KJV continues with, "Should thy lies make men hold their peace? and when thou mockest, shall no man make thee ashamed? For thou hast said, My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes. But oh that God would speak, and open his lips against thee; And that he would shew thee the secrets of wisdom, that they are double to that which is! Know therefore that God exacteth of thee less than thine iniquity deserveth." (Job 11:3-6 KJV). This is truly amazing, the Law of First (Greek) Mention posits "justify" along with lies, mocking, and shame, very much what the nature of the Christian "Doctrine of Justification" has produced. Notice that the Hebrew Jewish translation says, "should a man full of talk be accounted right?" The underlying word for "justify" and "accounted right" is the Hebrew "tsadaq," which has nothing to do with the English meaning of the word "justify." "Tsadaq" has to do with "being righteous." The Hebrew tsadaq is first found in Genesis, "And Judah acknowledged them, and said, she has been more righteous than I" (Gen 38:26). Notice that the context is within confession and repentance, certainly not in the context of "justification" for his wrongdoing. The first tsaddiq (righteous man) mentioned in Scripture is Noah, "And YHWH said to Noah, Come, and all your house into the ark; for I have seen you righteous before me in this generation" (Genesis 7:1). The Doctrine of Justification is preached every Sunday morning through action, attitudes and theologies that "make void the Torah." Christians are told that they cannot be righteous; they are "nothing but filthy sinners who stand before the cross of Jesus, Jesus, Jesus." No. The truth is that "the cross" MUST empower the followers of Mashiyach to overcome the sinful nature and the flesh. Otherwise “the cross” has been emptied of all power and is nothing more than a religious icon that soothes those who continue living in sin. Please see these four Appendix articles 1) Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #4: Justified by Torah. 2) Legalism. 3) Paul the Theologian. 4) They Repented Not. Please also see footnote on Galatians 5:4. 40 “The wages of sin is death” but haSatan (the Adversary) offers alternative solutions with “the free gift of religion.” Within Judaism and Christianity are traditional religious elements that provide comfort for the sinner. Rabbinical Judaism and Christianity make void YHWH’s Torah through religious traditions, oftentimes money is required by religious institutions to make atonement or receive pardon from sin. Both religions have traditions that are in conflict with YHWH’s Commandments, and atonement. When obedience to the Word of YHWH is in conflict with religious traditions, followers are often warned against being obedient to YHWH and Torah.

1. Or do you not know, my Brothers (for I am speaking to them that know Torah) that Torah has dominion over a man as long as he is alive? 2. Just as a woman, by Torah, is bound to her husband as long as he is alive: but if her husband should die, she is freed from the Torah of her husband. 3. And if, while her husband is alive, she should adhere to another man, she would become an adulteress: but if her husband should die, she is freed from Torah; and would not be an adulteress though joined to another man.<sup>41</sup> 4. And now, my brothers, you also have become dead to Torah<sup>42</sup> by the body of Mashiyach; that you might be joined to another, (even) to him who arose from the dead, and might yield fruits to Elohim. 5. For while we were in the flesh, the emotions of sin which are (listed) by Torah, were active in our members that we should bear fruits to death. 6. But now we are absolved from Torah and are dead to that which held us in its grasp: that we might from now on serve in the newness of the spirit and not in the oldness of the letter.<sup>43</sup> 7. What will we say then? Is Torah sin? May it never be! For I had not learned sin except by means of Torah: for I had not known lust, had not Torah said, “You will not covet”: 8. And by this Commandment sin found occasion and perfected in me all lust: for without Torah, sin was dead. 9. And I, without Torah, was alive formerly; but when the Commandment came, sin became alive, and I died; 10. And the Commandment of life was found by me (to be) to death. 11. For sin, by the occasion which it found by means of the Commandment, seduced me and thereby killed me. 12. As a result, Torah is Set Apart; and the Commandment is Set Apart, and righteous, and good. 13. Did that which is good, therefore, become death to me? May it never be! But sin, that it might be seen to be sin, perfected death in me by means of that good (Torah); that sin might the more be condemned by means of the Commandment. 14. For we know, that Torah is of the Spirit;<sup>44</sup> but I am carnal, and sold to sin. 15. For what I am doing, I do not know: and what I would, I do not perform; but what I hate, that I do. 16. And if I do what I would not, I testify of Torah, that it is right. 17. And then, it is no more I who do that thing, but sin which dwells in me. 18. For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh) good dwells not: because, to approve the good is easy for me; but to do it, I am unable. 19. For I do not perform the good which I would perform, but the bad which I would not perform, that I do perform. 20. And if I do what I would not, it is not I that do it, but sin which dwells in me. 21. I find therefore a Torah coinciding with my conscience which agrees to my doing good, whereas evil is near to me. 22. For I rejoice in the Torah of Elohim, in the inner man. 23. But I see another instruction<sup>45</sup> in my members, which wars against the instruction of my conscience and makes me a captive to the instruction of sin which exists in my members. 24. O, a miserable man, am I! Who will rescue me from this body of death? 25. I thank Elohim by means of our Master Y’shua the Mashiyach (I will be rescued.) Now, therefore, in my conscience, I am a servant of the Torah of Elohim; but in my flesh, I am a servant of the instruction of sin.<sup>46</sup>

41 In these three verses “Torah” is intended as “Instruction” as in the instruction pertaining to marriage alone, not the whole body of the Covenant. When a marriage partner dies, the surviving spouse is no longer contractually bound to the marriage covenant, but this does not mean that the rules of marriage no longer apply to the survivor, or to the rest of us.

42 “Dead to Torah” refers to being dead to the penalty for sin, which is death, followed by destruction. From the beginning (Gen. 3:15) YHWH established a defense for His people against haSatan (the adversary). To be “in” Mashiyach means to live a life pleasing to YHWH and NOT break Torah (see also Romans 8:1-10). Those who think that they can repeatedly break Torah without consequence, because of Mashiyach died for them, are very deceived. To “live in the spirit” means that the Spirit of Mashiyach is training up his followers so they can put away the carnal desires of the weak flesh, and that they are overcomers of the flesh. See Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #7: Died to the Torah in Appendix.

43 This is because faith in Mashiyach and Torah observance brings eternal life, but the consequence of sin is death. It does not mean Torah is “released” because, with or without Mashiyach, the penalty for willful sin still remains. If the penalty for sin remains, then Torah also remains. The “oldness of the letter” speaks of old religious ways which do not recognize Mashiyach as bringing the Living Word of YHWH to mankind. Y’shua brought the correct understanding of Torah which is to be written upon the heart, so we don’t continue in sin. See also 6:12. Some might say they have Faith and claim to be “Believers,” but if they continue in sin their faith/belief is irrelevant.

44 Paul says “Torah is of the Spirit”; therefore, while those without Torah might be very religious, they are not of the “Spirit” of YHWH according to Paul and Mashiyach! Mashiyach is the goal and we are to be like him, which means that when our spirits are awakened to Mashiyach we will proceed to welcome Torah to be written upon our hearts (see Jeremiah 31:33).

45 Namusa could refer to the Tanakh, particular instruction within Tanakh, or an earthly instruction from the heart of man that may or may not be righteous, as it does here. The key context here is “in my members”; i.e., the flesh.

46 Two instructions; one from YHWH, the other from flesh, are in direct opposition to one another.

1. There is therefore no condemnation to them who in Y'shua the Mashiyach walk not after the flesh. 2. For the Torah of the Spirit of Life, which is in Y'shua the Mashiyach, has emancipated you from the instruction of sin and death.<sup>47</sup> 3. Therefore, as Torah was impotent through the weakness of the flesh, Elohim sent his Son in the likeness of sinful flesh on account of sin; that He might, in his flesh, condemn sin; 4. So that the righteousness of Torah might be fulfilled<sup>48</sup> in us, since it is not in the flesh that we walk, but in the Spirit. 5. For they who are in the flesh recall to mind the things of the flesh: and they who are of the Spirit do recall to the mind the things of the Spirit. 6. For minding the things of the flesh is death; but minding the things of the Spirit is life and peace. 7. Because minding the things of the flesh is enmity towards Elohim: for it does not subject itself to the Torah of Elohim, because it is not possible.<sup>49</sup> 8. And they who are in the flesh cannot please Elohim. 9. You, however, are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit; if the Spirit of Elohim truly dwells in you. And if in anyone there is not the Spirit of Mashiyach, he is none of his. 10. But if Mashiyach is in you, the body is dead in regard to sin; and the Spirit is alive in regard to righteousness. 11. And if the Spirit of Him who raised our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach from the dead dwells in you, he who raised our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach from the dead will also revive your dead bodies because of his Spirit that dwells in you.<sup>50</sup> 12. Now we are debtors, my Brothers, not to the flesh, that we should walk according to the flesh: 13. For if you live according to the flesh, you are going to die. But if, by the Spirit, you subdue the inclinations of your body, you will live. 14. For they who are led by the Spirit of Elohim, they are the sons of Elohim. 15. For you have not received the spirit of bondage, again to fear; but you have received the Spirit of adoption, by which we cry, Abba, our Father. 16. And this Spirit testifies to our spirit that we are the sons of Elohim. 17. And if sons, then heirs; heirs of Elohim, and joint heirs of the inheritance of Y'shua the Mashiyach: so that, if we suffer with him, we will also be glorified with him. 18. For I consider well that the sufferings of the present are not comparable with the glory which is to be perfected in us. 19. For the whole creation is hoping and waiting for the development of the sons of Elohim. 20. For the creation was subjected to vanity, not by its own choice, but because of him who subjected it. 21. In the hope that also the creation itself would be emancipated from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the sons of Elohim. 22. For we know, that all the creatures are groaning and labors in pain to this day. 23. And not only they, but we also in whom are the first fruits of the Spirit, we groan within ourselves and look anxiously for the adoption of sons, the redemption of our bodies. 24. Therefore we live in hope. Although hope that is seen is not hope; for if we saw it, how should we hope for it? 25. But if we hope for that which is not seen, we are in patient waiting. 26. So also the Spirit aids our weakness. For we are not cognizant of what to pray for in a proper manner; but the Spirit prays for us with groans beyond description.

47 When we receive the finished work of Messiah's sufferings and surrender to him as King of Kings then the Torah of the Spirit of Life is written upon our hearts. The Spirit of Life living within us emancipates (sets us free) from the old carnal nature that wants to break YHWH's Torah and continue sinning. Y'shua is the door to the new spiritual man. Regrettably, false religion uses the cross to emancipate Torah from being written upon the heart. Many theologians teach that Torah itself was nailed to the cross, when in fact the cross (or torture stake) is the Grace that was given to spiritually empower every Believer to open our hearts to Torah.

48 The righteousness of Torah is fulfilled when the spiritual man delights in YHWH's Torah, and the Perfection of the Word of YHWH lives inside of us according to Mashiyach in us. When we see that our spiritual man desires obedience to Torah, far more than our old carnal nature wants us to sin, then the righteousness of Torah is being fulfilled and living inside of us.

49 The flesh is enmity towards Elohim: for it does not subject itself to the Torah of Elohim. What the flesh does is choose a religion or a religious denomination that it is comfortable with. The flesh rises up in anger and wrath and threats and accusation when the Torah of Elohim is presented. It is not possible for the flesh to subject itself to the Righteous Instructions of Elohim. Both Judaism and Christianity have all manner of religious traditions that negate Torah because religion cannot spiritually empower anyone. The "letter of the law" or a "Statement of Faith" or a doctrinal creed cannot bring spiritual empowerment to either receive the Ruach haKodesh or write Torah upon the heart. Mashiyach says, "Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." Spiritual empowerment comes from Mashiyach when we repent of breaking Torah.

50 The Spirit of Mashiyach is the Ruach haKodesh which brings life; there are no substitutes which provide rite of passage into the Olam Haba (world to come). The importance of living according to Mashiyach is paramount for Salvation, which is why his very name means "YHWH's Salvation." Knowing that his Spirit must dwell inside of us we can then boldly welcome His Word; Torah written upon the heart, and all substitute false religious ideas and traditions of men are rejected.

27. And the searcher of hearts, he knows what is the mind of the Spirit; because he prays for the Set Apart believers, agreeably to the will of Elohim. 28. And we know that he aids him in all things, for good, who love Elohim; them whom he called from before our beginnings according to his purpose. 29. And he knew them previously; and he sealed them with the likeness of the image of his Son; that He might be the first-born of many brothers. 30. And those whom he previously sealed, them he called: and those whom he called, them he made righteous: and those whom he made righteous, them he glorified. 31. What then will we say of these things? If Elohim (is) for us; who (is) against us? 32. And, if he spared not his Son but gave him up for us all, how will he not give us all things, “with him?” 33. Who will set himself against the chosen of Elohim? It is Elohim who justifies. 34. Who is it that condemns? Mashiyach died and arose and is on the right hand of Elohim, and makes intercession for us. 35. What will sever me from the love of Mashiyach? Will affliction or distress or persecution or famine or nakedness or peril or the sword? 36. As it is written: “For your sake, we die daily: and we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.” 37. But in all these things we are victorious by means of him who loved us. 38. For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor Messengers nor principalities, nor powers nor things present nor things to come, 39. Nor height nor depth, nor any other creature will be able to sever me from the love of Elohim which is in our Master Y’shua the Mashiyach.

1. I say the truth in Mashiyach, and do not report falsely; and my conscience bears me witness in the Ruach haKodesh; 2. That I have great sorrow, and the sadness of my heart is without pause. 3. For I have prayed that I myself might be accursed from Mashiyach for my brothers and my kinsmen in the flesh: 4. Who are sons of Israel to whom belonged the adoption of sons, and the glory, and the covenants, and Torah, and the ministration,<sup>51</sup> and the promises, and the fathers; 5. And from among whom Mashiyach appeared in the flesh, who is Elohim over all; to whom be praises and benediction, forever and ever; Amen. 6. Not, however, that the Word of Elohim has actually failed. For all are not Israel who are of Israel.<sup>52</sup> 7. Neither are they all sons because they are of the seed of Awraham: for it was said, In Yitz’chak will your seed be called. 8. That is, it is not the children of the flesh who are the children of Elohim; but the children of the promise are accounted for the seed. 9. For the Word of Promise was this: “At that time will I come, and Sarah will have a son.” 10. Nor this only; but Rebecca also, when she had lived with one (man), our father Yitz’chak, 11. Before her children were born or had done good or evil, the choice of Elohim was proclaimed in advance; that it might stand, not through works, but through him who called the choice up. 12. For it was said: “The elder will be servant to the younger.” 13. As it is written: “Ya’akov have I loved, and Esau have I hated.” 14. What will we say then? Is there iniquity with Elohim? May it never be!

51 Ministration or service can be expressed several ways in Hebrew, shareth, avodah or yad are common Scriptural terms. The Jewish world understands the ministration or service of the heart to be prayer, the foundation of all our service to YHWH. In verse 3 Paul is pouring out his life for his Jewish people through prayer and in offering his whole being in service to YHWH on their behalf. In verse 4, Paul references the glory, covenants, Torah, ministration, promises, and fathers of the faith, he is yoking the beauty and spirituality of the Faith with his people who physically brought Mashiyach into the world. Please see footnote Romans 12:1

52 Not all Israelites after the flesh (physical birth) are the Israel of Elohim; see Galatians 6:16. The next two verses affirm this; it is not the children of the flesh who are the children of Elohim, but the children of the promise are accounted for the seed. Therefore, regardless if a person is born Jewish, Israelite or of the Nations (Gentile), the seed of promise are those who enter into the Malchut (Kingdom) of Elohim in Y’shua and permit Torah to be written upon their hearts.

15. Behold, to Moshe also he said: “I will have pity on whom I will have pity; and I will be merciful to whom I will be merciful.” 16. Therefore, it is not of him who is willing, nor of him who runs, but of the merciful Elohim. 17. For in the Scripture, he said to Pharaoh: “For this very thing have I raised you up; that I might show my power in you, and that my name might be proclaimed in all the earth.” 18. And so, he has pity upon whom he pleases; and for whom he pleases, he hardens.<sup>53</sup> 19. But, perhaps you will say: “Of what (then) does he complain? For, who has resisted his will?” 20. You, thus! Who are you? O man, that you reply against Elohim! Will the potter’s vessel say to the craftsman of it, “Why have you formed me so?” 21. Has not the potter dominion over his clay out of the same mass to make vessels, one for honor, and another for dishonor? 22. And if Elohim, being inclined to exhibit his wrath and to make known his power, in greatness of patience, brought wrath upon the vessels of wrath which were complete for destruction; 23. And made his mercy flow forth upon the vessels of mercy, which were prepared by Elohim for glory; 24. Namely, upon us who are called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles: 25. As also he said in Hosea: “I will call them my people who were not my people; and will pity whom I have not pitied: 26. For it will be that in the place where they were called: ‘Not my people,’ there will they be called: The children of the living Elohim.” 27. And Yesha’yahu proclaimed concerning the children of Israel: “Though the number of the children of Israel should be as the sand on the sea, a remnant of them will live. 28. He has finished and cut short the matter: and Master YHWH will do it on the earth.” 29. And according to what Yesha’yahu had before said: “If Master YHWH of Hosts<sup>54</sup> had not favored us with a remnant, we had been as Sodom and had been like Amorrha.” 30. What will we say then? That the Gentiles who ran not after righteousness, have found righteousness, even the righteousness which is by faith: 31. But Israel who ran after the Torah of righteousness, has not found the Torah of righteousness. 32. And why? Because they went after it, not by faith, but by the works of Torah.<sup>55</sup> For they stumbled at that stumbling-stone: 33. As it is written, “Behold, I lay in Tsiyon a stumbling-stone and a stone of offense: and he who believes in him, will not be ashamed.”

Chapter 10

1. My Brothers, The desire of my heart, and my intercession with Elohim for them is that they might have life. 2. For I bear them witness that there is in them a zeal for Elohim; but it is not according to knowledge. 3. For they do not know the righteousness of Elohim, but seek to establish their own righteousness: and therefore they have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of Elohim. 4. For Mashiyach is the goal<sup>56</sup> of Torah for righteousness to everyone that believes in him. 5. For Moshe describes the righteousness which is by Torah, this way: Whoever will do these things will live by them. 6. But the righteousness which is by faith, says thus: “You will not say in your heart, ‘Who ascends to heaven and brings Mashiyach down?’ 7. Or, ‘Who descends to the abyss of Sheol and brings up Mashiyach from the house of the dead?’”<sup>57</sup>

53 This passage was twisted to become one of the proof texts of the Christian “unconditional election” theology. The Hebrew idiom refers to YHWH giving someone the permission to “harden” their heart, rather than YHWH actively hardening their hearts! Christianity judges YHWH according to its own values, without Torah. Marcion judged YHWH as being unfair and cruel; he spoke evil of “the Old Testament” and this tradition is perpetuated among Christianity today. See James 4:6 and Founders of the all Gentile Church in Appendix.

54 Literally, MarYah Tzavaoth.

55 When the Israelites followed Moshe and were obedient to YHWH by faith, they won their battles, but when they rebelled they lost and suffered great casualties. In our day when Jews seek YHWH by faith, they find Mashiyach, but they stumble when they focus not on faith but “works of Torah” according to religious authorities and traditions. Mashiyach is the greatest “stumbling stone” to man’s religions – but let’s not pick on Jews only, because this applies equally to every other soul who regards their own religious traditions as more authoritative than YHWH and His Mashiyach.

8. But what says it? “The thing is near to your mouth and to your heart”:<sup>58</sup> that is, the Word of Faith which we declare. 9. And if you will confess<sup>59</sup> with your mouth our Master Y’shua, and will believe with your heart that Elohim has raised him from the dead, you will live. 10. For the heart that believes in him is made righteous; and the mouth that confess him is restored to life. 11. For the Scripture says: “Everyone that believes in him will not be ashamed.” 12. And in this, it discriminates neither Jews nor Gentiles. For there is one, Master YHWH,<sup>60</sup> over them all, who is abundantly generous towards every one that calls on him. 13. For everyone that will call on the name of Master YHWH,<sup>61</sup> will have life. 14. How then will they call on him, in whom they have not believed? Or, how will they believe in him, of whom they have not heard? Or, how will they hear, without a preacher? 15. Or, how will they preach if they are not sent forth? As it is written: “How beautiful are the feet of the heralds of peace<sup>62</sup> and of the heralds of good things?” 16. But all of them have not obeyed the proclamation of the Good News. For, Yesha’yahu said: “My Master,<sup>63</sup> who has believed our report?” 17. Therefore, faith is from the hearing in the ear; and the hearing in the ear<sup>64</sup> is from the Word of Elohim. 18. But I say: “Have they not heard? And, lo, their proclamation has gone out into all the earth; and their words to the ends of the world.” 19. But I say: “Did not Israel know?” First, Moshe said thus: “I will awaken your emulation by a people which is not a people; and by a disobedient people I will provoke you.” 20. And Yesha’yahu was bold, and said: “I was seen by those who did not seek me out; and I was found by those who did not ask after me.” 21. But to Israel, he said: “All the day have I stretched out my hands to a contentious and disobedient people.”

Chapter 11

1. But I say: “Has Elohim cast off His people?” May it never be! For I also am of Israel, of the seed of Awraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. 2. Elohim has not cast off those His people whom He before knew. Do you not know what, in the Scripture of Elohim, he said to Eliyah? When he had complained to Elohim against Israel and said: 3. “My Master,<sup>65</sup> they have slain your prophets and have thrown down your altars; and I am left alone; and they seek my life.” 4. And it was said to him, by revelation: “Behold, I have reserved for myself seven thousand men who have not bowed their knees and have not worshipped Baal.” 5. So also at the present time a remnant is preserved by the election of grace.

58 Romans 10:6-8 is a wonderful Midrash on Deuteronomy 30:11-14 which reads: “For this Torah which I am laying down for you today is neither obscure for you nor beyond your reach. It is not in heaven, so that you need to wonder, “Who will go up to heaven for us and bring it down to us, so that we can hear and practice it?” Nor is it beyond the seas, so that you need to wonder, “Who will cross the seas for us and bring it back to us, so that we can hear and do it?” No, the word is very near to you, it is in your mouth and in your heart for you to put into practice.” A common traditional saying among rabbis is derived from this verse, haTorah lo baShamayim hi (the Torah is not in heaven) which is used as their justification to twist the written Torah into subjugation under their oral traditions. Instead Rav Shaul teaches, “who will ascend to heaven and bring Mashiyach down?” and “who will go down and raise Mashiyach from the dead?” Paul is elegantly expressing Y’shua as the Living Torah through the very power of Torah itself. He purposefully and literally interchanges Y’shua with Torah in this quote and on very good authority. Y’shua said, “I am the Living Bread who has descended from Heaven” Yochanan 6:51. 59 Khabouris has an isolated samekh here, between “confess” and “with your mouth.”

60 The first time in this Epistle where YHWH (MarYah) is used instead of Elohim/Eloah. This verse indicates the ONENESS of the Malchut Elohim. ONE YHWH, One Kingship and One People. This is a continuum; NOT a drastic change in Covenant, but a renewal of YHWH’s people unto Himself.

61 MarYah, as opposed to the Greek kurios, can only refer to YHWH, giving Aramaic a huge interpretive advantage. It is a critical fact, as is pointed out here, that Rav Shaul specifically tells believers to call on the name of YHWH, which is certainly not at all represented by the name “Jesus.” John 17:11 tells us that the name of Y’shua is of the name YHWH. Before Rav Shaul came to believe, Y’shua had already ascended to the Right Hand of YHWH (Revelation 19:13). Prayer was being offered unto YHWH in the name of Y’shua. Y’shua stated that his mission was to bring glory to His Father YHWH. Y’shua’s name (YHWH is salvation) is accomplishing the salvation of YHWH. It was also prophetic that the Gentiles would come to know the Name of YHWH, according to Jeremiah 16:19-21: “O YHWH, my strength, and my fortress, and my refuge in the day of affliction, the Gentiles shall come unto you from the ends of the earth and shall say, Surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things wherein there is no profit. Shall a man make gods unto himself, and they are no gods? Therefore, behold,

I will this once cause them to know, I will cause them to know mine hand and my might; and they shall know that my name is YHWH.” And, of course, this is to be done according to the Perfect work of Mashiach!

62 Isaiah 52:7; Nahum 1:15. The Hebrew b'sorah (good tidings) originates from the prime word basar; tidings or news. David says, “I have preached righteousness in the great congregation” (Psalm 40:9). The Good News is that YHWH and His Mashiach are righteous and Just, and all who put their Faith in YHWH are being called into righteousness to walk as Mashiach walked.

63 In Isaiah 53:1 Master YHWH (MarYah) is in conversation with the prophet, referenced by the words, “who has believed our report.” But Rav Shaul points out that the “arm of YHWH” is Y’shua who, while on Earth, is addressed in human terms, where Mari (my Master) is more appropriate. This does not mean that Y’shua is not called YHWH elsewhere but, rather, is a forceful way of identifying the source of this “arm” which relates directly to YHWH’s name and His chosen messenger. He is the only “messenger” in the Tanakh with the ability to forgive sin and to officiate in the Name of YHWH, as opposed to the title of “El” (Exodus 23:20-22).

64 See Hearing in the Ear in Appendix.

65 Rav Shaul is quoting 1 Kings 19:9-10; Hebrew “davar-YHWH”, the WORD of YHWH came to Elijah. Given the clear definition of the WORD of YHWH being within Y’shua in John 1:1, and the same WORD speaking through Elijah, “Mari” then is a very acceptable title for the WORD sent from YHWH which has spiritual “personification” in Mashiach. Eliyahu said this while fleeing to Mt. Sinai, Paul may have also visited there while in Arabia for much the same reasons, Paul rejected religious traditions but remained loyal to the Written Torah, even from the place it first was revealed. See Galatians 1:17; 4:25.

6. But if by grace, it is not by works: otherwise, grace is not grace. And if by works, it is not by grace: Otherwise, work is not work. 7. What then? Israel did not obtain that which it looked for: but the election obtained it; and the rest of them were blinded in their heart. 8. As it is written: "Elohim gave them a stupid spirit and eyes that do not see and ears that do not hear, to this very day." 9. And again, Dawid said: "Let their table become a snare before them; and let their reward be a stumbling block. 10. Let their eyes be darkened that they are blinded; and let their back, at all times,"<sup>66</sup> be bowed down." 11. But I say: "Have they so stumbled as to fall entirely?" May it never be! Rather, by their stumbling, life has come to the Gentiles for (awakening) their jealousy. 12. And if their stumbling was riches to the world, and their condemnation riches to the Gentiles; how much more is their perfection? 13. But (it is) to you Gentiles, I am speaking: as I am a Shaliach to the Gentiles, I honor my ministry; 14. If, perhaps, I may provoke emulation in the children of my flesh and may revive some of them. 15. For if the rejection of them was a reconciliation of the world, what will their conversion be but life from the dead? 16. For, if the first-fruits (are) Set Apart, then the rest of the dough (it came from is) also: and if the root is Set Apart, then also the branches.<sup>67</sup> 17. And if some of the branches were plucked off; and you, an olive from the desert, were in-grafted in their place and have become an heir of the root and fatness of the olive-tree; 18. Do not boast over the branches. For if you boast, you do not sustain the root, but the root sustains you. 19. And should you say "the branches were plucked off that I might be grafted into their place." 20. Very true.<sup>68</sup> They were plucked off because they disbelieved; and you stand by faith. But do not be uplifted in your mind, but fear.<sup>69</sup> 21. For if Elohim spared not the natural branches, perhaps he will not spare you.<sup>70</sup> 22. Behold now the goodness and the severity of Elohim: on them who fell, severity; but on you, goodness, if you continue in that goodness; and if not, you also will be plucked off. 23. And they, if they do not continue in their poverty of faith, even they will be grafted in; for Elohim is able to graft them in again. 24. For if you were plucked from the wild olive-tree which was natural to you, and were grafted, contrary to your nature, into a good olive-tree; how much more may they be grafted into their natural olive-tree? 25. (For I want you to know this) mystery, that blindness of heart has in some measure befallen Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles will come in: 26. And then will all<sup>71</sup> Israel live. As it is written: "A deliverer will come from Tsiyon and will turn away iniquity from Ya'akov. 27. And then will they have the covenant that proceed from me when I will have forgiven their sins." 28. Now, in the Good News, they are enemies for your sake; but in the election, they are beloved for the fathers' sake. 29. For Elohim is not changeable in His free gift and in His calling.<sup>72</sup>

<sup>67</sup> One of the consistent images in both Aramaic and Greek versions is the use of words for "branch" deriving, in part, from the Messianic understanding of Isaiah 11:1-2, compared with Matthew 2:23, or netzer (branch) morphing into the City of the Branch Netzeret (Nazareth) and onto the "Nazarene" disciples. These are the "branches" as called by Y'shua in John 15:1, 5. Even though the Aramaic word is not the same as netzer, this is most likely due to the fact that it is a rare word, appearing in the Tanakh only 4 times. By synonym, the point of the imagery is very clear. The new "branches" should not glory over the old, for YHWH is the vinedresser and Y'shua is the vine. See Netzer in Appendix.

<sup>71</sup> All Israel refers to those souls who make Teshuva (turn to YHWH) and welcome the Spirit of Mashiyach. Rav Shaul does not say or mean that every Jew or Israelite by race will enter into the Malchut Elohim (see Matt 22:2-14; 25:1-12).

<sup>72</sup> This verse is the main proof text for John Calvin's (1509-1564) "Once Saved Always Saved" (OSAS) doctrine. Translations from Greek say that "God's free gifts and his calling are irrevocable" therefore some theologians teach that once a person has received the "gift" of salvation there is nothing they can do to lose it. In verse 6 Paul teaches salvation is by grace not by works, so OSAS theologians also use that to teach that if a person can do nothing to receive salvation, then they can do nothing to lose it. This type of teaching is what Paul refers to as "deceptive spirits" and "doctrine of demons" (1 Tim 4:1), since "atonement" is foundational to both Old and New Testaments (Covenants). There is no precedent for any kind of salvation without entering into Covenant with YHWH and receiving atonement according to the obligations and requirements that YHWH (the Covenantor) requires of each covenantee. James writes, "My Brothers, if one of you stray from the path of truth, and any one convert him from his error; let him know that he who turns the sinner from the error of his way, will restore his soul from death and will cover the multitude of his sins." (James 5:19-20). Please see footnote on James 5:20.

30. For as you too were formerly disobedient to Elohim and have now obtained mercy because of their disobedience; 31. So also are they now disobedient to the mercy, which is upon you, that there may be mercy on them likewise. 32. For Elohim has shut up all men in disobedience, that upon all men he might have mercy. 33. O the depth of the riches and the wisdom and the knowledge of Elohim! For man has not searched out his judgments; and his ways are inscrutable. 34. For who has known the mind of Master YHWH? Or who has been a counselor to him? 35. Or who has first given to him and then received from him? 36. Because all is from him, and all by him, and all through him: to whom be praises and benedictions, for ever and ever: Amen.

1. I plead to you, therefore, my brothers, by the mercies of Elohim, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, Set Apart and acceptable to Elohim by a reasonable service (of him).<sup>73</sup> 2. And be not conformed to this world; but be you transformed by the renovation of your minds: and discern you what is the good and acceptable<sup>74</sup> and perfect pleasure of Elohim. 3. And, by the grace given to me, I say to you all: Do not carry thoughts beyond what you should think; but think with modesty, as Elohim has distributed to each one his measure of faith. 4. For as we have many members in one body and all those members have not the same functions; 5. So also we, who are many persons, are one body in Mashiyach, and are naturally members of each other. 6. But we have different gifts according to the grace given to us. There is that of prophecy, according to the measure of his faith. 7. And there is that of ministration, possessed by one in his ministry. And there is that of a teacher, in his teaching. 8. And there is that of an consoler, in his consoling: And that of a giver, with simplicity: And that of a ruler, with diligence: And of a merciful person, with cheerfulness. 9. Let not your love be full of deceit: but be haters of evil things and adherers to good things. 10. Be affectionate to your brothers: and love one another. Be foremost in honoring one another. 11. Be active and not slothful. Be fervent in spirit. Be laborers for our Master (Y'shua). 12. Be joyful in your hope.<sup>75</sup> Be patient under your afflictions. Be persevering in prayer. 13. Be communicators to the wants of the Set Apart believers. Be kind to strangers. 14. Bless your persecutors: bless, and do not curse. 15. Rejoice with them who rejoice: and weep with them who weep. 16. What estimation you make of yourselves do likewise to your brothers. And do not indulge in arrogant thoughts, but unite yourselves with the humble minded. And be not wise in your own estimation. 17. And repay to no man evil for evil: but let it be your study to do good before all men.

73 Murdock has "rational service," the other more common rendering is "reasonable service." Both ideas tend to resolve in our minds thought rather than in our hearts, a rational or reasonable man is generally known for his cerebral logic and reason. Here the beauty and elegance of Mashiyach and Paul's Hebraic spirituality shines through. The key Hebrew words that elucidate us to this specific service are; "avodah" and "avad" together they occur about 400 times in the Tanakh as the word "service" or "serve." When an Observant Jew reads "reasonable service" he or she identifies with the expression, "ha'avodah sheba'lev," (the service of the heart). This is a very beautiful element of spirituality within observant Judaism that gives Joy, Delight and Beauty of kiddusha (being a Set Apart people through Torah observance). The central theme of being a kedoshim (Set Apart people) is to sanctify ourselves and be set apart unto YHWH. Avodah underscores that our service or work of obedience to YHWH's Word is accomplished by His Spirit working through us, not of our own strength lest any man should boast but; Mashiyach in us the hope of glory. When we observe Shabbat we are not trusting in our "good works" or "good deeds," but in expressing joy and delight in our Father in Heaven who gave Shabbat. Avodah lev, the work of the heart is through chen (grace) and chesed (mercy), it is spiritual empowerment to be obedient and bring Glory to the Name of our Father in Heaven. This is the kind of "service" Paul refers to. When Paul and all the Shlichim observe Shabbat for example, it is not through "works of the law," but through our "reasonable service of the heart," according to the one new man. Whether YHWH's people are in Judaism or Christianity all are called to joyful obedience in YHWH, this is our "reasonable service."

74 Acceptable comes from the word qablaa (קבל) in Aramaic or qabala (kabbalah) in Hebrew and is derived from qabal which means to "receive". Kabbalah that lives outside the Tanakh and NT incorporates very dark and demonic elements of sorcery, witchcraft, necromancy, religious bigotry, religious identity, ego, lust, and all manner of "empowerment" through evil. Many of the ideas of modern Kabbalah evolved during medieval or dark ages, a time that was fraught with spiritual darkness, deception, wickedness, torture and all manner of weirdness and witch hunt for power and authority. As we track and compare the ideas of haSatan's version of Kabbalah with Scripture, we can easily recognize that the demonic world simply reacted to the teachings of Mashiyach Y'shua and Rav Shaul with evil religious devices to distract people from the Kingdom of Heaven. Note that the Hebrew the word for "divination"—nachash—is the same word for the "serpent" that tempts mankind into sin, all sorcery and related arts come from the serpent, haSatan. The NT uses a plethora of Aramaic and Hebrew spiritual terminology like nothing that existed before or after. Please see footnotes on Matthew 13:11, 1 Corinthians 2:14, Colossians 4:12. 75 Sevartha is also the original Aramaic word for Good News (gospel); this could also be translated, "be joyful in your Good News."

18. And if possible, so far as it depends on you, live in peace with every man. 19. And do not seek vengeance for yourselves, my beloved: but give a pause for the wrath (of Elohim to manifest). For it is written: “If you do not execute judgment for yourself,<sup>76</sup> I will execute judgment for you, says Elohim.”<sup>77</sup> 20. And if your adversary is hungry, feed him: and if he be thirsty, give him drink. For if you do these things, you will heap coals of fire on his head.”<sup>78</sup> 21. Do not be overcome by evil; but overcome evil with good.

Chapter 13

1. Let every soul be subject to the authorities of government.<sup>79</sup> For there is no authority which is not from Elohim: and the authorities which exist are established by Elohim. 2. He therefore who opposes the authority, opposes the establishment of Elohim; and they who oppose them will receive judgment. 3. For judges are not a menace to good deeds, but to evil deeds. Would you then not be afraid of the authority? Do good, and you will have praise from it. 4. For he is the minister of Elohim; but it is to you for good. But if you work evil, be afraid; for he is not girded with the sword in vain; for he is a minister of Elohim and an avenger of wrath to them that do evil things. 5. And therefore, it is necessary for us to be obedient, not only on account of wrath, but likewise on account of our consciences. 6. For this cause also you pay tribute money; for they are the ministers of Elohim, established for these same objects. 7. Render therefore to every one as is due to him; head tax, to whomever accounts for it; and duties to whomever collects taxes; and respect, to whom respect is due; and honor, to whom honor is due. 8. And owe nothing to anyone; but to love<sup>80</sup> one another. For he that loves his neighbor, has properly understood Torah. 9. For this likewise, which it says: “You will not kill; nor commit adultery; nor steal; nor covet,” and if there is any other Commandment, it is completed in this sentence: “You will love your neighbor as yourself.”<sup>81</sup> 10. Love does no evil to one’s neighbor because love is the fulfillment of Torah.<sup>82</sup>

76 Vayikra/Lev. 19:18; Prov. 20:22; 24:29

77 D’varim 32:35; Psalm 94:1; Prov. 20:22 - There are no directives from B’resheet/Genesis to Revelation which counsels anyone to take vengeance upon their adversaries. YHWH says, “vengeance belongs to Me”; He will judge and resolve all matters according to His Righteous Judgment. The idea of taking vengeance upon others, as in jihad or holy war against the infidels, is rooted in fear and heathenism by those who put their faith in self rather than in Alaha (Elohim).

78 See Proverbs 25:21-22.

79 The false Church system twists this verse so that Christians will submit to the authority of false governments who in turn support the false religious hierarchies. In reality, Paul makes this statement in the context of YHWH’s Commandments in Torah: “You shall not follow a multitude to do evil; neither shalt you answer in a cause to decline after many to wrest judgment” (Sh’mot/Exodus 23:2). If the “majority” allows evil men in “government” and within “the church” to go unpunished, the evil becomes punishable upon the majority. For example, democracy is thought to work by majority vote, but in reality democracies are easily manipulated by power hungry minorities who control media, ballot boxes, polls and “public opinion.” When the majority fails to act against evil, the hierarchy continues to further enslave its victims (citizens). Many are discovering that what they believed to be a Democratic government is in fact an Oligarchy or organized criminals. The false Church system and all false government thrives on “double think” by putting forth an archetype (religious tradition or legislation by “majority” that “sounds reasonable” but is certainly not truth) and markets its theologies and laws as though it is a collectively inherited or accepted ideal. This is extremely high level rebellion against YHWH and must be prosecuted or all of humanity will suffer. “You shall not answer in a cause to decline after many.” We must never fear evil men, decline to them, or pretend evil will go away on its own. Pray, speak and act against all manner of evil. Mashiyach calls all souls everywhere to join together in righteousness and bring Peace, Justice and Equality to all peoples, of all religions and socio-economic situations. See Matt. 22:21.

80 A very clear Aramaic wordplay at the root level between khob (owe) and khab (love).

81 While Paul here is clearly showing that being obedient to the government and not causing chaos in the communities at large is a mitzvah or “good deed” consistent with Torah observance, the other side of the argument concerns what to do when the rules of man attempt to contradict, invalidate or overturn Torah requirements. Paul’s answer for that issue is found in 1 Corinthians 10:14-33 which begins with the commandment, “Flee from idolatry” and continues on to admonish people to not participate in pagan festivals.

82 Paul does not teach that Torah was abolished because we love our neighbor. Greek translations have pleroma, which is translated as “fulfilled”. Popular Bible versions like the NIV recognize this thought is revisited in 13:9 which uses anakephalaioimai, which means “to accurately sum up or understand” the Torah. This is a type of a synonym for pleroma. If pleroma as translated as “fulfilled,” there are numerous potential meanings. One of these, according to Thayer and Smith’s Bible Dictionary is: “to fulfil, i.e. to cause God’s will (as made known in the law) to be obeyed as it should be, and God’s promises (given through the prophets) to receive fulfilment.” This definition mirrors the Aramaic term that is also usually translated as “fulfill,” such as the line in Matthew 5:17 that is targummed, “for I have not come to unravel the Torah but to provide proper interpretation of it.” This is also the true meaning of the Greek where it says “thus was fulfilled according to the prophet”; i.e., this is the intended meaning of the Scripture as applied to the NT. For more on this Aramaic word, please consult Eighteen New Testament Misconceptions #2: Destroying the Torah, in Appendix.

Finally, one should look carefully at what both Aramaic and Greek use for the term “law”. In each case, nomos/namusa allows for the targumming of the Word/Torah concept to mean “torah” with a small “t”, or individual instruction from the overall covenant. That being said, the other possible reading is that the true meaning of the relevant commandment is “fulfilled/understood” by loving one’s neighbor and so on, which makes much more sense. Therefore, if one is to read “fulfilled” here, then it must be understood that the correct interpretation of Torah is given according to what Mashiych Y’shua elucidated. This can in no way be construed that Mashiych brought an end to Torah.

11. And this also know you, that it is the time and the hour that we should therefore awaken from our sleep. For now our life has come nearer to us than when we believed. 12. The night now passes away, and the day draws near. Let us therefore cast from us the works of darkness; and let us put on the armor of light. 13. And let us walk decently, as in daylight; not in clamoring songs, nor in drunkenness, nor in the immorality of the bed, nor in envy and strife. 14. But clothe yourselves with our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach: and pay no concern about your flesh for the indulgence of appetites.

Chapter 14

1. To him who is weak in the faith, reach forth the hand. And do not be divided in your thoughts.<sup>83</sup> 2. For one man believes that he may eat every thing; and he that is weak eats herbs. 3. And he that eats, should not despise him that does not eat; and he that does not eat, should not judge him that eats, for Elohim has received him.<sup>84</sup> 4. Who are you, that you judge a servant not yours; and who, if he stands, he stands to his (human) master; and if he falls, he falls to his (human) master?<sup>85</sup> But he will assuredly stand; for his (human) master has power to establish him. 5. One man discriminates between days; and another judges all days alike. But let every one be sure in regard to his knowledge. 6. He that esteems a day, esteems (it) for his Master: and he that esteems not a day for his Master, he does not esteem (it). And he that eats, eats to his Master and gives thanks to Elohim: and he that eats not to his Master he eats not and gives thanks to Elohim. 7. For there is not one of us who lives for himself: and there is not one who dies for himself. 8. Because if we live, to our Master (Y'shua) it is we live; or if we die, to our Master it is we die. Whether we live, therefore, or whether we die, we are our Master's. 9. Moreover, for this cause Mashiyach died and revived and arose; that he might be Master YHWH of the dead and of the living.<sup>86</sup> 10. But you, why do you judge your brother? Or, why do you despise your brother? For we must all stand before the judgment seat of Mashiyach! 11. As it is written: "As I live, says Master YHWH, to me every knee will bow; and to me every tongue will give praise." 12. So then, every one of us must give account of himself to Elohim. 13. From now forward, do not judge one another; but rather, you judge this that you do not erect a stumbling block for your brother. 14. I know indeed, and am persuaded by Master YHWH (who is) Y'shua, that there is nothing which is unclean in itself;<sup>87</sup> but to him who thinks any thing to be unclean, to him only it is defiled. 15. But if you grieve your brother because of food, you walk not in love. On account of food, destroy not him for whom Mashiyach died. 16. And do not let our good thing be matter of reproach. 17. For the Kingdom of Elohim is not food and drink; but it is righteousness and peace and joy in the Ruach haKodesh.

<sup>85</sup> The Peshitta text in general - and particularly this Epistle - very carefully distinguishes Y'shua's human side from the rest of humanity. The reason is, just as Mari and Maran were used to show the human side of Mashiyach, so do we see here consistently the third person possessive singular form of Mar (mareh) to apply to people in position of power. We find no reference where even Y'shua's opponents are recorded in Peshitta talking about a disciple and referring to Y'shua as "his Master." It is our opinion that, primacy issues aside, this was a decision made by the Shlichim, which affected all readings in all languages of the full NT.

<sup>86</sup> By rising from the dead and ascending into heaven, Y'shua becomes the Word that is with Elohim and is Elohim (John 1:1-5). Y'shua is the exact reflection of YHWH's nature (Hebrews 1:1-5) and will bear the name, "Word of Elohim" when he comes out of heaven again at the second coming (Revelation 19:13).

<sup>87</sup> The context of this discussion (verse 2) concerns meat versus a vegetarian diet. There is no discussion here about unclean foods according to Torah, because this is already clearly understood by Greek followers of Mashiyach. However, mainstream Christians twist this verse to teach that unclean food was made clean by Paul, which is a lie. Paul was joined together with the other Shlichim in Jerusalem when the Ruach haKodesh spoke through Ya'akov HaTsaddiq, and instructed the non-Jewish converts to avoid unclean foods; i.e., foods sacrificed to idols, and blood. Notice also in Acts 15:20-21 that the expectation of the non-Jewish converts was that they would learn Moshe (Torah) as they grew in their relationship with Mashiach and his people.

18. For he who is in these things a servant of Mashiyach, is pleasing to Elohim and approved before men. 19. Let us strive after peace and after the edification of one another. 20. And let us not, on account of food, destroy the work of Elohim. For everything is (indeed) pure; but it is evil to the man who eats with stumbling.<sup>88</sup> 21. It is proper that we neither eat flesh nor drink wine nor (do) any thing, whereby our brother is stumbled. 22. You are one in whom there is faith; keep it to yourself before Elohim. Blessed is he who does not condemn himself in that thing which he allows. 23. For he who eats and doubts, is condemned; because (he eats) not in faith. For everything which is not of faith, is sin.

1. We then who are strong should bear the infirmity of the weak, and not to please ourselves. 2. But each of us should please his neighbor in good things, as conducive to edification. 3. Because Mashiyach also did not please himself; but as it is written: "The insults of your mockers fell upon me." 4. For everything written of old was written for our instruction;<sup>89</sup> that we, by patience and by the consolation of the Scriptures, might possess hope. 5. And may the Elohim of patience and of consolation grant to you to think in harmony one with another, in Y'shua the Mashiyach; 6. So that, with one mind and one mouth you may glorify Elohim, the Father of our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach. 7. And so, receive and bear up one another as also Mashiyach received you to the glory of Elohim. 8. Now I say, that Y'shua the Mashiyach ministered to the circumcision in behalf of the truth of Elohim in order to confirm the promise (made) to the fathers; 9. And that the Gentiles might glorify Elohim for his mercies upon them, as it is written: "I will confess to you among the Gentiles, and to your name will I sing psalms." 10. And again he said: "Rejoice, you Gentiles, with His people."<sup>90</sup> 11. And again he said: "Praise Master YHWH,<sup>91</sup> all you Gentiles; (and) laud him, all you nations." 12. And again Yesha'yahu said: "There will be a root of Jesse; and he that will arise will be a prince for the Gentiles; and in him will the Gentiles hope." 13. Now may the Elohim of hope fill you with all joy and peace so that by faith you may find hope abundant, through the power of the Ruach haKodesh. 14. Now I am persuaded, my Brothers, even I, concerning you; that you too are full of goodness and are replenished with all knowledge, and are able also to instruct others. 15. Nevertheless, I have written rather boldly to you, my Brothers, that I might put you in remembrance because of the grace which is given to me by Elohim, 16. That I should be a minister of Y'shua the Mashiyach among the Gentiles and should minister to the Good News of Elohim, that the oblation of the Gentiles might be acceptable and be sanctified by the Ruach haKodesh. 17. I have therefore a glorying in Y'shua the Mashiyach towards Elohim. 18. For I presume not to speak of anything (done) for the obedience of the Gentiles, which Mashiyach has not wrought by me, in word and in deeds, 19. By the power of signs and wonders and by the power of the Ruach haKodesh; so that from Urishlim I went around almost to Illyricum and have fulfilled the announcement of the Mashiyach;

88 Anything fit to be "food" is required to be from a "clean" animal and be properly prepared. The issue is to not question the good intentions of a host who by tacit agreement would have made an effort to drain the blood from the meat, as Torah requires. It was and is considered rude to go into the kitchen of your host, right before a meal, to act as a "kosher policeman." If your host erred, it would be he, not you, who transgressed; therefore, don't cause an uproar over this issue during the meal.

89 Here is one of the clearest pro-Torah statements in all of Romans. Rav Shaul believes that "everything written of old" is for the instruction of the Gentiles, this clearly indicates Paul's intent. Compare this statement to Romans 3:31 and 7:12.

90 "His People" =YHWH's people, Israel. The Gentiles are fully invited and expected to join in together with Netzari (Nazarene) synagogue practice, as one people, into one Kingdom according to One Torah.

91 Shubkah l'MarYah, the Aramaic cognate for the more familiar Hebrew phrase "HalleluYah". In that sense, Rav Shaul can be thought of as quoting several Psalms at once.

20. While I was careful not to preach where the name of Mashiyach had been invoked, or else I should build upon another man's foundation; 21. But, it is written: "They, to whom mention of him had not been made, will see him; and they, who had not heard, will be obedient." 22. And on this account, I have been many times prevented from coming to you. 23. But now, since I have no place in this area, and as I have been wanting for many years now to come to you, 24. When I go to Spain, I hope to come and see you; and that you will accompany me there, when I will have been satisfied, in some measure, with visiting you. 25. But I am now going to Urishlim to minister to the Set Apart believers. 26. For they of Macedonia and Achaia have been willing to make up a contribution for the needy Set Apart believers who are at Urishlim. 27. They were willing because they were also debtors to them: for if the Gentiles have been participators with them in the Spirit, they are debtors to serve them also in things of the flesh. 28. When therefore I will have accomplished this and will have sealed to them this fruit, I will pass by you into Spain. 29. And I know that when I come to you, I will come in the fullness of the blessing of the Good News of Mashiyach. 30. And I plead you, my Brothers, by our Master Y'shua the Mashiyach, and by the love of the Spirit, that you labor with me in prayer to Elohim for me; 31. That I may be delivered from them in Yehud who believe not and that the ministration which I carry to the Set Apart believers in Urishlim may be well received; 32. And that, by the will of Elohim, I may come to you with joy, and may take comfort with you. 33. And may the Elohim of peace be with you all: Amen.

Chapter 16

1. And I commend to you Phoebe, our sister, who is a servant of the assembly in Cenchrea: 2. That you may receive her in our Master, as is just for Set Apart believers; and that you may assist her in whatever thing she may ask of you: for she also has been assistant to many, and to me also. 3. Send peace<sup>92</sup> to Priscilla and Aquila, my fellow-laborers in Y'shua the Mashiyach; 4. Who, for my life, surrendered their own necks; and to whom, not only I am grateful, but also all the assemblies of the Gentiles. 5. And give reassurance to the assembly which is in their house. Greet my beloved Epenetus, who was the first-fruits of Achaia in Mashiyach. 6. Send peace to Mary who has toiled much with you. 7. Send peace to Andronicus and Junia, my relatives, who were in captivity with me and are of note among the Shlichim, and were in Mashiyach before me. 8. Send peace to Amplias, my beloved in our Master (Y'shua). 9. Send peace to Urbanus, a laborer with us in Mashiyach; and my beloved Stachys. 10. Send peace to Apelles, chosen in our Master (Y'shua). Send peace to the members of the house of Aristobulus. 11. Send peace to Herodion, my kinsman. Send peace to the members of the house of Narcissus, who are in our Master (Y'shua).

92 Often rendered as "salute." However, shalo b'shlama literally translates as send (through) peace. "Shalom" – the same word – can also mean, "hello, goodbye and peace"; but shalo b'shlama carries a more profound significance in that each one extends and participates in the blessings and prosperity of each other, both material and spiritual. "Salute" creates an almost comical image, as if members of the congregations literally salute each other with a hand gesture. Rather, by using this term we are extending peace, reassurance and our love and sending it their way.

End of the letter to the Romans which was written from Corinth, and was sent by the hand of Phoebe, a faithful servant.

93 There is a bit of controversy among scholars regarding the placement of Romans chapter 16. Paul has just mentioned 26 believers by name from an assembly that he never actually attended. In addition, two of those more prominent believers, Priscilla and Aquila, were most recently associated with Ephesus (Acts 18:18-19), leading some to think this chapter actually belongs to the letter of the Ephesians instead. While it may be the case that Paul never attended that assembly, there is no denying the historicity of these individuals at these locations. Furthermore, just because Paul never attended that particular assembly doesn't mean he wouldn't have built relationships through brethren who did attend. Paul's mention of these individuals is intended to extend recognition and honor to each one by name for their contribution to the Kingdom of Heaven. It should also be noted that the extensive fellowship list in Colossians, is also from a letter that was sent to an assembly that Paul never visited.

94 Paul either dictated this letter to Tertius or it was translated by Tertius from the original. Please see Aramaic or Greek Lingua Franca? in Appendix.

95 Gelyana d'araza or "revelation of the mystery" refers to the Spirit of Mashiyach living within the inner person of each soul; this is the foundation of Rav Shaul's message in Romans and the message of all Shlichim of Y'shua. In Romans 12:2 Rav Shaul reveals "the acceptable and perfect pleasure of Elohim" that indwells the spiritual man. In verses 12:6-8 Paul sets out seven abilities (or faculties) that operate within the congregation of Elohim as:

- 1) Prophecy
- 2) Ministration (server)
- 3) Teacher
- 4) Consoler (or exhorter)
- 5) Giver
- 6) Ruler
- 7) Mercy

These seven components operate as functional, visible, demonstrable, spirituality within the Body of Mashiyach, bringing koach (empowerment) and shleimut (completeness) to each and every precious soul in Y'shua. Every soul has a unique and vital contribution to the completeness of one another, by recognizing and nurturing these seven faculties in the community each one participates in the unity and harmony of the congregation. Conflict resolution, social disputes and personality clashes are effectively resolved when each person is confident in their own unique abilities, can recognize and distinguish the dominant abilities (of these seven faculties) in others, and contributes to the success of each individual. As Rav Shaul brings the Kingdom of Heaven to diverse peoples groups, with all the contrasting cultures and lifestyles, the Ruach haKodesh provides revelation and application to bring the Shalom of the Heavenly Government of Mashiach to the earth. Application of this emet (truth) and tsedakah (righteousness) provides shleimut (wholeness), shalom (peace) and devekut (clinging) to Abba YHWH in the Beauty of Separateness (Holiness). There has been no greater revelation of universal common good and community evident within mankind than the wisdom and perfection of Mashiach. The revelation of the Kingdom of Heaven is vital and dynamic when applying the Word of YHWH throughout the many beautiful layers of human experience. Each soul belongs to the One Master YHWH and King Mashiach, our Father knows the intimate needs of each soul, and has made provision for each one according to His Kingdom. Rav Shaul's ministry to the Goyim (Nations or Gentiles) provides insights and resources for every mind, heart, spirit and soul to apply the Righteous Instructions (Torah) of YHWH upon the heart, and individually and collectively experience the wonders and beauty of the Kingdom of Heaven. For those who think they know everything about Apostle Paul and his writings, let them know, the journey has just begun.

96 In Aramaic, the 24th verse is placed at the end of the Epistle. (Murdock's original note.) Here is another fine example of how the Peshitta cannot be a translation from Greek, since the whole sentence structure is moved. A supposed "Greek original" could not transmit a paragraph system into Aramaic that is non-existent in the very earliest Greek manuscripts.

Chapter 1

1. PAUL, called and sent by Y'shua Mashiych by the will of Elohim; and Sosthenes, a brother; 2. To the assembly of Elohim which is at Corinth, to the (people) called and sanctified, who are sanctified in Y'shua Mashiych; and to all them, in every place, who invoke the name of our Master Y'shua Mashiych, their and our Master: 3. Grace (be) with you, and peace; from Elohim our Father, and from our Master Y'shua Mashiych. 4. I thank my Elohim at all times on your behalf, for the grace of Elohim which is given to you in Y'shua Mashiych; 5. That in all things you are enriched by him, in all discourse, and in all knowledge; 6. Even as the testimony of Mashiych was confirmed among you: 7. So that you are not inferior in any one of his gifts; but are waiting for the manifestation<sup>1</sup> of our Master Y'shua Mashiych: 8. Who will confirm you until the end, so that you may be blameless in the day of our Master Y'shua Mashiych. 9. Elohim is faithful; by whose hand you have been called into the fellowship<sup>2</sup> of his Son, Y'shua Mashiych, our Master. 10. And I plead with you, my Brothers, by the name of our Master Y'shua Mashiych, that to you all there may be of one Word;<sup>3</sup> and that there may be no divisions among you: but that you may become perfectly of one mind, and of one way of thinking. 11. For concerning you, my Brothers, it has been reported to me by the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you. 12. And this I state: That one of you says, "I am of Paul;" and another says, "I am of Apollos;" and another says, "I am of Keefa;"<sup>4</sup> and another says, "I am of Mashiych." 13. Now was Mashiych divided? Or was Paul executed on a stake for you? Or were you immersed in the name of Paul? 14. I thank my Elohim that I immersed none of you, except Crispus and Gaius; 15. And therefore that not any one should say that I immersed in my own name. 16. I moreover immersed the household of Stephanas: but further, I know not that I immersed any other. 17. For Mashiych did not send me to immerse, but to preach; not with wisdom of words, or else the stake of Mashiych should be inefficient. 18. For the word concerning the stake is, to them who perish, foolishness; but to us who live, it is the energy of Elohim. 19. For it is written: "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise; and I will dissipate the intelligence of the sagacious." 20. Where is the wise sage? Or where is the scribe? Or where is the disputant of this world? Behold, has not Elohim showed that the wisdom of this world is folly? 21. For in the wisdom of Elohim, because the world by wisdom knew not Elohim, it pleased Elohim, by the foolishness of preaching, to save those who believe. 22. Because the Jews ask for signs, and the Arameans<sup>5</sup> demand wisdom. 23. But we preach Mashiych who was executed on a stake; (which is) a stumbling block to the Jews, and foolishness to the Arameans;

---

1 The Aramaic word gilyana, can also mean "revelation" which might be a better reading. It certainly does appear to be a majority reading. Also, the last Renewed Covenant book is named "gilyana," not "manifestation." On the other hand, Revelation does deal with Y'shua's return, which could be argued to be a "manifestation"! Perhaps Murdock simply used the other reading because it would sound more familiar to his audience. However, that does not mean both cannot be accurate.

2 See Fellowship in Appendix.

3 Literally "of one word" – miltha. If it were "language," this would be lishana. However, to be of "one word" suggests that all walk in the same discipline according to the Word of YHWH, Torah. Rav Shaul is pleading for consistent application of the Word, which brings unified (not blind) thinking. Rav Shaul's own life has been disciplined according to Torah under wise and learned sages from early childhood (Acts 22:1-2). The observance of Torah brings separation from the world and unity between brethren. The Living Word of YHWH is our goal and authority, written not with ink but by the Spirit of Elohim upon our hearts. Torah observance in Mashiych brings Perfection and Beauty to each soul uniting us with Mashiych and one another.

4 Rav Shaul now apparently feels comfortable enough to call Peter by his nickname, Keefa. Perhaps this is due to the fact that many of the Jewish followers of Y'shua would probably have the name Shimon, and the Gentile audiences simply knew Shimon by this nickname.

5 The word Armaya is more specific as “Aramean” rather than just Aimneh, which would designate a Gentile in the most general sense. It appears that Rav Shaul is making a rather narrower point than Murdock or other translators would render. The Arameans, as a closely related people to the Hebrews (Ya’akov is called a wandering Aramean/Syrian in Deuteronomy 26:5), did most certainly demand wisdom in their targumic interpretations of Hebrew Scripture into Aramaic. From those sources they scrupulously honed that text with copious explanations and midrash. In that context, Rav Shaul is talking about how the Pharisees were not looking into the Set Apart Writ enough but stressed the signs, but when Mashiyach gave those signs (like Moshe) they still did not understand. The Arameans, though, would wrangle and argue endlessly from the written sources.

24. But to them who are called, both Jews and Arameans,<sup>6</sup> Mashiyach is the energy of Elohim, and the wisdom of Elohim. 25. Because the foolishness of Elohim is wiser than men; and the weakness of Elohim is stronger than the sons of men. 26. For look also at your calling, my Brothers; that not many among you are wise, according to the flesh; and not many among you are mighty, and not many among you are of high birth. 27. But Elohim has chosen the foolish ones of the world to shame the wise; and He has chosen the weak ones of the world to shame the mighty; 28. And He has chosen those of humble birth in the world, and the despised, and them who are nothing, to bring to nothing them who are something: 29. So that no flesh might glory before him.<sup>7</sup> 30. And you, moreover, are of him in Y'shua Mashiyach; who has become to us wisdom from Elohim, and righteousness and separateness, and salvation: 31. According to that which is written: "He that glorifies in himself, let him glory in our Master (Y'shua)."

1. And I, my Brothers, when I came to you, did not preach to you the mystery of Elohim in magnificent speech, nor in wisdom. 2. And I did not govern myself among you, as if I knew anything, except only Y'shua Mashiyach; and him also as executed on the stake. 3. And in much fear and much trembling, was I with you. 4. And my speech and my preaching were not with the persuasiveness of the discourses of wisdom; but with the demonstration of the Spirit, and with power: 5. That your faith might not arise from the wisdom of men, but from the power of Elohim. 6. Yet we do speak wisdom, among the perfect; the wisdom not of this world, nor of the leaders of this world, who will come to nothing. 7. But we speak the wisdom of Elohim, in a mystery; the wisdom which was hidden, and which Elohim predetermined before the world was, for our glory: 8. Which no one of the rulers of this world knew; for had they known it, they would not have executed the Master of glory on the stake. 9. But, as it is written: "The eye has not seen, nor has the ear heard, nor has it entered into the heart of man, that which Elohim has prepared for those who love him."<sup>8</sup> 10. But Elohim has revealed it to us, by his Spirit; for the Spirit explores all things, even the profound things of Elohim. 11. For what man is there who knows that which is in a man, except it be the spirit of the man, which is in him? So also, that which is in Elohim, no one knows, except the Spirit of Elohim. 12. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is from Elohim; that we might know the free gifts, which are given to us by Elohim. 13. Which things we also speak; not in the teaching of the words of man's wisdom, but in the teaching of the spirit; and we teach spiritual matters to those with spiritual focus. 14. For a man in his natural self does not receive spiritual concepts;<sup>9</sup> for they are foolishness to him. Neither can he know them; for they are discerned by the Spirit. 15. But he that is spiritual, judges of all things; and he is judged of by no one. 16. For who has known the mind of Master YHWH, that he should instruct him? But we have the mind of Mashiyach.

6 The reader must never infer that using "Arameans" rather than "Greek" indicates that Greeks, or any other nations are being excluded from the Malchut (Kingdom of) Elohim. Rather, as Y'shua said, "salvation is from the Jews" as the Word went to Jews first. Arameans make up a large portion of the nation of Israel through their patriarch Ya'akov, and have a key and central role. "And you shall speak and say before YHWH your Elohim, An Aramean ready to perish was my father, and he went down into Egypt, and sojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous" (Deuteronomy 26:5). YHWH has established His Covenant both in Torah and Mashiyach through Jews and Arameans, and has bid welcome to all nations to become enjoined and entrusted in this one Malchut Elohim.

9 Receive spiritual concepts is Qabal al'Rukhanea in Aramaic or Qabal haRuach in Hebrew. This chapter has many beautiful and poetic expressions about spiritual empowerment. Rav Shaul begins by saying that he does not preach the mystery (Aramaic razeh or Hebrew sod) of Elohim according to man's wisdom, persuasiveness, or discourses. Paul juxtaposes the cerebral wisdom of man with the spiritual wisdom of Elohim, he teaches spiritual matters, focus, and concepts of the spiritual man using inner spiritual Hebraic consciousness, power (koach) of Elohim, perfection (g'miyra / gamara) divine sparks of wisdom (Aramaic khemta, Hebrew chokhmah) that are received (qabala) of the Ruach haKodesh. Rav Shaul focuses on the "demonstration of the Spirit" (verse 4) which is the foundational element of Torah observance that produces Messianic spirituality of humility or meekness (anavah), honor (kavod, kabad, hadar, hod, tifereth), perfection-completion (tamiym, gamara), wholeness, joy, love, beauty, delight, gentleness to name a few. It this spiritual consciousness that Rav Shaul focuses on, he is not a Greek philosopher or theologian, his mandate is to impart Messianic spirituality and empowerment to the Body of Mashiach. Please see footnotes on Colossians 4:12.

1. And I, my Brothers, could not talk with you as with spiritual (persons), but as with the carnal, as with babes in Mashiyach. 2. I gave you milk, and did not give you solid food: for you were not then able to receive it; and even now, you are not able. 3. For you are still in the flesh. For, as there are among you envying, and contention, and parties, are you not carnal, and walking in the flesh? 4. For, while one of you says, "I am of Paul;" and another says, "I am of Apollos;" are you not carnal? 5. For, who is Paul or who is Apollos, but the ministers by whom you believed, each one as Master YHWH gave to him? 6. I planted, and Apollos watered; but Elohim produced the growth. 7. Not therefore he that planted, is to be accounted of, nor he that watered, but Elohim who produced the growth. 8. And he that planted, and he that watered are on an equal footing; each receives his reward, according to his labor. 9. For we labor with Elohim: and you are Elohim's work, and Elohim's structure. 10. According to the grace of Elohim which was given me, I laid the foundation like a wise architect; and another builds on it. But let each one see how he builds on it. 11. For any other foundation can no man lay, different from that which is laid, which is Y'shua Mashiyach. 12. And if any one builds on this foundation, either gold, or silver, or precious stones, or wood, or hay, or stubble; 13. The work of each will be exposed to view for the day<sup>10</sup> will expose it because it is to be tested by fire; and the fire<sup>11</sup> will disclose the work of each, of what sort it is. 14. And that builder whose work will endure, will receive his reward. 15. And he, whose work will burn up, will suffer loss, yet himself will escape;<sup>12</sup> but it will be as from the fire. 16. Do you not know that you are the temple of Elohim and that the Spirit of Elohim dwells in you? 17. Whoever will deface the temple of Elohim, Elohim will deface him: for the temple of Elohim is Set Apart, which (temple) you are. 18. Let no one deceive himself. Whoever among you thinks that he is wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. 19. For the wisdom of this world is folly with Elohim: for it is written, "He catches the wise in their own craftiness." 20. And again: "Master YHWH knows the devices of the wise, that they are vain." 21. Wherefore, let no one glory in men: for all things are yours; 22. Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Keefa, or the world,<sup>13</sup> or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all things are yours: 23. And you are Mashiyach's, and Mashiyach is Elohim's.

Chapter 4

1. Let us be so accounted of by you, as the servants of Mashiyach and the stewards of the mysteries of Elohim. 2. Now it is required of stewards that each be found faithful. 3. But to me, it is a light matter to be judged of by you, or by any man whatever; no, I am no judge of myself.

10 "The day" refers to both "The Day of YHWH" which is final judgment upon the rebellious and, present moment divine judgment (revelation) upon hearing and receiving from the Voice of the Ruach haKodesh. See footnote on Hebrews 3:13.

11 "The fire will disclose the work" refers to the refining (spiritual) fire of the Ruach haKodesh; "He is like a refiner's fire... He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver" (Mal 3:2-3). "And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: they shall call on My Name, and I will hear them: I will say, 'This is My people: and they shall say, 'YHWH is my Elohim'" (Zec 13:9). "So that the proof of your faith may appear more precious than refined gold that is tested by fire, to glory and honor and praise at the manifestation of Y'shua the Mashiyach" (1 Peter 1:7).

12 This verse is used as the "proof text" for the false Purgatory doctrine. Christo-Pagans refer to an intermediate state between this life and heaven as "Purgatory." The theology originated with pagan writers Homer (ca. 700 BCE), Plato (400 BCE), Virgil (70 BCE), and the Egyptian "Ritual of the Dead." The Purgatory model was morphed into Christianity along with pagan mythology of Elysium (Paradise) and Tartarus (Hell), see footnote 2 Peter 2:4. Rabbinical Judaism also incorporated these mythological elements into their traditions, Rabbi Akiva (ca.40-ca.137 CE) and Rabbi Johanan b. Nuri (1st and 2nd centuries) (Tosef., Sanh. xiii. 4-5; R. H. 16b) discuss the duration of purgatory in Talmud. By playing on spiritual insecurities, fears and emotions of surviving relatives, Church authorities take money (indulgences) from faithful Christian pilgrims to get loved ones out of Purgatory and into Heaven. The Catholic Church uses 2 Maccabees 12:44-46 as a "proof text" of Purgatory which states; "for if he were not expecting the fallen to rise again, it would have been superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead. But if he did this with a view to the splendid reward that awaits those who had gone to rest in godliness, it was a holy and pious thought. Thus he made atonement for the dead that they might be absolved from their sin." Such extra canonical books are not considered Scripture as they contain elements of paganism and violate Torah jurisprudence that demands two or three witnesses in Scripture to establish halakha (applied law). Apostle Paul is referring to the Spirit of YHWH burning up the carnal flesh so that the spiritual man can live. Please see Ephesians 4:24 and Rev 3:18-21.

13 Or, universe.

4. For I am not conscious in myself of anything worthy of guilt; yet I may not be right on this matter; for Master YHWH is my judge. 5. Therefore pronounce not judgments before the time, (or) until Master YHWH comes,<sup>14</sup> who will pour light upon the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the thoughts of (men's) hearts: and then will each one have (due) praise from Elohim. 6. These things, my Brothers, I have stated concerning the person of myself and of Apollos,<sup>15</sup> for your sakes; that, in us, you might learn not to think (of men) above what is written; and that no one might exalt himself in comparison with his fellow, on account of any person. 7. For who has seen into you? Or what have you, which you did not receive? And if you received it, why do you brag as if you did not receive it? 8. Now you are yourselves full and enriched; and, without us, are on thrones! And I wish you were enthroned; that we also might reign with you. 9. But I suppose that Elohim has placed us Shlichim in the last (position), as if condemned for death; since we have become a spectacle to the world, to Messengers and to men. 10. We are fools, on account of Mashiyach; but you are wise in Mashiyach! We are weak; but you are strong! You are praised, we are hated. 11. Up until this hour, we hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no permanent home: 12. And we toil, working with our own hands: they defame us, and we bless: they persecute us, and we endure it: 13. They revile us, and we beg to them: we are as the filth of the world, and the expiation for all men, up to this time. 14. I write these things, not to shame you, but I instruct you, as dear children. 15. For though you have a myriad of teachers in Mashiyach, yet not many fathers; for in Y'shua Mashiyach I have begotten you by preaching. 16. I beg you, therefore, that you be like me. 17. For this cause have I sent to you Timothy, who is my beloved son and faithful in Master YHWH,<sup>16</sup> that he might bring to your recollection my ways in Mashiyach, agreeably to what I teach in all the assemblies. 18. Now some of you are inflated, as though I would not (dare) come to you. 19. But I will come to you speedily, if Master YHWH be willing: and I will know, not the speech of them who exalt themselves, but their power: 20. For the Kingdom of Elohim is not in word, but in power. 21. What do you want? Will I come to you with the rod, or in love and a gentle spirit?

Chapter 5

1. In short, it is reported, there is sexual sin among you; and such sexual sin as is not even named among the pagans, that a son should even take the wife of his father. 2. And you are puffed up, and have not rather sat down in grief, that he who has done this deed might be separated from you. 3. And I, while distant from you in body but present with you in spirit, have already, as if present, judged him who perpetrated this deed; 4. That all of you assemble together, in the name of our Master Y'shua Mashiyach,<sup>17</sup> and I with you in spirit, together with the power of our Master Y'shua Mashiyach;

14 This passage is another example of where being able to separate MarYah (YHWH) from Maran/Mari (Y'shua) becomes highly desirable over Greek, which confuses the Two with the same word "kurios." While it is true that Mashiyach is the light of the world, this powerful passage reminds us that Mashiyach's power comes from His Father YHWH. This distinction also highlights the original Jewish nature of the older Aramaic text.

15 "Person", or in Aramaic parsopa, which can be translated also as "face" or "presence." This is a critical term; had the Christian theology of "the Trinity" been correct, we would see this word used in connection with a "Godhead." However, this is never the case; nowhere is this found in all of the original NT. Instead, the word used is qnoma, which is defined as an occurrence of a nature, retaining the same core substance of that nature. As such, you may have three qnomeh, but only ONE divine nature. When we understand this, the relationship between Father and Son becomes understood more like the relationship of limbs of a body to the mind (Exodus 6:6, Isaiah 53:1). Limbs are directed according to the will of the mind. The divine side of the Son is not separate from YHWH; "he" is the arm of YHWH, and the Word that YHWH directed (spoke) to create the universe.

16 Another example of Rav Shaul commanding faith in YHWH, the Father, that leads directly to faith in the Son; not the other way around.

17 And that "name" is the same as YHWH's (John 17:11) and means "YHWH is salvation." Once the basic understanding is in place of how all this comes from Him, it is acceptable to gather it all together and declare this affirmation of faith in YHWH and give thanks to His Son.

5. And that you deliver him over to Satan, for the destruction of the flesh, that in spirit he may have life, in the day of our Master Y'shua Mashiyach. 6. Your bragging is not praiseworthy. Don't you know, that a little leaven leavens the whole mass? 7. Purge out from you the old leaven<sup>18</sup> that you may be a new mass, as you are unleavened. For our Paskha (Passover) is the Mashiyach, who was slain for us.<sup>19</sup> 8. Therefore let us celebrate the festival, not with the old leaven, nor with the leaven of wickedness and bitterness, but with the leaven of purity and sanctity. 9. I wrote to you by letter, not to mingle with sexual sinners. 10. But I say not, with the sexual sinners who are in the world, nor (speak I) of the avaricious, or of the rapacious, or of the idol-worshippers; otherwise you would be obliged to go out of the world. 11. But this is what I wrote to you, that you don't mix, if anyone is called a brother and is a sexual sinner, or avaricious, or an idol-worshipper, or a charlatan, or a drunkard, or rapacious, with him who is such, not even to eat bread.<sup>20</sup> 12. For what business have I to judge them who are without? But those within the body, judge you, 13. And those without, Elohim judges; and remove you the wickedness from among you.
